Educating Porto Ricans.

When the United States took over the island of Porto Rico fifteen years ago there was there only one building specially erected for school purposes, the total school enrollment was put at only 26,000 children and their attendance was irregular. More than 80 per cent. of the entire population could neither read nor write. Today there are nearly 400 public school buildings in Porto Rico and the school enrollment is 162,000. The percentage of illiteracy has been reduced more than 14 per cent. and is rapidly lowering.

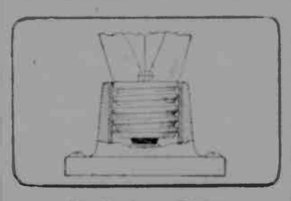
"Simon Pure."

Simon Pure was the name of a character in a comedy entitled "A Bold Stroke for a Wife," by Mrs. Centlivre, an English actress and dramatist (1667?-1723). The plot of the play turned on the identity of Simon Pure as against a person who assumed his name in courting a girl, thus emphasizing the real Simon Pure, which became a slang phrase.

The ELECTRICAL WORLD

NEW USE FOR THERMOMETERS

Temperatures in Dams, Orchards and Storage Plants Indicated by Long Distance Mechanism.



Long distance thermometers are rapidly coming into use now for all manner of purposes where it is of advantage to be able to sit at an office desk, for instance, press a button and learn instantly the temperature at some distant point. Most striking of all the uses to which this mechanism has been put is in finding out the temperature in the middle of the massive Kensico dam on New York's new water supply system, the Saturday Evening Post states. The engineers have decided that it will be very valuable to know exact temperatures in every part of the great mass, year after year, to check up the stresses on the dam, for one thing. So long distance thermometers have been buried in the concrete at various places, each one connected by wires to a tunnel in the dam. The thermometers are nothing more than little coils of certain kinds of wire. A small current of electricity is sent through these coils from the operating station, and by means of instruments that show the resistance of the coils to the passage of the electricity the exact temperature round the coils is obtained. Another place where long distance thermometers are used is on big fruit orchards in the west, so that from a central office on a cold spring night it can easily be determined whether or not frost is threatening at any part of the orchard and protective measures are required. They have been installed also in cold storage warehouses, to save the trouble of frequent inspections in all the storage chambers. From a desk in the office the exact temperature of every room can easily be read.

TESTER FOR ELECTRIC LAMP

Device Illustrated Eliminates Disadvantages of Threaded Socket and Saves Much Time.

Where a large number of incandescent lamps are used a great deal of time is consumed in turning the lamps into and out of an ordinary socket for testing the filaments to see that they are not broken, says the Popular Mechanics. The following device eliminates the disadvantages of the threaded socket and effects a great saving in time.

The device consists simply of an ordinary porcelain lamp socket, that has had the inner screw shell removed and the threads hammered out on a piece of five-eighth inch pipe and then replaced. The inside diameter of the shell after it is hammered out should be large enough to permit the threaded base of the lamp to slip into it. Lamps may be rapidly tested by sliding them into this socket and there is no more likelihood of a short being produced on the line than there was before the socket was changed. A partial cross section of such a socket is shown in the accompanying sketch.

HEATS WATER FOR THE BATH

Tub Is First Filled and Then an Electrical Apparatus Is Inserted—No Fires Are Needed.

Now comes a new way to heat water for the bath. It will be especially handy in hot weather, when there is not the usual supply of hot water on tap. To use this apparatus, which is electrical, first draw your bath, no matter what may be the temperature of the water in the pipes. Then stand the heater in the tub, and, according to the inventor, an Ohio man, you can heat 15 gallons of water in 15 minutes. The heater is a small nickel-plated device with six tubes radiating horizontally from it. In each tube is a unit and there are 18 perforations in the casing. The water circulates through the heater and comes out boiling, and it does not take long for the boiling liquid to heat the rest.

MAGNETS FOR EYE HOSPITAL

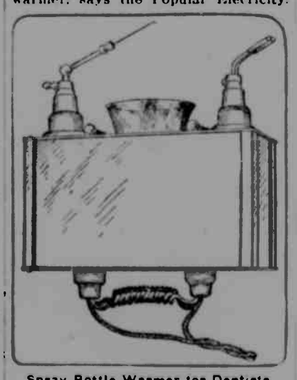
Special Apparatus for Extracting Small Iron and Steel Fragments From Eye Is Provided.

Many hospitals in England are provided with a special apparatus for extracting iron and steel fragments from the eye by means of powerful electro magnets. The magnet employed has a core three feet long and six inches in diameter of the best Swedish soft iron. Two hundred pounds of insulated wire are wound in two coils about the core. The end of the magnet is threaded to receive terminals of different shapes to suit various conditions. The magnet is mounted on ball bearings, and can be moved in any direction. The strength of the magnet field may be varied at will by means of a rheostat. When used at its maximum power, the magnet exerts a pull of 30 pounds per square inch at a distance of an inch. A special type of apparatus is provided for reclining patients. In this case the magnet is mounted on trunnions, and is tilted by means of suitable gearing operated by a hand crank.

KEEP WARM BY ELECTRICITY

Garments of Astronomers, Working in Open Air In Winter, Heated by an Electrical Current.

It is proposed to use electrically-heated garments at the observatories. Practically all astronomical observing work must be done in rooms or observatories at the temperature of the outside air to avoid optical and instrumental difficulties.



The discomforts of a long winter night's vigil at the eye piece of a large telescope are readily appreciable, and many special constructions of instrument mountings have been devised to allow the observer to remain in a heated compartment.

The garments will be made similar to the electric heating bag, that is, the cloth with electric heating wires running through it.

U. S. GOLD HELPS PALESTINE

Emigrants From That Country to America Send Home Much of the Wealth Gained.

The Americanization of certain parts of Palestine was described at London, England, by Dr. A. M. Gyle, the explorer and lecturer. He found even the Mohammedans eager to learn English and to educate themselves according to western ideas. In Nazareth he discovered a great dearth of young men, for the active fellows had all migrated westward in search of fortune.

"Many of them," he said, "are going to America, where they obtain situations as clerks in houses dealing with produce from their native land. Some of them have done well, and at Bethlehem I observed quite a number of excellent new houses which I learned had been erected by successful emigrants for their parents."

On the borders of the Sea of Galilee Dr. Gyle was surprised to see a derrick, and still further surprised to discover a Californian in charge, who explained, "We are after oil; we have already gone down 500 feet, and there is no question that we are going to get oil."

"The merriest men in the world seem to be the pigmies, who live and laugh in the 'Forest of Eternal Twilight,'" said Dr. Gyle, whose discovery of these people made him famous. He added: "They laugh louder and more often than any other person I have so far met. It was a very pleasant experience to this striving age to be with people who laughed more than they frowned.

"Next to the pigmies, the jolliest race I believe, is that of the Shans. Some of these little people are to be found in the northern part of Siam, and I am preparing an expedition to go and study them. They have succeeded in resisting the influence of the Chinese, Siamese and Burmese, by whom their territory is surrounded, and they have preserved their own language and a great many of the customs peculiar to their race."

Mona Lisa.

For centuries Mona Lisa's "beauty and perversity" have fascinated beholders. No one, apparently, ever had so rapt and yet uncommunicative, so fascinating and yet baffling a smile as Lisa, wife of Francesco del Giocondo, Leonardo's "Mona Lisa."

When Leonardo painted her, she was about thirty years old. Her gown is simple and drapes the figure in easy folds. Her dark hair hangs loosely over unplucked, and frames an oval face. Her eyes are impressive, and about her mouth is seen the smile which has been the chief characteristic in making the painting famous. The story goes that in order to obtain this effect the painter had musicians, singers and jesters always near his subject so as to amuse her as he painted.

But her smile is infinitely more than one of mere pleasure. It is an eternal smile. As Walter Pater says of it, "It is a beauty wrought out from within upon which the soul with all its maladies has passed." All the thoughts and experiences of the world have etched and modeled therein that which they have of power to refine and make expressive the outward form."—New York Outlook.

Substitutes for Celluloid.

The increasing use of celluloid for the manufacture of imitation ivory, horn, shell, linen, wood, glass, porcelain, etc., is due to the cheapness of this mixture of pyroxlin and camphor. It has, however, the serious drawback of being highly inflammable and even explodes at high temperatures.

Hence substitutes lacking this dangerous property have long been sought. Such a one is acetyl-cellulose, made by the action of acetic acid on pure cellulose. This, however, is more costly, and therefore has not made its way except where price is a secondary consideration.

Very recently, however, substitutes have been invented which are not only effective, but cheap. There are viscose and formyl-cellulose, already known because of their employment in making artificial silk.

While they are not as yet utilizable for objects which must have great solidity like those of horn and ivory, it is safe to predict a great future for them, since already blocks of viscoid have been produced which can be readily colored, polished and worked.

Miss Ida O. Tillman, postmistress at Geneva, Ala., has refused to surrender her office to the government, and says she will not be forced out without making a fight.

Poor, Innocent Husband.

When wives have abusive husbands arrested they always repent a little later. "You have had your husband arrested for ill-treating you and now you are trying to have him discharged," said the court, impatiently. "Did he not attack you?" "No, your honor." "But you say he put your nose off. And you have the bandage on. Didn't your husband bite your nose?" "N-n-o, your honor. I—I did it myself!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

PROBABLY TOLD THE TRUTH

Scotsman's Boast Seemed Far-Fetched, But Explanation Put a Different Face on It.

John Butler Yeats, who paints portraits and, incidentally, is the father of William Butler Yeats, the Irish poet, is a regular patron of a certain New York restaurant. Among the habitues of this place he has acquired a reputation as a raconteur. "In my part of Ireland," he tells, "there was a noisy Scotsman whose abuse of everything Irish riled the neighbors considerably. At first, however, he refrained from bragging about Scotland, and we decided to wait until he should be guilty of that indiscretion before acting drastically. The chance came at last. He had been swearing at the Irish peat fires, the Irish rain, and the Irish spuds, and ended up by saying that, 'Hoot mon, Scotland was verra decferent! It was a land flowing with milk and honey.' Well, we went for him. Scotland, we pointed out, was known to be a barren waste inhabited by starvelings, and the Biblical quotation he had used could not have been more outrageously misapplied. He looked us over with his canny eye. 'Ye're wrang,' he said, 'and I can prove it. Scotland flowed wi' milk, and maybe honey, a' the time that I wis there. I left when I wis ten months auld.'"

No Cheeseparer.

The late George A. Hearn, the New York millionaire art collector, was noted for his generosity to his employes.

To a reporter who once congratulated Mr. Hearn on the high wages and unusual comforts that his employes received Mr. Hearn said:

"I don't believe in cheeseparing economy in the treatment of those whose hard work makes a man's success. Cheeseparing economy, applied in that way, seems to me as mean and paltry as the Yonkers man.

"A Yonkers man was summoned from his evening paper, by his wife's frightened cry:

"'George, come quick! The cook has tried to kill herself inhaling gas!'

"'Good gracious!' growled George, as he rushed to the kitchen, leaped over the cook's prostrate form, and turned off the cock—'good gracious, think what the gas bill will be this month!'"—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Quite Natural.

A traveler was riding on muleback through a very wild and turbulent region where human life was among the cheapest of commodities. Noticing a cross surmounting a heap of stones by the roadside, he asked his guide what it meant.

"That is a grave," said the guide. "It means that the man died on that spot and was buried there."

"Indeed," remarked the traveler, "and how did he die?"

"He died a natural death, sir."

"What do you mean?"

"He was shot."

"It is the chilly breeze," he hastily explained.

I wasn't satisfied.

"Come, I said, "if you leave this corner and go somewhere else I will give you a bank bill."

"Sure," I will, he eagerly replied.

"Taking a $1 from the roll, I put it in his hands.

"Thanks for the dollar," he said as he picked up his stool.

My suspicions rushed back.

"How do you know it is a dollar?" I demanded.

"I was sure you would give me the smallest bill you had about you," he said, and shambled along.

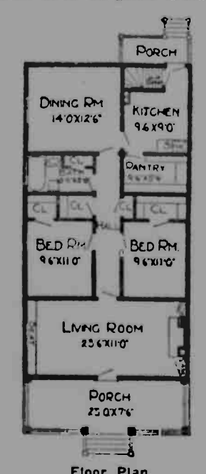
THE AMERICAN HOME

WILLIAM A. RADFORD EDITOR

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 178 West Jackson boulevard, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.



India was the original home of the bungalow, the native name of this house being bangla, which signified a country house of one floor only. On account of the increasing popularity of the bungalow style of building in our own country, it will be of interest to note some of the special characteristics associated with these structures in the land of their origin.

In India it is the Europeans who live in the bungalows, which are built in all sizes and styles, according to the taste and wealth of the owner. The single ground floor plan is frequently departed from by the addition of rooms, utilizing the under-roof space on the second floor. Invariably, however, the bungalow is surrounded with a veranda, and the roof of which affords a shelter from the sun, though in America the veranda is often confined to one end of the house or runs only part of the way round. In the chief cities of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, some of the bungalows assume the proportions of palatial residences, but in the smaller towns they are of more moderate pretensions. In general, they are provided with exterior offices or buildings to accommodate the large retinue of servants common in Indian life.

Besides these private bungalows, there are military bungalows on a large scale for accommodating troops in the military division; also public bungalows maintained by the government for the accommodation of travelers, in which are blended the features of an English roadside inn and an eastern caravansary. These bungalows, though they vary greatly in actual comfort, are all built on the same plan. They are quadrangular in shape, and one story high, with roofs projective so as to form porticos and verandas. Along the trunk roads they are divided into suites of two, three or four rooms, provided with bedsteads, tables, and chairs, glass windows and framed glass doors. Off each room is a bathroom, with standing jar of cool water. Travelers are expected to bring their servants, bedding, cooking apparatus, etc., with them, though tableware, condiments, and sometimes even food and liquors, with cooking service are supplied. At each travelers' bungalow is stationed a government peon, who acts as watchman, and who is bound to help travelers' servants in procuring food and fuel in the nearest village. The regular charge for the use of the bungalow is one rupee, or about half a dollar, a day. Natives seldom stop at these public bungalows, which are patronized almost exclusively by Europeans.

It is the artistic possibilities and low cost, combined with available convenience of arrangement and lightening of work—the housewife having practically no stair climbing to tire her out—which have commended the bungalow type of house so strongly to American home-builders. Especially in the suburbs or outlying districts of our cities, where the busy workers of the day seek rest amid surroundings like those of the country, and where even those of moderate means find it possible to call their home their own, the bungalow is in constantly increasing evidence.

In the accompanying perspective view and floorplan, we show a very neat and attractive five-room cottage of the bungalow type, which can be built anywhere for about $1,700. It is 34 feet six inches wide by 46 feet six inches long. The spacious porch across the entire front affords a shady outdoor retreat, where, we think, very much of the "living" will be done by the family at every opportunity in fair weather. Entering the house, we find ourselves in a large inviting living-room, also extending the full width of the house, with a seat along the left end, and a large fireplace at the right end, flanked by bookcases for the little library that should be found in every home. Straight down the center of the house runs a hallway on each side of which opens off a commodious bedroom with ample closets, the latter being supplemented by two additional closets opening directly off the hall. Back of the bedroom lie, on one side the bathroom, entered from the hall, with still another closet (for linen, etc.) and on the other side the well-lighted pantry, opening directly off the kitchen. At the very end of the hall a door opens into the dining-room, which is directly connected with the amply lighted kitchen. From the latter, a door opens to the cellar stairway, and another door to the back porch. The cellar or basement can be built of any size desired, and is lighted by windows in the underpinning or the foundation walls. Every inch of space in this house is adapted to the modern requirements of good lighting, heat and ventilation.

SMALLER THAN THE ATOM

Men of Science Now Talk of the Ion as the Least Quantity That Can Be Imagined.

For a long time the atom was spoken of as being the smallest thing in the world, so small indeed that it could not be seen with the most powerful magnifying glass. A molecule is the smallest part of any material. It is supposed to be made up of atoms of various elements. Thus a molecule of water is made up of one atom of oxygen and two atoms of hydrogen.

Now we hear that the atom may be broken up into fragments called ions.

The ion is both the smallest quantity of matter and the smallest quantity of electricity capable of existing in a free state. It is so small that if enough electricity to generate the hydrogen in a toy balloon were to be obtained by counting out the ions, 100 to the minute, the task would occupy 100,000,000 persons 4,000,000 years.

And yet these ions have been isolated and measured in the laboratory of Prof. R. A. Milliken of the University of Chicago. Prof. Milliken has modified and improved upon the methods of previous experiments. Whereas those used for their experiments a fog of tiny water particles, whose average size and weight could be calculated, as well as the average electric charge on each, Milliken isolates and observes a droplet of oil, which he controls and experiments upon as easily as one might measure and test a block of steel. This droplet serves as a trap for flying ions, the accession of which to the drop is at once detected by a sudden change in its behavior

Propose to Codify Tango.

The Paris academy of dancing masters, aroused by the ban laid on the tango by the pope, French archbishops, and foreign sovereigns, has called an international congress of dancing professors for Easter Sunday and Monday, April 12 and 13, to codify the tango. The dancing teachers intend drafting unalterable rules for the dance, which, they say, is in itself moral, but modifications and changes, introduced by unqualified professors, have allowed abuses to creep in. French, American, English, Austrian, Spanish, Italian, Swiss and German teachers have promised attendance.

Training Animals.

The psychology of animals is curiously like that of young children. Interest must be won; it cannot be forced. No appeal, save a direct one to instinct, is admissible. Penalties are quite meaningless except as obstacles in a particular path, and as such they must never arouse active fear. It will be seen therefore that the opportunities for cruelty are necessarily limited. Trainers may abuse their charges, but each time they do so they court disaster.

Voice Encouragement.

"Your investigation has not resulted in punishing anybody."

"I hadn't any confident expectations that it would," replied Senator Sorghum. "Ordinarily an investigation is merely an effort to equip the small voice of conscience with a megaphone."

Votes in 1912 Election.

The total number of votes cast in the presidential election of 1912 was 15,034,800. The voting population is estimated at 18,000,000 and the population of the United States, not including our island possessions, is 91,972,266.

CARING FOR THE ORCHARD AND VINEYARD

Galls on Roots, Crown and Canes of Grape.

The commercial fruit farmer of today generally recognizes the fact that a well-kept orchard and vineyard is essential if uniform and profitable results are to be secured. "Orchard and vineyard sanitation" is a good phrase, and one which should be more clearly understood by every fruit grower. Some of the most important things which it includes are air drainage, soil drainage, spraying, pruning, care of rubbish, and the relation of neighboring orchards, vineyards or fields. Some of these things are difficult to control, but others, which are of great importance, may be readily managed by any fruit grower. Removal or destruction of refuse, such as dead wood, brush piles, decayed or wormy fruit, old vines, and half dead trees in the fence corners is just as important to the health of the trees, vines, or other crops as is the proper care of animal refuse to the health of live stock or man. An orchard or vineyard where 'sanitation' has been practiced is a beautiful as well as a profitable one. It pays to keep things cleaned up, because there are a number of diseases which need not be given a thought in a well-kept fruit farm, while the fruit from a scraggly, unkempt orchard is seldom fit for a good market.

Among the diseases which sometimes affects even orchard and vineyards which are beautifully kept and for which there is no remedy positively known, is the crown gall, which causes unsightly blemishes on the trees and vines.

Nearly every one has seen the rough enlargements which sometimes occur at the crown of trees, and which is commonly known as crown gall. In some cases there are great numbers of small fibrous roots coming out from the gall. Trees afflicted with this disease may live for many years and produce considerable fruit, but they are apt to be less thrifty than healthy ones and are more liable to root rot. The gall may eventually decay and leave the tree so weak that it is easily blown over. There is no remedy which can be recommended for an infected tree. Any nursery stock affected by this disease should not be accepted or planted.

Stem tumor is a disease of the branches similar in appearance and nature to crown gall. A tree may have a large number of these galls and yet appear healthy and well. They doubtless injure the tree to some extent. The disease attacks the crown, stump, canes, and sometimes the roots of grape vines also. At first the galls can hardly be distinguished from callus, but as they get older and larger they become darker and tougher. They grow to all sizes, and can be found from one to four or more inches in diameter. As the vine gets older the disease may extend from the crown to the stump and canes, even four or six feet out. The galls are comparatively short lived, as they usually die within a year. As the gall rots away, it kills the adjacent tissue of root, crown and cane. At present, judging from all available data on the remedies for this disease, in all probability the best way for controlling the disease is by the use of resistant varieties of vines when the disease appears in the vineyard. But "sanitation" will help in the prevention of this disease as well as many others.

GROSS IGNORANCE IN FRUIT CULTURE

Care and Cultivation Alone Will Improve Some Plants, but Not Fruit Trees.

By R. G. WEATHERSTONE.

One of the most profitable, useful and commendable undertakings to which one can devote himself in these times is the cultivation of fruits and fruit trees. It is worth while to have a part, though even so small, in helping to raise mankind to a higher place of living; and the fruit-grower's services are of value in solving the problem of the ever-increasing cost of living.

Probably there is no other branch of agriculture in which there is so much gross ignorance still prevalent as in fruit culture. How many farmers understand to any degree the arts of budding and grafting, and pruning and training of vines; and yet they are the very persons who, above all others, should be familiar with these processes. If you wish to know whether this or that fruit tree is worth encouraging, don't ask your neighbor, the farmer. The chances are that he is nursing along some worthless seedlings himself, in the hope that they will some day amount to something; but which most of them usually never do.

Nature has presented us with the grains at their best, and ready for immediate use; but her fruits, her best gifts, she holds subject to the proviso that they shall be received only with the exercise of an intelligence capable of appreciating them. The wild fruit tree is admirably designed for surviving untold conditions till man shall have need of it, and for responding readily under his guiding hand—but only when wisely directed.

Care and cultivation alone will vastly improve some plants, but not fruit trees. Advance is gained with them, step by step, by the selection of one in a thousand. Ninety-nine out of every hundred seedlings will prove a disappointment, and the one alone worth propagating.

Young trees respond more readily to new conditions than do older ones, and the seeds of young trees are less likely to return to their former condition than those of older ones. The farther removed from its original state, in generations, a tree may be, the less is its tendency to return to it. The trained stockman and nurseryman understands these principles, and puts them into practice in producing new and superior varieties of fruit stock. Far better is it for the farmer to look to him for approved material to work with, than to attempt to improve whatever he may already have.

The one important element in fruit growing is to secure the right stock at the start. The rest of the undertaking is comparatively easy. To begin with a poor grade of nursery stock is to invite failure at the start, and to assume a handicap which can never after be overcome.

Market Poultry Fat.

Poultry marketed from the farm consists of cockerels, or males under one year, roosters, pullets culled from standards-bred stock, hens, guineas, doves, ducks, geese and turkeys. They are generally sold alive in summer and early autumn, and both alive and dressed in late autumn and winter.

To bring the highest market price, market poultry, whether alive or dressed, should be in good health, of large size and well fattened. All poultry marketed should be fat. This condition is the chief factor in determining the price per pound. Fat old hens, of whatever weight, often command a higher price than young, tender chickens.

For Greater Efficiency.

In every branch of industry there is a striving for greater efficiency in methods. It is a hobby and fortunes are made by employing scientific principles of management. There is a chance for the same in the orchard. Do not be satisfied with the methods of a decade ago.

SUBSTANTIAL FARM BUILDINGS ARE URGED

There is no better investment on the farm than good farm buildings. During a very rainy season, a barn will almost pay for itself in one year in the saving of feed alone, not counting the gain in housing animals and the saving of manure. It pays to build too big a barn rather than too small a one. It also pays to put good material in farm buildings. A good barn, built of good material, will last a lifetime and pay for itself many times over. Such substantial improvements too reflect the substantial character of the farmer and count financially in the farm valuation, when it is offered for sale. Comfort is also offered the various farm animals.

Cholera.

The so called cholera is to familiar to all poultry raisers to need description. The removal of all sick birds and a thorough cleansing of the houses, runs, etc., is absolutely essential to the stamping out of the disease. The Kansas state experiment station found that a spray consisting of one-half gallon of phenol, mixed together, made an excellent disinfectant. One part of corrosive sublimate in 2,000 parts water was given the fowl to drink.

Roosters for Table Use.

If young roosters are to be kept for table use, pen them up by themselves, where they cannot bother the other stock and where they will be forced to be quieter and therefore make better meat than when they are allowed to run at large.

Good Eaters and Eating.

Guinea fowls are the most persistent bug eaters of all the poultry tribe. And they are good eating, too—the guineas.

WILLIE'S IDEA A GOOD ONE

Bright Youngster Evidently Was Not Greatly Impressed by Papa's Lesson.

They were speaking of the wisdom of the kids in a Washington club the other day, when this one was told by Senator George E. Chamberlain of Oregon:

At the breakfast table some time ago little Willie began to play with the pepper box, and, notwithstanding the commands of papa, he kept right on doing as he pleased about it until the box upset and the contents were spread over the tablecloth.

"There you go!" peevishly cried papa, casting a stern eye on the kid. "Didn't I tell you not to monkey with that pepper box?"

"Yes, sir," was the meekful response of Willie, as he tried to scoop up the sneezy commodity.

"As you disobeyed me," continued papa severely, "I have a great mind to make the punishment fit the crime by putting some of the pepper on your tongue."

"All right, papa," returned Willie, trying to hide a merry smile, "but tho next time I will upset the sugar bowl."

ECZEMA DISFIGURED FACE

Hampton Springs, Fla.—"I had had eczema on my face and hands for about three years. My face was badly disfigured. The eczema broke out in pimples and itched so very badly I would scratch it all the time. It was the most irritating disease I ever had. It started on my face and hands and it spread all over my body. I had great large sores all over me, caused from the eczema. It bothered me day and night so that I could not rest at all.

"I used three remedies for skin disease and they didn't give relief at all. I was almost terrified until a friend recommended Cuticura Soap and Ointment to me. They helped me from the time I started to use them. I only used two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and was cured." (Signed) Mrs. E. C. Parker, Dec. 7, 1912.

Sick Women Made Well

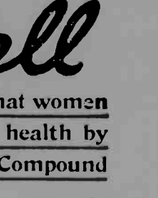
Reliable evidence is abundant that women are constantly being restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The many testimonial letters that we are continually publishing in the newspapers—hundreds of them—are all genuine, true and unsolicited expressions of heartfelt gratitude for the freedom from suffering that has come to these women solely through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Money could not buy nor any kind of influence obtain such recommendations; you may depend upon it that any testimonial we publish is honest and true—if you have any doubt of this write to the women whose true names and addresses are always given, and learn for yourself.

Read this one from Mrs. Waters:

CAMDEN, N.J.—"I was sick for two years with nervous spells, and my kidneys were affected. I had a doctor all the time and used a galvanic battery, but nothing did me any good. I was not able to go to bed, but spent my time on a couch or in a sleeping-chair, and soon became almost a skeleton. Finally my doctor went away for his health, and my husband heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got me some. In two months I got relief and now I am like a new woman and am at my usual weight. I recommend your medicine to every one and so does my husband."—Mrs. TILLIE WATERS, 1135 Knight St., Camden, N.J.



And this one from Mrs. Haddock:

UTICA, OKLA.—"I was weak and nervous, not able to do my work and scarcely able to be on my feet. I had backache, headache, palpitation of the heart, trouble with my bowels, and inflammation. Since taking the Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I am better than I have been for twenty years. I think it is a wonderful medicine and I have recommended it to others."—Mrs. MARY ANN HADDOCK, Utica, Oklahoma.

Now answer this question if you can. Why should a woman continue to suffer without first giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial? You know that it has saved many others—why should it fail in your case?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

THE BOY USEFUL AND PATRIOTIC.

If there is anything the adult world would hold unchangeable, it is the charming hodge-podge of good and bad that makes up boy nature. Yet there is meeting this week in Washington a body which asserts that the boy character is being reformed. The National Council of Boy Scouts, having enlisted 300,000 youngsters, under 7,000 masters, credits itself with all but a revolution. Once, as Jacob Riis puts it, the boy was an unmistakable admixture of heathen and good citizen, heathen normally a little uppermost.

Now that he is a scout, he is "friendly, courteous, kind! obedient, cheerful, thrifty and brave; these are the scout laws, and he obeys them not only because he wants to." The bureau of education is even asked to recommend the Boy Scout movement to all educational authorities.

Much as is claimed for its tutorship in camp knowledge, physical training and so on, more is made of the fact that every scout is expected to "perform a kind act every morning of his life," that scores of people write in monthly telling of the good turns the scouts do them, that cities which once feared the small boy now expect him to assist the aged across the streets and bell the town cats against the birds, while good manners and thoughtfulness have made him invaluable at events like the inauguration and Gettysburg celebration.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

"First Day" Proves Conclusively That G. W. E. Is In Error Concerning the Sabbath.

Mr. Editor:—G. W. E. takes exceptions to my article on the teachings of Seventh Day Adventism.

Let me make one correction—In my first article I said "they claim that the Christian in Apostolic days observed the Seventh Day as the Sabbath"—that is for worship and breaking of bread—By mistake I am made to say that we will admit. Insert the word not after will, and then it is that I will not admit.

True there is no command in so many words that we shall not observe the Seventh day, but shall observe the First day—that does not say there is no scriptural authority for keeping the First day. I showed how the Christians met on the Seventh day, but it was a matter of convenience to meet the Jews in their assemblies and thus be able to reach them with the Gospel—see Acts 17:2 where Paul reasoned with the Jews—I repeat, there is not a single instance in the Acts of a Christian assembly convened on the Jewish Sabbath or Seventh Day for worship.

When God commanded a day of rest from labor, He chose the Seventh Day which commemorated the finishing of creation.

When Christ had finished His work, He rested, and the same day became from that time forth a day of rest and spiritual devotion to God, in commemration of the finished "new creation," just as the 7th had celebrated the finishing of the "old creation" It was a sign that God had separated Israel from the heathen nation and it came to an end, when they were dispersed among the nations. It was nailed to the cross with the shadows and types. It was superceded by the day chosen of God to commemorate the "new creation." John and Jesus were born under the law and kept it until it ended on the cross, but they never comma ded their disciples to keep the 7th day, nor did one of the apostles enjoin upon the church the keeping of the old Sabbath. The Pharisee's quibbled for letter of the law, which bid Jesus to ask them a question from their own law about the priests profaning the Sabbath and being blameless. Then He told them "the son of man is Lord even of the Sabbath." He shows then that the Sabbath has its sancity from His work and that he has power to direct its observance.

The law of the Sabbath is as old as the race; it was graven on tables of stone by the finger of God, it was recognized by Christ and founded on the nature of God and the necessity of our being. There is no difference of opinion concerning the law, but there is a difference of opinion as to the day which should be observed as the Sabbath. If G. W. E. or any one else contends for the 7th day then they should to be consistent and practice circumcision and offer sacrifices and adopt the decalogue as their rule of practice. They must observe Penticost, and the feast of the Passover, etc.

If we are bound to the keeping of the 7th day, we must accept the penalties attached to it and run the risk of losing your life for gathering a few sticks on the Sabbath or 7th day. The law of the Sabbath has its ground in the will of God as Supreme Lord. It is said we have no thus saith the Lord for the First day of the week. Admit that the Bible does not say in so many words, thou shalt not observe the 7th day any more, thou shalt keep the First day but it does not follow that we have no divine authority for the change. If we demand a precept for every command of duty, and refuse obedience except where it is enjoined, then we make the Scriptures a servant and put the law of God under subjection to us.

By such reasoning you must exclude men from the communion table. The majority for the change is in Christ. The resurrection was the moving cause, while the efficient cause of the change of days is the sovereign will of Him who is the Lord of the Sabbath. It could have been arranged that He rise the 7th day, but He lay in the tomb that day, as an indication that that day was no longer to be a day of joyful commeration, but his resurrection was the evidence to the world that he had finished His work and hence this was his resting day. Henceforth the disciples understood which day was to be devoted to rest and worship. Jesus appeared to his followers on the first day of the week. A second appearance was one week later on the first day, thereby approving the day and the engagement of the infant church.

Notice Paul's judgment concerning the days of the old ritual in Col. 2:15. He said the Christians at Collosse were not obliged to observe Jewish ceremonies. "Let no man judge you concerning the Sabbath days." Here is a plain reference to the Jewish Sabbath. We are forced to believe that they and by purity of reasoning all Christians, were exempt from keeping the 7th day. Paul was writing 30 years after the resurrection of Christ and at a time when the assembling of Christians for worship on the first day of the week had become an established practice. In fact you never hear of the followers of Jesus after the resurrection, assembling on the 7th day for religious worship. This surely ought to be sufficient authority to convince anyone. Jesus after the resurrection did not go to the Synagogue on the 7th day as he did formerly.

Rom. 14: 5, 6 throws light on this and in unison with Coll, and furnishes additional evidence that they were not under obligation to observe the 7th day Acts 20. 7 the disciples came together on First day of week, to break bread—this was the form of expression in the N. T. for religious assemblies. Paul preached to them, abode with them and preached again on the next Lord's day.

We could desire no better evidence than this, that they regarded the first day for the Christian Sabbath instead of the 7th, for there is no mention of it. It is morally possible that a day which has for so long a period failed to secure the observance of the church is entitled to the claim of exclusive divine authority? Would the Holy Spirit allow the church to go astray for more than 1600 years before revealing it to one Francis Bampfield of England, who was the founder of the sect known as the Seventh day Baptists?

Stephen Mumford gathered the first church of this sect, at Newport, R. I. The change was made long before there was a Pope in existence or before the Catholic church was organized. It is probable that God who guided the early church would not show them their error, or that so many godly and scholarly men should never detect the fact that the Pope changed the day, but for centuries go on in ignorance, the truth not being revealed until the sect of the 7th day Baptists was organized? It is a presumptuous claim. What if Constantine in 321 enacted the law of Sunday. That does not say that the first day had not been recognized and observed as the Christian Sabbath. It antidates customs by nearly 300 years.

No evidence appears in the N. T. that Christians refused to keep holy the first day. This can be accounted for only on the ground that they had enough evidence to convince them that the change was by divine sanction

A second proof is regard that God has to His worship, as well as His rejection of human interference in its appointenents and regulation.

That apostles and early church should of their own accord abandon the 7th day and adopt the first day, would be to suppose that the Master permitted them to violate the orders of his own house and teach for doctrines the commandments of men.

Third the apostles censure of the observance of days see Gal. 4:9-11. It is impossible that men speaking as they were moved by the Holy Ghost, should condemn the observance of days and yet observe them themselves, and continue the practice of the first day, unless it has come into authorized and sacred use.

Another proof is found in the provision for regulating all the observances of religion. In acting and ordering concerning the first day of the week they are to be regarded as ordering our conduct, their commands and ordinances being those of the Master.

On the 1st day Jesus breathed on his disciples the sacred influences of the Holy Ghost. He Commissioned them to evangelize the world. The holy spirit came upon them as they were in one place on the 1st or Lord's day. On that day the first christian sermon was preached and 3,000 were converted, the church was organized and the Lord's supper was publicly celebrated. On this day ever since the greatest good has been done to the world, by the word and grace of Him who rose from the dead on the first day of the week. Justin Martyr, born the beginning of the 2d century, speaks of the custom of assembling for worship on the day known as Sunday called the Lord's day. Tertullian. Altiawasius, Irenaeus and Ignatius all add their testimony to the same effect. If these facts are not sufficient to convince us that the first day of the week, is by divine authority constituted the Sabbath, then I know not what character of evidence could convince.

G. W. E. is therefore mistaken when he says Christ never changed or observed the first day and that the disciples did not observe it, They did without doubt as I have shown. I have said enough to convince any one who is willing to take the word of God as authorative. If they reject that no reasoning or facts on earth can convince them. The 7th day was the Jewish Sabbath, the first day is the christian Sabbath, and is holy unto the Lord.

The first day has strong claims on us because of the example of Jesus, the apostles, the early church and the christian church ever since. G. W. E's summary is without foundation in fact and is contrary to the teaching of the New Testament. He goes further and says he is not a Sabbath keeper. I am sorry to hear that. He should be, as should every one. He puts himself in the attitude of rebellion against the divine authority, an exceedingly dangerous thing to do.

We would better recognize the Lord's day and keep it as Christs and his disciples has shown us how; recognize His authority and bow to it. that we obtain the blessings of obedience. His authority is supreme, his example is absolutely correct, and if we will follow Him and serve Him, we shall be duly rewarded when He comes for His people, and we shall be exalted to reign with Him when He establishes His Kingdom of universal righteousness on the earth.

Thank you for your space.

FIRST DAY.

A Latter To The Public.

To the Editor of The Republican:

Will you kindly give the enclosed a place in your paper? I have requested the Journal to do so, and handed the copy to Mr. Shartzer in Annapolis Tuesday morning. I desire to secure the widest publication of my denial of my authorship of the article complained of:

Mr. Editor: In the Garrett Journal of February 12, you say: 'I ask the writer of the article to explain to the people what he is kicking about'. The above words are the concluding words of an article charging me with writing an article taken from the Republican of Oakland. I suppose that the editor meant me and so do my friends, when he said: 'The above is a continuation of the statement made by the revereed (I suppose he meant Reverend) gentleman before the election,' etc. If he did mean me, I want to say that I did not write the article he quoted, nor had I anything to do with its writing, neither did I see it until it appeared in the Republican. This, Mr. Editor is all the explanation I can make. Will you kindly publish statement? Thanking you in advance, I am, respectfully,

L. A. RUDISILL.

Some of our young folks attended the dance at Hutton Thursday night of last week and all report a fine time.

Cecil Elliott and brother William spent Sunday Terra Alta, the guests of their parents.

Mr. Earnest Lewis, of Oakland formely of this place has secured a position with Kendall Lumber Co and will take charge of his duties soon.

Hiram Glotfelty of Underwood, who has been employed at this place for some time past, fell off a high lumber pile last week and sustained very painful but not serious injuries.

BITTINGER.

Alexander Wiley, aged 83 years and 12 days, died at his home near this village on Monday afternoon, Feb. 16th, as the direct result of advanced age. The deceased was one of the three remaining members of one of the pioneer families of this county, he being a son of the pioneer settler and hunter, Holmes Wiley. For the past dozen years Mr. Wiley had been forced to live a retired life, owing to his advanced age, and for ten years was seldom seen away from his home. His long active life was spent upon a farm near this village, and he was well and favorably known throughout the district. The deceased is survived by an aged widow, four sons and two daughters, Messrs. George L., Henry B. and Albert Wiley, of this neighborhood and Mr. Jacob Wiley, of Keyser, W. Va. The daughters are Mrs. Sallie Resides, of Bellefonte Pa., and Mrs. Hettie Doolittle, of Jennings. There are two surviving brothers, James P. Wiley, of Negro Mountain, and John Wiley, a Michigan farmer. The funeral took place on Thursday morning, from the Lutheran church, after services conducted by Rev. Withers, of Grantsville. Much sympathy is felt for the aged widow and bereaved family.

Patterson Engle was called to Salisbury, Pa., last Friday, to attend the funeral of his brother, the late Norman Engle.

Mrs. T. B. Wiley and Mrs. Albert Brenneman were shopping in Accident last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. David W. Miller, of Armstead, spent last week visiting relatives and friends here.

O. C. Buckle has moved his stock of merchandise into his new store room and the outlook for the year's business in the new quarters is excellent.

We hear many expressions of approval of the Speicher county local option bill in this neighborhood, and the Senator is being generally commended for his able and persistent efforts in its behalf.

The blizzard last week made hard traveling for our mail carriers.

SHORT RUN.

The extremely cold weather seems to continue. On Monday and Tuesday of this week one of the severest storms of the winter prevailed. The heavy snow and high wind, together with the extreme cold, makes traffic almost impossible.

Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays were observed in the school here Monday. An excellent programme was rendered, for which we think teacher and pupils deserve much credit.

Mr. Richard Bray, a prosperous farmer from the Three Fork section of this district, spent Sunday with friends here.

John Moore, J. H. and Daniel Wilson spent a delightful day with Mr. J. T. Harvey, Sunday last

Mrs. Daniel Wilson, who has been spending several days visiting friends in Blaine, returned to her home here Tuesday.

Misses Cassie and Cinda Wilson and Mr. George Wilson were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Moon at Eagle Rock, Sunday.

Rev. J. E. Scott preached a very able sermon to the Knights of Pythian order at Kitzmiller Sunday. Several young men from this place attended the service.

BLOOMINGTON.

Mr. J. C. Patton, returned home Wednesday night from a business trip to Eastern cities.

Miss Ralston, a trained nurse of Keyser is in attendance with the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Swan of our town who is quite ill with pneumonia.

That ground hog certainly did see "him" shadow.

Mr Warner Howard, formerly of this place but recently located at Thomas, W. Va., as assistant to Charles Bradshore, Supt. of the Davis Coal and Coke Co., at that point spent the week-end visiting friends at his "old home place" in Bloomington.

Mr. Casper Kight, of Magnolia, Md., formerly store manager of the Monroe Coal Mining Company, of Barnum, spent Sunday with his parents on Hampshire Hill.

STEYER.

Mrs. Oscar Wolfe, of Charleston, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Hester Harvey, at this writing.

Mr J. B. Shockey, wife and family, and Miss Agnes Harvey, of Ryans Glade, were pleasant callers at the home of J. T. Steyer, Sunday last.

Mr. Ray Stafford made a trip to Terra Alta and Oakland recently.

Mr. Scott Harvey spent Sunday at Blaine.

Misses Alma and Edna Harvey were the guests of Miss Myrtle Wilson last Sunday.

Mr. Chas. Steyer and daughter Miss Ruth, spent Sunday at the home of W. T. Steyer.

Mr. I. N. Shillingburg was seen on our streets a few days ago.

Mr. James Wilson of Oak Grove, was the guest of Captain White, Sunday.

Messrs. A. J. Wilson and H. H. Harper are at Shaw, W. Va., where they have a contract of skidding logs for Mr. Luther Stafford.

Mr. W. W. Steyer cut his foot very badly a few days ago.

Mr. Joe Trickett who has been working in the lumber yards at this place, was promoted to the position of teamster last week.

Mr. Luther Stafford spent Sunday at his home in Keyser.

BOND.

Mr. S. W. Fox, sawyer on the mill, has been sick with quinsy the past week, It looked for a while as though the mill would have to shut down for want of a sawyer but "A. Mutt" who used to saw years ago was "drafted into service" and is filling the position with credit. At this writing Mr. Fox is much better and hopes to be able to go to work Monday.

Billie Williams and Esty Fox had business in Piedmont on Tuesday of last week.

Rev. Tanner closed the revival meetings at Dry Run Sunday, securing five more conversions during the week, making a total of twenty-two conversions at that place.

Mr. George Drew was suddenly called away to Punxsutawney, Pa., last Saturday to attend the funeral of his sister Elizabeth, who died at that place.

Mr. L. F. Dorr, bookkeeper for Dimeling & Bloom, spent Sunday at his home in Clearfield, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Wilt, lately of Davis, W. Va., have come back to Bond.

The new skating rink is being well attended every night.

Miss Oma Lohr, our school miss, spent Saturday and Sunday at her home near Oakland.

BETHLEHEM

Mr. Groundhog's prediction proved to be quite true, and we are suffering with severe cold.

Mr. George Harvey is hauling logs for his brother-in-law, Mr. Jesse White.

Owing to the bad weather, our mail carrier, Mr. George failed to get here a few days. The boys and girls were very glad when he did make his appearance.

Mrs. J. T. Moon and two daughters Stella and Susie, were calling on Mrs. R. E. Paugh one day last week.

Mr. Will Rodeheaver was a business caller in Blaine Saturday evening.

Some of our young folks were calling on Mrs. Jane Lipscomb Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George White were visiting at the home of Mr. L. Moon's Sunday.

Rev. Johnson will preach at Kurtz Chapel Sunday at 3 o'clock. Everybody cordially invited.

PLEADS TO SAVE OLD TRAILS ROAD

J. M. Lowe Warns People Against Passage Of Shackleford Bill.

I am writing this commnication to the people of Garrett county in order to warn them of the danger of the Senate adopting the bill of Congressmon Shackleford, of Missouri, which even as it is amended smacks of the "pork barrel" and will be a disaster to the National Old Trails Road project which means so much to your county.

The National Old Trails Road Association already has spent great sums of money and worked unceasingly and patriotically to the end that there shall be a vast and efficient system of roadways connecting ocean with ocean. Other associations, almost as powerful, have done almost the same thing to promote the linking together by rock roads of all the cities of the country, of more than 20,000 population and all of the state capitals.

No State has better scenery or more fresh, invigorating air to call the tourist from afar than Maryland.

It is therefore only a matter of course for the Old Trails Association to look to this State for a large number of loyal supporters. And the attitude of the people justifies the belief that when the Shackelford bill comes before the Senate there will be voices raised in protest in your vicinity.

(Signed J. M. LOWE,
President Nat. Old Trails Road Association.

FRENDSVILLE.

The local lodge Knights of Pythias held their jubilee anniversary on Thursday evening last. The Opera house was crowded with Knights and their families and friends. The was hall tastefully decorated in the colors of the order and the stage arranged for the ceremonies. H. J. Black was Chancellor; W. H. H. Friend, Jr., was vice chancellor; C. V. Guard, Prelate; W. Schlossnagle, M. of F.; and L. Umble, master of arms. A quartette sang several pieces appropriate to the occasion. Speeches were made by O. A. Welch and B. F. Friend. Both spoke in a masterly manner having their subject well in hand and interesting their audiences with Pythian history and showing what a vast amount of good the order does and has been done in the past. After the ceremonies a banquet was indulged in and the people gave themselves up to enjoyment and fun. The Friendsville military band was in attendance and discoursed some fine music in their usual excellent style, the applause they received testifying to that fact. Following is the program as given March. "Legend of the Stars;" selection, "Il Trovatore;" selection. "Bohemian Girl;" march, "United Liberty;" selection, "The Lost Hord;" overture, "Gem;" serenade, "Sylvia;" march, "Right O'Way."

Saturday evening in the Opera house the high school of this place played basket ball with Grantsville, resulting in a victory for Friendsville by a score of 18 to 6. The Grantsville players are a nice lot of young men, well behaved and gentlemanly.

Grantsville Loses a Very Good Citizen

Dennis J. Stevanus, one of Grantsville's most useful and highly esteemed citizens, died at the Miner's Hospital, Frostburg, at an early hour last Sunday morning, of typhoid fever. He was in the hospital for about a week.

The deceased was a second son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Stevanus, who reside near Springs, Pa., about six miles northwest of Grantsville. He was about 35 years old, and he leaves to mourn his death a wife and three children, at Grantsville, where he took up his residence several years ago. He is also survived by his parents and a number of brothers and sisters in Somerset county, Pa.

Dennis Stevanus was a good citizen in all that the term implies—useful, honest, energetic, intelligent and generous. He followed slate and metal roofing, and his services were always in demand, for he was an honest and competent workman. Last summer he was a candidate on the Republican ticket for legislative nomination, and while he was not successful, he nevertheless made a very creditable run, considering that it was his first entry in that sort of a race.

On account of the snow-blocked roads the remains could not be brought to his home at Grantsville until Tuesday and the funeral, which at first was arranged for Tuesday afternoon, was postponed until Wednesday afternoon when a large concourse of relatives and friends assembled to pay their last respects to the departed. Funeral services were held in the Springs Mennonite church. Preachers G. D. and Ed. Miller preached pathetic as well as comforting sermons and the remains were interred in the cometery near the church.

Agricaltural Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Allegany and Garrett County Agricultural Society will be held in the Fireman's Hall Lonaconing, next Friday afternoon, February 27, at 1:30 o'clock. Matters pertaining to the advancement of the society and plans for this year's show will be discussed.

Card of Thanks.

I take this method of thanking the people who so kindly assisted us during our sore bereavement caused by the death of a dear wife and mother, and we would mention especially the profusion of beautiful flowers presented by the Knights of Pythias and others in token of respect for the deceased. May God bless them all.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING.

Schools Ordered Closed on Account of Lack of Attandance.

The School Commissioners of Garrett County were in session in their office in Oakland Monday and Tuesday of this week, all three members were present.

The following schools, owing to the average attendance of each of them being below ten pupils, as well as from financial stringency of the school funds, were ordered to be closed upon Friday, February 27th: Glendale, Turner, Miller, Steyer, Oak Grove, Inskeep, Weir, Jacobs, Fairsweep, Round Glade and Oakland Colored.

The order of January 17th, regarding the closing of the schools of the county, was rescinded, and another order was passed, the same closing all the elementary schools of the county upon Wednesday, April 1st, and the state high schools upon Friday, May 22nd. This act upon the part of the School Commissioners was prompted by the lack of school funds.

The annual budget for expenses of the state high schools for the school year 1914-1915 was determined, and ordered submitted to the Board of County Commissioners.

MINISTER INVITED.

Mr. Otto T. Bremer, of Illinois, is to Become Pastor of Lutheran Church.

At a congrational meeting held in St. Mark's Ev. Lutheran church in Oakland Sunday morning after the regular preaching services conducted by Rev. E. Manges, Mr. Otto S. Bremer, yet a student of the Hamma Divinity School, Springfield, Ohio, was unanimously chosen as pastor to succeed Mr. Manges, who resigned the charge more than a year ago, but who consented to remain until his successor was chosen.

Mr. Bremer visited the church three weeks ago and impressed the congregation very favorably and as a result he was chosen to become the regular pastor. His home is in Illinois. He will graduate from his theological studies about May 1st and will immediatly thereafter assume the pastorate of the local church.

At the Sunday morning services in St. Paul's M. E. church in Oakland, Rev. Dr. Archibald Moore, the pastor, preached a special sermon to the members of the local lodge of Masons, at which some thirty-five or more were in attendance in a body. The sermon, delivered by Dr. Moore, himself a Mason, was appropriate to the occasion and was listened to with rapt attention by the large congregation present.

Mrs. John A. Grant celebrated her birthday Monday afternoon by entertaining a number of friends, among them being Mrs. G. S. Hamill, Sr., Mrs. James Willison, Mrs. G. Semmes Hamill, Mrs. Benj. H. Sincell, Mrs. S. F. Hamill, Mrs. J. C. Ely, Mrs. R. B. Ward, Mrs. Idie T. Hayes Mrs. Herman Creutzburg, Mrs. Jas. Hamill, Mrs. E. L West, Mrs. W. W. Shearer, Miss Green, Miss Orley Dunham and Mrs. F. G. Hyde.

A number of men, plumbers and helpers, in the employ of Messrs. A. D. Naylor & Co., the local plumbing firm, which secured the contract for installing the heating and other work in a large building at Kingwood, W. Va., left for that point on Thursday last where they will be engaged for some weeks. Among those who went from here to do the work were Messrs. Grover Stemple, Arthur Naylor and Fred. Shartzer.

The Oakland Creamery, under the management of Mr. L. W. Hopkins, is one of the busy spots in Oakland during this season of the year. The output of the creamery in butter, milk and cream is eagerly sought after by the local people and Mr. Hopkins is unable to fill the demand, even though the product were doubled. He also has standing orders for many pounds of butter for out of-town consumers, which if filled would require the entire output of the creamery and leave none for local sale.

Every comfort that can be drawn around the old people ought to be held as a duty, to perform which will warm the hearts of the young people. The heat of their day has passed; all the stormy mornings and the torrid noon have gone by, and they are now in the twilight waiting for the stars. It is a good thing to draw mantles about them as the night air begins to grow cold. It is a good thing to provide music for the ears that are not much longer to hear, a good thing with songs and with cheer to steady their steps down the farther slope.

Col. N. U. Bond, of Kentucky, arrived in Oakland Monday night on train No. 4. He will remain here for probably a week and then go on up into New York State to place orders for railroad and mill equipment to be used in his Kentucky operations. About two hundred men and some forty or fifty horses and mules are now engaged in grading the railroad which is being built into the timber lands owned by Mr. Bond. The trackage will be fourteen miles and enters a section of the country where the whistle of a locomotive has never been heard.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lauer was operated upon at the Protestant Home and Infirmary in Baltimore last Friday afternoon for the purpose of reducing a congenital hip dislocation. The operation was performed by Dr. Baer, of Baltimore, and it was highly successful. The child will be kept in plaster casts for several months at the end of which time it is believed that she will have the natural use of her limbs and that she will be able to walk without showing any indication of a limp. Mr. and Mrs. Lauer were in Baltimore at the time of the performance of the operation, the former returning here Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Lauer will remain in the city indefinitely.

The Republican job printing establishment completed on last Saturday the second edition of two thousand copies of the constitution and by-laws of the Maryland Conservation Association, of which former Senator W. McCulloh Brown is president. The Association held an enthusiastic meeting in McCoy Hall, Baltimore, on Tuesday and yesterday when prominent speakers were heard, men who consider conservation one of the biggest problems of the country and who have made a deep study of question. For a time the cause of conservation in Maryland was more or less a lost one, but the last National congress held in Washington aroused an intrest that was so widespread and so largely attended by Marylanders that a new organization was formed, growing out of an older one that existed some years ago, and the interest in conservation may be enjoying an enthusiastic renaissance. The Maryland Conservation Association is that organization and to it Senator Brown is bending his energies.

MR. R. E. SLICER WILL BE SCHOOL COMMISSIONER

Appointed By Governor Goldsborough to Succeed Mr. C. E. Ellithorp.

MR. R. E. SLIGER.

Last Friday afternoon Governor Goldsborough submitted the name of Mr. R. E. Sliger to the Senate for confirmation as a member of the Garrett county School Board, succeeding Mr. Chauncey E. Ellithorp, of Bittinger whose term as Commissioner will expire on May 1st next.

Mr. Sliger is cashier of the First National bank of Oakland and is well qualified from a business as well as a scholastic point of view to successfully administer the duties imposed upon him as a public servant.

This appointment by the Governor meets with the hearty approval of a large majority of the people of the county.

Mrs. Edward Swartz, of York, Pa., arrived in Oakland last Thursday afternoon to visit her parents, Rev. and Mrs. Edmund Manges prior to their removal from Oakland to York, for which point they expect to take their departure on Monday of next week. Mr. Manges preached his farewell sermon to the local congregation in Oakland last Sunday evening, closing a pastorate of ten years and eleven months, during which time he received into the Oakland church more than a hundred and thirty new members. With the close of his pastorate in Oakland Mr. Manges retires from the active ministry after a service of nearly a half a century, during which time he had charges in Pennsylvania and Maryland.

Oakland High School Notes.

In the words of one of the teachers, Monday was a rich day for our school. As was announced, we honored Lincoln and Washington in a joint celeoration of their birth, the forenoon being devoted to the former, and the afternoon to the latter. Mr. F. A. Thayer delivered the address of the morning to a highly interested and attentive audience, and in addition to this, Ross Isenberg played two piano solos, and Frederick Thayer recited Lincoln's Gettysburg Address.

When the time came for the afternoon exercises, a large crowd gathered, the entire audience packing the Assembly Room to its fullest capacity. Mr. J. E. Harned addressed the school on the subject of Washington, illustrating his lecture with beautiful colored lantern slides. The orchestra of the Methodist Sunday School was present, and played some excellent selections, in addition to which Ada Glotfelty played a piano solo. The school sang several numbers both in the morning and the afternoon.

We wish to heartily thank Messrs. Harned and Thayer for their excellent lectures, and the orchestra for its splendid music.

For the school month of February, the following students have made not less than 80 per cent. in each subject studied and not less than 95 per cent. in conduct: Freshman, Mildred Dixon, Marie Finzel, Mary Garrett, Carrie Mann, Lloyd Casteel, Otis Harris, Felix Robinson; Sophomores, Mabel Falkenstein, Louise Harned, Bertha Miller, Carrie Thrasher, Mildred Thrasher, Edward Lewis, Donald Maffett; Junior, Dottie Doman, Frederick Thayer, Evelyn Helbig, Grace Laffey, Russell Cuppett, Delbert Davis, Harold Dawson, Robert Garrett, Ross Isenberg, George Queer, Senior, Guy Ashby, Bernard Faherty, Percy Thayer, Robert White, Rhoda Welch.

This world is full of sorrow,
But it's full of sunshine, too.
If you want to have a real good laugh.
Here's all you have to do.
Look up the Friendsville High School Notes,
In last week's Democrat.
And read a poem written there
Then laugh and grow real fat

It says that Friendsville has the best
High scoool in this good state.
And yet they wouldn't even try.
When we asked them to debate
It says, in basket ball they've ne'er
Been Whipped by us. We fear
That all the team has left their school.
That we licked twice last year

Their athletes are not quite the best
That Maryland can produce;
And speakers in their "finest" school
Do not seem so profuse.
Their school may be the best around.
But Oakland doesn't know it
Unless they base their statements on
The merits of their poet.

MARYLAND LEGISLATURE

Wants Fish Protected.

To protect the fish in the Potomac River and its tributaries, Allegany county, between Dam No. 7, at Cumberland, and the western limits of the county, Senator Zihlman introduced a bill which prohibits the catching of fish in these waters by net, hook and line or any other instrument between now and June, 1916. After June 1, 1916, it shall not be lawful for any person to catch or kill any black bass, green bass, pike or pickerel or wall-eyed pike or salmon between the fifteenth day of April and the first of June of each year, nor catch or kill any of said species of fish at any other time during the year save only with rod, hook and line and dip-net.

Would Stop Tangoing.

Mr. Snowden, of Montgomery county, introduced, by request, a bill prohibiting the wearing of high heeled shoes by women and children, "split" skirts and the tango, bunny hug, turkey trot and other dances. The bill was read in full amid roars of laughter. Mr. Cummings suggested that it be referred to the Wicomico county delegation. Mr. Waters thought that the Committee on Expiring Laws could handle the subject. The speaker said he was at a loss whether to refer it to the Committee on Game and Fish or the Committee on Internal Improvement. He selected the latter.

Increases Their Pay.

Senator Watkins introduced a bill which increases the salaries of the officials and employes in the public buildings at Annapolis, as follows: Superintendent, from $1,200 to $1,500; assistant, from $900 to $1,200; keeper at Governor's mansion, from $840 to $1,000; three day watchmen, from $720 to $900; three night watchmen, from $720 to $900; carpenter, from $720 to $900; four janitors, from $600 to $720; chief engineer and electrician, from $1,000 to $1,200; two firemen, from $720 to $900; two coal passers, from $480 to $600.

Defines a Club.

Mr Hoffman introduced a bill in the House to define a club in Washington county and to set forth the character of clubs which may sell liquor. The bill is designed to meet conditions which have arisen in the county because of organization of mushroom clubs, which were haled before the court and punished. Mr. Hoffman's bill defines as a legitimate club one owning real estate to the value of $5,000 or a branch of a national club owning a like sum in real estate. The latter clause protects the Elks, Eagles and similar organizations.

Pistol-Toting Bill.

To make clearer the law prohibiting the carrying of concealed weapons, Senator Harper introduced a bill which so amends the act as to relieve the prosecution from the requirement of proving the negative, and put this on the defendant. It also gives to all justices of the peace in the counties concurrent jurisdiction in all such cases.

Osteopaths Want License Board.

A number of osteopaths with their counsel, Lawrence J. McCormick, appeared before the Senate Judiciary Committee in support of the bill introduced by Senator Maloy providing for a State board which shall issue licenses to those desiring to practice osteopathy. Dr. Harrison McMains was the chief speaker.

Another Compensation Bill.

Another bill providing for the compensation of workingmen, introduced by Mr. Waters, appeared in the House. It was prepared in great part by Senator Archer, of Harford county, who has combined the best features of the federal act and the acts of Massachusetts and other States, which, after experience, have been found to work satisfactorily.

Wants Fairs Licensed.

Mr. Dement introduced a bill in the House to license all entertainments, fairs, etc., in Charles county. Church and fraternity fairs are exempted. One object of the bill is to enable the county authorities to have control of the fairs and entertainments with a view to their regulation.

Tax Exemption Bill Favored.

The bill exempting from state taxation all securities issued by the counties and Baltimore city, which has already passed the House, was reported favorably by the Finance Committee. The report was unanimous. There is little doubt of its passage.

Raises Druggists' Licenses.

Mr. Bouse offered in the House a bill to increase from $250 to $1,000 the license of wholesale druggists and drug firms. This license as provided in the new bill is the same as that for saloons and hotels.

BRITISH SUBJECT IS SHOT TO DEATH

Another Serious Crisis in the Mexican Situation.

WASHINGTON IS STIRRED.

British Ambassador Sees Him About the Former Bandit Rebel Leader's Act and President Wilson and Cabinet Discuss It.

Washington.—A slumbering Mexican situation was brought quickly to a point of intense international interest by the flash of a message stating that William L. Benton, a British subject, had been killed in Juarez by order of Gen. Francisco Villa, the constitutionalist commander.

Sir Cecil Spring Rice, the British ambassador, conferred with Secretary Bryan about it, President Wilson and his Cabinet discussed it briefly, and a thorough investigation was ordered by the State Department from consular reports on the border.

In this case, for the first time since the present revolution began, a year ago, the general warning from the United States government to Mexican factions to protect all foreigners went unheeded, though there is every evidence to show that both the British Ambassador and the State Department were advised too late of Benton's impending fate to intercede specifically for him. The news shocked officials generally, who had come to believe that General Villa fully realized the position of the American government in regard to the protection of foreigners in Mexico, particularly in the north of that country.

"I haven't sufficient facts on which to base an opinion," said Secretary Bryan. "Until I have the department will express no opinion."

This was the official view of the situation with messages passing back and forth between the State Department and Consul Edwards, and his temporary assistant, G. C. Carrothers, consular representative at Torreon. Only a few details were announced by the State Department that Benton had been executed after a military trial. A copy of the sentence of the court, setting forth the evidence in the case, was promised the American consular representatives. Mr. Bryan said a full report of the affair was on its way by mail from Consul Edwards, to whom General Villa had personally explained the incident.

The killing of a British subject under circumstances such as dispatches from the border portrayed caused a stir in diplomatic circles. Those familiar with the aggressive attitude Great Britain assumes in pressing for reparation when her subjects have been wronged were inclined to foresee interesting developments impending.

W. VA. FACES DEFICIT.

State Will Not Be Represented At Panama Exposition.

Charleston, W. Va.—Governor Henry D. Hatfield, in a statement, declared that the reason the $75,000 appropriated for a West Virginia building at the Panama-Pacific Exposition, at San Francisco, is not available is because of the deficit facing the State treasury. Should all appropriations be paid, West Virginia's treasury will have a deficit of more than $1,200,000 in 1917. The Governor says the Paint Creek strike cost $500,000, and that prohibition will result in a decrease in State revenues of more than $512,000 annually.

AROUSED BY FIRE; SHOT.

Farmer Mysteriously Killed and Relatives Wounded.

Barboursville, Ky.—Aroused by hearing the crackling of a fire that was destroying his barn, Henry A. Fultz, a farmer, living near here, rushed out of his home accompanied by his family, only to be met with a volley of bullets that killed Fultz instantly and injured several of the others. The members of the dead man's family are mystified and unable to understand the reason for the killing or the fire.

ROOSTER AS ALARM CLOCK.

Bird, Kept In Bedroom, Better Than Machine.

Bridgeport, Con:—The board of health ordered Hyman Slavan, of this city, to dispose of a rooster and three chickens which were found domiciled in the family bedroom. Slavan's excuse to the authorities was that his alarm clock was out of order, and that he found the crowing of the rooster more dependable to awake his wife at an early hour so the breakfast for three schoolchildren might be prepared.

BOBSLED INJURES TWENTY.

Plunges Off Curve and Dashes Into Big Crowd.

Atlantic Highlands, N. J.—At the annual winter carnival held here a bobsled racing with a toboggan ran off a dangerous curve and dashed into a crowd of 300 spectators. Twenty persons were injured. Joseph Phillips, a boy of 12, may die.

"PEN" WARDEN FOR SENATE.

Three Others After Election In Kansas.

Lansing, Kan.—Jeremiah D. Botkin, warden of the Kansas State Penitentiary here, announced his candidacy for the United States Senate on the Democratic ticket. There are four candidates for the position held by Senator Joseph L. Bristow. The Senator seeks re-election, and Charles Curtis, former senator, is contesting with him for the Republican nomination at the primaries next August.

EUROPE BEHIND GREAT BRITAIN

Holds Toll Exemption Violates Treaty, Says President.

OTHER REASONS FOR REPEAL

Of Such Grave Effect Upon International Relations They Cannot Be Divulged, Is Intimation.

Washington. — President Wilson took the newspaper correspondents a little further into his confidence concerning the international aspects of the free tolls controversy when he declared it to be his belief that all Europe stood with Great Britain in regard to the exemption clause of the Panama Canal act as a violation of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty.

The President was careful to explain, however, that he did not base his opinion on any official protests which these other nations have lodged against the clause, for, he declared, Great Britain was the only country to file a protest. At the same time, he said, information had come to him showing clearly how the other governments regarded the matter.

It also leaked out that the President has given his callers within the last few days a reason of greater importance than any heretofore disclosed by visitors willing to talk why repeal should be enacted. It appears that this reason has to do with American foreign relations, but the exact nature of the matter is being kept a profound secret.

The further fact became known that the President's friends look to Representative Claude Kitchen, of North Carolina, the heir apparent to the majority leadership, to head the fight for repeal. They want to make a test of his strength. Representative Underwood will probably sit through this fight and content himself with a negative vote.

Thinks Repeal Will Pass.

President Wilson is firmly of the opinion, following additional conferences which he had during the day with leaders in Congress, that he can get the repeal measure through at the present session of Congress. He told correspondents that at the proper time the Repeal bill would be pushed to the front and passed. By proper time, he explained, he meant that it would be taken up as soon as the leaders in both houses could shape the legislative program so as to admit of consideration of repeal.

Although efforts have been made by some of the House and Senate leaders to postpone action until the short session, beginning next December, in order that a break with the President might not occur before the Congressional and Senatorial elections next fall, the President took the position that a settlement of the question before that time was necessary from the fact that ships will be passing through the waterway before the short sessions begins.

YOUTHFUL BRIDE BURGLAR.

Mrs. Anschott, 17, In Boy's Clothes, Aided Husband, 19.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—According to the police, Mrs. Elmer Anschott, 17, confessed to them that she had taken part in many burglaries for which her husband, who is 19 years old, was arrested and held for court. Dressed as a boy, her hair cut short, she stood guard outside the houses he robbed, with a revolver hidden under her coat, they say.

NINETEEN HURT IN CRASH.

Street Car Runs Into B. & O. Engine Near Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, Pa. — Nineteen passengers were injured when a street railway car ran into the side of a light engine of the Baltimore and Ohio at Second avenue, Hazelwood. Mrs. Jessie Peipler, of Munhall, Pa., was internally hurt; the others but slightly.

LEAPS FROM 75-FOOT BRIDGE.

Clarksburg Woman Jumps Into Creek To Avoid Electric Car.

Clarksburg, W. Va.—Mrs. Carrie Thorn, 26 years old, jumped from the Monongahela Valley Company bridge 75 feet into waters of Elk creek to escape being run down by an interurban car. A man nearby saw her jump and waded in just in time to save her from drowning. Both ankles were broken and internal injuries were received, but physicians have hopes of her recovery.

U. S. TROOPS GET CASTILLO

Mexican Bandit Captured on the American Side.

SIX OF HIS MEN SURRENDER

Should the American Officers Do So, He Will Certainly Be Executed For Setting Fire To the Cumbre Tunnel.

Alpasa, Texas.—Maximo Castillo, the Mexican bandit, charged with responsibility for the Cumbre tunnel disaster, in which ten Americans and 41 others lost their lives, was captured 38 miles south of Hachita, N. M., by American troops.

The information was conveyed to Gen. Hugh L. Scott, commandant at Fort Bliss, in an official telegram from Captain White, Ninth United States Cavalry.

With the bandit were six of his followers. According to Captain White's brief dispatch, they surrendered without a fight. They will be brought here.

Castillo, to avoid a range of mountains on the Mexican side, made a detour which brought him into American territory. Captain White was on the watch, having received information from Walter McCormick, American manager of Las Palomas ranch, on the Mexican side, that the much-wanted man was in the vicinity.

Captain White telegraphed by Army wireless to General Scott for instructions, and was ordered to arrest the bandit should he put foot on American soil.

Whether the prisoner shall be surrendered to the rebels is a legal question which remains to be settled. If this is done there is no doubt that he will be executed for the Cumbre disaster. He is not charged with any crime on this side.

Castillo set fire to a freight train in the Cumbre Tunnel two weeks ago. The cars were burning when a passenger train crashed into it and every life aboard was lost. The tunnel is still burning.

A special to the Times from Hachita, N. M., says that the capture was made by Lieutenant Rothwell, of Troop A, and remarks that it was particularly gratifying as coming on the heels of the theft of 18 horses belonging to the regiment by Mexicans on Sunday. The special continues:

"Captain White will ask that Castillo and Capt. Emilio Garcia, a member of the band previously captured, be transported immediately to El Paso, as the number of soldiers on duty here is limited."

Previous reports of Castillo's capture, made to General Villa, proved untrue. The latter expressed his gratification at the capture. General Scott was no less jubilant.

GLOVES FOR COOKS.

Prof. Chantemousse's Idea Of Way To Get Clean Food.

Paris.—That cooks should wear kid gloves when preparing food is the recommendation of Professor Chantemousse in a report to the Academy of Medicine on the poisoning of a wedding party at Cholet by a mysterious bacillus which the Professor discovered in cream cake. In order to avoid such tragedies, which are frequent, the doctor says, cooks should use absolutely clean dishes when boiling milk and before donning the gloves for cooking they should scrub their hands.

RAILROAD FINED $402,000.

The L. & N. Also Enjoined From Doing Business In Mississippi.

Gulfport, Miss.—The Louisville and Nashville Railroad was fined $402,000, and enjoined from doing intra state business in Mississippi, by a decision in chancery court here, based on the charge that the railroad company had failed to obey an order of the Mississippi Railroad Commission to the effect that Louisville and Nashville trains should stop at Bay St. Louis

MRS. Z. SEGUIN-WALLACE DEAD.

Created Title Role Of Carmen In America.

Indianapolis, Ind. — Mrs. Zelda Seguin-Wallace, at one time a well-known opera and concert singer, died at her home here. She was 65 years old. Mrs. Seguin-Wallace created the title role in "Carmen" in America and acquired fame as the Gypsy Queen in "The Bohemian Girl." She was the widow of David Wallace, who was a brother of Gen. Lew Wallace, of Indiana.

FOUND NOTHING BUT PROSPERITY

Secretaries McAdoo and Houston Return From Tour.

THE CURRENCY BILL PASSED.

Cabinet Officers Issue Statement As Federal Reserve Bank Organization Committee Telling Of Their Trip Around Country.

Washington.—The federal reserve bank organization committee, back in Washington after a five weeks' trip through the country, in a statement announced that its selection of federal reserve cities and definition of reserve districts would not be made until careful consideration had been given the information accumulated on the trip. The statement said the committee Secretaries McAdoo and Houston, found the country prosperous and learned that bankers and business men are greatly interested in the new banking system and confident of its success.

In a supplemental statement Mr. McAdoo declared that he hoped the new system would be established in time to take care of crop moving contingencies next year, but that if it were not, the Treasury Department would stand ready to place its funds again at the disposal of business men.

The committee's statement:

"We have spent practically from the 4th of January to the present time in hearing the views of business men and bankers on the problem of dividing the country into not less than eight, nor more than 12, districts and of locating in each district the main office of a federal reserve bank. Of the two questions, the division of the country into districts is the more important and difficult. The committee asked those who appeared before it to direct their attention to these two problems and to furnish all possible information.

Go To Great Trouble.

"A great many able and impartial business men and bankers have submitted their best information and opinions and always in a spirit of great fairness. In preparing their information many of them had gone to the extent of presenting maps showing not only the districts they were interested in, but also the districts for all the nation. The committee has held hearings in 18 cities and has heard from every community of consequence in the sections of the country that it has visited. It has secured a vast deal of information on the movements of trade, as well as on the currents of banking.

"In every section of the country the committee has found a practically unanimous conviction among bankers and business men that the currency bill will bring about most beneficial changes in the business of the country; in fact, the committee heard no one speak who did not say that the measure was a great step in advance. The committee was presented everywhere with overwhelming evidence of the enormous economic strength of the country, and of the rapid progress of every section. The fact that the nation's banking resources, as a whole, make enormous advances every twelve or fifteen years, approximately doubling in each such period, was made evident; while this is true of the country, as a whole, it was shown that certain sections are advancing with more rapid strides than others, and that the country is fundamentally exceptionally sound and strong economically. The facts and figures submitted to the committee in every part of the country show amazing growth and strength and disclose a condition of financial, industrial, commercial and agricultural soundness and prosperity that leaves no doubt as to the future."

K. OF P. GOLDEN JUBILEE.

President Wilson and Secretary Bryan Address Convention.

Washington. Welcomed by President Wilson and praised by Secretary Bryan as "one of the greatest influences operating in the world to hasten the coming of the universal brotherhood," the Supreme Council, Knights of Pythias, began its annual convention here, with delegates attending from every state and province of the North American continent. Celebration of the order's golden jubilee marked the opening sessions, and in the convention hall here and in nearly 8,000 lodgerooms, scattered throughout the United States and Canada, commemorative services were held.

NOT SQUANDERING MONEY.

American Farmer Borrows For a Useful Purpose.

Washington.—The American farmer is not squandering his money on frills and furbelows, Dr. John T. Coulter told the joint Congressional Rural Credits Committee. "The farmers of this country need a rural credit system," said Dr. Coulter. "They will not run to extravagance if money is made cheaper for them. The American farmers borrow money, according to my investigations, for good and useful purposes."

HAS NO USE FOR BACHELORS.

Daniels Detaches Lieut. Knauss So He Can Marry.

Washington.—"Bachelors encumber the earth," remarked Secretary Daniels when he ordered Lieut. Harrison E. Knauss detached from the Presidential yacht Mayflower so he could be married. The Mayflower is going to Mexican waters. "I am in favor of matrimony for all naval officers," said the Secretary, "and I shall do all in my power to help such a good cause along."

COMMERCIAL

Weekly Review of Trade and Market Reports.

Dun's Review says:

"Weather conditions were an important factor in the business situation this week. Recent storms impeded railroad traffic and retarded the distribution of merchandise yet certain lines of trade benefited by the heavy snowfall and zero temperature. There was a notable increase in the movement of footwear and heavy-weight apparel, while fuel was in greater demand. Sentiment in commercial and industrial channels remains optimistic and evidences of improving conditions accumulate.

"Failures numbered 386 in the United States against 334 last year, and 59 in Canada, compared with 27 a year ago."

Bradstreet's says:

"Optimism as to the future is unimpaired, industrial operations are expanding at an encouraging rate, the gain of production in several leading lines having been considerably speeded up, high-grade bonds continue to receive a good reception from investors, retail trade in winter apparel has been stimulated by heavy snowstorms and zero weather, the coal trade has been benefited and fall-sown wheat, apparently uninjured thus far is in excellent condition and gives promise to an enormous yield if it goes to maturity without further untoward developments. On the other hand, inclement weather, particularly in the East, has impeded shipments and stiffened prices of some commodities."

"YOUR hat, if you please, madam; we must have that aigrette." Such is the startling demand made by the United States customs officials of unwary lady passengers disembarking at New York nowadays. Deeds, not words, at last! And effective deeds, too, they promise to be. If by other legislatures will follow the example thus set by America, and ban the importation of birds' feathers. True, for long there have been protective measures formulated to reduce the wholesale slaughter of wild birds, but their inadequacy is common knowledge. The case, in its practical aspect, is almost exactly parallel with that of the protection of birds' eggs. It is useless to strike at the agent or collector; so long as the demand exists a supply will be forthcoming—check one collector and another takes his place; throttle the demand and, de causa, every collector at once gives up the quest. So long as the importation or exportation of these feathers remained only on a large basis, while the individual consumer was allowed to pass unchallenged, so long means be found to smuggle through the plumes. At last, however, it seems that a blow is being aimed in the right direction, and now, when the attention of the fair sex is thus focussed upon the subject, it is an opportune time once more to place before them another aspect of the case, an aspect that should appeal to womanly nature more forcefully than legislation—the base and wanton cruelty attendant on this feather traffic.

I have always thought, and still believe, that it is only thoughtlessness or ignorance that allows the wearing of the aigrette. A woman worthy of the name simply cannot know the history of the plumes she wears and, at the same time, approve of the manner in which they were obtained. If she could but once see an egret nursery in all its beauty, its countless forms of wondrous grace, each busily engaged in some maternal task and each seeming unconsciously to vie with another in the elegance of pose and action, she could not, longer tolerate the ruthless destruction of these lovely birds. But alas! how few women will ever see a living egret, much less an egret's nursery! However, it is hoped that if the accompanying illustrations are looked at sympathetically, they will, perhaps, see some of the grace and beauty that are present in the living scene.

The exact locality of this bird paradise had better not be named; South Europe will be definite enough! Here, hidden away amid a rolling waste of sand and scrub, the little tarn, which bears the colony, lies sparkling like a jewel in the sun. Out of its still waters grow gnarled and twisted tamarisk bushes, whose dark green foliage, as we draw near, is seen to be thickly spangled over with a host of snowy birds.

Every branch and twig has got its load of graceful forms, the birds looking from a distance like a dainty white inflorescence on the trees. Then suddenly, as we canter down the shore, the colony takes wing and tumult reigns. But what a tumult! Nothing rough or discordant, no semblance to a mob; rather is it the incarnation of the fairiest of fairy scenes, the scattering of Titania's revelers. The bushes seem as if by magic to pour forth an endless stream of graceful life, and soon the sky it filled with a multitude of snowy drifting forms. Round and round they circle above the nursery trees, now deftly poised upon fast-quivering wings, now riding easily along with widespread pinions—so they drift in endless streams, each one seeming, as it floats by, more elegant and lovely than the last. Gradually the pace is slackened, slowly and still more slowly the birds glide past, till presently more alight. Soon they are settling down on every side, to sit swaying on the delicate tracery of the tamarisk boughs, their snowy plumage glistening in the sunlight. Then the colony regains composure and we see on every side the lovely aigrette—perhaps the most exquisite ornament displayed by any bird—displayed in all its living beauty, displayed as Nature meant it to be shown. And what a lovely show it is! As mate meets mate, the lovely train of plumes of each is raised and spread in greeting to hover like a cloud of frosted gossamer above the back, scintillating as the feathers shake and tremble with life's passion.

As yet these birds have learnt no fear of man; they crowd the branches all around us, quietly returning to brood upon their nests not 20 yards from where we stand. To shoot them down would be almost as easy as to dispatch a farmyard roost. Fortunate indeed it is that this colony is naturally protected by a great encircling belt of utter wilderness, trackless and almost untrodden save by the few keepers who guard its big game on the sportsman's behalf. Here the birds have—of late, at least—been left to breed in peace. No plume hunter has dared to penetrate their sanctuary; but one shudders to contemplate the day, which one hopes may never dawn, when, through lax control by the overlord the plumassiers shall at last break through and steal. It is unnecessary, I think, to draw a picture of the awful slaughter of that day; the piles of mutilated bodies with the wings torn off; the hapless young ones left to starve miserably to death. Such are the incidents common to the pillage of any egret nursery, and those who wish to read of them may do so in the pamphlets of the Royal Society for the Protection of Birds.? Suffice it here that the surest, indeed, the only, way to obviate such scenes of slaughter is for women to cease to decorate themselves with aigrettes.

STRIKES IN ODD WAYS

VAGARIES OF CYCLONE ARE INCOMPREHENSIBLE.

Reports of Their Action Read Like the Work of Imaginative Writers of Fiction, Though They Carry Only Actual Truth.

Cyclones of the sort that recently devastated the colliery valleys of South Wales are very rare in this country, says Pearson's Weekly. This particular storm, the fiercest ever known in Britain, carried a man nearly a quarter of a mile through the air before dashing him down to death. It threw tombstones about, hurled shop goods into the street and took the roofs off hundreds of houses.

Cyclones as a rule occur only in hot countries. Their fierceness is due to a sort of a hole in the atmosphere. The air all around rushes in with tremendous force to fill up this hole. So a cyclone is really a sort of a cartwheel of winds, fierce gales blowing along each spoke toward the hub, which is called the "eye" of the cyclone.

In a cyclone the "cartwheel" is much smaller than in an ordinary storm, and the winds are correspondingly fiercer. There are authentic instances of cyclones driving flying nails into trees and planks right up to the head. Straws, too, have been driven half through stout doors.

A very curious thing about cyclones is that a house caught in the eye of one has its doors and windows burst outward not in. This was noticed in Wales, and accounts for the contents of shops being hurled into the street.

The reason is that the eye of a tornado being empty of air, the pressure of air within a closed house against the empty space outside makes the house burst outward as if it contained a charge of dynamite. Air everywhere has a pressure of fourteen pounds to the square inch.

It is this suction that makes a cyclone draw corks from any empty bottles it finds in its path.

Any one caught in a cyclone often finds that dust or mud is driven into his clothes under such pressure that repeated washings refuse to remove it.

The tremendous lifting power at the eye of a cyclone is shown not only by its hurling men and even sheds into the air, but by the curious fact that it usually leaves every well in its path quite dry. It is this upward suction that accounts for waterspouts at sea.

In countries where cyclones are common every house has a "cyclone cellar" close at hand for use when a cyclone is on its way.

The only good point about a cyclone as compared with an ordinary storm is that the track along which it travels is always a very narrow one. Its path is seldom more than 200 or 300 yards broad. On each side of the track where a cyclone is spreading death and destruction the weather is often quite average.

Women in the Trades.

Has any one ever seen a woman plumber? There are not many persons who could reply in the affirmative, but according to the report of the census of England and Wales relating to occupations and industries, there are 86 women who ply the calling of plumber. Of these 77 are widows. The same blue book, which has just been issued, shows that women have succeeded in establishing themselves in a number of industries where their presence is unexpected. There are 70 women paperhangers and whitewashers, four bricklayers, all of them women, but only one woman coachman. Three women appear under the heading of "clergymen, priests and ministers," and four are coal heavers. There are 347 car men and wagoners and 231 women blacksmiths and "strikers." Only one woman occupies herself with making patent fuel, only three women are shipwrights, five women are "tramway car makers," and finally, England and Wales can boast of 56 women carpenters and joiners and 14 women masons.

Electrifying Terminals.

An investigating committee, financed by the railroads themselves, is said to have drawn up a report in favor of electrifying all passenger lines within the city of Chicago, including those devoted to suburban service. Such a report should end all controversy on this long-discussed matter, and usher in the era of action. The city council should provide for prompt electrification in any terminal ordinance that may be passed, and the executive branch of city government must see to it that such provision is enforced. This will make a beginning, and only a beginning, in the work of clearing smoke and soot out of Chicago's atmosphere. Railroads are not the only offenders in this regard, though of necessity they are the most conspicuous ones.—Chicago Journal.

Largest Flower.

The largest flower in the world grows on the island of Mindanao. Its habitat is far up the Parag mountain, 2,500 feet above the level of the sea. The natives give it the name of Bolo. Its full-blown blossom, five-petaled, is over three feet in diameter, and weighs 22 pounds. The flower was first found in Sumatra and was called Rafflesia Schadenburgia, in honor of its discoverer (whoever he was).

Germans in Mexico.

There are between 5,000 and 6,000 Germans in Mexico. They are prominent as promoters of electrical industry, and they lead in the brewery business. There are large German breweries in Monterey, Toluca and Orizaba, while in the state of Oaxaca half of the coffee crop is in the hands of the Germans. They have suffered small loss by reason of the revolution.

Jet-Trimmed Hats for Early Wear

THE great variety in hats made of jet combined with other materials, gives reason to think that the jet-trimmed hat is destined to usher in the spring and remain throughout the summer. Already hats made of jet and maline, or jet and lace, with a touch of velvet in their composition, have appeared, and, while appropriate for present wear, they are airy enough for summer. The jet hat does not belong to one season but to all of them. It is a good investment in millinery.

Many of the new hats are quite high. The shapes themselves are moderate in height, but the trimming gives the effect of very high crowns. This phase of the new styles is liked for the combination of jet with maline or lace. Two hats of this kind are shown here, both of the prettiest of the latest models.

In one of them a turban shape is developed with a band of jet covering the brim and a soft puffed crown of maline. Over and around this crown there is a standing ruffle of maline (doubled) supported by fine wires. No other trimming is used. Such a hat is useful at any season. Thanks to the recent discoveries of manufacturers, the maline is not as fragile as it looks. It has been made waterproof. The jet is one of the few millinery materials that have lasting qualities.

The model of jet and lace is also a turban shape. It is somewhat elongated and has a soft crown of silk and maline. Handsome black Chantilly lace is wired to stand up about the crown. It is slashed at each side and outlined near the edge with a line of jet spangles. A beautiful coronet of jet extends about the brim, rising to a point at the front. Small bows of black velvet ribbon are poised at each side. Little bouquets are often placed in this position, instead of bows. They are made of little, fine flowers or little fruits.

Quite the reverse of high, one of the small close-fitting caps of straw braid is shown with a band of jet about the edge. Nothing could be simpler in shape. It is trimmed with jet ornaments, one at each side, consisting of a flat cabochon into which a spike of jet is apparently thrust. In spite of its simple shape and construction, this model is smart and almost startlingly novel.

There is no doubting the favor with which these hats of jet have been received by those who are the first to buy spring millinery. They will be worn during the whole season, but, as no one is content to own but one hat, after holding the center of the stage for a while, they will be relegated to second place, with flower and ribbon-trimmed millinery taking precedence.

A black hat should always be among the belongings of the well-dressed woman, for there are times when it is needed and nothing else will do quite as well.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY

MAKE THEIR OWN LIGHT

Among the most remarkable of all natures phenomena is the marvelous light-giving power of many of our common plants and animals, observes the New York American.

Under certain conditions nasturtiums, sunflowers, dahlias, tuberoses and yellow lilies may be seen to glow with a soft radiance, varying in color and intensity. Only those flowers that have an abundance of yellow or orange shades exhibit this phosphorescence. The best time to see the light is after dark, but often intermittent and flashing.

Often in the early fall the ground will be illuminated by the glow from the dead leaves. The Australian poppy is the most remarkable of all the luminous plants, for it has been found to send out a light of its own of quite noted brilliancy.

Mushrooms growing on decayed wood often have a degree of brilliancy that, when they are placed on a newspaper, will enable one to read the words in their vicinity with no other light. One species of mushrooms in Australia, 16 inches in diameter, was of such brilliancy that, seen from a distance, its light frightened the natives.

More interesting than the luminous plants are the luminous animals. The Pacific coast, famous for its many curious specimens of plant and animal life, is the home of many of them.

Among these, the ascidians are most noteworthy. Of them, the pyrosoma, was seen first as a mass as big as a bucket. When captured it was found to be a foot long and open at one end, at which there was a faint light. When touched the light once blazed forth into a vivid silver phosphorescence. One of the animals kept in a dark room furnished enough light for the reading of fine sized print.

The creatures are of almost indescribable beauty and by their radiance when moving about under water near by fish can be discerned. Bibra, the British naturalist, utilized the animals for light, and a half dozen of them at one side of a small room would furnish sufficient light for the reading of a newspaper at the other side.

Crabs are notable light givers, and the Salpa of California is the most wonderful of all. Bodies of water 20 miles square have been seen glowing with them, and in the Santa Catalina channel one naturalist reported that as far as the eye could see the creatures lay gleaming like gems in the sunlight.

Many luminous frogs have been discovered from time to time, and any frog may be made luminous by inoculating it with certain bacteria which produce this phenomenon.

Many theories have been brought forward to explain the phenomenon of luminosity, but as yet very little is known about. In many instances, such as the cases of dead leaves or decayed wood, luminosity is evidently due to fungous growth, but in other cases, where no growth can be seen, the riddle remains unsolved along with many other marvels of nature.

WHEN SONNY COMES HOME

An Atchison family has been talking ever since last September of the joy the members would experience when a son who was away at college came home for the holidays, says the Globe of that town. In the months he was gone his room was refurnished.

His mother and sisters began weeks before the holidays to make out menus for the breakfasts, luncheons and dinners during the happy time when he would be home for the holidays.

The day of his arrival he was whirled home in the family automobile and welcomed by the women folks in the family in their very best clothes. The dinner, composed of his favorite dishes, was served at once. He grandly sat down to the table and raved over the elegant things he had to eat in eastern restaurants and the dining cars.

He was taken to his room, but failed to observe that a hardwood floor, new rugs and new furniture and draperies had replaced the old. He was called to the telephone. Some of the boys wanted him to meet them somewhere. He promised and went. After that the boys and girls kept him busy.

Mother and the girls packed the dainties in baskets and sent the baskets to the poor; they were not hungry, and the family idol did not eat at home. Every once in a while his room looked as though a cyclone had struck it, he had come home to dress to go somewhere.

Yesterday mother and the girls received a hasty peck on their cheeks, and in a minute the family automobile had whirled the family idol to the train. He had spent about 15 minutes of his vacation in the household where he was so worshiped. His next vacation will come in the early summer, but he will need his overcoat in that house; there is a movement on foot to freeze the family idol.

VESTS AND GIRDLES FOR ELABORATING THE COAT SUIT

IN ORDER to change the appearance of your dressy coat suit, or for the sake of elaborating your toilette upon occasions that demand it the separate vest is a thing of beauty and a source of comfort. It is made of the handsomest and most brilliant of fabrics; bits of rich, highly colored brocades, gold embroidered satins, and ribbons which cost more than their weight in gold. But the little vest is small and takes only a short length to make it. It is a touch of gorgeousness meant to brighten up and lend lustre to the quiet garb.

If one owns a coat suit of a good velveteen or satin or any other of the popular suit fabrics, the separate vest and girdle will tone it up to fit the most exacting of occasions. For the afternoon tea dance, the matinee, the formal call, the club reception, in fact, for functions to which one wears a hat, the little brilliant vest and the smart girdle make the suit impressive.

It is a happy idea to have a bit of the same coloring in the hat worn with these chic accessories. The small black velvet hat has made opportunities for the addition of trimming to harmonize with colors worn in the costume. Crowns covered smoothly with the same rich and showy fabrics that are used for making vests, will be found effective.

The small waistcoats are embellished with handsome cut steel, jet or rhinestone buttons. Jet and rhinestone combined are in great favor just now. They are the last word in the matter of brilliance and look well on any color or mixture of colors.

Besides the little vest there is the girdle of brilliant silk ribbon or piece goods, and the specially good wide velvet ribbon. Plaids and Roman stripes in such fascinative color combinations that one instantly falls in love with them, furnish many of the girdles. Brocades are liked, but to be worn at the same time as a brilliant vest, the girdle of plain velvet ribbon furnishes about the best choice.

These girdles appear to be adjusted loosely about the figure and extend somewhat below the waist line. But think not that this is easily or carelessly done. They are carefully placed, the wearer adjusting them in front of her mirror and pinning them with the smallest of tiny safety pins on the under side. The pins do not show, of course. The girdles, if of ribbon, are nearly always "crushed a bit. The effort these days is not to make the waist look "trim" and small, but to suggest ease and freedom.

The effect of a handsome, harmonious girdle in toning up a gown can hardly be overestimated. "That girdle makes the gown" is a comment one is apt to hear when a successful girdle lifts an ordinary gown to its own elegant level.

Gypsy-Like Coiffures.

Something of the gypsy must be in every woman—these strange new headdresses have attained such instant popularity.

For evening functions bits of bonnets of shirred velvet in shades of brique are bound about the head. These are edged with fur and trimmed with a single "flame" of scarlet paradise. Scarfs and muffs to match are used.

For evening affairs of a more elaborate character bands of tulle ornamented with great jewels are worn around the hair. If it is an opera, milady removes the band and uses a "flame" of paradise, up one side of the coiffure, with a real or an imitation jewel attached to the tip of the feather. This bends the paradise over, like a whip, and gives a new and pretty line, rather becoming in a coiffure.

Flower Powder Puffs.

Small wonder that the heart of the silk velvet rose or whatever fabric flower Madame Modish elects to adopt as a corsage ornament is of generous proportions. It needs must be capacious, for it holds a tiny ribbon-tied silken bag and within the bag is a powder puff—infinitesimal, to be sure.

"Oh, dear me!" said Miss Jones. "There's Willie's dear little dog, and Willie has gone home. The little fellow will get lost."

So Miss Jones called Mac in, attached a bit of string to his collar, and sallied forth in the rain, carefully leading the hero of many a rambling escapade, the tried veteran of the road.

"I was so afraid the little dog would get lost so far from home," explained Miss Jones to Willie's mamma.

Willie's mamma glanced at the canine Ulysses and gravely thanked Miss Jones. Mac wagged his tail and sat down to map out an excursion to Yonkers.—New York Times.

W. D. FORTNEY
OPTOMETRIST

IS Your Child Handicapped in his or her physical and mental development by defective vision? Out of 100,000 school children examined in New York city, nearly 30 per cent. were found to be in need of glasses. In Boston the percentage was found to be slightly over 20 per cent., and most of these children were down on the books as "stupid," "stubborn" or unruly. In Philadelphia 351 children were discovered who could not read ordinary writing on a blackboard at a distance of twenty feet. You should make sure by a thorough examination at the hands of a competent optometrist. That your child is not among this vast army of little citizens who suffer from defective eyesight, delays often result seriously. My examinations are made by the most scientific accurate methods. If it is found that glasses are not required you will be told so frankly and no charge made for the examination.

HUDSON Six-40
f.o.b. Detroit

The Most Talked-About Car in the Country

See This Innovation

A few days ago the first Six-40 was shipped from the HUDSON factory. Before this time the first month's output had been ordered by users who had not seen the car.

They were sold on these startling facts:

That the streamline body, the equipment, the new features were like the latest HUDSON Six-54, the handsomest car of the season.

That the weight would be under 3,000 pounds—under any comparable Four.

That the operative cost would be less than any equal-powered Four.

That the price would be $1750, f. o. b. Detroit—way below the price of Fours of equal power and size and class.

Think What This Means

Sixes have been high-priced, heavy, costly to operate. For that reason many have been forced to buy Fours.

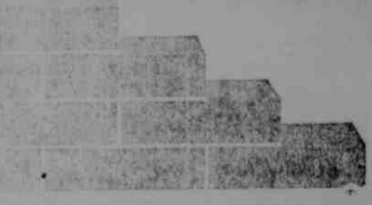
Now comes this Six-40. It weighs 500 pounds less than last year's HUDSON "37"—a Four. It costs one-fourth less to operate. And it far undersells any Four in its class.

You legions of men who seek lightness and economy find them now in this Six-40 beyond any Four you know.

A Distinguished Car

In addition, here is the new streamline body. Here are all the new features which characterize the new HUDSON Six-54.

Disappearing tonneau seats. Gasoline tank in cowl dash. Left side drive. Extra tires ahead of the front door.



Up to six months ago, no car at any price offered so many attractions.

And a car designed by Howard E. Coffin, the great HUDSON engineer. A car that embodies all the best HUDSON standards.

Our first Six-40 has just arrived. It is now on exhibition. Come, see it and ride in it while it is new. The car marks a new era in motor-car history, and all of you should know it.

BLOOMINGTON.

Mr. Martin Abernathy of Fredericksburg, Va., master mechanic for the Piedmont, Fredericksburg & Potomac Railroad, with headquarters in that city, spent the greater part of last week, visiting his mother, Mrs. Sarah Abernathy on the home near Windom.

Mr. Charles Rizer, a miner employed by the Bloomington Coal Co., was caught between the top of a loaded car and a low place in the roof of a heading and rolled the full length of the car sustaining painful bruises about the shoulders and chest.

Mr. Edward Mitter of Beryl, who has been quite ill at his home for the past six or eight weeks, left for Cumberland on Thursday last and has entered the Western Maryland Hospital for special treatment.

The Daughters of America are very well pleased with the financial success of their festival held in the Bloomington pool rooms on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings of last week.

Mrs. Sallie Matthews of Elkins, on her way home from a visit to her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Matthews of Brownsville, Pa., spent a few days of last week in town, with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Benton Harshbarger.

Mrs. John Rowland of Kitzmiller, who was a guest of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Tibbets of Hampshire, during the past returned home Saturday.

Mr. Charles Fazenbaker, a well known miner of the Davis Coal & Coke Company, residing at Beryl, was "blackjacked" on last Saturday night about half past ten o'clock on the main street of Westernport, over on Ward's moving picture theatre and the bridge connecting the two towns. He had been to the "movies" and was on his way home walking down on the right side of the street. He noticed three men standing in a car [illegible] the sidewalk and as he passed them he was struck in the rear by one of the parties, by what he terms a "blackjack." Charlie thinks the lick was intended for the back of his head, but the assailant miscalculated the distance as the weapon seemed to bend around his neck, the loaded end striking him under the left eye and on the cheek. He was confused at first by the blow but soon recovered himself and although he had nothing about him for [illegible] unconsciously reached his hand toward his hip pocket. This movement seemed to frighten the men and they ran up the street. Saturday was pay day at the Davis Coal and Coke Co.'s mines and Charlie thinks the gang intended to rob him of his money. His left eye and side of his face are contused and swollen considerably as the result of the affair.

Mr. James Welsh of Westernport, was a guest of friends in town on Sunday.

Rev. A. R. Snedegar of Curtis Bay, who officiated at the funeral of Mrs. Edward Warnick, on last Monday afternoon, returning to Baltimore on Saturday.

Mr. Hiram Riding, a veteran employe of the Masterer Coal Co., is the blue ribbon man of Hampshire. He is 67 years old and he and his wife are kept busy entertaining friends and shaking hands with their neighbors on account of the good luck that has just come to the happy pair. It is a first born and a girl at that.

Mr Thomas Swan of this place, who is employed by the Glade Run Coal & Coke Co., of Schell, as mine foreman, spent Sunday with his family in town.

Born unto Mr. and Mrs. William Virts of near Barnum, on last Tuesday morning, a girl.

Mr. Pat Murphy, of Mt. Lake Park, is in town visiting relatives.

Messrs. Herbert Price, Dorsey Pattison, Charles Sullivan, Scot Elliott, Jesse Harris and John Tompson all of Bloomington and members of the Order of the Owls, attended the funeral services of Mr. Howard Miller, a brother member, who was buried at Moscow on last Sunday afternoon.

Messrs. David Bevers and J. W. Markwood, both well known citizens of the town, are ill at their respective homes, threatened with typhoid fever.

The storm which developed in the Gulf of Mexico and came up the Atlantic coast at the rate of 50 miles an hour, struck our town on last Sunday afternoon about two o'clock, accompanied by a zero temperature and just enough snow to make out door life almost intolerable. It gave one a faint idea of what Cook and Perry endured at times, while they were hunting the North pole. Toward night the gale increased and the howl of Boreas in the tall timbers on the mountain tops gave one the creeps and sent us to bed early, where we could cover up our heads and close our eyes while the tempest raged without. Monday morning the temper of the weather had changed but little from the day before and the high winds and drifting snows interfered very materially with the operations of the coal companies in this vicinity in their efforts to work their plants. The Masteller Coal Co., the Bloomington Coal Co., and the Pattison Coal mines, finding they were heavily handicapped on their tramways and plains by the weather conditions gave up early in the day and sent their men home. Telephone and telegraphic communications along the W. M. R. R. were in trouble all day Monday and trains were run with the greatest caution. A large barn on the farm of Mr. Cleaver Michaels in the Michael's settlement, a few miles from Westernport was unroofed during the high winds on Sunday night. The same night a portion of the roof of the Buxton & Landstreet store at Berly was blown off. A large stack and engine house of the portable saw mill belonging to Maynard Haynes, operating in a tract of timber near Firm Rock, were blown down and completely demolished.

TOO PTOTECT FISH IN GARRETT CO. STREAMS

Speicher's Bill Important And Would License Anglers.

Of importance to fishermen is Senator Speicher's bill "for the better protection of fish in Garrett county. The bill makes it unlawful for any person or persons to kill, take or catch in any manner whatever, any brook trout or other trout from or in any streams in said Garrett county, which have been stocked with brook or other trout, or which have had said fish placed therein from the State Fish Hatchery, for the period of two years from the first day of April, 1914."

It further makes it "unlawful for any person or persons who are non-residents of the State of Maryland to take, catch or kill in any manner whatsoever any fish in any of the streams of said Garrett county, without first having applied to the Clerk of the Circuit Court of said Garrett county and procure a license so to do and paying therefor the sum of $5.00, which said license shall be good and valid for one year from the date thereof."

The penalty for violation of either of the foregoing sections which shall be a misdemeanor, upon conviction before any Justice of the Peace in Garrett county, or in any [illegible] court thereof, is a fine of not less than [illegible] nor more than $50 for each offense, and shall stand committed to the county jail until the said fine and costs are paid. One half of said fine goes to the informer upon whose evidence the conviction is obtained. All money arising from the license, and all fines after paying the costs, and the amount due the informer, shall be paid to the School Board of Garrett county for the use of the public schools.

This was originally a House bill introduced by Delegate Shartzer, of Garrett, but when it reached the Senate Senator Speicher moved to "strike out words 'A bill,' and insert the following, "which is the bill as epitomized in the foregoing." making it practically an entirely new bill.

CRELLIN.

We are in the midst of the most severe snow storm we have encountered this winter.

Mr. William Goss, from Rowlesburg was here recently.

Mr. Simon Meyers of Oakland, was called here last Thursday on account of injuries his sister, Mrs. John Bowe, sustained from a fall on the ice by which she is suffering a broken ankle.

We are glad to note that Mrs. W. G. Meyers is some better at the writing.

Quite a number of people from this place attended the sales last week of D. N. Sanders of near Hutton, and Abe. Miller, of near this place, and of Harry Yost, of near Silver Knob.

Mr. William Ashby, of near Corinth, took a fine cow through here Saturday, enroute home.

Mr. S. A. Kendall of the Kendall Lumber Co., was in our town several days last week.

Mrs. Geo. Kerscadon passed through here Saturday last enroute to Breedlove, via the Preston R. R.

Mr. W. E. Dent has been confined to his bed for several days on account of lagripp.

Messrs. Nelson Custer and Harvey Breneman were in our town Friday.

Mr. Homer Shaffer made a flying trip to Terra Alta Saturday.

Russell Beckman and wife were callers at J. C. Foreman's Friday last.

WHAT CIVIL SERVICE MEANS.

A Sample of What May Follow Garrett County Examinations.

Mrs. Florence R. Bailey has been appointed postmistress at Independence, in Preston county, upon the recommendation of Congressman Brown. It is only a fourth class postoffice, but furnishes a fair sample of how much of a light a community can get into over the filling of a small government job. It is one of the very many of its kind which Congressman Brown has had on his hands since the Wilson administration came into power. It also serves to illustrate how much the very recent official order issued by Postmaster General Burleson (referred to at the time in this correspondence) may be regarded as being a sincere effort not to apply politics to this particular class of postmasters in the service. That order insisted that the person to be appointed postmaster must come from the classified list and in the order of their averages, with no regard whatsoever to their politics, unless charges were preferred and proven which would make the appointment hurtful to the efficiency of the service; and in such a case as that the next highest on the list should be appointed, and so on. Jason Rogers, a school teacher at Independence, headed the list with the highest average. Mrs. Bailey stood in second place.

Rogers is a Republican and Mrs. Baily is the wife of a very active Democratic committeeman. While Rogers was born in Preston county, he has not resided at Independence but two years. It was charged that he was a non-resident, and on that charge, wholly untrue, Congressman Brown was permitted to recommend Mrs. Bailey for the job and she has been appointed. A petition signed by every male resident of Independence except the other applicants of the position, and one other, denying the flimsy charge against Rogers was filed in his behalf by Representative Sutherland, who has recommended the appointment of Rogers. This is just one of the countless cases wherein the civil service laws are making a laughing stock of the official orders are shown to be nothing except false and insincere utterances published to hoodwink the people. Charles B. Smith's Washington letter.

Snowbound.

Last Saturday Mrs. M. C. Hinebaugh and her sister, Mrs. Wessersmith, of Baltimore, who is here on a visit, accompanied by Mr. James O. Hinebaugh, drove to Accident to spend the day with relatives, intending to return to Oakland Sunday. They left Accident about noon and managed to get as far as McHenry when the storm became so fierce that they were compelled to remain there, not reaching Oakland until yesterday afternoon.

WRECK TIED UP TRAFFIC SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Derailment at Hutton Smashed Train Schedules To Smithereens.

At the height of the storm which prevailed all day on Sunday a freight train, east bound, was wrecked at Hutton, which completely blocked both tracks of the B. & O. and put the road out of business so far as moving trains was concerned, for more than six hours.

Train No. 55 was held in Oakland until nearly ten o'clock while eastbound trains were held at Terra Alta. A flagman on train 55 was sent out to the Washington Spring crossing and during the exposure both his ears were badly frozen.

Following the storm of Sunday the conditions on Monday were so bad that hardly a train or team moved. Mails were delayed for forty eight hours and business was at a standstill.

BITTINGER.

Many persons were caught away from home, in the terrable blizzard that raged all day last Sunday, and as a result were snow bound for some days.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Orendorf drove over to New Germany last Sunday to spend the day with relatives.

Dennis Brenneman and family visited relatives at Jennings on Sunday, and were forced to remain over night on account of the heavy snow storm.

A considerable number of young people from this village attended the oyster supper at Jennings last Saturday night.

Attorney G. S. Hamill, Sr., and E. I. West, of Oakland, passed through this village on Saturday enroute to Jennings.

Edward Wiley, of Jennings, the active and agreable agent of the Miller Mfg. Co., of Meyersdale, Pa., is selling a number of improved washing machines and as a consequence is getting into favor with the ladies.

Messrs. Robert and George Reckner, of North Glade, spent part of last week among their friends here.

Miss Linnie Miller, who is in charge of the primary department of our village school, was unable to return to her post last Monday morning on account of the storm.

Thomas H. Brenneman had the misfortune to lose a valuable young horse a few days ago.

Messrs. Wm. A. Speicher and Earl Ault of Accident, spent last Saturday evening in this village on business.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

"Citizen" Suggests That The Temperance Fight Has Only Just Begun and Urges The People to Be on Their Guard.

To the Editor of The Republican.

It doubtless is or should be a matter of congratulation to all citizens of our county, that the Local Option Bill has passed. But the fight is only begun. Let us not boast, and under the pretense that Local Option will carry in the county, rest on our oars and take things easy.

We may congratulate Senator Speicher for his zeal and efficient work, as well as the members who used their influence and did what they could to secure its passage. They have done their duty: it is now up to the people. No doubt the representative of the Anti-Saloon League will do all in his power to secure the success of the movement at the polls this fall, but he cannot do all by any means. There should be inaugurated at once a campaign of education which will reach into every home of the county, competent speakers should be sent into every hamlet and district, and every church and school house and hall in the county should ring with earnest appeals to our voters to cast their votes for sobriety and good order, better citizenship and our homes. It is a question, when reduced to its lowest terms, of THE SALOON vs. THE HOME.

I am not talking against the Saloon Keeper, but I am against his business, for which not one thing can be said in its favor. It appeals to every farmer, to every business man, to every citizen as nothing else can.

I recall seeing a flock of sheep being driven along a road one day, some of which were quite lame. They had the foot rot. I recall also the storm of protest that was raised against the act, by all the farmers who would thus endanger any flock that might be driven over the same road. Hadn't the man a right to drive his foot rot sheep when he pleased on the highway? Not when it endangered his neighbor's flocks. Didn't he pay his taxes? Certainly; but he didn't dare defy the protest of his neighbors. However sheep seem to be of more value than boys, and the securing of the safety of the flocks more essential than the safety of our boys and girls.

Is this too strong? Why then are saloons, which by nature and practice, mere outlaws, allowed to flaunt their their defiance in the face of the public and ignore every demand of law abiding citizens.

They are pouring their soul destroying beverages down the throats of their customers and thus for the money they get out of it are robbing men of manhood and self respect, depriving wives of the comforts of home and children of their common privileges and God-given rights. Now the county has a chance to show her strength. Shall the rum-demon rule the county, or shall soberiety, good morals and right prevail.

We may hide behind various pretexts and excuse ourselves for advocating the saloon, but we can't muster a reason that will satisfy God, or our own conscience in the judgment day. We are face to face with the question, THE HOME or THE SALOON—which? If you vote for the bill, you vote for the home. If you vote against the bill, you cast your vote for the saloon. Have you boys of your own? Then you are against their best interests. Are you willing to give one or more of your boys to be the prey of the saloon; to be sacrificed to its rapacity. Are you willing that your daughter should be the wife of a man who spends his time and squanders his and her money in the saloon? Think! think! then vote as you will wish you had, when you come to give your final account: and true, some of the boys may become drunkards, and some of the girls may marry topers, but you will have done what you can to minimize their temptations, and make it impossible for them to sin. Some one may say it will reduce the price of corn, if we cut off the saloons. As a matter of fact it will not—but suppose it does, are you willing as a man, are you willing to convert your corn into whiskey that destroys soul and body, first because you get a few more cents per bushel for it. Where is the manly man that would do this. From a bushel of corn, it is said the distiller gets four gallons of whiskey—

Which retails at.....	$16.80
The farmer gets.....	.25
The U. S. government gets.	4.50
The railway company gets.	1.00
The manufacturer gets....	4.00
The drayman gets.....	.15
The retailer gets.....	7.00
The consumer gets.....	Drunk

While the community gets the widow and orphans to keep and the tax papers foot the bills.

The temperance sentiment is increasing, the tide is rising; by united efforts and every man doing his duty we can carry this bill in the community. But it should be done as it can be, by such a decided majority that there will be no room for doubt. If the saloon is a good thing, I am in favor of keeping it and removing the license too. If it is evil in its tendencies and results then out with it as we would any nuisance. But some one may say, I can't do much; you can vote against the saloon and ask others to do the same.

Here is what a farmer did. I commend it to all the farmers of the country. He put up a bill board by the road side on which in large letters, he printed some epigrams telling the truth about strong drink. Here are a few:

"Alcohol is a poison, not a food."

"The saloon slays its best friend."

"The saloon is the place where moderate drinkers are converted into drunkards."

Every man and woman can make sentiment which will discourage social drinking and refuse to treat intemperance as a joke or misfortune instead of a sin and crime.

See, too, that instruction on this subject is faithfully imparted in the public school.

Christian men must make good in the fight. They must put up one that is equal to the saloon men's fight. A church member who votes for the saloon hasn't as much christianity in him as a converted heathen. The rum traffic is the house of human industry.

A leading legislator and temperance orator says that alcohol is killing off as many Americans a year as all the wars of the world killed in battle in 2,300 years. Alcohol is 10,000 times more destructive than all wars combined. He shows the spread of alcoholic degeneracy and says that, from the standpoint of the state, there is but one decision, the great destroyer must be destroyed. The people have a right to vote on such a vital question and a majority have the right to rule."

Let me close with an extract from an address of Congressman Kendall, of Iowa.

THE DRAMSHOP.

"It is significant, Mr. Speaker, that in all the perfervid oratory which has been indulged in, in all the insidious literature which has been circulated, in all the voluminous advertisement which has been already negotiated, nobody has ventured to extenuate the saloon except as an agency of evil too formidable to be overthrown. This circumstance is not remarkable. As a national institution it is all liability and no asset. As a local enterprise it is all burden and no benefit. The American dramshop can not be defended upon any principle which appeals to the moral sensibility or the business intelligence of the community. It is a rebel against good government. It dictates nominations, purchases elections, corrupts the ballot, and falsifies the returns. It smirches the legislature, soils the executive, and stains the judiciary. It is the foe of organized society. It overawes the pulpit, undermines the platform, and subsidizes the press. It discredits the Constitution, despises the statutes, denounces the Congress, and derides the courts. It is the destroyer of domestic happiness. It brutalizes the husband, desolates the wife, debauches the son, and betrays the daughter. It is without concern for truth, without regard for honor, without reverence for virtue. It has no tolerance for church, no interest in school, no consideration for home, no expectation of heaven, no apprehension of hell. The patience of America is exhausted, and we shall temporize with the infamy no longer. All the manifold forces of sobriety, of decency, of respect for order, of loyalty to law, of love for mankind, are marshaling in invincible phalanx to pulverize the rum power. And they will eventually triumph."

High Praise for Bear's Emulsion.

His Wife Used Several Remedias but Got No Benefit Until She Tried Bear's Great Medicine.

John D. Bear, Elkton, Va.

Dear Sir:—Last winter my wife took a very severe attack of grippe, which left her with a very bad cough. For a month I could see she was gradually getting weaker and losing flesh. During the time she tried several different remedies but none did a particle of good until I bought a bottle of Bear's Emulsion. In three days my wife began to improve and after taking three bottles she was much stronger and weighed more than she had for seven years. It gives me much pleasure to recommend your preparation, and I shall never be too busy to praise it to anyone.

Yours very truly,
J. T. Naylor,
Elkton, Va., R. F. D.

This preparation has been tried and proven to be one of the best tonics, system and tissue builders ever sold. It has cured people right at your door almost. There have been more testimonials published from this remedy from the people of your locality than any other preparation advertised.

A NEW TEMPERANCE REMEDY.

A Temperance Talk to Voters

BY

JASON KEP

Christian nations are very much like a lot of so called christian men, only a name, a great big bluff.

"I can not consent as your queen, to take revenue from the sale of liquor, which destroys the souls and bodies of my subjects."

Does not that sound beautiful? You would bet your bottom dollar that the beautiful and humane decision issued from the rose bud lips of a picture hatted queen of our Great Christian nations. Well, you would loose. It was the statement of the queen of Madagascar, a lady with wavy hair and a pronounced brunette complection, but with a soul of snowy whiteness.

Then listen to this,—"Nothing will induse me to derive a revenue from the misery and vice of my people."

Spoken like a christian wasn't it? Nay, nay Pauline, christian rulers dont talk that way. It was that old heathen the Emperor of China, where we send our missionaries to convert and christianize and our liquors to degrade, debase and kill.

While the President (now Ex) of this great christian nation, the champion of the down-trolden and oppressed, who spreads her missionaries broadcast upon the face of the earth; veloes and damnable temperance legislation which might curtail the drunkenness and misery of his subjects.

And the 35,000,000 church members of this great and glorious christian republic think it helps to pay their taxes, and sing "Praise God from whom all blessings flow." (not all of them, thank God.)

Doesn't it work beautifuly, the Government takes a little slice, revenue tax; the State takes a little slice, also revenue. The city takes a little slice, license, the saloons take the balance, and the consumer, the poor slaves to the appitite, their wives and little ones pay it. Pay it not only in money but in health, self respect, sorrow, misery, dispair and death. And the liquor people who represent less than 5 per cent. of the population dictate 70 per cent. of the elections and brag about it. While a great part of the 35,000,000 church members go to church and pray, "Oh Lord deliver us from this curse of intemperance," and then go out and vote wet.

Unless there is a radical change on this question, you can bank on it, that on that last great day wings will be a drug on the market.

You wonder why I hit so hard; well sir it is because I can't hit harder.

I am trying to make you think Mr. Voter, if we can get you to using your thinker, we have added an other dry voter.

Just look back a few years Mr. Voter in a wet town. Your saloons collect on an average $15,000 a year from the community, and for every dollars worth of liquor drank, there is a dollars worth of labor lost from drunks and getting over drunks, or $30,000 a year drawn from your community.

Look back I say, a few years and count how many have died, if poor from booze, if rich from heart failure, who might have been prosperous happy citizens today. Count how many widows and orphans left in sorrow and want; then add up all that the saloons have paid in dollars and see it you don't have a revolution.

If it does not touch your heart and vote, it would be a splendid plan to move to a warmer climate and try to get accustomed to warm weather.

The temperance people have been trying for years, to figure out a plan to close the saloons, trying to awaken the conscience of the good people of the community. It is slow work.

I can give you a plan which will close every saloon in the United States inside of six months, one that will make an anti-saloon man out of every capitalist in twenty minutes and wealthy church members in thirty-five. Now that is some plan, isnt it?

Just pass a law that the community which permits saloons, must pay the widow of the victim $5000 a year for life and the orphans be properly educated and on becoming of age to be paid $5000 in cash.

Oh Heavens! Wouldent the saloons be closed quickely? Hit their pocketbooks and it makes converts while you wait.

Mr. Wet Voter, how about it? If such a law were enforced, would you vote wet? Why dont you vote wet now?

Please use ten minutes in thinking before you answer, better yet take more time and give your answer next election.

U. S. AND GREAT BRITAIN TO JOIN HANDS FOR PEACE

Steps to Mark Centenary of Peaceful Relations And Preparations to Insure the Continuance of our International Friendship.

This year marks the centennial anniversary of the signing of the Treaty of Gnent, since when the two great English speaking nations of the world, the United States and Great Britain, have been at peace. To celebrate this anniversary and to show to the world just what progress these two English speaking nations have made in the course of a century a gigantic exposition is to be held in London next summer, beginning in May and lasting until October.

Thousands of prominent Englishmen and Americans have expressed their entire approval of the scheme of giving this joint display of peaceful development. It certainly seems a most appropriate way of celebrating an epoch making event.

The Anglo-American exposition will be held at Shepherd's Bush, in the nearby suburbs of London, where some five years ago Imre Kiraify astonished all Europe and a good deal America as well by opening that marvelous permanent exposition grounds covering 150 acres, which since then has been one of the leading attractions of the English metropolis.

The aim of the exposition is to demonstrate in a practical manner the progress which has been made by the British and American people in every branch of civilization during the past century and to place on view in chronological order the great achievements of that epoch from inception to perfection, showing not only how each nation has improved on its own inventions, but also where both have worked hand in hand to perfect the creation of the other. Thus there will be unfolded the rich treasures of a hundred years of American and British art.

The history alone of the two nations for the last hundred years would make a fascinating exposition by itself. The story of the famous statesmen, authors, artists, inventors, philanthropists, financiers, merchants and manufacturers it is proposed to show with such objects of historical interest as are associated with them and their times. The presentation of the progress made in education, science, literature, inventions, productions, improvements and comforts in social life and the betterment of conditions of working men and women is in itself a huge undertaking. The projectors of the exposition, however, propose to do it.

A great opportunity will also present itself of showing in practical ways the advancement in navigation, railway transport, girder suspension and cantilever bridges, as well as the use of steel in architecture, the boring of tunnels, underground and overhead railways, aqueducts, lighthouses, the work of the Panama Canal; printing, from the simple hand press to the modern rotary press and linotype, lithography, electricity, electric and hydraulic power, coal, gas and electric light, the storage of power, pneumatic despatch, the telegraph, telephone, photography, from the daguerreotype to colored and animated photography, the invention and creation of new metals, the advancement in mining, the utilization of rubber, caculating and recording instruments, the great advance in agricultural machinery and all kinds of labor saving devices, the marvelous achievements in chemistry, in fact the harnessing of the very elements for the use and comfort of the nations.

Great Britain is now the largest customer of the United States and the United States is a valued consumer of British products; and the conjunction of the respective products of the two countries should provide, it is argued, a suitable stimulus for still further increase of their mutual trade.

The idea of this exposition was inaugurated at a large meeting held at the Mansion House in London on March 26 last under the presidency of the Lord Mayor of London. All sections of the United Kingdom were represented at this meeting.

The whole assembly pledged themselves to do everything in their power to make the Anglo-American Exposition to be held in London in 1914 a great success.

The imposing exposition palaces most decorative in architectural design containing 1,000,000 square feet of floor space and entirely fireproof, nothing but steel and concrete having been used in their construction, have been erected in beautifully laid out grounds with gardens, lakes and lagoons. These buildings are now ready for the reception and installation of American and British exhibits, pracically a year before the opening of the exposition. The plan, which shows the allotment of the various buildings to the different classes of exhibits gives also a comprehensive idea of the importants of the scheme. About 20 acres are also available for the erection of government, states, cities and colonial buildings and pavilions, as well as outdoor exhibits.

The Fine Art Palace, which has been pronounced the largest and best equipped building of its kind in Europe, containing 30 galleries for paintings in addition to the superb central sculpture hall, covering 30,000 square feet, will be devoted to a collection of American and British modern and retrospective art.

The Congress Hall, situated in the center of the exposition grounds, will be devoted to congresses and conferences on subjects of interest to America and the British Empire.

The musical arrangements will be upon a scale of magnitude unprecedented at any exposition ever held in London, and will include a number of the best bands of the British Guards, as well as American bands of the highest standard, furnishing continuous music from the opening to the closing of the exposition daily.

The great stadium (the largest in the world) which has a seating capacity for 100,000 people will form part of the exposition and possesses the finest running and cycle track, as well as the splendid swimming tank 100 metres in length.

Headquarters in this country have been established in the Woolworth Building, New York, from where the work of general executive management is directed.

The Philadelphia Commercial Museum, which is recognized as the representative authority in the United States on all mattters relating to foreign trade, has undertaken the organization of the American industrial section at the exposition.

THE ALASKA PURCHASE.

What Was Said At The Time About Our Big Bargains.

We frequently read of the wealth of Alaska, which has produced since we purchased it, in 1867, $150,000,000 worth of furs, fish and gold up to the present day, and of the unlimited resources in coal awaiting railroads to encourage mining. We know that year after year the world's wealth has been enhanced by those great values, but we seldom think back upon the chance we might have lost to England but for Secretary Seward's determination to acquire that vast territory known as Russian America, with the chain of the Aleutian Islands, with their wealth in seals—all for $7,200,000 in gold, or a value of about $10,000,000 of our currency at that time. But for Mr. Mr. Seward's dominating will and our country's sentiment of gratitude toward Russia for the sending of her great naval armaments to New York and San Francisco during our Civil War, when England and France seemed on the point of declaring for the Southern Confederacy and breaking up our Union, and Russia gave us this practical proof of her sympathy and willingness to ally herself with the North, we would never have acquired Alaska and those islands—certainly not at that time, for the reason that our immense debt seemed prohibitive of such an enterprise of acquisition.

While the Senate promptly concurred, there was much doubt as to the action of the House upon the appropriation. It was not generally known that Mr. Seward, exercising his powers with an iron will, had so arranged that we should be obliged to take the purchase, for the Russian flag had given place to ours before the House had fairly entered upon discussion of the appropriation.

Some of those who opposed it said the rocks and ice of those 570,000 square miles were worth nothing, and if we wanted to show our gratitude to Russia, which just then needed some cash, the better plan would be to give her the gift in the gold and let her keep the territory. On the other side there were some wise heads from the Pacific and other States who said we were getting a good bargain, and that the future would justify the purchase. Leonard Meyers declared in the House that if we did not take it England surely would, if she could get it, and Mr. Spalding, of Ohio, believed that there would be found capitalists who would take it off our hands and give us a bonus of $2,000,000. General Banks led for the treaty, urging gratitude and values and C. C. Washburn led the opposition. General Butler was facetious and derisive, declaring that in 10 years the whole product of Alaska had not amounted to more than $3,000,000. Mr Peters, of Maine, said that the fact that the land was intrinsically valueless was shown by Russia's desire to sell. Gen. "Bob" Schenk, of Ohio, took the same view, but was for the measure out of gratitude. Mr. Stevens was favorable because of actual value of the purchase. Mr. Shellabarger was in the opposition. Mr. Higby, of California, was on the side of the measure, and believed the country would support a considerable population, notwithstanding the severity of the climate in some portions.

That was a big bargain we made with Russia, and the railroads to come will annually enhance the value of the territory and future state.

WILSON POINTS TO WAR DANGER

Country Too Big to Fret Over Trifles, Says Chief

TWO AMERICANS ARE KILLED

Mexican Rebel Tells of Opinion That Bauch Was Assassinated—John Harmon Reported Murdered by Huerta's Federals—El Paso Warms Up With Excitement When News of Bauch's "Assassination" Is Heard.

Washington, March 3.—A new tone with regard to the Mexican situation was perceptible at the White House and was generally interpreted as an indication of a forthcoming stiffening of the administration's policy.

For the first time the president seemed to be giving thought to the possibility of enforced intervention as a real factor in the situation. At any rate he took occasion to warn those who are urging vigorous action in Mexico of what it would cost in human life and to caution them that they must be prepared to pay the price of such a course. He urged patience upon those Americans.

Asked whether in view of the new developments a change of policy was intended by the United States immediately the president pointed out that a country of the size and power of the United States could afford to wait just as long as it pleased; that nobody doubted its power and nobody doubted that Huerta was eventually to retire; that there need be no hesitation in forming the judgment that what the United States wished to accomplish in Mexico would be accomplished, but that those people who were in haste to have things done were forgetting that they would have to do them themselves, that they would have to contribute brothers and sons and sweethearts to do it if they wanted something done right away. If they were willing to wait, the president indicated, such a step might not be necessary.

El Paso Throbs With Excitement.

El Paso, Tex., March 3.—The precipitate halting of the Benton investigating committee as it was about to take a train; the sudden appearance in this city of Marion Letcher, American consul at Chihuahua, and General Villa's admission that Gustav Bauch an American, was murdered by his enemies, threw the refugee colony here into excitement.

Letcher came up on a special train and at once went into conference with Zach L. Cobb, collector of customs, and George C. Carothers, special agent of the state department.

Telegrams to Washington were dispatched, but their contents were not made known here. Members of the investigating committee did not know whether they were to proceed to Chihuahua or not.

John Harmon, an American agent for the Mines Company of America, has been murdered by Mexican federals, according to information received here.

That General Villa expressed the belief that Gustav Bauch, who was arrested in Juarez as a spy two weeks ago, was the victim of an assassin, occasioned no surprise here, where the German-American's sister, Mrs. J. M. Patterson, and others interested in the case have been resigned to the conclusion that Bauch was slain at Juarez a week ago last Friday. They scout the personal enemy theory, however.

Repeated assertions have been made by certain Juarez rebels talking confidentially to friends on this side of the border that Bauch was executed and the stories all agreed on the date of the execution, which was the day that General Villa departed for Chihuahua.

For a week official Juarez maintained that Bauch was in Chihuahua, but Chihuahua declared and informally proved that Bauch was not there at all.

At a meeting here of United States officials with British Consul Percival it was decided to ask Washington to permit General Carranza to come to Juarez through the United States to reach Juarez from Nogales in order to settle the difficulties arising from the Benton case.

This would test Carranza's good faith and authority over Villa, it is asserted. The officials argue that as things stand now Carranza can contend that he cannot reach Juarez and thus he can delay acting in the Benton case and also stave off for a time public knowledge of his break with Villa if this is the case.

The commission which is to inspect Benton's body was turned back at Juarez because, it was explained, it had no permission from Carranza.

Americans generally believe that this is another Mexican method to delay disinterring the body.

British Vice Consul Scobel at Chihuahua has located and examined a witness who is said to have seen the affair between Benton and Villa and whose story is said to be unfavorable to Villa.

K. L. Ouzl, a local barber, asserted that he had wired the state department the name of an American millwright who was present at the time the affair occurred. This man's story will prove that Benton was murdered without a court-martial, declared Ouzl.

YOUNGSTOWN VOTE MAY BE CONTESTD

Wets Win by Much Smaller Majority Than Five Years Ago

Youngstown, O., March 3.—By 77 majority the wets in Mahoning county won the local option election. This is the second victory for the wet forces. Five years ago the majority for the wets was 1,931.

Youngstown city gives the wets 9,272 and drys 7,491.

The big vote in the city for the wets turned the day, the second and fifth wards giving 1,200 majority for the wets. This was cut down by the reports from the county, where the bad weather caused a light vote.

The grand jury is still in session considering some of the cases of alleged fraudulent registration. While the cases will be pressed further or not remains to be seen. The grand jury sat during the day.

"We made a good fight and stuck," declared Ethel B. Cooper of the dry committee. "The weather was against us."

"We expected to win from the start and if the weather had not been so bad we would have rolled up a much larger vote," said E. H. Moore of the wets.

Announcement was made by one of the members of the dry committee that a contest would be filed immediately to decide the validity of the election. It is claimed that the drys have evidence sufficient to bring enough illegal voters into court to wipe out the majority. This the wets deny.

HUNT FOR BAD MEN

Cleveland Police Scour City After Terrorizing of Foreign Section.

Cleveland, March 3.—Two hundred police are engaged in search for members of a band of gunmen terrorizing the foreign section here. Two men are dying in hospitals as the result of three attempts at murder within four hours.

Biagio Sidoti fell on Cherry street with two bullets in his abdomen. Pierced by nine buckshot, I. Samanello fell dying within a block of the Sidoti crime one hour later. Mrs. Josephine Mercurio attempted to tell detectives something and was silenced by a knife in the hands of her husband.

EXPRESS COMPANY MAY QUIT

Wall Street Reports the United States Will Liquidate Its Affairs.

New York, March 3.—The effect of the parcel post on express company earnings has been so convincing and the outlook as the result of the slashing cuts in rates that went into effect Feb. 1 appears so disastrous that the United States Express company, according to well authenticated reports in Wall street, has practically decided to go out of business.

Directors, though reticent, admitted that liquidation and distribution of assets to stockholders are being discussed.

Pittsburg Fire Does Damage.

Pittsburg, March 3.—Fire did several thousand dollars' damage to the three-story double brick building at 426-428 Penn avenue, owned by the Theodore F. Hostetter estate. The John McPrice company, electrical supplies and machinery, the Ruud Manufacturing company and the Pittsburg Gas and Electrical Fixtures company, tenants of the buildings, were also heavy losers.

FOUND GIANTS IN CHINA.

Baldheaded Women Too—Feet Bound So Tight They Were Cut.

Washington.—Major P. M. Ashburn of the army medical corps has returned from Chinese service of his studies of tropical diseases. He reports to the war department that he found there giants, each about seven feet high. Two of them were basketball players at a college game, one of them appearing by a head except for the great size, which was the other, the other man had a baritone resonant, deep bass voice, such as he had never heard before.

Many baldheaded women attracted the major's attention, and these women attempted to hide their baldness "by the use of black paint or stain, which merely looked dirty."

Major Ashburn discovered a strange predilection of the Chinese doctors for plasters and paste, and he declared "it is a rare Chinaman who does not have a plaster stuck on some part of his anatomy." Finally he discovered that the practice of foot binding to reduce the size was carried on by the Chinese women to such an excess as sometimes to necessitate the amputation of the feet.

CITY FOLKS IN THE WOODS.

Careless About Their Fires and Cause Many Forest Blazes.

Washington.—City folks' carelessness causes many forest fires, according to a statement just submitted to the house agricultural committee by Henry S. Graves, government forester.

"In the summer time," said Mr Graves, "the tourist and the camper from the city, unaccustomed to the woods, sets a good many fires from carelessness. We estimate that those are now using the national forests for recreation purposes upward of 1,500,000 people, and in some cases it is a very real problem with us the guidance of the people to keep them from setting fires carelessly. It is always due to carelessness."

MEXICANS ARE HAPPY IN REFUGEE CAMP

Plenty to Eat, Little Work and Many Amusements.

Fort Bliss, Tex. There are many situations more unenviable than that of a Mexican refugee enjoying American bounty at Fort Bliss. As a place where there is abundance to eat and a minimum of work, the camp has gained such repute locally that the American soldiers guarding the camp must be constantly on the lookout to prevent hungry Mexicans from crawling under or climbing over the wire fence surrounding the camp to join their more fortunate fellows within. It is only the Mexican officers who seem to feel humiliated by it and desire to escape, as half a dozen have.

Except in the matter of sanitation, personal cleanliness, etc., the Mexican officers and their men are permitted to do much as they please. And they have made themselves perfectly at home. A few hours after their arrival the women of the camp had prepared as cozy a home for the winter, from the Mexican point of view, as a soldier could desire. They had little to do beyond unloading their packs containing household effects, blankets and certain treasures they had managed to save. The government has furnished conical wall tents for houses, which to most of the soldiers is a luxury.

The women are the hardest workers in the camp, but they don't have to forage for food and fuel, as many of them have been doing for many months in northern Mexico. With a cheery fire to take the bite out of the north wind, and nothing to do most of the time but bask in the sun, the men, women and children in the camp are well content. Every one in the camp must take a bath at least twice a week. There are showers available so that those who care to may use them every day, but only a few take advantage of them. They have their cock fights, and there is no lack of music by the band of the remnant army, most of whose members managed to save their musical instruments from the rebels and from confiscation by the American troops.

POISON LABELS FOR LIQUOR.

Anti-saloon League Bill Would Compel Use of Skull and Crossbones.

Albany.—If the New York Anti-saloon league has its way frequenters of saloons will be confronted with a ghastly array of skulls and crossbones as they let their gaze wander along the rows of bottles to select the tipple of their fancy.

According to William H. Anderson, state superintendent of the league, a bill will be introduced in the legislature to compel liquor dealers to have affixed to every bottle containing a beverage with 2 per cent of its volume made up of alcohol a label bearing the dread [illegible] adopted by the English [illegible].

Woman's World

Jane A. Delano, Distinguished Trained Nurse.

MISS DELANO AND HER MEDAL.

The Red Cross society, whose work for humanity has been so great, has enlarged its sphere of usefulness. It has established a town and country nursing service through whose instrumentality the dwellers in every community may be assured of proper care in times of illness. The object of this is to encourage the employment of visiting nurses in remote districts where it is difficult to obtain the services of a physician.

It was through Miss Jane A. Delano, chairman of the national committee on nursing service, that this new department of the work was established. Because of the splendid efficiency to which she has brought the nursing work of the Red Cross the gold medal of merit has been awarded to Miss Delano by the president. In presenting her with the medal President Wilson said:

"It is due to Miss Delano's devoted and efficient labors that a splendid corps of over 4,000 of the best trained nurses in the country have been enrolled in the Red Cross for active service in time of war or disaster. Not only has this large corps been enrolled, but by means of 110 local committees a system has been established that enables the Red Cross to mobilize within a few hours' time anywhere in the country the number of nurses required for active service."

Miss Delano is one of the most distinguished members of the nursing profession in America. She had established a high reputation before she joined the Red Cross. She is a graduate of the Bellevue Training School For Nurses. Her first case is said to have been that of the late Abram S. Hewitt, then mayor of New York. She distinguished herself by her work in the yellow fever epidemic in Florida. She has held important positions in the west, in Philadelphia and in Buffalo. She was superintendent of the New York municipal training school for women nurses and later of Bellevue hospital, where she instituted many needed reforms.

CONVENIENT BAGS.

New Models Are Compact and Fitted With Useful Accessories.

Manufacturers of fine leather goods are offering exquisite novelties in traveling bags and cases, which are much smaller in size than the heavy, old fashioned types of bags. The responsibility for the change lies with the modern taste for motoring. The woman of 1914 covers such distances and her belongings must be so moderate in size and so easily packed that designers have been at work turning out the most elegant as well as the most convenient form of toilet apparatus.

The party bag is a mere trifle to handle and looks almost like a handkerchief in black moire drawn in with a ribbon. It may be concealed in a coat pocket, or there would be space for it in a little hand bag. Within its folds are all the items that go to give a woman the finishing touches for the toilet. Just a little frame keeps all the gold, silver gilt or enameled trifles together, and the contents are all that is required.

The prevailing taste leans to easily folded or drawn bags, and some novelties consist of round models of the finest leather, so soft as to crush into very small space. Inside is a frame, and into this are fitted the little implements of the toilet. A tiny hair brush is set into gold, gilt, enamel or inlaid ivory or tortoise shell. The comb is decorative, and there are small pots for cream, powder, lip salve, tiny bottles for perfume, a miniature toothbrush, diminutive manicure implements and a long thin roll of metal matching the setting of the case that turns out to be a receptacle for needles, cotton and other trifles to mend a rent.

Color enters into many of these fanciful cases, a green leather bag or case containing red or rose colored fittings, while a yellow bag will have every item in blue enamel or in silver gilt. Many and varied are these dainty trifles and devices featuring a season of unusual luxury and elegance.

INDIANS TAKE UP TANGO.

Shoshone Nation In Nevada Will Have a Dance Hall.

Reno, Nev.—The extent to which the craze for the tango has entered the lives of the Shoshone nation of Nevada Indians, who are a modern all tribal duress, is causing much surprise.

"We see no reason why we should not have a dance hall," declared Captain John, "and I intend to establish these throughout White Pine tribe, who have a large canvas hall in which to learn the tango.

One of the Indian maidens, some of whom are remarkably clever, has so perfected herself in the tango that she is giving a complete course of lessons for $2.50.

The Indians dance until daylight, the camp at Murray canyon being liveliest of all. Indian Dave, the blind chief, and other chiefs almost blind furnish music on violins and harmonicas.

Captain John, an old, influential chief, joins with press and pulpit in antagonizing the tango, but his opposition, together with that of other old bucks and squaws of Shoshone nation, does not prevent a surprising growth of the white man's dance.

EYE FOR ARMY DESERTERS.

Policeman Who Has Captured Five Tells by Their Walk.

St. Louis.—Policeman Trail of East St. Louis arrested a man who admitted that he was a deserter from the United States army a few minutes after the man had left the East St. Louis police station, where he had slept during the night.

He gave his name as Edward C. Brooks, thirty-three years old, and said he deserted the One Hundred and Third coast artillery, stationed at Fort Howard, Md., Sept. 11, 1912, because he did not like the treatment accorded to an old soldier.

Brooks is the fifth deserter arrested by Policeman Trail in the last three months. He has arrested six deserters in the last year. Trail asserts he can tell a soldier by his walk and physical appearance.

GIRL CRIPPLE DROPS CRUTCH AFTER DREAM

Helpless For Two Years, She Suddenly Begins Walking.

New York. Impressed by a vivid dream in which she saw herself throw away her crutches, Helen B. Scott, paralyzed since 1912 and described by specialists to be hopelessly crippled, walked to school from her home. She expressed a desire to enter the gymnasium class immediately, but her parents objected.

In January of 1912 Miss Scott, who is fourteen years old, returned from Sunday school and complained of her legs hurting her. In a few days she was unable to walk and was pronounced a hopeless cripple, suffering from infantile paralysis. The family immediately called specialists, but all shook their heads and stated they could do nothing for the child. For months Miss Scott was wheeled about her home in a chair and was often called "the sunshine of the neighborhood."

Her school classmates had aided in caring for her and had taken turns in wheeling her about the streets in a wheel chair her parents provided for her. Her birthday is Dec. 26, so last Christmas her parents tendered a party to her girl friends. She attended it on crutches, which she had learned to use. That night the girls united in wishing her better health and the recovery of the use of her legs. The next morning Mrs. Scott was told by her daughter that she had a dream that she could walk.

For several days she talked of the dream to her family and friends. One night soon afterward Mrs. Scott heard a noise in the room occupied by the cripple and, running upstairs, was surprised to find her daughter standing alone. In one corner of the room lay the discarded crutches. Miss Scott was able to walk without assistance and finally regained strength enough to venture into the street.

Finally she walked quite a little distance from her home to the Teachers' training school of Jamaica, where she has entered as a student. She says she will soon begin dancing lessons.

TO DISINCORPORATE TOWN.

Oregon's Governor to Act Because of Lawless Element.

Salem, Ore.—Disincorporation of the town of Copperfield, Ore., because it "is in the hands of a lawless element" has been ordered undertaken by the attorney general, Governor West announced.

Copperfield was put under martial law after the closing of saloons there by state troops under direction of Miss Fern Hobbs, the governor's secretary.

Earned $12 a Week, Left $37,000.

Forrestville, Conn.—Through application for appointment of an administrator for the estate of Patrick Coughlin, who died here recently, it became known that Coughlin, whose wages during his life here never exceeded, it is said, $12 a week, had died worth about $37,000. He came here as a young man, and during much of his long, frugal life, according to those who knew him, earned less than $12 a week.

HOME TREATMENT FOUND EFFECTIVE

Tubercular Patients Improve In Model Tenement.

RESULTS OF YEAR'S TESTS.

Twenty Families Successfully Treated In Home Erected by Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt—Majority of Cases Cured. Adult Patients Enabled to Earn More After Health Is Restored.

New York.—Home treatment for tuberculosis in this city can be made as efficient as sanitarium treatment at a considerable reduction in expense, to say nothing of the great social gain by not having to break up family ties, according to a report made public by the Association For Improving the Condition of the Poor. This conclusion is based on the association's experience in caring for a family-colony of consumptives in the East River Homes, popularly known as the Vanderbilt model tenements.

The experiment is to be continued with a doubled capacity in the belief that a further demonstration may lead New York and other cities to revolutionize their present methods of dealing with the great white plague.

The experiment has been in progress for a year. The colony was composed of twenty-seven families, seventy-nine members of which were tuberculous. They were installed in sanitary quarters, where they had ample sunshine and fresh air, good and abundant nourishment, freedom from undue work and worry and where there were

Eleven of the families, containing twenty-three tuberculous persons, twelve of whom were wage earners, were discharged during the year.

Six of the eleven families were rehabilitated physically, socially and economically.

The five other families of the eleven had to be dismissed from the colony because of persistent intemperance or refusal to follow advice. But their condition, it is stated, was improved in consequence of the treatment.

No new case of consumption developed after admission to the colony.

Of the adult patients 61 per cent apparently were cured, 22 per cent experienced an arresting of the disease and 11 per cent were much improved. In only four cases was there no progress. Three of the four were sent away for refusing to follow advice. The fourth case ended in death. The patient had been in an advanced stage when admitted.

Of the sixty-five children and sixteen infants eighteen were consumptive, twenty-three were suspicious cases and the rest had been exposed to the disease. Although practically all of the children were undeveloped when admitted, they all reached in six months their normal weight for age.

The cost of the experiment for the year in this colony of twenty-seven families was $20,217, as against $28,446 which it would have cost to handle the sick members in institutions and the well members in homes, asylums or elsewhere.

FATHER MARRIED BY SON.

Mayor of Terre Haute Performs Ceremony For Elderly Parent.

Terre Haute, Ind.—Mayor Roberts performed the marriage ceremony for his father, Dr. W. H. Roberts, seventy-five years old, and Mrs. Zinc, a widow seventy-one years old.

The mayor has been in office a month and during his election campaign was publicly denounced by his father as an ungrateful son, who caused his father to lose his fortune. The newly married bride is possessed of vast wealth.

TUBERCULOSIS IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

At the present time there are about forty-five thousand pupils in attendance in the public schools of the District of Columbia. Of this number about one hundred and fifty are known victims of tuberculosis in a communicable form.

According to these figures Dr. M. J. Simmons of this city, who has for some time advocated medical inspection in the public schools here, estimates that there are between twentyfive and thirty children attending the public schools in the city of Cumberland who are a constant source of danger to their fellow students.

Day after day these dangerous pupils mingle with their fellows, more or less intimately, some exchanging lead pencils, drinking cups, even chewing gum, as well as various other articles.

Without question these pupils are a danger of the most active type to the susceptible.

The common drinking cup and the roller towel should be abolished; expectorating upon the floors, walls and hallways prohibited, and the evil of association, oftentimes in close, poorly-ventilated class-rooms discontinued.

The Tuberculosis Society of the District of Columbia has for a long time strongly advocated exclusion of these pupils from the schools and, upon the recommendation of the Medical Inspectors, the Commissioners have promulgated an order that will exclude these unfortunate children from the benefits of the public schools.

The school law confers this power, and, as the number of tuberculous children of school age is increasing, great wisdom has been shown in this action, as tuberculosis in all its forms is on the increase. This is shown by reports from registration in all cities.

Be this as it may, the question is open for argument to students of this disease. At the same time, those children unfortunate enough to be suffering from tuberculosis must receive the benefits of a school education, and the only solution of the difficulty is, separate schools, open-air schools, or segregation.

The question is serious and demands immediate attention in a practical manner, and not by make-shift measures.

Here is a disease far more dangerous than smallpox, diphtheria, scarlet fever or any of the infectious diseases against which precautions are taken, yet nothing has been done to prevent its spread through school children. Some effort should be made at once to prevent the spread of this terrible affliction which saps out the strength and finally the life of those near and dear to us. No effort or expense should be spared to protect the little ones from this and other contageous and infectious diseases.—Cumberland News.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

Rev. J. H. Enlow was here Tuesday looking after his propertv.

Mr. J. B. Waugh of Cumberland, made a flying visit to the Park Tuesday.

Mr. B. F. Harvey, who has been critically ill at the home of his son-in-law, Mr. H. B. Harvey for some time, was some better this morning.

Born to Rev. H. B. and Mrs. Jordan, Sunday evening, a son.

Mrs. Thomas Harris has purchased from Judge T. H. Cuppett the Bowman cottage near the public school building. The house is large and the ground comprizes three and one-half lots.

Dr. Widdowson has added a large room in the rear of the Felty storeroom to be used as a meat market. He also has under consideration the fitting up of a drug store and a barber shop in the front by making additions to the building. The whole will be painted as soon as the weather will permit.

A broken rail was discovered in the north track immediately opposite the depot here Saturday evening by Mr. Warren Rathbun. Five inches of the rail was out, and had it not been discovered would doubtless have caused a bad wreck.

The special services in the Loch Lynn U. B. church is growing in interest. A number of conversions are reported. Rev. Bauman, the pastor, is being assisted by Rev. Watson of Grafton.

The shipment of ice was resumed Friday last, but the storm and heavy fall of snow interfered Monday and Tuesday. Friday and Saturday 750 tons were shipped. The shipments from yesterday as long as the weather will permit will be about 400 tons per day. The present contract is for 5,000 tons to be shipped to the B. & O. cold storage house at Connellsville, Pa.

BOND.

Mr. Chas. Sawtelle, of Lock Haven, Pa., is visiting relatives at this place.

Washington's birthday was observed at the school house on Monday, Feb. 22. The school had a fine program and many visitors were present.

Mr. S. W. Burk, of Swanton, was seen in town Thursday.

Mr. C. V. McCreight, of Pittsburgh, was here for several days on business last week.

Chas. Messersmith, of Salisbury, Pa., was a visitor here Thursday and Friday.

Mr. Dean H. Bloom spent the latter part of last week at his home in Clearfield, Pa.

Mr. W. R. Schrecongost spent Sunday at his home in Oakland.

A very nice party was given at Mr. and Mrs. Reckley last Saturday evening. A large crowd of Frankville's young people were the out of town guests. All report a very good time.

SHORT RUN.

The time of year has arrived when the farmers who have camps have begun to think about making sugar. Some have already partly tapped their trees, but we fear that the sugar business will be rather slow until the winter has partly subsided which "Mr. Groundhog" prognosticated.

Sleighing has been better during the past week than it has been this winter. It gives those who have hauling to do an excellent chance, and also affords much merriment for the young people. Several sleighing parties have been planned and carried out to the keenest enjoyment of all. Last Wednesday night a crowd of young people from Kitzmiller, who were out for a joy ride, stopped at the home of Mr. J. H. Wilson at this place where they were very gladly received by Mr. Wilson and family. After the party had gotten warm, splendid refreshments were served and in return the guests rendered some excellent music. Those in the party were: Misses Beryl and Mae Abernathy, Hallie Hartley and Ua Duvall, and Messrs. John Thrasher, John Shore, Lyle Wilson and Irvin Neville.

Mr. Charles Moon of Big Pool, Md., passed through this place Sunday enroute to Bittinger where he will assist his brother-in-law, Mr. Bowser, in making sugar.

Mr. E. W. Kelso of District No. 10, was in our village last Friday.

Mrs. V. E. Rafter, of Kitzmiller, spent several days here last week visiting friends

Mr. Jesse White spent Sunday at his home near Bethlehem. He was accompanied by Miss Nelle Harvey, who will spend several days visiting relatives in that vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Fichtner of Kitzmiller, were visiting Mrs. Fichtner's parents here the latter part of last week.

Mrs. G. W. Moon of Eagle Rock spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. J. H. Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. George Harvey and family were visiting at Mr. J. T. Harvey's one day last week.

STEYER.

Our school closed last Friday on account of the cold weather which prevented enough children attending to make the average.

Rev. C. D. Johnson preached us a very interesting sermon last Friday night.

Mr. W. J. Cover was called to his home in Terra Alta one day last week on account of the illness of his wife.

Mrs. A. J. Wilson and her two daughters Misses Myrtle and Leona, and Captaion White, were calling on Mrs. Hester Harvey last Sunday.

Mr. S. B. Hill spent Sunday in town the guest of Messrs. Ashby and Tricket.

Messrs. F. B. and R. W. Moomaw, Ray Stafford, Vertie Wolfe, Grant Wrightsman and Lee Gortner were Oakland visitors last week.

Mr. Albert Steyer and sister Miss Nellie were the guests of Miss Lida Steyer, Sunday evening.

Mr. Geo. D. Browning, of Friendsville, was in Accident the latter part of last week.

Miss Gertrude Walsh spent Saturday and Sunday in Hagerstown, Md., where she was the guest of relatives.

Mr. Harry Loar returned home Saturday afternoon from Grafton where he had been on business for several days.

Mrs. Webster Ravenscroft returned home Monday morning from a brief visit to friends and relatives at Keyser, W. Va.

Mr. George L. Michael, of near Bloomington, spent yesterday in Oakland on business when he called at this office.

Miss Bess Offutt returned home Saturday morning last from an extended visit to friends in Chicago, Indianapolis and other western cities.

State Treasurer Murray Vandiver last week purchased 25 bushels of Garrett county potatoes for seed from Wm. Miller, of Accident.

Mrs. Pat. Maroney and Miss Julia Rowan, both of this city spent Saturday and Sunday in Cumberland, where they were the guests of relatives.

Mrs. C. F. Berchdorf and little son, Donald, spent last Friday at Oakland with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Notley 'rowning.—Terra Alta Republican.

Mr. J. Wilson Humbird of Cumberland, spent Saturday afternoon and Sunday in Oakland where he was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Offutt.

Our columns are very much crowded this week with tax sale advertisements and other legal notices which curtails our space for local news to a great extent.

Mrs. Harvey J. Speicher, of Accident, drove up to Oakland last Friday from her home and was the guest until Saturday afternoon of Dr. and Mrs. W. Ravenscroft.

Mrs. Stuart F. Hamill and little daughter left Oakland yesterday morning for Johnstown, Pa., where they will be the guests for some time of Mrs. Hamill's parents.

Mr. James P. Treacy, Ford automobile agent, sold a car yesterday to Mr. W. S. Colins, of near Cranesville which will be delivered as soon as the weather permitts.

Dr. and Mrs. Henry McComas were called to Baltimore Sunday night on account of the illness of their son Joe, who was operated upon at Johns Hopkins Hospital for appendicitis.

Senator Speicher has asked Governor Goldsborrough to give him the pen and penholder he used in signing the Garrett County local option bill, No. 1. It will be a precious souvenir for himself and family.

Mr. W. P. Frantz, formerly of Deer Park, now a resident of Clarksburg, W. Va., spent yesterday in Oakland. Mr. Frantz is engaged in the dairy business at Clarksburg where he is meeting with great success.

City Councilman Albert Ashby, who was operated upon at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, about two weeks ago for appendicitis, returned to his home in Oakland last Monday, where he is recuperating very rapidly.

Last night at Fair Oaks, Mrs. Idie T. Hayes and Mrs. O'Dell Ward entertained a number of friends at six-handed flinch. The affair was throughly enjoyed by all present. Delicious refreshments were served during the evening.

No Senator at Annapolis is more popular or respected than Senator Speicher, of Garrett County. This was proven by the passage of his Senate bill No. 1. In the Senate without opposition, in the House by only four votes against it.

Little Miss Dorothea Sturgiss entertained seventeen of her infant friends and their mothers last Saturday afternoon. The decorations at the Sturgiss nome were most charming and the refreshments served by the little hostess were delicious.

Delegate Savage was an Oakland visitor last Friday. After transacting some bnsiness in this city, he was taken to Friendsville in a sleigh, by some members of his family. On Sunday he was driven in a buggy to Confluence and took train No. 16 for Annapolis.

The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lauer was brought home Monday night from Baltimore by her mother. The child some two or three weeks ago underwent an operation for the reduction of a congenital hip dislocation, until a few years ago, a rare and almost unknown procedure in surgical science. The operation was eminently successful.

Delegate Harvey spent the latter part of the week at his home near Gormania, returning to Annapolis in time for the night session, but was recalled to his home on account of the serious illness of his child and also of his father, the venerable Benj. F. Harvey who is making his home at Mt Lake Park with his daughter, Mrs. H. B. Harvey.

Mr. D. E. Offutt received on Sunday last a carload of yearling and two-year old cattle which will be fed during the summer and next winter on Mr. Offutt's farm south of Oakland. The car contained more than thirty head and were purchased in the Chicago stockyards by Mr. Ellwood Offutt, who is in Chicago on a visit to Mrs. Offutt's relatives.

At the Maryland Theatre Saturday, March 7th, the world's greatest war drama, "Victory" in five full sized reels, made with the aid and by permission of the United State Navy, and produced with a notable cast including Josephus Daniels, Sec'y of the Navy, Rear Admiral Badger, Captain Benson, and the daring naval aviator, Lieut Towers, and many others, showing battle ships, hydroplanes, gunboats, monitors and destroyers in action, exploding mines at sea and many other thrills. Throughout the whole five reels there exists a very pretty romance which shows that a naval officer can be as successful in love as in war. Don't fail to see this picture Saturday Night at the MARYLAND. Advertisement

Mr. Fred A. Thayer has received from his brother, Mr. Walter Thayer, of near Carlsbad, Arizona, the head and horns of a five prong deer which was killed by the latter some time ago and which was mounted and sent on to Oakland. The shipper left Oakland when quite a young man, sometime in the early seventies with the determination of making his fortune in the west and we are informed he has been very successful. He is engaged in the stock business and is the owner of a ranch of large acerage in his adopted section of the country. Recently he purchased a drove of eight hundred cows down in old Mexico which he will use for breeding purposes, driving them through the country to his ranch.

Rev. E. Manges and family, who were residents of Oakland for nearly eleven years where Mr. Manges served as pastor of the Lutheran congregation, left Oakland Tuesday for their future home in York, Pa. On Friday evening a reception was given in honor of the pastor and Mrs. Manges at the church at which a large body of church members as well as ministers of other congregations were present, when a short program of music and addresses was carried out. Mrs. Manges received many presents as tokens of the love and esteem in which she is held by the Oakland people, while Mr. Manges was presented with a well filled purse. Addresses were made on the part of the congregation by Mrs. Richard Conneli and Mr. J. C. Renninger. Revs. Dr. Ely of the Presbyterian church, and Rev. Dr. Moore, of the Methodist church, and Rev. John M. Davis in his capacity as a citizen and friend of those taking their leave, all made short addresses which were filled with good wishes for the future welfare of Rev. Manges and his most estimable family.

Resolutions of Respect.

WHEREAS, Olive Branch Castle, Knights of Golden Eagle, has lost by death one of its faithful and most consistent members, in the person of our beloved friend and brother, Thomas J. Harris, who during the time of his membership always evinced a strong, loyal and faithful interest in everything which pertained to the welfare of our Castle, and who was present at every meeting when possible for him to be there.

Resolved, That Olive Branch Castle No. 9, Knights Golden Eagle, of Mt. Lake Park, by the death of Brother Harris has lost one of its most ardent, consistent and steadfast friends, the community one of its best citizens and his family a true, loving husband and father, and that our sympathies are hereby extended to them in this their sad hour, and our prayers ascend for them that they may be comforted and blest, and that the separation they are now undergoing will finally end in an eternal reunion on Heaven's blest-shore.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Castle, a copy furnished the newspapers of Oakland, and also a copy sent to his family.

DR HARE IN OAKLAND SUNDAY

New President of The Anti-Saloon League Addressed Large Audience.

Dr. T. M. Hare, president of the Anti-Saloon League of Maryland, delivered last Sunday morning a most timely and striking lecture sermon in the Methodist Episcopal church of Oakland. A large congregation was present upon this, the first public appearance of the newly-elected president of the anti-saloon forces of this state. The address was filled with many original thoughts and the methods employed by Dr. Hare are destined to be an overwhelming force in crystalizing anti-liquor sentiment in Maryland. In his address, Dr. Hare spoke in part as follows:

"From the very dawn of history the devil has played the part of a monumental liar. And as soon as society began to detect the lie, he forthwith switched unto another, each succeeding one being more deceptive and more 'difficult to nail.'

"The first lie perpetrated upon society regarding liquor was the one which stated that it was of divine origin and that the gods delighted in its use. Temples, therefore, were erected broadcast throughout the lands to Bacchus and Dionysus, as the gods of alcohol. Today there remains neither altar nor shrine to mark the sites of those places of worship.

"That alcohol is a stimulant, that in cold weather it makes the man warm and that in warm weather it makes the man cool, was another lie that has had its day. There was a time when 'canteens' were authorized in the army barracks to stimulate the soldiers; today, they are forbidden. Likewise, there was a time when a jug was found in the caboose of every train and a bottle in the cab; today, men who drink are forthwith dismissed from the services of the railroad companies. I well remember as a boy, working upon the farm that one of my duties was to carry to the harvest fields a well filled jug to 'stimulate' the harvest hands. But today, aftar scientific experiments upon enduring powers of those men who drink and those who do not, it is found that the abstainer can endure greater privations and perform more arduous labors. It has been learned that alcohol paralyzes the will and makes the man a derelict upon the sea of society. Stimulates? Yes, alcohol stimulates somewhat like the bumblebee stimulates the man when it gets up into his trouser's leg.

"When the illusion of stimulant had been dispersed, the devil spread another lie by saying 'alcohol is a food!' and beer, because made of hops was especially emphasized to make this statement appear true. A German scientist has recently analyzed beer finding that it contains water, alcohol, acid, extract of aloes and food. Yes, food! And as much food in a barrel of beer as is contained in one loaf of bread; and it is estimated that man requires for his daily nutrition about as much food as is contained in three loaves of bread. Therefore, in order for man to have his daily requirements of food he would have to make away daily with three barrels of beer! Oh, yes, beer is made of hops! I nearly forgot that. Regarding that point I need only to state that the only 'hops' that enter today into the brewing of beer are the 'hops' of the toad into the old pond that furnishes the water that enters into the manufacture of this 'food.'

"The latest lie the devil has spread broadcast," continued Dr. Hare, "is the one that alcohol is a medicine. Only recently our vice president of the League wrote to one hundred leading physicians of Maryland asking them if alcohol has any medicinal value and if they prescribe it to their patients; and from all the answers received, not one wrote 'yes.' This lie of medical value is still dominant in the minds of many people and all arguments and facts seem unable to disabuse their minds of the falsehood. Any doctor who would prescribe alchol to me, if I were sick, would be immediately dismissed; I would have no faith in the ability of the 'critter' to handle my case. Any one who seems to get relief from alcohol in times of sickness, reminds me of the old conundrum as to which lives the longer, married men or single men; when the contention was made that married men do, the retort was made that that is incorrect—it only seems longer.

"Finally," concluded Dr. Hare, "I desire to congratulate the people of Garrett county upon their recent victory in securing the passage of a most excellent local option measure. Your delegates at Annapolis deserve great credit for their heroic work; Senator Speicher has made history; I fear you do not appreciate half as much as you should the work of your men at Annapolis. That legislature there is wet—very, very wet. If it were placed in a steam drier and the power were turned on, the moisture would be so great that the machine would blow up, And I pray for Garrett county still greater victories this fall when the election takes place; and I hope, when you begin your campaign that you will send for me, for I believe, after my experiences as the head of the movement that gave West Virginia the most drastic dry legislation in the Union, I can give you many points which will assist you materially in being still more victorious."

OUT OF TOWN HAPPENINGS

A Variety of Interesting Paragraphs for Republican Readers

Mrs. Hennen, who has made her home for some time at the residence of Judge F. M. Reynolds, is seriously ill. Word of her mother's illness was conveyed to Mrs. Obed Babb, of Cherry Lane, who arrived here yesterday, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Mabel.—Keyser Tribune.

The coal trade in this vicinity is exceedingly dull, from two or three days a week is about the very best we can do. The severe wintry weather is expected to stimulate domestic trade and increase the demand and it is hoped, very materially increase our output.—Bloomington correspondent.

Sherman and Edward Davis, of Springs, Pa., and Irvin Stanton, Gideon Gnagey, Wilson Folk and Chas. H. Bill, of Grantsville and vicinity, are in this city today. Mr. Bill is returning home from a visit with his brother Frank, in Lonaconing, and some of the other gentlemen named were here to see Liveryman M. W. Race in regard to the purchase of horses.—Frostburg Spirit.

Samuel B. Johnson, who recently leased his planing mill on Bowery street to Chas E. Jeffries, has acquired several tracts of timber in Garrett county and as soon as the weather permits will begin sawing. Mr. Johnson will have an office at this place and will make most of his carload shipments from here over the Western Maryland and Cumberland and Pennsylvania railroads. Mr. Johnson will also sell to local retailers. He has been in the lumber business all his life and is well acquainted with the lumber trade of this section of the country.—Frostburg correspondent of the Cumberland News.

NEW YORK NOW MENACED BY FIRE

Storm Created Havoc With Signals; Fireman Patrol Streets

SITUATION MUCH RELIEVED

Trains Are Moving and Wires Are Rapidly Being Repaired—Seven Persons Are Dead in Philadelphia Because of the Terrific Blizzard. From Eastern Pennsylvania Points Come Reports of Great Damage.

New York, March 3.—With temperatures rising and fair weather prevailing New York and vicinity began to emerge from the storm, which railroad and telegraph companies declare has been the most destructive in this section of the country since the memorable blizzard of 1888.

Reports from other cities showed the damage caused by wind, snow, rain and sleet to be widespread. From Cleveland on the west and Baltimore on the south to the Canadian and Nova Scotian borders the storm has been general.

The disappearing blizzard has left four boroughs at the mercy of fire, destroying or deadening the fire alarm signals in Brooklyn, Richmond, Queens and the Bronx, where firemen are patrolling beats as they used to do in New Amsterdam 250 years ago. In Manhattan only is the system in working order.

Four men were killed by trains while shoveling snow from the tracks, two being swept from the trestle over Jamaica bay. A man was found frozen to death at Hackensack, N. J. His hands covered his ears and he had turned his back to the wind as it swept from the north. He appeared to have lost his way in the storm.

road service which was more general and complete than operating officials ever remembered the situation had improved.

The Pennsylvania and the Lehigh Valley resumed through service and promised, as did all the other roads, a betterment of local service. The New York Central and New Haven reported mitigated conditions.

Unaccountable miles of telegraph and telephone wires were useless, broken or tangled under snow and ice. Only Newark could be reached by telegraph from this city. The only direct service to Washington and the west for newspapers or commercial use was by means of one underground system of wires.

Philadelphia Roughly Used.

Philadelphia, March 3.—Philadelphia was snowbound. Railroad service in all directions was crippled and in some cases, particularly to New York, was discontinued. Telegraphic communication was practically cut off.

The blizzard was the most disastrous since February, 1902. The actual snowfall was about seven inches, but in the suburbs it was much heavier and the high winds piled it up high.

Seven persons are dead as a result of the storm. A motorman was crushed to death between two trolley cars, a stevedore fell into the hold of a ship, four men and a woman died on the street and numerous more or less serious accidents are reported from all sections of the city.

A portion of the brick wall of the Phillies' ball park a hundred feet long was blown down. In the northeastern part of the city several houses were blown down. These were untenanted, however, and no one was injured.

Reports from all points up state as far as Williamsport tell of great havoc wrought. Houses were blown down and unroofed and many barns were destroyed.

A train on the Pennsylvania became stalled this side of Trenton. At daybreak the passengers discovered they were marooned opposite a farm house.

Calvary Protestant Episcopal church was torn away and hurled into Cutler street. Windows in houses were broken and the roofs torn off.

SALESMAN LET OFF EASY

Pleads Guilty to Aiding Girl's Delinquency and Is Fined $100.

Cincinnati, March 3.—An attorney's opinion as to the susceptibility of traveling men to pretty women and a quotation from the Bible by Judge Gorman marked the trial of C. B. Hauser, a New York traveling man charged with contributing to the delinquency of sixteen-year-old Mildred Crane.

He pleaded guilty to two offenses and was fined $100 and costs. As an extenuation of the man's offense Attorney William Goodrich represented him said:

"It is simply a custom of traveling salesmen to flirt with good looking girls on the street."

House looked downcast when the judge quoted from the Bible previous to announcing his verdict. The judge recited the words of Christ to the effect that it is better for a man to have a millstone around his neck and be drowned in the depths of the sea than to have offended one of these little ones.

PSYCHIC FIT OF EPILEPSY, HIS PLEA

Ellis Victim of "Transitory Insanity," Doctor Testifies

Chicago, March 3.—To save William Cheney Ellis, Cincinnati leather merchant, from the death penalty for the murder of his wife in a local hotel last fall the unusual plea of psychic epilepsy was introduced. Psychic epilepsy is known as "transitory insanity."

The former Cincinnati leather merchant injured himself more seriously than was generally supposed, it was testified by A. Elsenstadt, the ambulance surgeon who saw him first after the crime. Dr. Elsenstadt, however, said he observed nothing abnormal in Ellis' manner or speech.

"Ellis appeared to me to be an epileptic. It seemed to me that he had just emerged from a fit," said Dr. Mackler. "From my examination I would say that he might have been in the epileptic seizure from eight to sixteen hours. He was in a dazed condition."

"Doctor," asked Prosecutor Malato, in cross-examination, "if I were to point this revolver at this juryman and kill him during an attack of psychic epilepsy would I know anything about it afterward?"

"Possibly, and then again possibly not," replied Dr. Mackler. "An epileptic's mind is a blank at the time a crime is committed by him, but sleep or different surroundings may bring recollection of it."

Heart on Wrong Side.

Hawkins, W. Va., March 3.—When surgeons operated on Mrs. Laura Casteel of Widdel they found her internal organization just the reverse of that of normal human beings. She was operated on for appendicitis and her appendix was found to be on the left side instead of the right. It was also found the spleen was on the right side instead of the left, the liver on the left side and strangest of all the heart was on the right side. Surgeons say the woman will recover.

$1750
(f.o.b. Detroit)

The Most Talked-About Car in the Country

See This Innovation

A few days ago the first Six-40 was shipped from the HUDSON factory. Before this time the first month's output had been ordered by users who had not seen the car.

They were sold on these startling facts:

That the streamline body, the equipment, the new features were like the latest HUDSON Six-54, the handsomest car of the season.

That the weight would be under 3,000 pounds—under any comparable Four.

That the operative cost would be less than any equal-powered Four.

That the price would be $1750, f. o. b. Detroit—way below the price of Fours of equal power and size and class.

Think What This Means

Sixes have been high-priced, heavy, costly to operate. For that reason many have been forced to buy Fours.

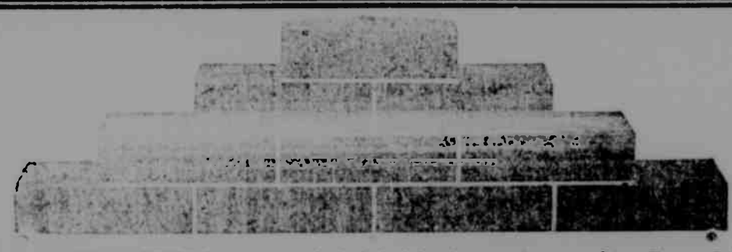
Now comes this Six-40. It weighs 300 pounds less than last year's HUDSON "37"—a Four. It costs one-fourth less to operate. And it far undersells any Four in its class.

You legions of men who seek lightness and economy find them now in this Six-40—beyond any Four you know.

A Distinguished Car

In addition, here is the new streamline body. Here are all the new features which characterize the new HUDSON Six-54.

Disappearing tonneau seats. Gasoline tank in cowl dash. Left side drive. Extra tires ahead of the front door.



Up to six months ago, no car at any price offered so many attractions.

And a car designed by Howard E. Coffin, the great HUDSON engineer. A car that embodies all the best HUDSON standards.

Our first Six-40 has just arrived. It is now on exhibition. Come, see it and ride in it while it is new. The car marks a new era in motor-car history, and all of you should know it.

Lesson X.—First Quarter, For March 8, 1914.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Luke xii. 35-43. Memory Verses, 47, 48—Golden Text, Luke xii, 37—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

The secret of deliverance from the snares of this present evil age is the attitude of expecting the return of the Lord Jesus, according to the teaching of the epistles, "waiting for the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ;" "serving the Living and True God and waiting for His Son from heaven;" "looking for that blessed hope, the glorious appearing of the great God, even our Saviour Jesus Christ" (I Cor. i, 7; I Thess. i, 9, 10; Tit. ii, 13).

In the gospels, as in the Old Testament, the coming of Christ is generally, if not always, His coming in glory to set up His kingdom; His coming in vengeance upon His enemies and with redemption for Israel, as in Deut. xxxii, 39-43; Isa. xxxiv, 1; xxxv, 4; lxiii, 1; Matt. xxiv, 30; xxv, 31. His coming for His church, previous to His coming in glory to judge the nations was specially revealed to Paul, as we saw in our last lesson.

The reference to the return from the wedding in verse 36 makes us think of the order of events in Rev. xix, where the coming in glory with His saints follows the marriage of the Lamb; also in Matt. xxv, 1, in both the Syriac and Vulgate versions, the reading is that the ten virgins went forth to meet "the bridegroom and the bride." But that the virgins cannot represent the church nor can the "all nations" of Matt. xxv, 32, include the church. The church must be seen with Him as the Bridegroom and with Him when He shall come in His glory (Matt. xxv, 1, 51; Col. iii, 4. The coming of Christ as the Son of Man is His coming with His saints to be in His reign of righteousness and peace on earth (Matt. xxvi, 64; Dan. vii, 13, 14; Isa. xxxii, 1, 17).

Having considered the interpretation, we must not lose the application to our own hearts as set forth in such words in our lesson as loins girded, lights burning, watching, ready, doing (35, 37, 40, 42, 43). The loins girded takes us back to Ex. xii, 11, and the night of the first passover and on to Eph. vi, 14; I Pet. i, 13; "loins girt about with truth;" "gird up the loins of your mind, be sober and hope to the end for the grace that is to be brought unto you at the revelation of Jesus Christ."

Watching reminds us of the thrice repeated "watch" of Mark xiii, 33, 37, 37; the reproof in Gethsemane: "Could est not thou watch one hour? Watch ye and pray lest ye enter into temptation" (Mark xiv, 37, 38); the praying and watching of Eph. vi, 18; Col. iv, 2; the "Watch ye; stand fast in the faith" of I Cor. xvi, 13, and the watching to see what He will say (Hab. ii, 1). The word "ready" reminds us that on His part "all things are now ready," but there is a fullness of "salvation ready to be revealed in the last time" (Luke xiv, 17; I Pet. i, 5).

Believers should always be ready to preach the gospel, ready to every good work, ready to be absent from the body or to be caught up to meet the Lord in the air (Rom. i, 15; Tit. iii, 1; Acts xxi, 13; Rev. xix, 7; I Thess. iv, 16-18). As to "doing" (verse 43), while there can be no doing on our part to obtain salvation (Rom. iv, 5; Eph. ii, 8, 9), we are saved in order to good works which God has prepared for us to walk in, works which are good and profitable unto men when they are God working in us both to will and to do of His good pleasure (Eph. ii, 10; Tit. iii, 8; Phil. ii, 13).

The coming of Christ will not be to His waiting ones as a thief, for we are not in darkness, but children of light and of the day (I Thess. v, 4, 5). We are stewards of the manifold grace of God and of the mysteries of God, and the one thing required of a steward is faithfulness (I Cor. iv, 1, 2; I Pet. iv, 10). All who handle the word of God must be careful to give meat in due season, not only milk for babes, but meat as people are able to bear it (I Cor. iii, 1-3; Heb. v, 12-14; John xvi, 12).

We are stewards in reference to all with which our Lord has intrusted us, whether talents or wealth or the gospel and we must give an account of our stewardship. Every one of us shall give account of himself to God (Rom. xiv, 12). This will be at the judgment seat of Christ, where only saved ones shall be to be tried for their service since they became believers. We need for all our service such words as these: "That God in all things may be glorified through Jesus Christ." Not as pleasing men, but God, who trieth our hearts" (I Pet. iv, 11; I Thess. ii, 4; II Tim. ii, 15).

As Joseph shared the throne with Pharaoh, so we are to share the rule with Christ in His kingdom, but whether over few or many cities will depend upon our faithfulness as stewards now (Rev. iii, 21; v, 10; Luke xix, 17, 19). Joseph was ruler over all Egypt; Christ shall rule over all the world (Ps. lxxii, 11).

There are those called servants who are only outwardly servants, like the Pharisees. Such shall find their place with the unbelievers. However they may profess to have known Christ, He will say to them: "I never knew you. Depart from Me ye that work iniquity" (Matt. vii, 21-23).

That there will be different degrees of punishment seems evident from verses 47, 48.

The Man in Seedy Clothes

How a Famous Gambling Resort Came to Be Discontinued

By F. A. MITCHEL

Half a century ago the celebrated gambling house at Monte Carlo did not exist. At that time Baden Baden was the center of attraction for those who wished to "buck the tiger." The building devoted to the purpose was not as splendid as that now at Monte Carlo, but it was a handsome one for those times.

One night a man of mean appearance entered the spacious gambling hall at Baden Baden, shambled up to the table and stood behind those inclosing it looking at the game. His eyesight seemed to be sensitive, for he wore colored glasses. His clothing was shabby, and his appearance was by no means improved by his beard, which was long and straggly.

After watching the game for awhile he pushed his way to a seat beside the table that had been left vacant by a woman who had lost all her money and had nothing for a stake. On the stranger's left was a German baron, who, looking aside at his new neighbor, and not relishing the proximity of such a looking man, gathered up the coin before him and withdrew.

The seedy individual drew from his pocket a purse, from which he took a few gold pieces and distributed them over the numbers he wished to cover. The wheel was spun, the ball rattled about in the inclosure, and the croupier announced what had won and what had lost. The stranger was ahead on his bets. The next time he lost, and next won and continued to win and lose, his winnings usually equaling his losses.

At the table directly opposite the newcomer sat a young man, whom a number of the players recognized as a member of the ducal court. He was known to be talented and a favorite with his sovereign. Much of his time was spent at the gambling table, and report said that a splendid estate he possessed was gradually being transferred to others through the roulette table. On this occasion he was playing feverishly, risking large sums and usually losing.

At last he had nothing more to lose and sat with his hat drawn down over his eyes, doubtless to conceal his emotion, looking fixedly on the red where he had lost his last stake.

At the moment a handsomely dressed woman entered the hall with a hasty step and approached the table evidently looking for some one. Seeing the nobleman, she went to him, stood behind him and was about to lay a hand on his shoulder when the seedy individual opposite pushed a handful of gold pieces in front of his vis-a-vis. Whether the latter did not understand that an offer of a loan had been made him or whether he declined to accept a favor from one of such disreputable appearance none could tell. But he continued to gaze as before on the red, making no motion to use the proffered coins. Then the man who had made the offer partly rose, reached across the table and placed the money he had offered on a spot where if it won it would win 5 to 1.

This incident held the hand of the lady behind the nobleman, and instead of letting it fall where she had intended she waited. The wheel was spun, the ball rattled, and, being at last caught in one of the receptacles, the croupier announced the result. A dozen gold pieces that the seedy man had placed for his vis-a-vis were covered by sixty pieces of the same denomination.

All eyes were fixed on the winner to see what he would do. Would he accept his winnings? If so would he repay the loan? Would he replace his new stake? Would he leave the whole amount where it was?

He answered these questions by doing nothing. He made no motion. His hat concealed the upper part of his face so that no one could see what it expressed. Since he did not withdraw his winnings it was assumed that he would leave them where they were. If he lost he would lose the whole amount; if he won he would win five times the sixty or 300 gold pieces.

The direction "Make your bets" was given, and the wheel was twirled.

By this time those about the table had largely lost interest in their own bets in the more absorbing diversion of watching this reckless player, who seemed resolved to risk all on one turn of the wheel. The ball rattled louder than ever in the surrounding silence. The hush continued till the croupier announced that the 5 to 1 bet had won again, then burst forth a din of exclamations.

The only impassive person at the table was the winner. He made no sign of excitement, did not extend a hand toward the gold that was poured on to the table for him to take up. The seedy man who was the cause of all this good fortune had ceased to bet, being apparently intent upon the person he had befriended. But his features, too, were concealed, the principal one, his eyes, being covered by the colored glasses.

The exclamations of the onlookers were succeeded by another hush. Could it be possible that the winner would leave what now amounted to nearly $2,000 of our money where it was, taking the chances again of losing all or winning five times the amount? The silence was broken by a soft voice coming from the woman standing behind the object of all this interest.

"Carl, hadn't you better take up some of your winnings?"

There was no reply—at least none was heard, for at that moment the ball rattled again.

For the third time the five to one won.

What was before mingled exclamations was now a hubbub. The heap of coins would be too large for the spot covered, and an I O U was laid on the pile. The seedy man sat stolidly looking at the man for whom he had rendered possible those winnings, but he made no protest against tempting fate further.

"Oh, Carl!" cried the woman behind the gambler. "Don't! Please don't risk it all again."

But the appeal was disregarded. The spinner of the wheel waited a few moments, but, receiving no sign that the money on the five to one spot would be changed, twirled it, and again the croupier announced that the bank had lost.

Something like $2,000 had now accrued to the credit of the winner. The woman behind him put her arms about his neck, with her face close to his. It was noticed that she shuddered. The seedy man opposite arose with his eyes glued to the couple before him. Then the woman gave a shriek.

Some one pulled the gambler's hat off. A burst of horror followed the uncovering of a face that bore the pallor of death, eyes that were fixed in a vacant stare on the pile of gold before them. The woman fainted and was carried out of the room by one party of attendants, while the dead gambler was carried out by another. These two objects of interest having been removed, the crowd looked about for the man with the threadbare clothes who had furnished the original stake.

He had disappeared.

While the excitement, the horror, was at its height he was leaving the gambling hall and, passing out of the gardens in which the building stood, called a cab, got in and to the driver, who bent down to hear to what point he wished to be driven, said:

"To the palace of the grand duke."

Stopping before a door in the rear of the building the "fare" turned him over to a lackey for his pay and hurried upstairs. Entering one of the apartments, he summoned attendants, who divested him of his clothes and handed him others.

"Send for the Count de ——," he said.

The Count de —— was the prime minister. In half an hour he appeared at the palace and was ushered into an apartment where the grand duke was awaiting him.

"Count," said the latter, "Baden Baden must cease to be a gambling hell."

"One of our brightest young men, Baron Carl Steinforth, whom I have intended for a high position, has recently—so I heard—been losing his patrimony. Knowing that he has frequented the Casino every day and evening, I went there tonight in disguise partly to see him for myself and partly to look upon what is going on there. I was present when he staked and lost his last coin. I put up a stake for him, which he did not notice, and I now believe he was dead at the time I offered it. I placed it for him where it would win, and it did win several times in succession. The baroness, his wife, came in to look for him doubtless to get him away at the moment I put up the stake. She waited while he won, then discovered the truth. She was carried out of the hall unconscious; her husband was carried out a corpse.

"I desire that you immediately take steps to recall the gambling privileges accorded to this nefarious concern. Let it be your first business on the morrow."

Such is the story of the recall of the license for gambling at Baden Baden as I heard it told by one who had been intimate with members of the grand ducal court. Had it not (the gambling) been transferred to Monte Carlo Europe would have got rid of a central point for gamblers. As it is, the business was simply moved from one point to another. But Germany is fortunate in putting it off her territory.

CELERY WITH SAUCE.

LUNCHEON MENU.
Grilled Kidneys With Bacon.
Braised Celery.
Apple Pudding.
Cake Cocoa.

CELERY cooked and served with a well flavored sauce is most palatable. The sauce may be used to suit the taste.

Braised Celery.—Braised celery is a favorite vegetable at many foreign restaurants. It affords the cook an excellent way of utilizing the large outside stalks. Boil the celery stalks in a weak meat stock or in water to which some beef preparation has been added. When tender thicken the liquid slightly and use as a sauce. Braised celery is a suitable accompaniment to either hot or cold meats and is particularly good with poultry.

Very Much Flavored.

Celery With Spanish Sauce.—Take two heads of celery, one ounce of butter, one half pint of white stock, half pint of cream sauce, salt and pepper. Wash the celery in cold water, take off the outer leaves and trim the roots. Wash again in salt water. Drain well in a sieve, then in four inch lengths. Melt the butter in a sauce pan, put in the celery and add the white stock. Cover with a piece of buttered paper, put on the lid of the pan and cook slowly about forty five minutes to an hour. Now add the Spanish sauce, season with salt and pepper and put the pan in the oven for twenty minutes. Have ready strips of toasted buttered bread. Drain the celery and arrange it on the toast. Take the fat off the sauce, reduce a little, then pour over the celery. Serve hot.

With a Popular Sauce.

Celery With White Sauce.—Take two heads of celery, three-quarters ounce of flour, one pint of milk, one ounce of butter, salt and pepper. Cut off the outside pieces of celery, wash it well in cold water, then cut the celery into pieces about four inches long. Wash again so as to remove any grit there may be left. Put the milk in a sauce pan and as soon as it boils put in the celery and simmer until it becomes tender. It will take about one half hour. Add one half teaspoonful of salt when celery is almost done, also a good dash of white pepper. Keep covered while cooking. When celery is tender drain it well and place on a hot dish. Melt the butter, stir in the flour, strain in the milk in which the celery was cooked and bring to the boiling point, stirring all the time. Simmer gently a few minutes, season with more salt and pepper if liked, then pour the sauce over the celery and serve very hot.

WHOLESOME HONEY CAKES.

WE now often use honey for making various kinds of cakes and in making certain kinds of candy. It is both wholesome and delicious. Children are particularly fond of it, and such sweets can be given them quite freely.

Light and Dainty.

Honey Sponge Cake.—Take a cupful honey, whisk the whites of five eggs and beat to a stiff froth, sift in one cupful of flour, remove the whisk, mix with a wooden spoon, stirring as little as possible. Flavor with lemon. Pour into a buttered and floured tin. Bake in a moderate oven.

Honey Cookies.—Beat four ounces of butter, gradually add half a pound of sugar, one quart of honey and the juice of two lemons. Combine thoroughly and mix in flour to make a stiff paste. Roll out and cut into round cakes, lay on buttered pans. Bake till ready in a moderate oven.

Well Spiced Cakes.

Honey Cakes.—Put two cupfuls of honey and three-quarters of a pound of sugar into a saucepan and bring slowly to boiling point. Add a quarter of a pound of chopped almonds from which the skins have not been removed. Simmer five minutes, take from the fire, cool slightly, add half a pound of candied peel cut into small pieces, half a teaspoonful of baking soda, half a teaspoonful of ground cloves, one teaspoonful of ground cinnamon, half of a grated nutmeg, the grated rind of a lemon and enough flour to make a stiff paste. Roll out, cut into rounds with a cutter, lay on buttered tins and bake.

New Health Fruit Cake.

Honey Fruit Cake.—Sift two cupfuls of flour into a basin, rub one cupful of butter finely into it, add two teaspoonfuls of cream of tartar and one teaspoonful of baking soda, one teaspoonful of grated nutmeg, one teaspoonful of powdered cloves, one teaspoonful cinnamon, half a pound citron peel cut finely, one pound of cleaned currants and one pound of raisins. Beat up four eggs, add two cupfuls of honey and one cupful of sweet milk. Pour among dry ingredients, mix well. Bake in a slow oven till ready.

YOUNG GIRL ACCIDENTLY SHOT AND DEATH ENSUES

Miss Iva Markley Wounded By a Revolver Bullet Feb. 18th Died Sunday.

On February 18th Miss Iva Markley, aged sixteen years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Markley, aged 16, was accidentally shot by her cousin, a young man named Friend, who was handling a revolver, when it explodad and the bullet took effect in the young lady's right side, penetrating her lung.

Dr. N. I. Broadwater was called and extracted the bullet, but an abscess developed in her lung, from the effects of which death ensued on Sunday.

The deceased was born on March 4th, 1898, and was just budding into young womanhood. She suffered intensely at times during her illness.

The funeral occurred from the home at Hutton Tuesday and was attended by a large number of sympathetic friends and relatives. A very impressive sermon was delivered by the young woman's pastor, Rev. Bowman, of the U. B. church.

The remains of the deceased were taken to the family burying ground at Swallow Falls where many sorrowing friends gathered to pay a last tribute to one who had spent her early childhood in that community.

She is survived by her parents, five sisters and two brothers and other relatives. The flower bearers at the funeral were Misses Edna Salzman, Margaret Connell, Lucy Hardesty and Lucretia Carney.

Slight Fire Sunday.

Sunday afternoon a fire, communicatted to the floor timbers over the furnace room in the Browning Hotel in Oakland, was discovered in its incipiency and put out by means of chemicals in the hands of neighbors before the arrival of the hose reel which was on the ground within a very few minutes after the alarm was given. Slight damage to the property resulted.

GARRETT COUNTIAN IN TROUBLE.

Arrested And Charged With Extreme Cruelty To a Horse.

In Frostburg on Tuesday Orville Stark, the young farmer of Garrett county who is accused of maltreating a horse which balked on Sandspring hill Feb. 1, appeared before Squire Gatehouse in response to a summons issued by State's Attorney F. A. Perdew, of Allegany county, at the instance of M. D. Reinhart, representing the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Stark admitted readily of having placed a chain about the horse's lower jaw and attaching the chain to another sled for the purpose of forcing the horse to pull. He said that he had no intention of cruelty but resorted to this method at the suggestion of others who advised it. He denied placing the chain around the animal's tongue and said that the portion of tongue cut off was caught between the chain and the horse's teeth when the chain slipped off. Stark had is horse along, and those who saw it, state that a small part of the tongue is missing.

The animal ate the same as usual when he returned home in the evening, said Stark, and gave no signs of suffering. Stark is about 25 years of age and married, and is a son of John Stark, of Avilton. He enjoys a fine reputation, possesses the earmarks of a gentleman and has the esteem of all his acquaintances, many of whom, were at Frostburg out of sympathy for Stark, who, they assested, would injure purposely, neither a dumb brute or a human being.

State's Attorney Frank A. Perdew prayed a jury trial and Stark filled a bond for appearance at the April term of court.

Married

WHITE—BALDWIN—Arthur Allen White, of Oakland, and Miss Beulah May Baldwin, Ella street, Cumberland were married at 11 o'clock Monday at the United Brethren Church parsonage Cumberland, by the pastor, Rev. H. E. Richardson.

THE LEGISLATIVE MILL IS STILL GRINDING.

Oyster Culture Has Been The Most Important Subject Thus Far.

Annapolis, Md., March 11.

On the third day of next November the voters of Garrett county will be permitted by referendum to decide whether the sale of liquor shall be prohibited in the county for a term of four years or longer beginning on May 1, 1915.

This referendum was made possible yesterday when Governor Goldsborough signed the Speicher bill, which passed the House last week.

From sentiment sounded by citizens of Garrett, who came here earlier in the session to back Senator Speicher in the fight, the county election will decisively vote against the license system and there seems every indication that the county will be entirely "dry" one year from this May.

In every particular the Speicher bill is a fair one to both the liquor and temperance forces. The rights of the liquor dealers are fully recognized by the provision that if the county votes dry the law shall not go into effect until what would be the license year 1915. Though this every person takes out a license next May will be permitted the privilege of continuing his business until the license has expired.

Another important factor is that while the first decision of the voters under the bill shall hold good until 1918 that a new referendum on the liquor question can be secured at the November election in that year on a petition of 25 per cent. of the registered voters of the county. This disposes of the argument that the people when they once speak shall never be permitted to change their minds. While it is that a trial of the no license plan will be followed by a prolonged continuation of the plan the opportunity will be open for the voters to publicly signify in 1918 and every four years after, if they desire, that they were mistaken as to the wisdom of doing away with the retail liquor traffic in the county.

While Garrett county has had much important local legislation this session the Speicher local option bill is regarded here as by far the most important of the batch and the county Senator's friends are are still congratulating him on his magnificient tight and victory.

Like other local legislation the good bills affecting Garrett county are taking the usual legislative course and will come out in due time in shape to receive the Governor's signature. There have been some bills affecting the county which the Assembly has refused to accept and these of course have gone into the discard.

Incidentally Delegate Shartzer of Garrett is getting the record of being the most persistent introducer of legislation of either body. Many of his bills are regarded as most trivial by members from other counties and the House desk officers shiver each day when the hour for introduction of bills comes, anticipating the flood that is liable to pour forth from the Garrett delegation. Indeed it is said that Mr. Shartzer, when some of his measures have been killed, has gone so far as to re-introduce them.

The oyster light is over at last and the Assembly will once more settle down to a cool and dispassionate consideration of other legislation. For nearly a fortnight all subjects except oyster planting and repeal of culture laws have been shoved to the background. Oyster has been king and he ruled both the Senate and the House with a rod of iron to the exclusion of all other topics and issues. Both bodies have at least sent to the third reading files the Shepherd amendments to the planting laws and by majorities which cannot be reversed when the actual third reading is reached.

The oyster culture people insist that the Shepherd amendments will slowly strangle oyster culture. On the other hand the tide water people say the change in the planting laws as will be brought about by the Shepherd bill will not injure honest culture but will give back to the oystermen what really belongs to them under the present Haman law. The Garrett county legislators sided with the culturists and voted against the Shepherd bill.

The Democratic caucus is meeting tonight to decide the amount of the 1914 road loan, which will be a straight majority party measure. The loan will be either $0,200,000 or $0,500,000.

The Legislature will also shortly take up workmen's compensation, the bills to reform penal conditions in the state and a primary election law to nominate candidates for the United States Senator.

LOCAL LEGISLATION

Status of Measures Offered—Notes of the Session.

A bill has been offered in the House by one of the delegation from Allegany county to limit the hours of work of coal miners in Garrett and Allegany counties to eight hours a day, and providing a penalty on managers and employees who violate this act.

Senator Speicher's two bills relating to the corporation of Oakland are in the hands of the Governor for his signature. It will not be many days until the population of this city will be increased by the addition of a number of suburban properties.

A bill has been offered in the Senate to increase the term of the Sheriff from two to four years, to take effect from the election of 1915. This is a state wide bill.

Delegate Savage has offered a bill to elect the clerk to the county commissioners for a term of four years, instead of two years as at present. If the bill passes it will not go into effect until after the election of 1915. The County Commissioners are elected for four years. It is thought that it would be best to elect their clerks for the same number of years.

Ex Senator McCulloh Brown, of Garrett county was in Annapolis part of last week lobbying against the repeal of the oyster bill. The Senator, several years ago, assisted in making the survey of the oyster beds, hence is well posted on the subject. The Garrett delegation so far have voted against the repeal of the bill.

A bill has been sent to Annapolis from Garrett county, asking for some changes in the sheriff's office at the expiration of Sheriff Scott's term.

Delegate Shartzer has offered a bill to increase the term of A. G. Ross, clerk to the County Commissioners from 2 to 4 years. This bill will be killed because it is contrary to the constitution of the State, which prohibits the extending of an official term, while said official is in office.

Last Friday the Committee on Elections reported unfavorably on Mr. Shartzers third bill on election printing in Garrett county. The report was adopted and the bill killed. This was an extraordinary bill, full of contradictions and impossibilities.

Senator Speicher spent Saturday and Sunday in Oakland and received the hearty congratulations of his host of friends upon his successful service at Annapolis. He returned to Annapolis Monday morning as did also Delegate Harvey who had been called home by the illness of his child.

Mr. L. A. Rudisil, of the Park, was a week end visitor at his home, returning to Annapolis Monday.

The Attorney General of Maryland thoroughly examined Senator Speicher's local option bill for Garrett county and pronounced it constitutional and on last Tuesday Governor Goldsborough signed the bill and made it one of the laws of this great state. Now it is up to the people of Garrett county to blot out saloons and saloonism from the county.

Mr. Shartzer's bill prohibiting fishing in Bear Creek and its tributaries will be killed because of the adoption of Senator Speicher's county wide fish bill, which is in the hands of the Governor for signing. Five of Senator Speicher's bills have passed through the legislature. No other member of the Garrett county delegation has, as yet, succeedrd in getting a bill through both houses.

Delegate Shartzer has introduced another bill. This time it is a seed bill, but as Senator Collier has introduced a similar bill with more safe guards and in more detail than the Shartzer bill, it is probable that if either bill is approved it will be Senater Collier's.

The bills introduced in the House relating to chekweighing and smithing, affecting the miners of Garrett and Allegany counties have been reported favorably and passed to the third reading.

Mr. Harvey's bill confirming the boundary lines of Loch Lynn Heights which was favorably reported and passed to the third reading came up for final action Friday, but to the surprise of the Garrett delegation the bill was not passed but was reconsidered and referred to the judiciary committee. The probability is that the bill will be amended by eliminating the B. & O. station and grounds from that corporation. It is supposed that the B. & O. R. R. Co. was behind this movement.

DEMOCRATS WERE WINNERS AT TOWN ELEGTION MONDAY

The Entire Ticket Was Elected by Overwhelming Majorities

For Mayor, A. T. Matthews; for Councilmen, Dr. B. F. Selby, Mr. Stuart F. Hamill and Mr. Charles A. Deffinbaugh.

This ticket was opposed by one nominated Friday night following a call for a convention issued by County Committeeman Giessman, when the following were named:

The balloting Monday resulted as follows:

For Mayor
A. T. Matthews, D.	173
George W. Legge, Jr., R.	88
For Councilmen
Dr. B. F. Selby, D.	148
Stuart F. Hamill, D.	152
Charles A. Deffinbaugh, D.	179
John W. Davis, R.	112

Oakland High School Notes.

The Rev. Dr. Moore, one of the ministers of the town, visited our school on last Monday and delivered a highly interesting and profitable talk on "Some Elements of Success." We sincerely thank Dr. Moore, and cordially invite him to come again.

The Junior and Senior classes announce elsewhere in these columns, a spelling match and box supper, to be held at the Empire Theatre on St. Patrick's Day, March 17th. Every one cordially invited to be present. Come and prove your ability as a speller, a judge of good cooking, and a booster of your town High School. Remember that the ladies who will pack the boxes are Domestic Science students. If you do not care to buy a box, come and eat some ice cream with us.

We are expecting the Rev. Dr. Reed, of Oakland, to address us tomorrow. As a school we appreciate the co-operation of the gentlemen who so kindly speak to us from time to time. It argues well for the standing of our school.

In spite of the inclement weather some of our out of-town students, as well as a number of those living in town have been present every day this year, including the stormy 2nd of March.

NEW ASSESSMENT ORDERED.

By The Town Authorities, Which will Be Made by a Board of Three

An adjourned meeting of the City Council was held Tuesday night for the purpose of naming assessors of property for town taxation purposes, when Council appointed Messrs. George W. Legge Sr., James A. Delawder and D. E. Bolden assessors, who will begin their work very shortly.

Frederick J. Schroeder.

"Mr. Frederick J. Schroeder, a well known and highly respected citizen of this city, is today quietly celebrating his thirty-ninth birthday at his home on South Market street. Mr. Schroeder has been a life-long resident of Frederick, is well known in fraternal circles, and is a master of his trade. He is the son of the late George A. Schroder and Mrs. Mollie A. Schroeder. He was educated in the public schools of the city and in 1891 entered as apprentice at the Daily Examiner, located in the property now occupied by the Western Union Telegraph Company. He was employed as a printer in various offices in Frederick, until 1900, when he left this city for Cumberland. He later went to Oakland, where he was manage of the Garrett Journal. In 1910 he took a course at the Mergenthaler Linotype Instruction School, Brooklyn, N. Y., and upon his return to this city was the Linotype machinist-operator for The Press. Upon the organization of the The Post Publishing Company, Mr. Schroeder accepted a position with this company as a Linotype machinist-operator. At present he is considered one of the fastest operators in the state, and with his thorough knowledge of the mechanism of the machine, he is considered an expert at his profession."

Will Remove Body.

Mr. Thomas Goretski, of LaPorte, Ind., accompanied by Mr. Kingler, a retired business man of that city, were in Oakland last Friday when they called at the Republican office to learn something of the particulars attending the death of Albert Rock, the young man who was killed at the Third street bridge in Oakland on January 30th by being knocked from the top of the tender of an engine upon which he was riding. Mr. Gorteski is the step-father of the unfortunate young man and went from here to Keyser with the purpose of having the body disinterred and removed to LaPorte. At the time of young Rock's death no trace of relatives could be found, hence the body was buried at Keyser, to which point it was removed from Oakland.

HENRY B. HARVEY

GARRETT REPRESENTATIVES IN THE HOUSE OF DELEGATES

Commending Mr. Elliott C. Harvey for His Faithful Service.

One of the few legislators at Annapolis who have previous service in the law-making body of this State, is the Hon. Elliott C. Harvey, Chairman of the Garrett County Delegation in the House. Mr. Harvey was an honored member of the General Assembly of Maryland in 1904, just ten years ago, and then, as now, he was one of the wheel-horses of the House, a level-headed, sensible member, who can be depended upon at all times to do that which his conscience tells him is right, regardless of whether it favors one man or another, one party or another. Mr. Harvey is a good and stanch Republican, but even his loyalty and allegiance to that party would not influence him against his will to vote contrary to the dictates of his conscience, or if he knew he was casting his vote against a principle in doing so. Mr. Harvey is one of those sturdy, intelligent and conscientious men, so rarely met with in the State House at Annapolis these days in a representative capacity, who weigh every question with deliberation and care before deciding upon which side they will speak or vote, and to this inherent characteristic must be attributed the sincere respect and high regard in which he is held by his fellow members in the House, as well as by those in the Senate.

Mr. Harvey has been an efficient member from the start, his former experience as to the procedure and methods long since established by legislative bodies giving him a decided advantage over newer and one-term members who are largely in the majority. Mr. Harvey has devoted himself earnestly and assiduously to the duties of his position. He believes in fewer laws, and better laws. He coincides with the fast growing multitude of students, thinkers and workers in political economics, who believe the wisest government, and the government which is closer to the masses of the people is the government which gives first attention to the quality and not the quantity of the laws enacted and placed upon the statute books of the State. Consequently, Mr. Harvey has introduced very few Bills this session for his home County, but those which do bear his name will be found to be meritorious measures and based upon some public or popular demand. Mr. Harvey exercises the same concern and interest in measures not of his own making, and not particularly applicable to his own section; he gives them earnest consideration, both as to their intent and necessity, and he thus determines his course either for or against those Bills, accordiug to his belief that a proposed Bill is good or bad, or that it is needed for the general public welfare and uplift of the people, or that it is a subterfuge, conceived through cunning and chicanery, and prompted by selfish aims and ulterior motives.

Although the senior member of the Garrett Delegation is a loyal Republican, he is not an offensive partisan, and he has made many warm friends among the members of the majority party, who look upon him as a man of mature thought and steady impulse, and who can be depended upon to give calm consideration to every proposition presented, dealing with it strictly upon its merits, and endorsing it only when convinced that it is a legitimate matter, destined to redound to the good of the whole people of the State.

During the past week Mr. Harvey has experienced what to some men would have been an annoyance, from "lobbyists" and others who are interested in one measure and another—not that the Garrett Delegate is regarded in any sense as a marketable commodity in the legislative houses, no, indeed; but it is realized that with a member of Mr. Harvey's recognized standing and reputation in favor of a measure, it can go before the house with some assurance of attracting the conservation members toward its support. There was the Woman's Suffrage question early in the week, and a little later the Oyster Bill, known as the "Haman Law Repeal Bill" by Mr. Anderson, of Dorchester, a very warm personal friend of Mr. Harvey, since the beginning of the session, by-the-way. On these measures Delegate Harvey was besieged by representatives of first one side and then the other, until the Garrett County Chairman was literally pulled to pieces. But he accepted it all good naturedly, gave everyone a courteous and patient hearing and then explained that he would study the provisions of the respective measeres (if he had not already done so) and thatthe parties interested could rest assured that he would vote according to his best judgment and the dictates of his conscience. And this decision has always been satisfying and accepted as final, and those who are trusting to the merits of their various measures to put them through have felt reasonably certain of receiving Mr. Harvey's support, while those whose Bills contain hidden motives and doubtful purposes promptly abandon whatever expectation they may have of inducing the Garrett Countain to vote for them; knowing full well that his keen scrutiny and careful analysis would penetrate the veiled and hidden objects sought to be gained by the pending measures.

And so, when the fate of the Speicher Local Option Bill was quivering in the balance, when a mis-step or blunder, however trivial or unintentional, meant the weighing of the scales against it, Delegate Harvey's experience and his renutation for honesty and straightforwardness stood the friends of the Bill and the Bill itself in good stead. He urged his fellow members to support it, and they, knowing he was sincere, that sincerity appealed to them, and he most always got their promised aid if it should be needed. The service thus rendered by Mr. Harvey in this fight, his ceaseless co-operation with his colleague, Mr. Savage, and with the Senator from Garrett county, in this remarkable contest, his honest sincerity when he appeared before the Temperance committee, did much to save the day and bring disaster to the plans and purposes of the enemies of the Bill.

Mr. Harvey, not unlike his colleague, Mr. Savage, does not seek the limelight of publicity and notoriety, but he moves about and performs his most effective work without ostentation and with unsimulated modesty. He makes no demonstration in his line of duty, and prefers the solace of an approving conscience to the temporary applause of the vascillating multitudes.

Mr. Harvey can very consistently be termed the "Grand Old Man" of the Garrett Delegation, if not, indeed, of the whole House. He stands out preminently in his characteristic integrity, his dispassionate judgment, his keen perception, and his strict adherence to the right as he sees it.

Such men as this do honor to themselves and reflect credit upon their constituents. They benefit not only their own locality in their successful efforts, but they stand as barriers between the people of the whole State and the prevalent machinations of the political demagogues and tricksters, holding them in check and rallying the better element in the Legislature to defeat the high handed schemes and fulsome pretentions of the masqueraders for good government.

Garret county is to be congratulated upon having sent to Annapolis such a man as the Hon. Elliott C. Harvey. He has already rendered surpassing service to his County and State, aud he can be counted upon to continue the good work to the end.

SUPPORT YOUR LOCAL NEWSPAPER

"And above everything else support your local newspaper." This statement closed a speech delivered with much oratorical effect by the editor of a small daily newspaper in Missouri at a recent banquet held by a newly organized commercial club in a neighboring town. And to further clinch his argument he repeated the statement over again several times.

The emphasis he pladed on the word "support" pretty well typifies the attitude of many publishers of small-town newspapers toward their local merchants' advertising, and it also well typifies the feeling that many small-town merchants hold toward their local newspaper.

And this mutual feeling of "support" is the very thing that combines to make many a small town backward and many a rural community the chief source of dividends for the mail order house in the distant city.

It's a sorry thing to relate, but a fact, that the very men in the small town who is supposed to know the most about advertising and modern merchandising methods—the newspaper man—is in too many cases the one person who knows the least about these things. A glance at his shop is all that is necessary to prove the argument.

Many things combine to cause this but when sifted to the bottom the merchants themselves usually are the real cause. They know full well that by pitting the two rival printing offices (there are always two in every town) against each other it is possible to get printing and advertising below cost.

Now it's a fine thing to pluck the local editor, but it has much the same effect that results from the small town property owner purchasing his merchandise from the mail order house. He saves a little money on the goods, but he decreases the value of his property by killing his town.

But we can't excuse the local editor for not having sufficient backbone to better his own condition.

The whole trouble is a lack of understanding on the part of both publisher and merchants. Simmered down, their problems are one. It is a pretty well known fact that it's a difficult thing for a town to extend its retail trade limits farther than the circulation of the newspaper in that town. The publisher needs an extensive circulation of his paper in the community in order to live and grow, and the merchants in that same community need his circulation as an economical method of increasing their business.

A better understanding of this problem on the part of merchant and publisher will soon show an improvement in any rural community. When the country editor gets the idea of "support" out of his head and meets his merchants on this common ground of modern business, he will see the standing "cards" leave his newspaper columns and in their place live advertisements of store news that will not only help his circulation but will help his town.

Fortunately there are several modern influences at work that are bound to bring about much betterment in the next few years. The country merchant need not think he is alone in studying better merchandising methods. If he will glance into the dingy newspaper office some night he will find Editor Jones poring over a lot of blanks labeled "Cost Sheets." Mr. Editor is discovering how he has been the "goat" for so long that he has less money now than he started with a dozen years before.

Another element perhaps of more vital influence than all the others is that the newspaper business, as well as merchandising, is soon to be professionalized—lifted from the ranks of a trade to a par with banking, the practice of medicine, law, engineering, agriculture, if you please.

Co-ordinate with the schools of commerce where the future merchant is to be trained, has grown up in the modern university the school of journalism.

The practical farmer has long ceased laughing at the "book farmer." Likewise will the practical merchant and newspaper men soon cease ridiculing the university trained men in their lines. At least a half-dozen American universities are now offering instruction in business to a combined enrollment of more than two thousand students. More than twenty universities are offering instruction in newspaper-making—journalism—to a combined enrollment of nearly two thousand students. In at least two leading state universities the courses have developed to such an extent that newspaper advertising is being taught.

This modern type of education has come first in the state universities, for they serve the state to justify their usefulness and cost. Here is where the small town of the future will benefit, for the majority of these young men with their enthusiastic professional spirit will see the opportunities there as opposed to the large cities where the main chances are overcrowded.

MAPLE SUGAR SEASON AT HAND.

An Important Industry of Garrett County, that Will Soon Be in Full Blast.

One of the most important industries in the neighboring counties of Garrett, Md., and Somerset, Pa., is the manufacture of maple sugar, and the season for its manufacture will soon be in full blast. There is no regular time for the season to open, as it all depends on the weather. However, as a general thing, most of the maple sugar and syrup is made during the month of February and March.

Some years the month of January is a good month for the manufacture of maple sweets, but generally the ground during that month is too solidly frozen and [illegible] cold. This year the weather was quite favorable for that industry during a portion of January, and some of the farmers in the vicinity of Grantsville and Salisbury made some very high grade syrup during that month.

The sugar and syrup made early in the season is of the finest quality and always brings the highest price. However, a very high grade product is usually turned out all through February when the weather is favorable and there isn't too much rain. When much rain water gets into the sap pails, the flavor of the sugar and syrup is somewhat impaired and the color darkened. The same defects are encountered when the sap begins to rise in the trees and the buds begin to swell. When the latter takes place, the season for sugar making comes speedily to a close.

Some years the sugar season extends well into April, but that only happens when the rising of the sap and the swelling of the buds is held back by cold, freezing weather. The three essentials for good runs of sugar-water are plenty of moisture in the ground, frosty or freezing weather at night and warm, sunshiny days. Sometimes heavy runs take place when wet, heavy snow is falling. In fact such snows are known among sugar-makers as "sugar snows;" but sugar-water never runs when the ground is frozen and the air freezing cold at the same time.

When sugar-making is in full swing, the camps are often the scene of merry parties who call to indulge in the pleasure of a fill of taffy, or "spotza" as it is usually termed by the farmers who manufacture maple sweets. No other confection ranks with maple taffy or "spotza" for delicious flavor and the way to get it in its best form is to visit a sugar camp on "stirring off" days and dip a quantity of the sweet stuff, when it is boiled to the proper consistency, into a vessel of cold water. When it is cooled by the water, you have a tough, irregular mass of delicious stuff that will cling to your memory all through life after you have tasted it and filled up therewith. Men may come and men may go, but the craving for maple taffy made as we have described, goes on forever with all who have had the pleasure of eating it.

Those who have frequented sugar camps in their youthful days, no matter to what part of the earth they may roam, will each year, to the end of their lives, during the maple sugar season have a yearning to be among the sugar-makers once more and participate in the merry gathering at the camps and hear the furnace roar.

The thoughts of it have brought forth from Mahlon P. Lichty, of North Dakota, who formerly resided in both Garrett county, Md., and Somerset county, Pa., the following:

Well, I noticed all fall and winter so far you people "down east" had your fun sleigh-riding during the past month, and now I see you have opened up your sugar camps again so early in the season, and that always appeals to my muse and inspires me to write spring poetry, or rather doggerel, for I don't lay any claim to being a natural born poet, much less a decent verse maker. But—

Methinks I see the sugar camps
A steaming off afar,
And smell the sweetly scented air,
Like fragrance from a jar.
And down along the old Pine Run,
Or up the old Tub Mill,
I imagine there is fun,
By merry youngsters still.

For in my mem'ry I still hold,
The good old days of yore,
And now as I am growing old,
I long for them once more
The Beachys, Folks and Livengoods,
The Millers, Mausts and Kerns,
Made a plenty of sweet goods,
Oh, those were glorious times!

And all along the lanes and pikes,
And in the dales and dingles,
The Pecks, the Lichtys, Saylors, Fikes,
The Lowrys, Boyds and Engles—
But space forbids me naming more,
All versed in this sweet art.
Methinks I hear the furnace roar—
It wakes me with a start.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

A Real Dyed-in-the-wool Yard Wide Stand Pat Seventh Day Adventist Away Down in Baltimore Gives His Reasons For Being What He Is.

To the Editor of the Republican.

In your issue of Feb. 12, one "First Day" sets forth the teachings of Seventh-Day Adventists. He apparently finds much that is objectionable. First Day surely does not feel very kindly toward Seventh Day Adventists. We trust he is not the spirit of Cain who slew his brother and "wherefore slew he him because his own works were evil and his brother's righteous."

I am very much inclined to believe that Seventh Day Adventists are better prepared to set forth what they believe and teach and why—there is one not in sympathy with their teachings. I therefore beg space to reply to "First Day."

Yes, Seventh Day Adventists do lay a great deal of stress upon God's commandments just as they read—and this includes the keeping of the seventh day which is Saturday. I shall not attempt to give reasons. God says blessed are they that do, and they are classed as wise who hear and do. Matt 7:21. We teach that all should obey the law of God through faith in Jesus Christ.

Christians keep the law—sinners break it. We do not keep it to make our-selves christians but because we are christians. The law is our allight since we are born again. Seventh Day Adventists believe the everlasting Gospel is the world's need. We accept it in the peculiar setting God has been pleased to give it in Rev. 14:6-12. We believe that when God promises something—to be sure all His promises are conditional if we comply He will surely fulfill His part. Those who disobey the special call will surely be visited with His judgments. The Autideluvians were, so were the cities of Sodom and Gormoerah. He is no respector of persons.

Seventh Day Adventists believe in the preexistence of Christ. We believe he was associated with the father in the beginning. He is styled the only begotten—not created. We believe that when he espoused the cause of a world lost in sin, He took our place, he was made in the likeness of sinful flesh, He was tempted in all points like as we are yet without sin Heb. 2:14, 17 5:15. He fought and won and then paid the penalty of our transgression which was death. He died. He poured out His soul unto death Is. 53:10, 12. In accepting Christ as our personal Saviour we are saved from the second death Rev. 2:11. The unsaved will suffer the second death Rev. 21:8. We are told by the prophet Ezekiel that the soul that sinneth it shall die Ezik. 18:4. If the soul were immortal it could not die. Man is a mortal being. He has not an immortal soul, and I challenge "First Day to give any proof to the contrary God alone hath immortality, 1 Tim 6:15, 16.

The Bible states clearly that the wages of sin is death Rom. 6:23. The hellish doctrine that the wages of sin is life in torment is without scriptural authority.

The end of the wicked according to Mat. 4:1, is they "shall be burned up root and branch," they are to perish. To be consumed Ps. 37:20 devoured Rev. 20:9.

That our dead are unconcious is amply sustained by the words of God. Eccl. 9:5. The dead know not anything. They go to the grave Eccl. 9:10 and there is no wisdom, knowledge, devise or work.

When man dies his breath—not his immortal soul goeth forth he returneth to his earth and in that very day his thoughts perish. Ps. 146,4. When the life giver shall come, it is from the grave that he will gather his people unto himself Jno. 5:28. Thes. 4:13-16 Ps. 50:5 Matt. 24:31. Christ promise to the penitent thief is in perfect accord with this plan. And the theif said Lord remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom Luke 23:42 Christ's promise to his followers was if I go and prepare a place for you I will come again and receive you unto myself; that where I am there ye may be also Jno. 14:3. This grand reception is to take place at the second coming of Christ at His coming the righteous will be raised and the rewards will be given. Rev. 22:12 Luke 14:14.

Christ's promise to the thief was that he was to be with him in Paradise; now the question. Was the theif and Christ both to be in Paradise that day or was the promise made that day concerning a condition that would ultimately be realized. I shall say the latter and in proof submit the following. First let us locate Paradise. It is according to St. Paul in the third heaven II. Cor. 12:2-4. The tree of life is in Paradise Rev. 5:7 The tree of life is on either side of the River of life and the river of life flows out from the throne of God Rev. 22:12 Paradise must therefore be the dwelling place of God. Three days after this promise was made to the thief Christ declared to Mary on the morning of the resurrection—that he had not yet been to the father John 20:17. According to the best records neither of the theives died that day. They could not have been alive here and in paradise at the same time.

Place the comma after today and it is alright. Punctuation is not inspired and the commawas not used till the 16th century. The above will bear study.

Christ was not in Paradise during those days. He was in Joseph's new tomb, He did not make any false promise to the thief. He died and the third day he arose from the dead the angels called him from that sealed tomb around which a Roman guard was stationed.

When he leads forth the armies of heaven and comes as King of Kings and Lord of Lords and brings his reward with him, then the penitent thief, the poor beggar with all the faithful will receive all that was promised.

If our friend First Day believes in eternal torment—and thinks such doings are in harmony with the character of a just and loving God we are sorry for him and all who agree with him. We know of nothing more satanic. Man is a mortal being. He is subject to death. Through the goodness and love of God a way of escape has been provided and whosoever will may come.

Yours very truly.

What O. K. S. Thinks of F. B. S.

In old Garrett county,
Far back o'er the hill,
Is an old fashioned village;
People call it Friendsville.

Said the F. B. S. Poet,
In a paper we get,
That our baket ball team
Had ne'er beaten them yet.

In this old fashioned village
Stands a school house of wood.
A much larger building,
They should have if they could.

Now the students who go there
Feel that they are quite bright,
And in basket ball season
They put up some fight.

But that young poet's memory
Is some defective I fear.
For we trimmed those poor fellows
Two straights just last year.

At the first of this season,
Most before we'd begun,
We played those big rough-necks
A game just for fun.

For two months they'd practiced,
Two coaches did steer,
With the same team together
They played us last year.

Our three strongest players
Are with us no more,
And we had no one to coach us
As we had year before.

Well of course we were beaten
19-6 was the score,
But considering conditions
They sure ought to've made more.

Now the people of that Burg,
So happy were they
They were cheering Friendsville
When we left the next day.

Now that poet imagines,
Their school is some great,
He thinks 'tis the best school
We have in our state.

But then we can't blame him
For praising his school,
If he didn't de that
We would call him a fool.

But if I were that Poet,
Just a little I'd stop,
And confine my boasting
To the second class group.

Bear's Emulsinn Cured Her Cough.

Relief After Years of Suffering Fne Tonic, Restores Appetite and Builds Up System

Dr. John D. Bear,

Dear Sir. I think Emulsion made by you is the best thing I ever took for coughs and colds. I have suffered every winter with a weakness, loss of appetite and weight.

I have coughed so at night that I could not sleep and in the morning when I got up I would be so weak and tired I could hardly walk

I got a bottle of Emulsion and after taking it for three days I felt stronger, my cough was much better, and my appetite was so much better that it reminded me of getting over a spell of fever.

Very respectfully,
Mrs. W. F. Lindamood.

OCEAN-TO-OCEAN ROAD

Plan To Connect The Atlantic and Pacific by a Modern Highway

By W. E. Williams in Motor

Back in the days when Henry Clay was in his prime they dreamed of an Ocean-to-Ocean Highway. More than that, they actually laid out and built something like 800 miles of this continental boulveard, and called it "The Cumberland Road." It reached and still reaches from Cumberland, Maryland, to East St. Louis, Illionis, on the Mississippi. It was impracticable to go farther in those days; St. Louis was the very outpost of civilization.

The development of the steam engine brought another kind of cross-continent speedway into demand, and the old dream of Gallatin, who was Secretary of the Treasury under Jefferson and Madison, was laid upon the shelf.

Clay was the last great champion of the idea, and obtained for the Cumberland road the last large Congressional appropriation.

But the project which the steam engine killed, the motor has revived, and so easily can the world,s greatest road project be carried to completion that it is inconceivable thait should fail, now that the way is pointed out.

The idea, I believe sprang from the brain of Harry F. Kohr, a Kansas City newspaper man, who has written much on road matters. It is wonderfully simple, and while we are accustomed to think of nation-wide projects in terms of hundreds of millions, the Ocean-to-Ocean Highway can be handled in terms of hundred of thousands, if not in tens of thousands.

Cumberland on the east and Tumwater on the west. Don't forget those names. They are to be the termini of the longest and most picturesque highway on earth.

After leaving Cumberland and speeding through the Narrows, the first and most spectacular "stop-over" is Frostburg—the apex of the great plateau between Dan's and Great Savage Mountains; the summit of the watershed between George's Creek and Jenning's Run, whose layers extend beyond Maryland lines, north and south.

Here, at an average altitude of 2,100 feet above tide, the turist can stop and enjoy a rest--one of indefinite duration, the longer the better.

Here the summer sojourner, within an enviroment of mountain and forest, may revel in the re-animating delights of fresh air and spring water.

Endowed with high class schools—one a State Normal; with churches of all denominations; with business and employment opportunites of all kinds, Frostburg is equal to and surpasses the majority of towns as an ideal home place.

Under an excellent system of municipal goverment the town has achieved the construction of one of the best water supply systems in this country, and the enterprise of paving the streets begun several years ago, goes forward with substantial additions each year.

Other and collateral improvements, such as sewage and garbage eliminations, have been instituted and will be developed into systematic permanency.

In and near by are mines and works for development of the best fire-brick in the world; all around are glowing oppertuuities for orchard and sheep culture, and for factory eligibilities, beginning with woolen, the number includes many.

Accessibility is all that can be desired. Aside from that proposed road east and west by re-construction of the National Pike, the Cumberland and Pennsylvania Railroad affords passenger and heavy freight outlet and inlet twice a day to and from Cumberland and Piedmont; the Cumberland and Westernport Electric Railway affords the same accommodations--passenger and light freight, every hour for 16 hours a day, and within a few months the new Western Maryland Railroad completed. Frostburg will be a first-class station on one of the country's greatest trans-continental systems.

To avoid making this article, taken all together too long, it can be stated, in brief, that Frostburg owns every merit attractive to the residental, the sujourning, especially the manufacturing investor, and so far as can be honestly enumerated, not one demerit to deter any enterprise from planting its base of fortune within or near the incorarporate hmits.—J. B. Oder.

The road is a finished highway, needing only repairs. The line leading west from St. Louis to Old Franklin, Missouri, is the romantic old Boone's Lick road, first traversed by Daniel Boone and his associates, and followed later by the first English speaking settlers of Missouri. The line beginning at Old Franklin and leading through Kansas, Colorado and into New Mexico is the old Santa Fe trail. The route of these two roads through Missouri is to be followed by that State's great cross-state highway. Within three years this will be a boulevard.

In about the same length of time Kansas will have finished converting her part of the Santo Fe Trail into a speedway. The line starting at Council Bluffs, Iowa, and winding its way across the plains of Nebraska, through the Rockies, down the valley of the Oregon and up into Washington is the old Oregon trail, which is the New Pioneer Way already marked by appropriation from Congress and soon to be the last link of the Ocean-to-Ocean boulevard.

The line extending from Newton, Kansas, to Grand Island, Nebraska, is about 175 miles long, and it is a suggested connecting link between the Santa Fe and Oregon trails. More-over it is the only part of this great cross-continent speedway that good roads agitators have not sought to improve.

Here is the situation in a nutshell:

The Ocean-to-Ocean Speedway completed from Atlantic to Mississippi River, by way ot the Cumberland road; states through which road passes repairing the highway as fast as weather and funds permit. Trans-Missouri highway planned from St. Louis to Kansas City, by way of old Boone's Lick road and Santa Fe trail; improvements waiting only for legislature to to remove technical defect in road laws. Kansas counties ready to complete paving the Santa Fe trail from Olathe, Kansas, where the macadam road out of Kansas City ends, to Newton. Improvement of Oregon trail throughout its entire length assured by good roads agitation in Nebraska, Wyoming, Idaho, Oregon and Washington. One connecting link of about 175 miles from Newton, Kansas, to Grand Island, Nebraska, through country as level as a floor, yet to be considered.

Will that connecting link of 175 miles stand between the motor enthusiasts of the country and an Ocean-to-Ocean Highway? It will not. All that the motor enthusiasts of the country will have to do is to suggest to Kansas and Nebraska that they would use such a road if built. That will insure the connecting link. Kansas and Nebraska are waking up to the good roads proposition; they have a surprisingly large number of motor cars of their own, and they want the advertising.

We begun to see the solution of the cost problem. The 800 miles of Cumberland road is not all in the best of condition. There is some talk of asking Federal aid in repairing it. As a matter of fact, most of the old National Highway is going to be in first-class condition before congress can be induced to take notice. Dividing the cost between county road districts all the way from Maryland to Missouri does not leave a heavy burden on any one district. Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois have been making repairs on the highway. All that is now needed is a continuation of the agitation. Considering the size of the project, the cost to each community is insignificant.

The Trans-Missouri highway is a joint project between State and counties. The State has authorized the counties to form road districts for the purpose of issuing bonds for highway construction. The State furnishes one dollar to the districts' two. Bills now before the legislature will remove defects in the original Act, which have heretofore prevented the sale of bonds. This summer will see the cross-State highway started in at least a dozen sections. The cost being thus divided is heavier than it will be east of the Mississippi, but not burdenseme.

Kansas counties and road districts have already rebuilt the Santa Fe trail from the Colorado line to Newton, and from Kansas City, Missouri, to Olathe. The gaps will be closed within eighteen months. Good roads associations have the matter well in hand, and have secured co operation from the counties through which the trail passes.

Brave old Ezra Meeker has not lived in vain, and there is enough sentiment between Council Bluffs and Tumwater to convert every foot of the old Oregon trail into the New Pioneer Way. Good roads associations, covering the course of the highway from the eastern boundary of Wyoming to Puget Sound, are seeing to it that the project to boulevard this longest of the pioneer trails shall not die. In Nebraska the good roads people, spurred on by the State Historical Society, are awakening to the possibilities of the trail. Some little work has already been done on the eastern end of the highway, and more will be done this summer.

Meanwhile, the Federal government, as the result of Ezra Meeker's transcontinental drive, has given official recognition to the boulevard plan. A bill by Representative W. E. Humphrey, of the State of Washington, carrying $50,000 for markers and surveys, was passed by the last Congress. That is only the beginning. Western congressman, owing to new political conditions, are now able to get practically everything they want. They want the federal government to help make a boulevard out of the Oregon trail. They desire that it shall either acquire the highway or shall assist the State in paving it.

The original $50,000 has bought enough markers to define the old route fairly well and has paid for preliminary surveys which will shortly be made the basis of a report to the proper Congressional committees. It is expected that this report will be favorable. If it proves unfavorable, however, the good roads people of the Far West intend to redouble their efforts. The sentiment for the boulevard is now strong in Nebraska, stronger in Wyoming and Idaho and overwhelming on the Pacific slope. With the Congressional delegations of the five states touched by the proposed Pioneer Way a unit for Federal aid, and public sentiment in each of these states backing the project, there is no doubt that a re-built Oregon trail will be the last and longest link in the Ocean-to-Ocean Speedway.

The cost of re-building the trail from Omaha to the foothills of the Rockies in Wyoming will be comparatively small. For the greater part of the distance the soil is of a sandy nature and will easily yield to the government formula for gypsum treatment, which is being used in Kansas. A mixture of sand and gypsum gives a hard, water-tight, springy running surface that is difficult to improve for either wagon or motor traffic.

From the eastern foothills of the Rockies in Wyoming to the western foothills in Oregon the road winds through valley and canon, across ridge and plateau, by gentle grades. The problems in this great stretch are those of mountain road building, but it is to be remembered that the men who blazed the Oregon trail took with them heavily laden wagons and that grades that would merely embarass a modern motor car would have been impassable to them. There are not at this time any prohibitive grades along the trail, and when the road builders begin their task they will not have to blast any mountains out of their way.

The Ocean-to-Ocean Highway is not so far out of reach, after all, is it? A boulevard something like 3,800 miles long, without a bad grade in its entire length, is something more than a dream—it is more than half a reality. And the completion of the greatest pleasure drive the world has ever seen or ever will see is comparatively a simple and easy matter with the co-operation of the thirteen States that the boulevard will cross.

When completed the trans-continental pleasure drive will be a world wide attraction to motorists. Nowhere on earth will there be a continuous road so long nor with such a variety of scenery and historical interest. From the Atlantic to the Mississippi every foot of the road is historic ground. Where it does not actually touch, it brings within easy reach battlefields of every war fought upon American soil since the founding of Virginia.

Imagine yourself in a touring car some fine May morning, speeding out of Washington, bound for the Pacific coast. Up the picturesque Potomac valley you go to Cumberland, thence through the beautiful Alleghanies by way of the Cumberland Narrows, across a corner of Pennsylvania and of West Virginia, where the scenery has a placid beauty in spring that will move the most matter-of fact heart. Next you cross Ohio, still picturesque, a rich, comparatively level country, broken here and there with hills just big enough to keep the trip from being monotonous. Richer and still more level becomes the land traversed as you pass through Indiana and Illinois. By the time you have reached St. Louis you have gotten an idea of most of your country's chief industries and you have visited many spots where history has been made. And you have traveled in comfort, for at no place along the Cumberland pike are you far away from any of the modern conveniences of life

After you cross the Mississippi at St. Louis you enter a country that presents marked contrasts. You have not left the city far behind when you cross another great river, the Missouri. To the north of you is a thickly settled farming country, rich to opulence. To the south is the Missouri, accurately described as majestic in its sweep, and just beyond, the rugged foothills of the Ozarks, dotted here and there with villages of the wine-growing German Americans, a bit of the Rhine transplanted to America. You are traveling now over a road first traveled by Daniel Boone and his sons. You visit the famous Boone's Lick springs, and at Old Franklin you come to the ancient head of the Missouri river navigation where the early fur traders left the steamers to enter the wilderness where now are the rich cities of the Missouri valley. You cross the Missouri river again at Booneville, perhaps, and come to the great prairies—the richest farming and stock-raising lands on earth.

Presently you are in Independnece, Missouri, the seat of the original Latter-Day Saints, sometimes called Mormons. Next you are in Kansas City, where you follow the old Santa Fe trail through what is claimed to be the most beautiful boulevard system in all the world.

Presently you are on the floor-like plains of Kansas, still on the Santa Fe trail, having passed the battlefield of Westport as you left Kansas City. You are now among the scenes of the border warfare which inflamed the nation and helped to bring on the Civil War. You are also in the great "nursery" belt, where three-fourths of all the fruit trees sold in the United States are given their start. Soon you are speeding over the levelest roads in the world through the Kansas wheat and corn belts, past Newton, where you leave the Santa Fe trail and go north to the Oregon trail or Pioneer Wa at Grand Island, Nebraska.

Westward again you follow the valley of the Platte, through a sparsely settled county dotted here and there with ranch houses. You will follow the North Platte past famous Scott's bluff, up into Wyoming, through the wonderful Sweetwater valley, blossoming under irrigation, through the Laramie mountains, past Devil's gate and Independence rock, with walls of granite towering thousands of feet above you. Reaching South Pass by grades so gradual that you do not realize that you have climbed to the roof of the continent, you stop your machine on the Great Divide. If you are caught in a shower here the water shed from one side of your cap may find its way to the Atlantic and that shed from the other side to the Pacific.

For 150 miles here you are traveling over a perfect mountain road which does not at any place prove a great strain on your machine--and you are out of sight of any other evidence of civilization except a tavern here and there which may in time be erected for your comfort.

Descending as gradually as you ascended, you come to Cokeville, enter Idaho at Montpelier, cross the plateaus by way of Oregon at Vale, climo the easy grades through the Blue mountains and are on your way to the valley of the Oregon, which river you cross near the Dalles and follow the old Puget South trail to Tumwater.

You have passed through the wildest mountains and the most ancient forests, if the red-woods of California be excepted, in the United States. You have seen bits of everything that your country has to show in the way of scenery, industry and historical spots. And you have done it all withoht leaving a boulevard, the Ocean-to-Ocean Speedway which is even now all but an accomplished fact.

THIRTY-FIVE THOUGHT DEAD

EIGHT BODIES ARE RECOVERED

Possibility That Fifty Persons Met Death in Fire Which Destroyed Beautiful Building in Missouri Metropolis—Big Fire in Clarksburg, W. Va., Traps Several Persons; Five Badly Hurt in Escaping.

St. Louis, March 10.—That from thirty to thirty-five guests of the Missouri Athletic club perished in the flames that destroyed the building is the belief of the officers of the club.

Seven bodies have been recovered and from twenty-three to twenty-eight occupants of the structure still are unaccounted for.

Seventeen persons who were injured in the fire were under treatment at public and private hospitals.

The death toll may run as high as fifty, since several guests are believed to have spent the night at the club.

The identified dead:

L. A. Ruff, St. Louis.
A. J. Odegard, St. Louis.
Edwin C. Kessler, St. Louis.
John M. Rickey, Chicago.
James D. Reilly, St. Louis.
William E. Erd, East St. Louis, Ill.
Two unidentified bodies.

The badly injured are:

L. M. Stott, St. Louis, left hip fractured, internal injuries.
Ben F. Williams, left leg fractured, internal injuries; in serious condition.
L. L. Leonard, rib fractured, feet crushed, hurt internally.

The cause of the fire still was a mystery today. Reports that the blaze was accompanied by a terrific explosion indicating that the fire was due to efforts of bank robbers trying to dynamite into the Boatmen's bank were unconfirmed. Reports of explosions were denied by the night watchman of the bank.

The blaze was the fourth serious fire in the downtown district of St. Louis in eight days. It completely wrecked the seven-story building occupied jointly by the Missouri Athletic club and by the Boatmen's bank, caused a property loss estimated at $466,000 and by destroying the list of entries and other club records forced the abandonment of the intercollegiate track meet that was to have been held in St. Louis under the auspices of the club next Saturday night.

The fire was discovered by a woman who was waiting in the club lobby for her escort, and who saw the reflection of the flames in the plate glass windows across the street, swept rapidly through the building.

Dramatic escapes were numerous. One of the most spectacular was that of twelve or thirteen men who descended from a fifth floor window to the roof of an adjoining four-story building by means of an improvised rope made out of two sheets. One guest escaped by leaping over a chasm ten feet wide to the roof of an adjoining building six stories [illegible].

Thirteen men escaped from the floor of the building by sliding down a rope made out of two sheets. They landed on the roof of a seed store. The story of the escape was told by Lewis Gaylord, an advertising man of New York.

As the men stood on the roof of the seed store they saw about twenty men at the windows of the sixth and seventh floors of the athletic club. One jumped to the seed store roof and broke his leg.

Gaylord and others went to the edge of the roof and shouted for help. Firemen raised a ladder through a trap door, but when the men on the roof drew up the ladder and sought to rescue those at the windows above the ladder proved too short. Another ladder was sent up and the Gaylord party descended without waiting to see whether the men on the upper floors were saved. They think, however, that all who crowded the windows were rescued.

Five Hurt In W. Va. Fire.

Clarksburg, W. Va., March 10.—Three persons were injured perhaps fatally and two others were seriously hurt in a $140,000 fire here. The Lowe building, four stories, was destroyed and the ten-story Union National Bank building, adjoining, was damaged.

The injured are:

Earl Brown, injured internally; dying.
Robert Hugill, aged twenty; injured internally and burned about the body; may die.
Marsh Cannon, injured internally; dying.
R. T. Wilson, burned and injured internally.
Dennis Swiger, injured internally.

The Lowe building burned quickly. The many families sleeping on the upper floors who had been awakened became panic-stricken and rushed from the building. Seeing escape cut off many of the occupants leaped from windows. The firemen, braving flames shooting from the windows, set ladders against the side of the building and carried many persons to safety.

CLAIMS BRIBERY WAS TRIED

Congressman Accuses Real Estate Man of Washington.

Washington, March 10.—Representative Johnson of Kentucky, chairman of the District of Columbia committee, in a long statement under personal privilege in the House, charged that Brainerd H. Warner, a Washington real estate broker, had offered him "a thinly disguised bribe."

"Warner," said Johnson, "told me an ex-representative, as a member of the district committee, had made money through co-operation with him and he remarked that I was standing in the way of some of his real estate deals."

Mr. Johnson declined to name the former member. He read from a published statement that Warner sought to remove him from the District of Columbia committee chairmanship. Warner has long been identified with the real estate business here.

UNEMPLOYED ARMY CHASED BY POLICE

Kelley's Forces Driven From County; Leader Arrested

Sacramento, Cal., March 10.—Suffering with bruised legs and empty stomachs, 1,000 members of the unemployed armies that have been in Sacramento for the last two days were encamped on the Yolo county side of the Sacramento river, to which they were driven by Sacramento county officers. There were two clashes.

After the first clash the rioters returned to their camp and much blood was shed in a second attempt to drive them out. Deputy sheriffs beat into submission all those who resisted. Many heads were fractured and groaning men lay in the street. Others of the army picked up brickbats and smashed street car and store windows. They finally were scattered by fire hose and it was announced they would be driven across the Sacramento river into Yolo county.

When driven from the field the Industrial Workers took up the cry "On to the capital" and started for the state house. City and county officials appealed to Governor Johnson to call out available state troops to handle the riot.

The clash at the Southern Pacific grounds was a sequel to the arrest of "General" Kelley and eighteen of his subordinates on vagrancy charges. City and county officials then demanded that the rank and file of the army "move on." The Kelley wing of the army obeyed, but the opposition faction, composed of the Industrial Workers, defied the sheriff's posse.

WORSTED BY CAVALRY

Strikers in Rome Prompt Charge by Attacking Police.

Rome, March 10.—Squadrons of cavalry charged and dispersed crowds of turbulent strikers in the streets of Rome, wounding several of the demonstrators.

The action of the troops followed rioting between the strikers and police after an immense demonstration on the Plazza Del Popolo. In these disturbances several policemen and manifestants had been badly injured.

Half Million Fire Loss.

Waco, Tex., March 10.—The Exporters and Traders warehouse, containing 6,000 bales of cotton, valued at $420,000, caught fire and a high gale spread the flames to the entire warehouse and platforms, laden with cotton. The loss is estimated at $500,000.

Farmer Hangs Self; Ill Health Blamed.

Bedford, Pa., March 10.—Ill health is supposed to have been the motive for the suicide of Isaiah Claar, forty years old, a farmer, of Fishertown. Claar's body was found hanging to the rafters in the barn of his neighbor, William Bowser.

TEXAS AND MEXICO.

Nobody recollects the time when the Texas rangers didn't entertain a firm conviction that they could handle Mexico single-handed; nor, for that matter, is there very clear remembrance of the occasion when they didn't demonstrate good grounds for their confidence. Texas has very clear views of its own about Mexico, and at times a very distressingly direct way of emphasizing them. The idea is said, too, to be widely prevalent in Mexico that it could easily whip the rest of the United States if Texas would remain neutral.

Texas being already of approximately the same size as the German Empire, and filled with ambition to grow into the very largest place out of doors, there will always be the danger that some moonlight night it will move over the border and annex Mexico. We hope, if it decides to do so, it will be considerate of international and interstate relations. Whether the interstate commerce clause of the Constitution would intertere with any independent imperialistic projects on Texas' part is a question not yet definitely adjusted.

SENATOR SPEICHER CONGRATULATED.

Has Been the Recipient of Hundreds of Letters and Telegrams from Constituents.

Senator Harvey J. Speicher has been swamped and overwhelmed during the past week or more with letters and telegrams from his pleased Garrett county constituents over the passage of the Garrett County Local Option Bill. Some of the messages received by the Senator were from the most prominent people of the county, among them being bankers, merchants, professional men, lawyers, physicians, farmers and others, besides many from citizens in the ordinary walks of life.

From among the many received we have been allowed to select the following for publication:

"Congratulations. You have fought a good fight and won."

"Congratulations on your most glorious victory."

"Accept my congratulations upon your success. Voters of Garrett will put the finishing touch to John Barleycorn."

"Accept the congratulations of all your friends here, especially us."

"I want to congratulate you for passing the best local option bill ever put on the Statute books of any State."

"Surely the doubting Thomases will now be convinced beyond a possible doubt that you were true to your promises."

"I hope the stand you took and the success obtained will place you in a position for a larger field and more successful work among our people."

"I certainly want to congratulate you on your good work."

"Joy reigns supreme here among your friends and supporters. Such victories deserve great credit and it is coming your way."

"Well do you deserve the strong commendations which so many are giving you as the splendid representative of the appreciative people of this county. We are all proud of you, and shall not forget the fidelity with which you have stood for our cause."

"Hearty congratulations. It took Speicher to do it. By this you have kept faith, converted promise into fact; proven the confidence of your friends was not misplaced and compelled the admiration of your political enemies."

LAUREL DALE.

Mrs. Hugh Weir has been very ill but is much better.

There will be a box social at the Jacobs school house Saturday evening, March 14, for the benefit of the pastor, Rev. Mumford. Every body invited.

Talk about wind! We sure had some last Sunday and Monday. It damaged the Weir barn three hundred dollars, also Chester Green's barn where it tore the doors off, smashed them to kindling, tore up hundreds of trees, leveled fences everywhere, blew haystacks entirely away and the roads were entirely blocked

SENATOR SPEICHER AND HIS LOCAL OPTION MEASHRE

Some Side Lights on Work Well Planed And Successfully Carried Out.

Last summer Senator Harvey J. Speicher, in a straight-forward manly circular, announced his candidacy for the nomination on the Republican primary ticket for State Senatar. The announcement was a clear, positive promise of what he would do in the Senate for Garrett county. He called especial attention to the demand of the citizens of the county for the right to vote on a county-wide local option law, promising them that if he received the nomination and was re-elected, he would secure the passage of a law giving the people this right. Upon this platform he won the nomination, and conducted the campaign for re-election, and again won out, it is true, by a reduced majority, after a heated contest on the part of the liquor interests and by their expenditure of a large sum of money, and by false representation and under-hand work of others. The majority, though reduced, was one of the strongest compliments that could be paid to a "square man."

After his election, you could here and there hear the expression, "he will not make good;" "he will sell us out," "his bill will have a snake in it," etc. Those who knew him best placed the utmost confidence in his manhood and integrity and answered, "time will prove him a man of his word," and they were not disappointed.

Senator Speicher, as his business would permit, devoted time to the preparation of one of the most remarkable and far reaching temperance bills ever introduced in the Legislature. Time and research was spent in this work. When the bill was in shape for a most critical and thorough inspection, he called a number of promineut citizens from different sections of Garrett county to the directors room of the Garrett National bank, of Oakland. Of course the number had to be limited, because of the capacity of the room. Among those present were Rev. Dr. Reed, District Superintendent of the Oakland District M. E. church; Rev. A. Moore, pastor Oakland M. E. church; Rev. J. M. Davis; J. T. Glotfelty, President of School Commissioners of Garrett county; Prof. F. E. Rathbun, County Supt. of Public Schools; W. A. Smith, Hoyes; F. A. Thayer, President First National Bank; S. T. Jones, Cashier Garrett National Bank, Oakland; W. W. Savage, Friendsville; W. H. Smouse of near Gortner;. E. E Friend of the Orphans Court; Capt. Jas. A. Hayden and L. A. Rudisill of Mountain Lake Park; Editor B. H. Sincell and E. C. Harvey, Germania.

At this meeting the Senator read and commented upon his bill. It was thoroughly discussed by those present and after due consideration of its merits, on motion, the Senator was given a unanimous vote of thanks, every person present rising to their feet and giving him the Chautauqua salute, after which those present signed their names to a written approval of the bill and assuring the Senator of their hearty support. There was a great wave of white handkerchiefs and a hearty shake of hands and many words of congratulation. Everyone felt that the day of saloons and saloonism in Garrett county were numbered and that in the election of Senator Speicher no mistake had been made.

The Senator placed his bill in the hands of two leading attorneys of Oakland for examination. He also consulted Attorney General Poe. These gentlemen pronounced the bill all right. Nothing was left undone to secure a safe, sure, prohibitory law. Just here it would be well to say that the majority of those present were met on the street of Oakland and invited to drop into the directors room.

As is always the case in every community, there were those who predicted that the Senator would prove a traitor to his promises. Like the false prophets of other days, they were busy sowing seeds of discord and slander.

On January 20, 1914, Senator Speicher introduced his bill in the Senate. It became Senate bill No. 1. It was referred to a special committee and ordered to be printed. The Republican and the Democrat, of Oakland, thought the bill of such local importance that they published it in full, for the benefit of their thousands of readers. The newspapers throughout the State commented upon this carefully prepared bill—a bill which would make Garrett county dry. Copies of the bill was asked for by citizens of other States. The demand soon exhausted the supply of the bill room. In the Legislative halls the bill attracted no little interest, and some of the Legislators remarked, that the bill is too drastic, it cannot be passed through this Legislature, so overwhelmingly wet, Senator Speicher always answered, "I will pass this bill."

Mr. Wm. Miller, of Accident, appeared on the scene to defeat the bill, if possible. The very day he arrived in Annapolis and while seated in the Senate Chamber, the bill was favorbly reported by the Committee, the report was adopted and the bill ordered printed for the third reading and final passage. This was January 27th. The Journal, of Oakland, speaking of the bill said: "If it ever comes out of the Senate," etc. The same words were heard about the State House.

February, 3rd, the bill passed on its third reading and was referred to the Committee on Temperance in the House. The next day Mr. Miller was on the ground doing "missionary work" and on Feb. 11th, he was reinforced by the arrival of Mr. E. J. Frantz, of Oakland. The Journal of the 12th, said, above the signature of John Shartzer, "If the bill does not pass it will not be my fault. The same power that put it through the Senate is the ruling power on this side of the House, and can put it through or keep it from passing."

Let us wait and see again. I have no comment to make on this insinuation. I leave these words with the public.

At the afternoon session of the House Feb. 17, the Committee reported favorable, and the bill was passed to the third reading and final passage, February 24, Mr. Miller, Mr. Frantz and Attorney G. Semmes Hamill were on the ground busy as bees.

There were anxious hours and earnest, incessant work on the part of Senator Speicher and Messrs. Harvey and Savage. For days Senator Speicher was doing most earnest work. While his colleagues were at home in Garrett county, he was on the job, early and late planning, lobbying, and accomplishing results. At times almost the last ray of hope seemed to have passed away. Dark, discouraging and hopless as was the outlook the Senator said "I will pass the bill and keep my word." Night and day he fought a great fight, and Monday night he learned to his surprise that one of the Garrett delegation had gone to Speaker Trippe and asked him not to bring up the bill that night, stating that "Inasmuch as it was a very drastic measure, please hold and not report it out tonight." This action was taken without consulting Senator Speicher or the other two delegates, and yet they were right where they could have been consulted had he wanted to do so. The next morning Attorney G. Semmes Hamill of Oakland appeared in the State House. Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 23, was the time fixed to call the bill up for final action. The plans laid by its opponents to have the bill re-committed to the Temperance Committee and killed fell through, as no one could be found to make the motion. Several motions were made to adjourn, but the Senator's bill was to have fair treatment. About half past five o'clock the Speaker called for the reading of Senate bill No. 1, Garrett County's local option bill. It was read by the clerk. The Speaker waited for remarks. At last the speaker said, "Call the roll," and the vote was taken 81 ayes and 3 nays. The bill was declared passed. The suspense was broken, the burden was removed and victory was the Senator's at last. "The same power that put it through the Senate put it through the House." Prophecy has been true. So well were the Senator's plans laid that no member of the House had a word to say against this drastic measure, and the handsome vote indicated that Garrett county had in the Senate a man whom the Delegates delighted to honor. Then the telephone and the telegraph got busy. The news of the great victory went flashing through the State to the mountains of Garrett County. The fight had been fought to the finish, a glorious victory had been won, and Senator Speicher had fulfilled his promise to give the voters of Garrett County the right to decide the liquor question at the polls, and it is up to the voters to do their part in wiping out the liquor business and making Garrett county dry.

All honor to Senator Speicher for his unflinching zeal in this mighty effort to fulfill the promise made to his constituents. For weeks he carried a burden greater than his fellowmen knew of. He lived a life of constant anxiety and struggle. His is a magnificient victory, a victory which no other Republican in the State could have won.

L. A. R.

SHORT RUN.

Mr. Raymond Paugh, who is employed by Mr. White on the mill here, was on the sick list a few days last week and was unable to attend his work.

Mr. Daniel Wilson spent Friday and Saturday of last week in Piedmont and Oakland.

Those who were calling at Mr. J. H. Wilson's Sunday were Mrs. Daniel Wilson, Mrs. Emma Harvey, Harley Warnick and daughter Miss Edith, Scott Gilpin and Arthur Harvey.

Mr. Robert Paugh, who has been employed as sawyer on Mr. Laner's mill at Wilson, W. Va., was in our village on business one day last week.

Mrs. Emma Harvey and Miss Esta Wilson were shopping in Kitzmiller last Friday.

Misses Lucy Markwood, Cassie, Cinda and Ruth Wilson, and Mr. Milo Wilson of this place, and Mrs. G. W. Moon, of Eagle Rock, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. Z. H. Moon at Bethlehem. They reported a jolly sled ride, a good social chat, and a big chicken for dinner.

Mr. Richard Roye passed through this place Sunday enroute to Altamont where he will visit old friends.

Mr. Claude Harvey was visiting his brother Scott Sunday.

Mr. Scott Harvey has been contemplating a trip to Oakland for the past month, but the weather continues to be so stormy that Scott is kept busy attending his domestic duties. This weather can't last always, so when the change comes, take our advice "old boy" and "make hay while the sun shines."

KITZMILLER.

C. Ney Smith, who is going to college at Buckhannon, W. Va., spent the first of March at his home.

Miss Verba Walker, who has been going to the M. S. B. C., at Parkersburg, W. Va., spent Sunday with her parents.

The first team of Scouts went to Westernport to play basket ball against the W. H. S. boys. The score was 26-30 in favor of the W. H. S.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Murray moved to Kitzmiller one day last week.

Tuesday night the Epworth League held an oyster supper in Warnick's hall. The second and third basket ball teams played a very interesting game for the amusement of the people.

Miss Gladys Hamill has been in town all week as she could not get to her school for the snow storm.

Thursday night the literary society of the Epworth League held a meeting in the M. E. church. It was largely attended and the piano solo rendered by Miss Gladys Hamill was appreciated by every music lover. A vocal solo, "The Last Farewell," sung by Mrs J. E. Dasher, was enjoyed. It also consisted of recitations and readings. The comic paper read by Mrs. Otis Abernathy was very cleverly written and contained some very witty sayings. The debate was very good.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bell of Thomas, W. Va., were seen on our streets last week.

Miss Beulah Fisher, of Keyser, spent Sunday with Miss Mary Murphy.

The newly weds, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Coffman have returned from their honeymoon through the north and south. They arrived in Blaine Friday morning. On Sunday they visited Mrs. Coffman's mother Mrs. Deane, of Elk Garden, W. Va.

Next Thursday's Attraction.

The Maryland Theater has secured the big eight-reel photo-drama, Quo Vadis, the same that has been shown in the cities for the past year at 50 cents and $1.00 per seat. By special contract the producing company has placed the price at 25 cents to all. Don't miss it on Thursday night, March 19th, at 7:30 sharp. Drop a card to E. G. Naylor for a free booklet giving synopsis of this great picture. Advertisement.

By order of the Board of School Commissioners of Garrett County, Maryland, February 24, 1914.

(Signed) F. E. RATHBUN, Secretary.

This levy is made in accordance with said Chapter 386 Section 123 of the Acts of 1910, said section 123 reads as follows:

Each High School in the first group in the counties of Maryland, shall receive State aid on the basis of the cost of instruction, and in the following manner:

The sum of six hundred dollars on account of the principal, and the sum of three hundred dollars on account of each of the first three assistants employed for regular high school work; the sum of four hundred dollars on account of each of two special teachers who shall spend not less than two-fifths of their time in the school receiving said amounts; and the sum of one hundred dollars on account of each additional regular grade teacher, provided the total amount does not exceed the sum of twenty five hundred dollars.

In this article the term special teacher shall be construed to mean a teacher of Commercial, Manual Training, Domestic Science or Agricultural branches. Each high school in the counties of Maryland of the second group shall receive State aid on the basis of the cost of instruction and in the following manner: The sum of six hundred dollars on account of the principal; the sum of four hundred dollars on account of one assistant teacher employed for regular high school work; and the sum of four hundred dollars on account of the instructor of special subjects to be designated by the County School Board; provided that if an instructor in Manual Training or Agricultural work be required to divide his or her time among not more than four schools of this group, one hundred and fifty dollars shall be allowed on account of each of such schools; provided also, that the amount to be received by each of the four high schools of Baltimore city, shall be equal to the maximum amount received on account of any high school in the counties of the State; provided further, that the Board of County School Commissioners of each county shall submit, annually to the County Commissioners of their respective counties, at least thirty days prior to the date for making the usual county levy for school purposes, a list of all high schools of the county, including those not entitled to State aid as well as those entitled in this article, and an itemized statement of the estimated cost of maintaining same, and the said Boards of County Commissioners shall make a separate levy for high schools, publishing same once a week for three successive weeks prior to the date of making said levy in one or more county papers.

By order of the Board.

WILL HOLD P. O. EXAMINATIONS.

Fourth Class Offices in This County To Be Filled.

Competitive examinations under the Civil Service Commission will be held in this city at the Grammar School building, March 14, for the position of postmaster of all fourth class postoffices for which the annual compensation is $100 or more.

According to the announcement of the Commission the following offices will be filled by this examination in Garrett county: Bittinger, Bond, Crellin, Deer Park, Dodson, Friendsville, Grantsville, Jennings, Kitzmiller, Selbysport and Hoyes.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Garrett returned Sunday from a brief visit to Cleveland, Ohio, to which city they accompanied Miss Nell Browning, Mrs. Garrett's sister, who returned to that city from a prolonged visit to Garrett county relatives last Wednesday.

A meeting of the Supervisors of Election was held in Oakland Saturday when Mr. D. E. Bolden, appointed to succeed Mr. Savage, was elected president of the board. This meeting was incumbent upon the board for the purpose of transacting some business that was pressing.

Mr. Benj. F. Hoye, of near McHenry, who was very seriously injured some weeks ago by being kicked by a horse which he was caring for, is now slowly improving. Mr. Hoye's injuries consisted of several broken ribs, a severe wound on his head and other minor hurts. For a time it was feared he was fatally hurt.

H. C. Bonig, mayor of Grantsville, was in town Saturday and Sunday. Mr. Bonig is a promoter of the "Old Trails Association" plan of making the National Pike a trans-continental highway, and he believes that Maryland will very nearly complete this year the unfinished links this side of Grantsville.—Frostburg Correspondent Cumberland Times.

Last night at the Mineral County Horticultural Society meeting held at Keyser, W Va., Mr. Joseph E. Harned of Oakland, delivered a steropticon lecture on the "Wild Flowers of the Alleganies and How to Know Them." Mr. Harned's lecture is spoken of by those present as being highly entertaining and interesting from a botanical point of view. The slides used were made right here in Oakland and compared very favorably with the product of firms engaged exclusively in the manufacture of this class of work.

Revival Closed.

On last Sunday night the most successful revival meeting that has been held at Deer Park for several years came to a close with a total of some sixty-six conversions. In addition to the pastor, Rev. Frank McCamic, who gave his whole time to the work, Rev. Marquess, of Mt. Lake, Rev. DeWitt, of the United Brethren church of Deer Park, and Rev. Tanner, an evangelist of Terra Alta, were in attendance and worked hard for the success of the meeting. On the closing nights of the meeting a number were taken into membership in the various churches of Deer Park.

Appreciation.

From a Washington patron of The Republican job department the following letter was received this morning:

"Stationery ordered arrived yesterday. Am very much pleased with it. You shall have my future business. Pressure of moment prevents lengthly expression of friendly sentiments, but thought is much in Oakland, and sometime, I hope, conditions may permit my calling it 'home.'"

Merging of Telephone Lines.

At a meeting of the directors and officers of the Garrett County Telephone Co. on Saturday night, a new enterprise greatly to the advantage of Garrett County was decided upon, namely, the merging and consolidation of the Garrett line with a new company which shall in the future be known as the Avilton Mutual Telephone Co. This new company has also bought part of the trunk line of the other Mutual Telephone Company of which J. S. Miller of Grantsville has the central office. This purchase will enable the Avilton Mutual to give their patrons connection with the Bell line of Frostburg and surrounding towns, an advantage and convenience which will be greatly appreciated in this county as the most satisfactory service is promised the patrons of the new line within the next four weeks Wm. Smith of Hoyes, president of the Garrett County Telephone Co. will remain president of the new company, with David Pope as secretary and Archibald Broadwater as treasurer. There are over a hundred stock holders througout the country, D. W. Dorsey of this place being among the number. Hiram Coleman, president of Mutual Company, and Mr. Brown, local manager of Bell Company at Frostburg, were present at the meeting at which the consolidation was effected.—Grantsville, Corr. MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Carroll, of Loch Lynn, Monday night a girl.

The special services in the Loch Lynn U. B. church are still going on with increasing interest. About thirty have protessed conversion. Rev. Herndow has been assisting the pastor since last Saturday. Large sledding parties from Deer Park have attended several nights. Rev. Waters will be back tonight.

Last Monday afternoon friends to the number of about twenty gave Mrs. J. A. Enlow a surprise by coming suddenly to her cottage. The afternoon was pleasantly spent by the guests and the family of the hostess. Mrs. E. L. Winchell favored the company with a song and Mrs. J. E. Marquess gave an appropriate reading. Between five and six o'clock a delicious lunch was served.

Tuesday afternoon two sled loads of men from Ryans Glade, returning from Oakland, where they had evidently filled up with fighting whiskey, had a free-for-all scrap in front of the People's Store in Loch Lynn. They drove out of town before the bailiff arrived on the scene, but they will likely be called to book later.

The citizens of the Park have been so annoyed by bills that have been introduced in the Legislature, evidently coming from the Mountain Lake Park Association, that they determined Tuesday to send to our representatives the same bill which was defeated four years ago by only one vote, asking for incorporation as a town. This would not have been done by our people had it not been evident that the Association seemed determined to further shackle the people. Should the bill pass and its aims put into practice there will be no one to blame but a small coterie in the Association.

Mrs. N. J. Haymond, who has spent the winter in Florida, will be here Saturday.

BLOOMINGTON.

Mr. Renox Buckhannon of this place, private in 5th Reg., U. S. Infantry, stationed at Plattsburg Barricks, N. Y. who has been home on a two months' furlough on account of the serious illness of his mother, returned to his post of duty the latter part of last week. His mother who was a patient the W. M. hospital during the critical part of her illness, returned home a few weeks ago and is very much improved in health.

Miss Bertha Tibbets, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tibbits, of Hampshire, is visiting her sister in Washington, D. C.

The Masteller Coal Co. has purchased the steel rails of the dismantled coal mine at the west end of Piedmont and is having the material loaded on cars to be shipped to its mines at Hampshire.

Mr. Wilson Kendell of Lochiel, who had the misfortune to break an arm about five or six weeks ago, is getting the injured member in shape to resume his work at the mines.

Mr. Daniel Smouse, our young grocer was the only candidate at the Civil Service examination held at this place some weeks ago, for the position of postmaster at the Bloomington office, and is expecting his commission at any time.

Mrs. Ollie Raley, who has been spending the last few months in Richmond, Va., arrived home Monday evening. On her way home she visited friends in Wilmington, Del., and spent a few days in Cumberland.

Mr. Harry Kight of Barnum, was registered at the Reynolds hotel at Keyser on Sunday.

Mr. James Wilson of Franklin, who has had the missfortune to be confined to the house for the past four or five months on account of an injury to his left leg, is very much improved.

Prof. and Mrs. F. E Rathbun, of Oakland spent Sunday in town, the guests of Mrs. Rathbun's parents, Dr. and Mrs. H. M. Kemp.

Born unto Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Miller, of Bloomington, on last Sunday morning, a girl.

A petition has been in circulation in this community m the last few days soliciting subscription for the fund of $150 to send an Oakland attorney to Annapolis to appear before the legislature in favor of a bill that is about to be introduced in that body appropriating $10,000 as Maryland's share of the expense of an interstate bridge connecting the towns of Beryl, W. Va., and Luke, Md. We understand the bridge will cross the Potomac river a short distance above the Luke dam and will cross the tracks of the W. M. R. R. above grade. The entire cost of the structure is estimated in the neighborhood of $20,000. This end of Garrett county is as much interested if not more in this proposition as Allegany, and it is safe to say that six months out of the year on account of the condition of the county road around the hill side between this place and Luke, due to slips, landslides and excavations for water mains, communication with our neighboring towns to the east is entirely cut off. With this bridge completed we will have direct communication with the tri-towns at all seasons of the year.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE
Real Estate

By a decree of the Circuit Court of Garrett County, Maryland, passed on the 4th da of March, 1914, in a cause wherein Sarah Abernathy and others are plaintiffs and Susan Grant and others are defendants, the undersigned was appointed Trustee to make sale of the real estate in said proceedings mentioned; and I hereby give notice that on

FRIDAY,
The 27th Day of March, 1914

at 1030 o'clock A. M., in front of the First National Bank Building, in the town of Oakland, Maryland, I will offer for sale at public outcry all that piece or parcel of valuable real real estate known as the containing 150 acres. Said farm is a part of the tract of land called "Hinches' Discovery," and is located about two and one half miles north of Swanton in said Garrett county; is partly cleared and in cultivation; the whole farm is nice, smooth, rolling land and is improved by a DWELLING, some out buildings and a small orchard, and is well watered and in a good neighborhood.

SUGGESTS TEST FOR ULSTERITES

Asquith Would Exclude Unionist Counties From Home Rule

ALLOWED SIX YEARS OUTSIDE

Speech of English Government Leader Does Not Meet With Enthusiasm by Opposition—Asquith Explains Concession by Saying It Is Granted In Hopes of Peaceful Solution of Home Rule Problem.

London, March 10.—The British government's plan for the conciliation of the Unionists of Ulster in connection with the Irish home rule bill was laid before the house of commons.

It met with a cool reception from the Unionists.

The terms of Premier Asquith's offer were that a poll should be taken of the parliamentary electors of each county of Ulster to decide whether they should be excluded from the operation of the bill for a period of six years from the first meeting of the new Irish parliament.

Premier Asquith in admitting that all negotiations for a settlement had left the party leaders as far apart as before said the government had adopted the proposed plan as the price of peace.

"During the six years' interim," he said, "the country at large could judge of the success of the home rule government and the parliament of the United Kingdom would then decide whether the excluded counties should come under the Dublin government."

In the course of his speech the premier pointed out that the government had chosen the period of six years because it would give ample time to test the working of the Irish parliament and also an opportunity to the electors of the United Kingdom, guided by that experience to pronounce whether the exclusion of the counties of Ulster should come to an end.

Assuming that the present imperial parliament would be dissolved before the end of 1917 and the Irish parliament assemble in July, 1915, the next imperial parliament could not last beyond November, 1920. Therefore, said the premier, there must be two general elections before inclusion could occur.

Andrew Bonar Law, leader of the opposition, immediately rose and objected to the six year limit. He urged the dissolution of the imperial parliament and the same sort of referendum for the United Kingdom as the government was offering to the counties of Ulster.

John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish Nationalist party, said his party was willing to make great sacrifices for peace, but the premier had gone to the extreme limit of concessions. While the Irish Nationalists disliked the proposals, still if their opponents accepted them frankly his colleagues were prepared to do the same. Otherwise it was the government's duty to press the home rule bill with all the resources at his command.

Insurance Companies Say State Is No Place For Them.

Lexington, Ky., March 10.—It has been ascertained here that twenty insurance companies notified their agents that they would cease writing fire insurance and withdraw from the state. The actual number of companies that now have signified their intention of withdrawing is not known but it is estimated to be close to There are more than 100 companies doing business in the state.

The companies claim that the Glenn insurance rating bill, recently passed by the state legislature and signed by Governor McCreary, is too drastic.

PNEUMONIA KILLS FEUDIST

After Slaying Eleven Men Souders Dies in Bed.

Middlesboro, Ky., March 10.—General Scudel of the Souders faction in the famous Souders-Turner feud which was supposed to have ended twenty-five years ago, died at his home here of pneumonia.

He was fifty-three years old and is reputed to have killed eleven men. He prided himself, however, on the fact that for the last twenty years he had been law abiding.

Installment Plan Suggested.

Cleveland, March 10.—Miss Frances Kellor of New York, managing director of the North American Civic League for Immigrants, speaking at the annual meeting of the Legal Aid society, advocated payment of fines in installments by petty criminal offenders. Miss Kellor declared families of small offenders frequently suffer great hardships when the breadwinner is sent to prison or workhouse to work out a fine he cannot pay.

3-Ton Rock Falls on Woman.

Moundsville, W. Va., March 10. Mystery surrounding the disappearance of Mrs. Charles Benalington aged thirty, wife of a farmer of Narrows Run, was dispersed when a searching party found her body under a three-ton rock which had fallen upon her. The rock was loosened by constant storms and thaws.

BRYAN EMITS SIGH OF RELIEF

"Unknown Persons" Reported to Have Crossed Into Mexico

COMPLICATIONS WERE FEARED

Governor Colquitt Claims Not to Know Parties Who Recovered Body of Slain American Vergara—Discussion Over Mexico Breaks Out in Senate When Fall of New Mexico Pleads For Intervention.

Washington, March 10.—Unofficial reports to the effect that Texas rangers did not actually cross the Mexican border to get the body of Clemente Vergara were warmly welcomed by officials here, who believe that this aspect of the case reduces materially the prospects of international and interstate complications ensuing.

It was feared that the incident might be the forerunner of all sorts of disturbing events which might lead the United States closer to intervention in Mexico. The relief experienced by Secretary Bryan when the later reports to the effect that the body was delivered on the United States' side by "persons unknown" was obvious.

Secretary Garrison took a hand in the affair, telegraphing General Bliss, commanding at San Antonio, for a complete report on the raid across the river. The army is involved because had the military authorities known in advance of the raid they would have been obliged by the terms of their standing orders to prevent the Texas from crossing. General Bliss replied that he was having an investigation made.

While Mr. Bryan refused to divulge his thoughts on the subject it is generally believed here that Consul Garrett can throw a great deal of light on the question as to what really happened. It was predicted that Mr. Garrett would find himself in difficulties if it should be shown as indicated that he was aware of what was to be done to get Vergara's body.

The conflicting stories as to how Vergara's body got to the American side of the line caused much comment here. It is generally believed that persons in Texas are trying to "get from under" any responsibility in the case.

Opinions rather inclined to the belief that friends of the dead men having learned where the body was buried undertook its recovery on their own responsibility and arranged for its delivery to the consul and the Texas rangers on the American side of the border.

The Ed was lifted from the Mexican situation in the senate.

Senator Fall of New Mexico in the presence of a full senate and with the galleries crowded made a speech which for the most part was a recital of outrages against Americans and American property interests that is likely to become historic.

The senator spoke in a dispassionate manner. He did not assail the administration except by implication. He pointed out what he believed to be the only road leading to a restoration of peace and order in that republic.

He came out unequivocally in favor of intervention with the land and naval forces of the United States to protect American lives and property and the lives and property of other foreigners in Mexico for whom the senator believes the government of the United States is answerable.

At Fall's conclusion Senator Shiveley of Indiana made a reply for the administration, consuming more than an hour and Senator Sheppard of Texas in a brief speech declared that the people of Texas approved of the policy of President Wilson and Secretary Bryan and that Governor Colquitt would not speak for the people of Texas.

Senator Shiveley chided Senator Fall for taking the lid off. He said Mr. Fall's speech could just as well have been delivered in executive session and accused the senator of purposely conniving to arouse the country by a recital of horrors.

POWDER WAS FAULTY

Coast Defense Gun Explodes, Fortunately Killing No One.

New York, March 10.—Forty officers and privates of the coast artillery, headed by Lieutenant Colonel Babbitt, were in danger when a twelve-inch coast defense gun exploded at the Sandy Hook proving grounds because a new kind of powder which was being tried out for the first time was faulty.

Only one was hurt. He is First Lieutenant Pendleton, who was the only one present exposed to the missiles scattered about when the cannon blew up. He was struck in the left leg by a missile which inflicted a cut so severe that two stitches were taken in the wound.

$1750
(f.o.b. Detroit)

The Most Talked-About Car in the Country

See This Innovation

A few days ago the first Six-40 was shipped from the HUDSON factory. Before this time the first month's output had been ordered by users who had not seen the car.

They were sold on these startling facts:

That the streamline body, the equipment, the new features were like the latest HUDSON Six-54, the handsomest car of the season.

That the weight would be under 3,000 pounds—under any comparable Four.

That the operative cost would be less than any equal-powered Four.

That the price would be $1750, f. o. b. Detroit—way below the price of Fours of equal power and size and class.

Think What This Means

Sixes have been high-priced, heavy, costly to operate. For that reason many have been forced to buy Fours.

Now comes this Six-40. It weighs 700 pounds less than last year's HUDSON "37"—a Four. It costs one-fourth less to operate. And it far undersells any Four in its class.

You legions of men who seek lightness and economy find them now in this Six-40—beyond any Four you know.

A Distinguished Car

In addition, here is the new streamline body. Here are all the new features which characterize the new HUDSON Six-54.

Disappearing tonneau seats. Gasoline tank in cowl dash. Left side drive. Extra tires ahead of the front door.

Up to six months ago, no car at any price offered so many attractions.

And a car designed by Howard E. Coffin, the great HUDSON engineer. A car that embodies all the best HUDSON standards.

Our first Six-40 has just arrived. It is now on exhibition. Come, see it and ride in it while it is new. The car marks a new era in motor-car history, and all of you should know it.

Lesson XI.—First Quarter, For March 15, 1914.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Luke xiii, 10-17; xiv, 1-6—Memory Verses, 3-5—Golden Text, Mark ii, 27—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Both of the portions assigned for today are Sabbath day incidents. In the first He healed a woman in the synagogue who had been afflicted eighteen years, and in the second He healed a man who had the dropsy in the house of one of the chief Pharisees. The ruler of the synagogue was indignant because the woman had been healed on the Sabbath day, for the day was more to them than the Lord who gave them the day, and they had not learned that the one in their midst was the Lord even of the Sabbath day, greater than the temple, and that it was lawful to do well on the Sabbath day (Matt. xii. 6-8, [illegible]).

The late Dr. Weston of Crozier seminary says, in his notes on Matthew, that the immediate occasion of the determination by the Jewish rulers to put Christ to death was His relation to the Sabbath. Christ claimed that the Jewish nation were His people; that as Son of Man He was greater than their greatest king, greater than the temple, greater than the sacrifices, greater than the Sabbath; that all these were ordained for the sake of redemption, that God might through them show mercy; that His object was to give, not to receive, and that necessarily the Redeemer was greater than all the means of redemption.

The Jewish Sabbath was the one peculiar and distinctive ordinance of the nation. It was the Jewish national law. If the nation is to be deprived of its distinction from other nations, what is the use of being God's people? Pride, self righteousness, arrogance, had taken possession of them. Inordinate love was in their midst doing its mighty works, and they thought it was Satan.

They did not know heaven from hell, sin from holiness, God from the devil. Their case was hopeless. The nation was doomed. Yet He was slow to cast them off. Ephraim was joined to idols, Israel would not frame her doings to turn unto her God, yet His mercy was, "How shall I give thee up" (Hosea xi. 8; 17; v. 4; xi. 8).

As the Lord in the parable of the unfruitful fig tree, "Let it alone this year also till I shall dig about it and dung it, and if it bear fruit well, and if not, then after that thou shalt cut it down" (Luke xiii. 6-9). He is slow to anger and plenteous in mercy, not willing that any should perish, but the day of the Lord will come (II Peter iii. 9, 10). He delights in mercy and loving kindness, and judgment is His strange work (Jer. ix. 23, 24; Hos. vi. 6; Isa. xxviii. 21).

Sabbath signifies rest and a ceasing from our own works (Gen. ii. 1-3; Heb. iv. 3, 4, 10). But those hypocrites were full of their own works, their own days, their own feasts and their own ways and were so occupied with them and blinded by them that they could not see the light from heaven that was in their midst.

The sicknesses which He healed were typical of the spiritual condition of the nation and of the condition of multitudes today. This woman in the synagogue was like many who are found in our churches. She was long years bowed down, bound by Satan and utterly unable to lift herself up. Every unsaved person is bound by Satan and unable to loosen or lift up himself, and neither the synagogue nor any mere human agency can do any good, for by the deeds of the law can no one be justified, for the law, although holy and just and good, cannot give life (Gal. ii. 16; iii. 10, 11, 21; Rom. vii. 12).

By one word, one touch, from Him who is the end of the law for righteousness to every one that believeth the infirmity of eighteen years instantly disappeared, the bound one was loosed from the bond of Satan, the people rejoiced and the adversaries of the Lord were ashamed.

Thus it was with Saul of Tarsus when he saw the same Lord on the way to Damascus. Thus it will be with Israel as a nation when they shall see the same Jesus coming in His glory. Thus it has been with multitudes now in glory and multitudes still on earth, and thus it might be with every one still bound by Satan if they would let the Lord lay His hand upon them and speak peace to them, for the free gift of God is eternal life, and whosoever will may take it (Rom. vi. 23; Rev. xxii. 17).

In our second portion He did not say, "Which of you shall see," but which of you shall have an ox or an ass fallen into a pit." Surely He can see His own property at any time and in any place, but His pitiful cry is, "Ye will not come unto me; Israel would have none of me" (John v. 40; Ps. lxxxi. 11). The woman came to Him when He called her (xiii. 12), and so did the little child, but He is saying to many: "I have called, and ye refused. Ye have set at naught all my counsel and would none of my reproof" (Prov. i. 24, 25).

These great foundation truths must never be forgotten. "God is love;" "The Lord is not willing that any should perish." He is still asking, "What more could have been done that I have not done?" (Isa. v. 4.) It is still true, "This man receiveth sinners."

Return of The Favorites

Next Saturday evening the attraction booked for the Maryland is the famous Guy Brothers Greater Minstrels. This season Geo, Guy has gathered together the best company that he has ever engaged, and assures the theatregoers of Oakland of good evening's pleasure. The show is entirely different from former years and well worthy of your patronage, as each member is first-class in his work and each act was carefully selected for this season's tour.

At the rise of the curtain you see a beautiful stage setting, with all new scenery and handsome costumes, all of which blend and help to make a very pretty scene. Albert Guy, the favorite interlocutor, will present the eight endmen, who are the best white colored comedians that could be secured, and they know how to entertain you. Their songs, dances and jokes are right up-to-the-minute. The soloists, who were engaged some months previous to the opening of the season, are trained vocalists, and will be heard for the first time in your city. The olio consists of twelve big vaudeville acts that will please every one. It is seldom that any company carries as large a number of performers as do the Guy Brothers this season, among whom are Torled, known as the Human Dragon, a European novelty, the paraphernalia for this wonderful act weighing over fifteen hundred pounds. Burling, Vally, Surban and Arnold, a very clever dancing team, will also appear; these men have more different steps than any team on the stage to day. The Sheppard Quartette will be heard here for the first time. Their selections are the best ever heard and worth going miles to hear. The Davis Brothers have a magnificent stag setting for their grand musical act; they play nearly every kind of musical instrument to perfection, making it one of the best acts on the road. Edwin Cupp, a real comedian will also make his first appearance here with this company; he is a first class entertainer. It is hard to say enough for this attraction this year, and it is sure to be greated by a full house as usual. Don't miss the grand street parade at noon and hear the celebrated Silver Concert Band. Reserved seats are now on sale.—Advertisement.

New Hotel Proprietor in Charge.

Mr. D. P. Hansel, recently of Morgantown who purchased the Giessman Hotel in Oakland about six weeks ago, arrived in Oakland last Wednesday with his family and took charge of his new purchase that evening. Mr. Hansel's delay in coming to Oakland on the 1st inst, upon which date he was to have assumed charge of the hotel, was occasioned by the illness of his daughter. Mr. Hansel is a native Garrett countian, having been born and reared in District No. 11, and removed from that section to Morgantown last fall.

OPTOMETRIST

Is Your Child Handicapped in his or her physical and mental development by defective vision? Out of 100,000 school children examined in New York city, nearly 30 per cent. were found to be in need of glasses. In Boston the percentage was found to be slightly over 20 per cent., and most of these children were down on the books as "stupid," "stubborn" or unruly. In Philadelphia 354 children were discovered who could not read ordinary writing on a blackboard at a distance of twenty feet. You should make sure by a thorough examination at the hands of a competent optometrist. That your child is not among this vast army of little citizens who suffer from defective eyesight, delays often result seriously. My examinations are made by the most scientific accurate methods. If it is found that glasses are not required you will be told so frankly and no charge made for the examination.

OLD MR. GROUNDHOG CAME OUT VICTORIOUS

Beat the Government Weather Sharps In His Prediction of Bad Weather.

Monday was the last of a forty-day set-to between the groundhog and the weather sharps. Final reports show the weather forecasters in full retreat, with barometer and windgage in hand, still bluffing, but unable longer to hold out against the nature-given foresight of the queer little beast who saw his shadow in the bright sunshine of February 2.

For, on Candlemas Day, otherwise calendared as February 2, the county was bathed in a clear, cold sunshine and the old saw runs:

If Candlemas Day shows the groundhog the sun,
It means that the winter has just begun.

Or, as the down-country people prefer to quote it:

If Candlemas be fair and clear
There'll be two winters in the year.

So much for the original cause of the battle between the groundhog in its pristine wisdom and the weather sharps, with their awe-inspiring apparatus and their prophetic announcements of snow-storms that get lost in the Atlantic and hurricanes that peter into gentle spring-like breezes and fair days that become soggy with pea soup, fogs and lowering clouds.

The weather man was found buried in strange-looking maps, nearly hidden from view by telegraphic reports from Pacific to Atlantic and from Florida to Maine.

"The groundhog has made good once more," he was gently reminded. "The beast saw its shadow February 2, just forty days ago; and since then there has been nothing but blizzards, hurricanes, flying roofs, vanishing snow-storms, ice knee deep, frost-bitten feet, nipped ears and general Polar conditions."

"Pooh! Pooh!" said the Weather Man. "The groundhog is a fable. In the first place, whoever saw such a beast. In the next place, even if he exists, he cannot foretell the weather forty days in advance. Nobody can do that. I can't do it myself."

After being heartily agreed with he was sympathetically shown that the groundhog was the familiar and much-prized weather prophet of the great masses of the people; that horny-handed, hard-headed farmers sat up all night preceding February 2 to watch how the canny little beast behaved when the sun hit its chubby carcass for the first time.

"It is science versus common sense," the Weather Man was told gently; "results versus protestation; facts versus fiction. The groundhog delivered the goods! How often has the local sharp missed and hit on predictions carrying only sixteen hours ahead!"

Then the weather man got busy. He unrolled maps, brought forth heavy ledgers and produced much red ink figures stamped on department red tape.

"We claim 80 per cent. of hits since February 2," finally announced the Weather Man. But he weakened when shown the groundhog's brilliant record since February 2, and reluctantly admitted:

"Certainly it looks as if the groundhog had made good this year, but it's a pure coincidence. Why that animal got no weather reports, he has no telegraphic communication all over this country, it has no red tape, not even so much as a bottle of red ink."

Evidently with a man so lost to reason, further argument was useless. The weather sharp was left contented with his delusions.

Meanwhile it is interesting to learn that while the one and only groundhog is the peerless leader of all animal weather prophets, yet nations who possess no groundhogs find some comfort in the prediction deduced from bears, badgers, wild geese, ducks and swans.

TO BRIDGE THE POTOMAC NEAR BLOOMINGTON

Measure Carrying $50,000 Introduced In The House.

Annapolis, March 18th.

A bill carrying an appropriation of $50,000 for the erection of a bridge across the North Branch of the Potomac river between West Virginia Junction, W. Va., and Luke, in Allegany county, Md., was introduced in the House by, Delegate Shartzer, of Garrett county, today. Mr. Shartzer also introduced a companion bill, calling for an appropriation of $5,000 or as much more as the board of county commissioners of Garrett county care to give for this purpose. The bill created a commission to handle the fund and supervise the construction of the bridge. The commission is to be composed of the members of the boards of county commissioners of Allegany and Garrett counties, Maryland and Mineral county, West Virginia, and George Warnick, J. Miller and G. Semmes Hamill, Jr. A secretary to the commission is to be chosen from among the members who shall receive such compensation as the commission may determine. It is assumed that the State of West Virginia will appropriate a similar sum of $50,000, but it is not made a condition of the Maryland appropriation in the bill.

Senator Speicher, of Garrett county, had been asked to introduce this measure in the Senate and had the bill prepared, but after conferring with the chairman of finance and the ways and means committees decided that it is not possible to receive a $50,000 appropriation at this time and that a less amount will be insufficient for the purpose intended. For these and other reasons the Senator declined to introduce the bill and it has now been introduced into the House. In the bill handed to Senator Speicher the personel of the commission comprised Senators Speicher and Zihlman and Attorney G. Semmes Hamill, Jr., of Oakland.

The popular vote idea triumphed today in the House, though the same triumph seems to be withheld from the mass vote principle in nominating candidates for the United States Senate. The bill on which the temporary temper of the House was displayed was reported unfavorably to elect the mine inspector instead of having that official appointed by the Governor. By a vote of 54 to 31, the House substiuted the bill for the unfavorable report. If the bill becomes a law the voters of Allegany and Garrett counties will be called upon to elect the mine inspector. During the debate there were a crimonious exchanges of opinions. The charge was made and vigorously denied that the Consolidation Coal Company controlled the appointment and even controlled the grand juries of the two counties.

Delegates Harvey and Savage, of Garrett county, yesterday introduced two bills providing that "in addition to any sentence of confinement in the city jail of Garrett county which may be imposed in case of conviction for assault, drunkenness, disorderly conduct, disturbing public peace, vagrancy, petit larceny, or any misdemeanor where the punishment prescribed by law shall not exceed three years' imprisonment in the penitentiary or house of correction by the justice of the peace having criminal jurisdiction in their discretion, may also in said sentence direct that any prisoner over 16 years of age, who may have been convicted of any of the offenses enumerated herein, shall be subjected to perform hard labor for and during the period of his imprisonment on the public roads of Garrett county or on the public streets of any incorporated town of said county; provided that during the employment of such convict in the public streets of any incorporated town, the town authorities so employing such convicts shall be charged with the expenses which may attend such employment. Both bills are practically the same in text, one repealing and re-enacting section 2 of chapter 597 of the Acts of 1912, and the other adding a new section to article 12 of the Code of Public Local Laws of Maryland. Both bills were referred to the Judiciary Committee.

A bill introduced some time ago by Delegate Shartzer, of Garrett county, providing for an appropriation of $15,000 with which to build a water wall at Kitzmiller and Friendsville. The Shartzer bill provided for a commission of five to handle the fund, without compensation. The commission would come three from one town and two from the other, and the town having the majority could insist upon spending as much of the fund as they chose on their own territory, and the commission receiving no compensation, it would be difficult at times to have the attention of the members. These and other objections to the Shartzer bill were discussed with Senator Speicher, of Garrett, by a number of citizens of both Kitzmiller and Friendsville, the localities interested, and it was decided to introduce an entirely new bill in the Senate eliminating the defects in the previous measure. Senator Speicher, therefore, has introduced a bill for this purpose in the Senate. It provides for an appropriation of $25,000, the smaller amount being deemed insufficient, and the commission will be composed of six members—three from Kitzmiller and three from Friendsville. The Commissioners will receive 30 cents per hour for actual services performed, and numerous other modifications are made. The Speicher bill will be pushed vigorously and has a splendid chance of passing. The Shartzer bill will probably remain in the Ways and Means Committee, where it was referred when introduced.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Filed a Written Protest Against State-Aid to Garrett Schools.

The following is a copy of the protest filed by the State Board of Education of Maryland with the Senate Finance Committee. Not only did the Board file a protest but Mr. Stephens, State Superintendent, personally objected to the appropriation when he appeared before the Committee. Senator Speicher with his determined way of doing things, took hold of the subject and made a strong appeal before the committee and personally canvassed the matter with his brother senators, until at last he secured a favorable report and in a few days the bill will pass the Senate and receive the signature of the Governor, and for the next two years the school fund of Garrett county will have added to it yearly $4,000. Fortunate indeed is Garrett county in having Mr. Speicher representing them in the Senate of Maryland. The protest follows:

To the Committee on Finance of the Senate.

Gentlemen:—I have been instructed by the State Board of Education to say that their attention has been called to House Bill No. 27 which has passed the House and is now before your Committee.

The preamble to this bill recites a recommendation of this Board that the sum of Four Thousand dollars should be paid to the School Commissioners of Garrett County out of the State School Fund in addition to the pro-rate apportionment to that county.

The Board did make such recommendation in 1894 when conditions seemed oppressive to Garrett county. But the Board is convinced that conditions there have so changed as no longer to justify this particular treatment of one county at the expense of all the rest, and therefore the Board desires to notify you that it now withdraws its recommendation of such action.

It appears that in 1894 the assessible basis of Garrett county was $[illegible] whereas it is now $10,967,994. The county levy for schools in Garrett is [illegible] cents on the $100, practically the same rate as in 1894, whereas the average rate for schools in the counties of the State is 30.8 cents on the $100, and there are but three other counties in the State whose levy for schools is as low as that of Grrrett.

The Board asks you to consider these facts in connection with this request of Garrett county, remembering that whatever is given to that county under such a bill as this must be paid by other counties and that they are making serious complaint of such partial treatment after the occasion for it has long passed away.

By order of the State Board of Education.

Very truly yours,
M. BATES STEPHENS.

March 11, 1914

In this protest of the State Board of Education and State Superintendent of Public Education, made before the Ways and Means Committee of the State Senate, it is stated that the county levy for school purposes is now "23.2" per hundred dollars of assessed valuation. This same statement is made in the annual report of the State Board of Education for the fiscal year ending July 31, 1913. This statement in the protest and report is misleading. The levy made for school purposes by the County Commissioners of Garrett county in April, 1912, was 27.8 per hundred dollars of assessed valuation; for the total assessment of the county in April, 1912, was $11,871,110 and the amount levied for school purposes was $33,000. Furthermore, it might be added, in April, 1913, the local levy for school purposes was 29.2, which levy is almost equal to 30.8, which is the average levy for school purposes of all the counties of the State.

Fish Commissioner W. A. Smith of Hoyes, came up to Oakland Tuesday night and left here on train No 4 for Baltimore where he went to look after the affairs of his office.

MORE ROAD BIDS ASKED BY BOADS COMMISSION

State-Aid Road To Gortner and Section on National Road to Be Built.

By advertisements in to-day's Republican the State Roads Commission invites bids for the construction of two sections of road, one a State-Aid proposition leading from Oakland via the Weber farm to Gortner, a distance of near six miles, and the other for the resurfacing of a section of the National Road between Piney Grove and Avilton, the latter having been previously advertised and the bids rejected as being too high.

The State-Aid road proposed to be built is to begin at the eastern limits of Oakland on the Mountain Lake Park road and follow its present location, with one or two minor changes, to the intersection of the road leading to the Weber place, crossing the tracks of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at Weber station, a mile or more east of Oakland and continuing through the property on a new location to intesect the Aurora or West Union Road at the Thompson place, thence over the old location of the Aurora road to Gortner.

Two surveys for this road have been made and submitted to the Roads Commission. One following the old road beginning at the southern limits of Oakland near the home of the late Peter P. Lohr and the other via the Weber farm. The Roads Commission selected the latter route, deeming it a better grade, thus eliminating one or two steep hills, notably the Mont Vista Hill.

Bids for this work are to be submitted to the Board of County Commissioners on or before April 4th. Of the amount necessary to construct the road the county as a whole furnishes forty per cent., the residents or those who have become signers to the subscription papers obligating themselves to pay ten per cent., while the State will furnish the residue, or fifty per cent.

This will be the first State-Aid Road to be built in the county, provided the bids are satisfactory to the Commissioners and all other requirements of the law pertaining to the work are complied with.

Married.

COMPTON—SLABAUGH—At the Presbyterian manse in Oakland on February 17, by Dr. J. C. Ely, Mr. Thomas Compton of Oakland, and Miss Orpah Slabaugh of Mountain Lake Park, were joined in wedlock. The couple will reside at the Park.

NEAR-BEER HEAKING.

Alleged Violator of Liquor Law Declared Not Guilty and State Appeals.

Last Saturday Oakland was fairly well filled with residents of Kitzmiller, who came over here as witnesses and principals in a near-beer case instituted a week or more previous by the State, in which the Commonwealth charged a number of men engaged in business at Kitzmiller with having violated the liquor law in selling "soft" drinks which contained alcohol in sufficient quantities to produce drunkenness.

The hearing was before Justice Fries and the State was represented by State's Attorney Renninger, the main witness being Dr. C. O. Miller, State chemist, of Baltimore, who had analyzed the drink and found that it contained 2.69 per cent. of alcohol. J. T. Merritt was on trial and the evidence showed that the retailer sold unlabeled "malt" which was manufactured in Frostburg. The maltmaster of the brewery was one of the witnesses for the defense, his testimony being to the effect that when the brew is tested and shows a greater amount of spirits than is allowed water is added and the per centage thus lessened.

The State examined four witnesses and the defense seven, the verdict of the Justice was not guilty. An appeal was noted and the case now goes to the Circuit Court. Messrs. Griffith of Keyser, and Offutt, of Oakland were attorneys for Merritt.

THE DEATH RECORD

ARTHUR SAVAGE.

Arthur Savage, aged 35 years, son of Thomas Savage, of Friendsville, died in Pittsburgh on Sunday of pneumonia and was buried at Friendsville Tuesday. The deceased was engaged as a traveling salesman, and was ill but a short time.

MRS. WALTET G. MEYERS.

Mrs. Walter G. Meyers died at her home in Crellin on last Friday and was buried at Blooming Rose cemetary, near Friendsville, Sunday afternoon, the funeral being attended by a large number of friends and relatives, many of them going from Crellin in sleds on Sunday morning. Mrs. Meyers' death was due to pneumonia. She is survived by her husband and several children.

Operation Performed.

Mr. George T. Porter, of near Oakland, was operated upon at the Home Sanatorium in Oakland Monday by Dr. Hawkins, of Cumberland. Mr. Porter has been quite ill for some months past and the operation showed that his illness was the result of an abscess which had formed on his lower intestines. He is doing nicely and will be able to return to his home in a short time.

Engenics.

To the Editor of The Republican.

We are hearing a good deal now-a-days about a new movement called Engenics. It is an imposing name. It claims to be very scientific and so wraps itself in a mantle of mystery so that the ordinary mind thinks it is beyond its grasp. It simply means well born, so the farmer, the stockman and the ordinary person knows its practical meaning though they do not understand the anglicized Greek word. It proposes to do for the race what the stockman does for his herds. It proposes to change the human society and human conduct to insure that the children of the coming generation shall be well born, that is free from hereditary diseases, degeneracy and the predisposition to insanity. To do this they will not permit the diseased or the very dipraved or criminal from mating or becoming parents.

In other words it proposes that society as a whole shall snall select those who shall be the parents of the future generations. But it does not tell us how society gets this authority. They propose to pass laws regulating this. It would be like a good many other laws on our statute books—a dead letter.

In 1912 a great Congress devoted to the spread of Eugenics was held in London. About 500 from all parts of Europe and America read papers, proposed theories and discussed the subject and doubtless were greatly benefitted, because of the opportunity to blow off steam, thereby preventing an explosion.

Its real starting point is Darwin's "Natural Selection," which is supposed to dominate among plants and animal nature, it is claimed selects so well, that a high standard is maintained. She kills off the weaklings and degenerates before they can transmit their infirmities to others.

This law has been ignoredor suspended in the case of man, who oppose the destruction of his less capable offspring and resist the selection of a limited number to take the place of those who vacate by reason of death. He cares for the sick and weakly and allows them to translate their defects of body and brain to new generations. These wise-acres lose sight of the awful fact that the real trouble with society is Sin, dweling in and corrupting the hearts of men. They recognizing the fact that things are going bad with the race, and that succeeding generations are not exhibiting the betterment which is so generaly believed to be accomplishing.

A society of Engenics has been established to these facts and evolve some means, if possible, of checking the progress of civilization m this direction. Things have evolved in the wrong way for them, so this society of Engenics, composed of the best scientific leaders of humanity, for the purpose of devising ways and means to counteract what pet scheme of Evolution has accomplished in developing man, who after all has not sense enough to use his intelligence to work havoc in his race. These scientists have worshipped at the shrine of their god Evolution, who has made a failure of his work. The Evolution theory is a miserable failure.

It is somewhat significant that the son of Charles Darwin, who is at the head of the Eugenic Society should lead in the forlorn hope of trying to find some remedy for the evasion of the supposed law of "Natural Selection." If the race owes its existence to Darwin's theory, then it is ungrateful and foolish for human beings to cast off the authority of that beneficent "law of nature." If the Eugenist is right in his theory, then to nullify the law of natural selection would mean race suicide. The Eugenist is very much concerned, for he sees, or thinks he does, a danger that threatens to exterminate the race, or make it a race of demons. From his point of view everything depends on the adoption by man of "some method of selective breeding" to use their own words. This is the only salvation for the race. They say the feeble minded, diseased and criminal are allowed "to wander about without restraint, and owing to the very fact of their feeble mindedness and want of self control they constantly, among the poorer classes, produce children and increase the number of semi-idiots and feeble minded helpless individuals in the population."

"As to the future," they say, "it is probable that, if the civilized races of men do not adopt some method of selective breeding, struggle and competition will develop at a later period between the different race groups of mankind, when the surface of the earth and the available sources of nutrition are fully taken up by the dense population of that awful future." This is the brightest outlook which this so called highest science can give us.

It doesn't require much foresight to see that this science excludes every ray of light from the Bible and does not allow God himself to interfere in any way with the "laws of nature" though He has made them. "They rule God out of the universe and refer to science as its origin; and if you want to know the origin and destiny of man you must go to this highest of all sciences, called Eugenics. Paul describes their condition exactly, when he says "having no hope, and without God in the world." All they have in prospect is that "awful future" where desperate human creatures shall tear each other to pieces for something to continue their miserable existence. No one to look to for deiverance from this fearful danger! No prospect of help save from this yet uniform science called Eugenics, for they have denied the power of God and ruled him out altogether.

Some scientists mock at the idea of hell, yet here is a science creating a condition of things that is awful beyond other powers of conception, and to attain which is only necessary to leave man to himself. In other words, from their stand point, all that is necessary to produce the conditions of hell, is for God to withdraw Himself from men; or rather that men should go on in their self chosen way of departure from God. The Eugenist says this disaster is threatening the civilized races of men. Then it is our civilization that is hurrying us on into the abyss. The uncivilized races are not so threatened with fearful calamity. It says some good things with which we can all agree. They emphasize the importance of the stock of humanity. It is important that the stock of the tree be good, else the fruit can't be good.

The trouble with the children of Adam is that we are the fruit of a tree whose stock is bad. Reformers are trying to make the fruit good without changing the stock. The Divine way is to make the tree good and the fruit will be good.

If you want good fruit you must have good seed, good stock. There is only one way to get this. He who alone has the power, must "make the tree good." But presumptuous man will do anything rather than trust God. So we have springing from man's extremity his latest invention—Engenics.

Fallen man loves to make idols, or gods who may be invoked to do for man what man could not do for himself. But the old time Idols will not meet the demands of our present civilization. Science has detected this need, or at least it claims to have done so and the leaders are organizing to bring into existence and present to the race the much needed God who will avert all coming disaster and science a condition of perpetual felicity. Bosh! such egotism! Such supreme folly. Paul describes all such when he says, "Professing themselves to be wise, they become fools." You who have spiritual discernment can easily see that man's method of being "well born" is a human substitute for God's method of being "born again."

We need a good seed in the earth, the best that can he had. It is imperative that we should have it. To meet this necessity God sent His Son. He sows the good seed, the living word in the hearts of men! He plants the germ of a new life in the hearts of men. Whoever receives this good seed of the word, has the germ of a new life. Something infinitely better than the science of Eugenics can bestow, even if it possessed all the powers it desries.

They are more than "well-born" they are "born again" not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, by the word of God, which liveth and abideth forever." This so called science of Eugenics is another fad of the day, the offspring of trouble having its origin in the desire to get rid of obligation to and dependence upon God.

Yours truly,
HAM.

A Correspondent Deplores The Manner of Condacting Farmer's Institutes.

To the Editor of The Republican.

As an interested attendant I wish to call attention of Garrett county farmer's institute patrons to the need of agitation for due performance of duty on the part of those responsible for the holding of institutes. Writing with special reference to the conduct of meetings held in Grantsville in the last two years—the last instead of being improvement upon the former year's lax and tardy prosecution of institute functions was indeed notoriously bad. Last year a day and night's session was advertised to be held and quite an expectant company of goodly numbers were assembled, but no speakers appeared until well toward evening—so only a night session was held. The year previous no forenoon session was held, although advertised to be held. The institute here was complimented upon different occasions by different lecturers for attendance and attention but the farmer's institute management of the state seems so little appreciative of the wide-awakedness and public spiritedness of institute goers and supporters as to fail in real purpose and effort to have suitable (to the need) lecturers here on time for sessions specifically announced to be held. At the ratio our institute affairs have been deteriorating the past three seasons we may indeed count ourselves fortunate if the institute corps comes this way, in passage and combines in a duality its greetings and adieus in one act and that "the day after."

Again the management deserves criticism and protest for the itinerary as planned last year. Instead of prosecuting their movements with system they began at one end of the county and arranged for the next day's institute to be held at the other extreme institute point, Oakland, and then come back and finished in the middle— Accident. Then according to press report no forenoon session was held at Oakland on account of non-presence of speakers and that because of an "automobile delay."

The people here were amused when they read that automobile excuse in the county papers for at the time they started for the shire town, they would have been tardy had they gone to our village school and it was a matter of free comment, their inertia and laxity under the circumstances—after being so sorry that they were belated in arriving here. Director Amoss once wrote to a correspondent here, that he used to lie awake at nights endeavoring to devise means whereby farmers might be induced to attend institutes, but later was kept busy devising ways to supply the demand. Can it be reasonably expected that this interest may be maintained by the present status of affairs? Director Amoss, too, declared than he aimed to make the best possible use of moneys received from the State. Now, we may well ask is not a part of the state's appropriation squandered in fares, board and salary for which due and adequate value is not returned in proposed service?

Again the needs of this county have not been met with the class of speakers of recent years as they were a few years ago and earlier when men like R. L. Watts, now Dean of the Pennslyvania Agricultural college, Edward Van Alstyne, now director of institutes of New York; Joe Wing of Ohio, Mr. Campbell of Pennsylvania, Mr. Kydd of Ontario and others whose names I do not recall at this moment, were supplemented by native talent. This however is not intended to discount home talent. It is very evident that our county's need and conditions are quite different to those of the eastern and southeastern parts of the State. In conclusion let me urge that every farmer's institute committee in the county stir up this matter in time and let our legislators of both houses press the need upon "the powers that be" and better use of time and means may be made at the institutes and consequent execution of better principles and methods upon the farm.

DR KOCH DISCOVERED GERMS

Proclaimed Them to Be the Cause of Consumption.

Bear's Emulsion Builds Up Body Keeps Germs from Getting in Action.

Being discovered some years ago by Robert Koch, a distinguished German scientist, that consumption was caused by the action of a typical germ that is breathed into the body of any human being, and that it can only stay with those that allow their system to run down by the action of some other disease. When you are in the weak state is the time the germ is most effective. No appetite, loss of sleep, nerves in bad condition pains all through the body, then it is time to take Bear's Emulsion which will build up your system and take it from the ravages of this germ. Even the little hacking cough or little tickling in the throat often means much more than one would think. Don't neglect it, one or two bottles of Bear's Emulsion offers complete relief. One or two consumption germs will give you consumption and if you don't watch you will be added to the list that go to make so many deaths in one year. Bear's Emulsion is only one dollar a bottle or six bottles for five dollars.

A Temperance Talk to Voters

BY JASON KEP

Mr. Free-Moral-Agent-Personal-Liberty-Man, you may think that, if you are willing to take the chances on what is coming to you as the reward of punishment for your actions here on earth, it is strictly your own business and the public have no right to butt in, no right to say what manner of life you should live.

You may think man is a free moral agent and should be left unhampered by laws, to work out his own salvation or damnation, that it is a matter between you and your God and outsiders have no right to interfere. If you want to take a drink or get drunk it is your own look out. You say "people are getting too officious, why can't they mind their own busines."

Now, you know that it would be impossible for men to live together in comfort and safety without a set of rules or laws to govern their actions. Laws are made to restrain the viciously inclined and to protect the weak.

Man is so constituted that he cannot live wholly within himself, and his actions have an influence for good or evil upon his brothers. So it is plain, that while a man may become so hardened that his conscience gets clogged and needs a plumber, it is the duty of the people to rope him and tie him down to save the young brother.

One has personal liberty to go to hell just as quick as he pleases, but he does not have personal liberty to entice, drag or force others along. You have personal liberty to have your regular drink but you must not interfere with our personal liberty by getting drunk and making yourself obnoxious to the community; you must not get others drunk or disorderly.

You think we have no right to interfere. If you saw your brother going into danger would you not warn him? If you saw him in great danger would you not try to save him? Would you not try to restrain him from going to certain death?

Now suppose that brother, not only would not listen to you, but deliberately persuaded your younger brother to go with him on this trip that would end in ignminious death, would you not be justified in forcibly restraining him, or at least restraining him from dragging his younger brother along?

All mankind are brothers, so it is your duty to try to save anyone from danger.

You know that alcohol as a beverage is killing over 152,000 people every year in the United States, and recruiting 152,000 of our children to fill the ranks.

You know how it works, casual drinker, moderate drinker, habitual drunkard,—dead.

You know that there are thousands of your friends, neighbors and brothers who cannot take a drink or let it alone, even supposing you could, and as a good citizen you are in duty bound to help protect them from this terrible menace.

I believe you want to be a good citizen, to be respected by the community, then as a good citizen you ought not to insist upon being permitted to do things that you get right up on your hind legs and paw the air and object to your mother, sister or wife doing.

We are not fighting your personal liberty to take a drink when we fight the system which permits saloons to debauch, degrade and kill the manhood and lives of our brothers. You know the saloons take an active part in politics. Is their influence on the side of cleaner and better government? Now why are you in favor of saloons? You know you would object strenuously to your mother, sisters or wife going to saloons and drinking. If you are so strong on personal liberty, then it is none of your business and you have no right to object to their going to the saloons and drinking or getting drunk. Ah, that is different isn't it? You only want personal liberty for yourself, not for your family. My friend, your argument is weak and you don't believe in it yourself and you know it.

Just spare an hour some time and take one good honest think on the subject and see if you don't decide that closing the saloons will add to your personal liberty instead of curtailing it. You know how it is now, you go out fill up your tank, get hilarious, make a nuisance of yourself, police comes along you go with him—next morning $10 or 60 days. Where's your personal liberty now. Nothing to it. Get on the water wagon.

JASON KEP.

THEIR REASONS FOR WISHING.

Oakland High School Boys Give Answers To A Pertinent Question.

The teacher of Senior year English in the Oakland High School asked his class to answer, in writing, the query: "Why I wish to go to a University." The following are some of the answers:

WHY I WISH TO GO TO A UNIVERSITY.

In the first place I intend to be a lawyer, and it is always desirable for professional men to be as well educated as possible. Statistics prove that the man who is a university graduate has a much greater chance to succeed financially, than the one who is not. My primary aim in deciding to go to a university, is to be well equipped for my chosen profession.

In the second place, he who graduates from a university has had the opportunity to gain a good general education. In the course of a year a number of lecturers visit a university, and discourse on a variety of subjects, While all of their ideas may not be reasonable, the student necessarily learns to consider things in general, in a broadminded manner. If the university could do nothing else but teach people to think, it would still be a valuable institution. A narrow minded person is of little use to mankind.

Altogether, my chief reasons for wishing to go to a university are that I may gain a general education, a specific education and one that is practical.

FREDERICK THAYER.

WHY I WISH TO GO TO COLLEGE.

There are three primary reasons why I wish to go to college. These are given and explained in the following paragraphs.

First, I owe it to myself and to my country to develop my physical, mental, and spiritual talents to the highest possible efficiency. A wise step to take in order to accomplish this is to go to college, for then I may understand the ways and customs, the wants and supplies, the needs and supports of the world better.

Second. for the pleasure and benefits reaped in later life. A living is much more easily earned with a college or university education than it is with only a high school education. Instead of heart-sickenings and misunderstandings, it would be a pleasure to talk and associate with well educated people.

Third, in order to achieve greatness and to be remembered, I should do things worth writing or write things worth reading. If I would win honor, I must be a statesman, a speaker, an uplifter of humanity, or fill some other prominent position in life. In order to do these I must have a good education such as a university affords.

GUY ASHBY.

WHY I WANT TO GO TO COLLEGE.

Any boy or girl who has any ambition at all, has a great desire to go to College. This fact is not so clearly understood until one has completed a high or preparatory school course. At this point the student realizes that if he wants to continue his education, that college is the next step toward it. College is merely a continuation of one's education, begun in another school.

To give up your education after preparing for college, is like laying a foundation, and not building the house upon it. After striving hard to lay the foundation, why not build the house and enjoy it's comforts?

Of course it is a fact that some of the world's biggest fools are college graduates, still I think they would have been fools, and perhaps much bigger fools, if they had never gone to college.

It is possible for one to be educated; that is, to acquire a knowledge along certain lines, without a college education; in fact some of our greatest men of history, writers, statesmen, etc., never had the advantage of a college training, but had they had this advantage as the young people of today have, they would have been still greater men. The experience of the human race proves this fact conclusively.

Aside from specializing, college gives one a knowledge of many subjects, and a broad view of life in general. She gives to her students a training that develops not only their mental power's but the social, spiritual and physical powers as well.

We must ever remember the fact, that the boys and girls of today will be the men and women of tomorrow, and this should stimulate us to prepare to assume the responsibilities that will eventually devolve upon us.

PERCY THAYER

Admirable System.

There's no denying that it is man's inalienable right to strike while the temper's hot, so perhaps it'll be about as much as we can expect if, when the millennium rolls around, the ice men have learned to strike only in winter and the coal men in summer.

MESSIAH TO ASK FOR THE HEATHEN

The Redeemer Has Not Yet Asked For His Inheritance.

World-wide Dominion Promised Messiah—The Conversion of the Heathen Shortly to Be Accomplished—Messiah's Conquest of the Nations—The Arrows of Truth Will Reach Men's Hearts From the Quiver of Divine Wisdom, Justice and Love—Force to Be Employed In Putting Down All Opposition—Death to Be Destroyed.

March 8.—Pastor Russell's discourse today related to the fulfillment of Jesus' prayer, "Ask of Me, and I shall give Thee the heathen for Thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for Thy possession."

The Pastor declared that his text, taken from a Messianic Psalm, represents Messiah as making known to His people the Heavenly Father's decree rewarding Him for His faithfulness as our Redeemer and assuring Him of His exaltation to the Kingdom, with power to subject all things to the Father's will. This dominion has not yet come to Messiah. The Prince of Darkness still reigns.

The reason for this, the Pastor explained, is that our Redeemer has not yet asked for His inheritance. Knowing the Divine Plan, our Lord was content to wait until the due time, in harmony with another feature of that Plan which must precede the setting up of the Messianic Kingdom. That feature is the selection of the Church the Bride of Christ.

The Pastor next showed that meantime the heathen have been suffering no loss. Born in sin, condemned to death, all of Adam's family have had experiences with sin and death, and have been going down into the tomb the prison house of death there to remain until the Redeemer at His Second Advent shall call them from their graves. Then a fair trial will be given them, to determine their worthiness or unworthiness of life everlasting. It was part of the Divine purpose, he explained, that the earth should be filled with people; and hence the bringing forth of a progeny is part of the Divine will. The few years of this life, with experience of sin and death conditions, will be supplemented by the grand opportunities of the next Age.

Converting the World.

Then the Pastor contrasted God's method of dealing with the world in general with that which He adopted for the Church during this Age. In the next Age, force will be used, not merely moral suasion. Mankind will be compelled to be obedient. Numerous Scriptures were quoted to sustain this position. Among these Psalm 45.

This Psalm, the Pastor declared, is descriptive of Messiah's triumph during the Millennial Age—a picture of the conversion of the heathen. The arrows of Truth, which will go forth to the whole world, will reach the hearts of men and will smite them down. To illustrate the thought the speaker reminded his audience that when St. Peter preached that the Jews had crucified the Son of God, his hearers were "cut to the heart"—pierced with the lance of Truth.

The Pastor holds that this work of dealing with the world will begin with the generation living at the time of the establishment of Messiah's Kingdom. Ultimately it will include all that are in their graves, in the reverse order of that in which they entered. The last will come forth first—"every man in his own order," or class.

Referring to the Second Psalm, the Pastor applied it to the time of our Lord's Second Coming, when the Church will have entered into His glory as "the Bride, the Lamb's Wife," symbolically pictured as the New Jerusalem. From that Heavenly City, according to St. John, the Water of Life will flow freely, and whosoever will may partake. Meantime, the speaker declared, before the nations will be ready for that blessing, they must pass through a period of deep humiliation "a Time of Trouble such as was not since there was a nation."

The extent to which the nations will suffer at that time will depend largely upon their own attitude, the Pastor believes. He bases his opinion upon the verse following his text. Those that accept Messiah's Rule heartily will be correspondingly saved from the breaking process. Hence the exhortation, "Kiss the Son, lest He be angry, and ye perish from the way."

The Glorious Outcome.

The Pastor concluded with a brief summary of God's Plan of Salvation. First He has selected The Christ—Jesus the Head, and the Church His Body, through whom He purposes to bless all the families of the earth. This blessing will consist of a knowledge of Himself, His glorious character, and also of an opportunity for life everlasting. The Scriptures, he declared, do not authorize us to claim universal salvation, but distinctly speak of some who will die the Second Death. These will have demonstrated fully that they are not in harmony with the principles of righteousness, and therefore unworthy of life everlasting.

MARTIAL LAW ALONG BORDER

Mexican Outrage at San Diego Stirs Californians

ANTI FEELING AT HIGH PITCH

Murder of Postmaster Followed by Burning of Postoffice and Customs House by Mexicans Arouses That Part of Country—Washington Not Looking For Villa to Advance Against Torreon at Once.

San Diego, Cal., March 17.—Martial law is in effect along the border for miles each side of Tecate, Cal., following the destruction by fire of the general store containing the United States postoffice and customs office and the murder of Postmaster Frank Johnston by three men declared to be Mexicans.

The border is patroled by American troops from Fort Rosecrans. Across the line not many hundred feet Mexican rurales performed guard duty.

Every man within a radius of ten miles of Tecate is armed and rifles and ammunition have been ordered from this city.

Governor Hiram Johnson was asked to make formal demand on Governor Francisco Vasquez of Lower California for the delivery of the Mexicans suspected of having killed Johnston. Anti-Mexican feeling is aroused to fever heat in the vicinity of Tecate.

Skeptical About Villa's Advance.

Washington, March 17.—Circumstantial accounts of preliminary fighting in the vicinity of Torreon have not received any official confirmation in dispatches to Washington that a decisive engagement is to be looked for in that quarter immediately.

Dispatches to the state department from representatives in northern Mexico and on the border contain nothing in support of the published reports that minor engagements are already taking place between federals and rebels near Torreon, nor do they indicate there is any immediate prospect of an important contest for the city now held by the federals.

Not until a battle has actually begun will officials here be inclined to believe that Villa has decided to risk his present comfortable position and holdings in Chihuahua on a battle at Torreon.

In the three months since he took Ojinaga Villa has done nothing while the federals have greatly strengthened their position at Torreon.

To get to Torreon, it is pointed out, Villa must cross a large desert barren of supplies on which his army can subsist. Furthermore military men here point out Villa could not hold Torreon if he took it as was determined last summer when he lost it to the federals.

Secretary Bryan instructed Major General Murray at San Francisco to have an officer sent from Fort Rosecrans, San Diego, to make an investigation of the killing of the San Diego postmaster and the burning of the customs house by Mexican bandits.

The crime was committed on United States soil so it will be in order to demand the requisition of the guilty parties, if as alleged it is found they were residents of Mexico.

A new plan for solving the Mexican problem was made known here with the receipt of letters from Emeterio De La Garza, a prominent Mexican, now in New York. Senor De La Garza proposes that a peace congress, composed of prominent men representing all factions in Mexico, be assembled to work out some compromise plan by which the present disturbances in Mexico may be brought to an end.

Priests Reported Murdered.

New Orleans, March 17.—That five priests have been murdered by rebels in the state of Tamaulipas, Mex., and that three are still held for ransom by Mexican rebels was the statement of Father Jose Madina and Father Ramon Gonzales, who came here after being driven out of Victoria, Mex.

WIND DISPELS ARMY

General Kelley's Band Now Numbers Not More Than 300.

Sacramento, Cal., March 17.—A strong north wind did more to solve the problem presented by "General" Kelley's army of unemployed than any human agency has been able to accomplish.

Camped on the levee across the Sacramento river from this city with no protection from the wind driven sands, the army disintegrated rapidly and it was estimated that not more than 300 remained out of the 1,500 that came to Sacramento a week ago.

Loses Hooe of Regaining Gems.

Altoona, Pa., March 17.—Mrs. M. L. Gliddis of Dayton, O., victim of a theft when she lost $10,000 worth of jewelry while on a train between Harrisburg and Altoona after a year's quest has practically given up hope of recovering the gems. Mrs. Gliddis stopped here on her way home from Europe and conferred with detectives.

Town Votes to Stay Dry.

Steubenville, O., March 17.—In an election brought by the wets Tiltonville voted to stay dry by a vote of 80 to 38.

MME. CAILLAUX SHOOTS EDITOR

French Cabinet Minister's Wife Fires Five Times

VICTIM DIES IN HOSPITAL

Political Attacks in Figaro Reached Climax For Mme. Caillaux When Paper Printed Letter From Her Husband to His Mistress—M. Caillaux One of France's Most Conspicuous Men and Has Presidential Desires.

Paris, March 17.—Mme. Caillaux, wife of M. Joseph Caillaux, minister of finance and at one time premier, fired five shots at Gaston Calmette, editor of the Figaro, in the office of that paper.

Four of the bullets took effect and M. Calmette was removed to a private hospital where he died. Two of the bullets penetrated the lungs of M. Calmette.

The shooting was the result of a letter written by M. Caillaux to his mistress which M. Calmette published in the course of his campaign against M. Caillaux.

The official account of the shooting says Mme. Caillaux explained that she had been deeply hurt by M. Calmette's publication of a facsimile letter from her husband to a woman.

She was afraid that more of these letters were in existence and sought some means to prevent their publication. She consulted an authority in regard to what steps she should take. This authority told her that nothing could be done. He told her that all prominent men were liable to such attacks, especially before elections.

After the shooting Mme. Caillaux made no attempt to escape. She handed the revolver to one of the Figaro's attendants, who summoned the police. The latter saluted most politely when they found that she was the wife of a minister.

Mme. Caillaux, whom the finance minister married in October, 1911, became his second wife. She is one of the best dressed and most popular women in Paris and frequently has been of help to her husband.

M. Caillaux for at least fourteen years has been one of the conspicuous men of France. His personality and his career has been of keen interest to French people and it has been generally believed that he has ambitions to become president of France. He is in his fifty-second year, one of the ablest financiers of France, is extremely wealthy, is a radical and for years has been working for social reform.

Early in January M. Calmette accused M. Caillaux of attempting to extort money from various persons for electoral purposes, and the incident gave rise to a heated debate in the chamber of deputies. The charges were categorically denied by M. Caillaux, but the editor of the Figaro persisted in his assertion.

Erie License List Unchanged.

Erie, Pa., March 17.—The liquor licenses for Erie county for the coming year will remain at the same figure as last year, about 145 in all, according to the list handed down by license court judges.

London, March 17.—King George spent the evening at the Life Guards' barracks watching a series of boxing matches and wrestling bouts.

BOTH CAPTAINS ARE ACCUSED

Monroe Wreck Probe Results in Divided Ruling

OPINIONS ON DISASTER DIFFER

Captain Johnson of Monroe Was Responsible For Collision Which Resulted in Deaths of Forty-One, Says One Investigator—Other Probers Declares Captain Berry of Nantucket Was Solely to Blame.

Philadelphia, March 17.—Following the summing up by the attorneys in the trial of Captain Osmar Berry of the steamship Nantucket in connection with the Monroe disaster, Captain R. A. Sargent, chairman of the local board of steamship inspectors, read a report in which he declared Captain Berry should be exonerated and that charges of negligence, incompetency should be made against Captain Johnson of the Monroe.

D. H. Howard, the other member of the board, thought Captain Berry was responsible for the collision.

The report of the investigation, along with the two decisions, was forwarded to Henry M. Seeley, supervising inspector in New York. It is not known here what the next step in the case will be, but it is believed the supervising inspector will consult the department of commerce in Washington before making any further move.

The local inspectors who investigated the collision are Captain R. A. Sargent, inspector of hulls, and D. H. Howard, inspector of boilers.

The charges against Captain Berry included negligence in not reducing the speed of his vessel in a fog and with neglecting to ascertain through the wireless operator the proximity of other vessels. No charges were brought against Captain Edward F. Johnson of the Monroe.

The opinion filed by Inspector Sargent says Captain Berry and all other licensed officers of the Nantucket are exonerated from all blame.

Captain Sargent's report then charges Captain Johnson with "incompetency, negligence and inattention to duty." Captain Johnson is charged with the violation of the international rules for preventing collisions in giving a wrong whistle signal in the fog; with negligence and inattention to duty because he took no action to prevent the collision or to lessen its force when the vessels came in sight of each other, and with incompetency and unskilfulness because proper discipline or organization was not maintained among the crew in an effort to protect the lives of all persons on board and because no proper effort was promptly made to obtain assistance from the Nantucket.

On the last specification Captain Sargent said:

"While we believe that Captain Johnson, as an individual, did everything that was humanly possible to save the lives of all, it is to be regretted that he did not delegate certain duties which he attended to himself to some of the other members of his crew and thus give himself more time to devote to matters of greater importance."

Inspector Howard refused to sign this report and rendered one of his own in which he found Captain Berry guilty of failing to reduce speed in a fog as charged, but not guilty of alleged failure to use the wireless apparatus, and recommended that his master's license be revoked.

Declines Wilson's Offer of Fat Federal Job

RAYMOND D. FOSDICK.

Washington, March 17. Raymond D. Fosdick, former commissioner of accounts of New York city, declined President Wilson's offer of the immigration commissionership at the port of New York. Mr. Fosdick told the president he had been spending the last two years studying police conditions in New York and that he saw an opportunity through the Mitchel administration of putting some of his ideas into effect and he preferred to continue at that work.

TRUST LEGISLATION IN ONE MEASURE

That's New Plan Favored by President Wilson

Washington, March 17.—It is probable that the four measures which constitute the administration program for legislation supplementary to the Sherman law will be welded into a single bill before they are reported to the house.

It was learned that the president and members of the judiciary committee of the house favor this action and that the attorney general regards it as the logical thing to do.

Mr. Wilson had a conference at the White House with Congressman Clayton and a subcommittee of the judiciary committee on the four anti trust bills. For the first time the committee was able to present to the president the bill prohibiting holding companies.

The conference was devoted to a discussion of the provisions and phraseology of the fourth measure and of changes which had been made in the three others following out previous suggestions of the president.

The senate will not accept the form of the bill creating an interstate trade commission that was reported in the house in behalf of the administration Republicans and Democrats joined in condemning it.

Commissioner of Corporations Davies will probably be named as chairman of the interstate trade commission if one is created regardless of the fact that the house bill was amended or reconstructed eliminating the feature which provides that the present commissioner of corporations shall be the first chairman of the trade commission.

DRAGGED UNDER CAR

Two Children Escape Death by the Narrowest of Margins.

Kittanning, Pa., March 17.—Sadie Mohr, aged ten, and her sister, Katherine, aged two, children of Mr. and Mrs. William Mohr, residing a half mile south of here, escaped death beneath the wheels of a car. Both were scratched on face and hands only.

The elder child Sadie was on the porch when she noticed her little two year-old sister playing in the path of an approaching car. Dropping her broom she ran and had grabbed her sister. Then the car struck both, knocking them to the ground. The motorman had slackened speed, but the front trucks passed over the little girls and they were dragged a short distance when their clothes caught in the machinery. They were taken out from under the middle of the car frightened but with only a few scratches and their dresses torn.

Cleveland Woman Attempts Suicide.

Newark, N. J., March 17.—Married only two years, Mrs. Eugene Cummings, aged nineteen, of Cleveland, tried to end her life by taking bichloride of mercury following an alleged argument with her husband at the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. James Cummings, at East Orange. Mrs. Eugene Cummings is in a critical condition in Orange Memorial hospital. At the hospital she expressed sorrow for her act.

HOW GIRL'S FAITH SAVED JENNINGS

Candidate For Governor of Oklahoma Former Convict.

TURNING POINT IN HIS LIFE

Ten Years Ago High School Girl Smiled Confident Trust Into Eyes of Desperate Man Just Released From Prison—Now He Explains That Her Belief Turned Tide of His Life.

Oklahoma City, Okla.—Once an outlaw, train robber and convict, Al Jennings is now one of the leading candidates for governor of this state. But that is another story. This is how he was made to lift his head and see something bright in the future.

A girl of sixteen was traveling across the state with her grandparents. She was a high school student of Edwardsville, Ind., and carried about a pretty safe map of human nature in her own little head. Her grandfather met Al Jennings in the smoking car. Alice Warder, the high school girl, thought that Jennings looked really nice in spite of the fact that his face was seamed and marred with a thousand wrinkles. His smile, however, was like the smile of all humanity. And there was inexplicable dignity in his five feet five inches. He said his name was Mr. Jennings and he had been talking to Alice's grandfather of train robbers.

Mr. Jennings knew everything in the world there was to know about train robbers. He described them in glaring detail in the light of his intimate knowledge. Alice Warder had never in her life spent a more thrilling two hours.

It was dark and Mr. Jennings was still talking. Alice's grandfather drew his wife to another seat, leaving Alice to drink in more adventures.

"Miss Warder, I have deceived you a little bit, I guess. I talked as if I had only heard of these holdups from other people or maybe read about them. The fact is I planned every one. I am a train robber myself. Got sent up for it. I am just out of the Leavenworth prison.

"I thought I'd tell you about it so you wouldn't think I had imposed on you. I'm through lying. Never did lie except when I had to. There is mighty little difference between acting a lie to a girl like you and telling one. I am going to tell your grandfather about it in a minute."

Suddenly Alice, with her knowledge of human nature—this girl believer in the innate goodness of bad men—had an impulse that the man who witnessed it has never forgotten. He says now it had a great deal to do with changing the drift of his life, then black with defeat. Alice Warder, her eyes shining, stretched out her hands and cried:

"I don't care about your past—I don't care a bit—so long as your future's all right."

Five minutes more and the two parted. The ex-convict went on riding in the smoking car toward a future of which until that night he thought usually with cynical contempt. The man and the girl with hopeful eyes did not meet again for ten years.

Now she is Mrs. L. O. McLean of Pittsburgh. Recently the maid ushered a caller into Mrs. McLean's library. And without other warning a well dressed little man, his face very lined and his hair very red, stood before her.

"Al Jennings!"

"Alice Warder!"

It was the first time they had met in ten years. Both had many stories to tell during the four hours' conversation.

"Goodby, Alice." The farewell came after dinner. "Have got to get back to Oklahoma. And, say, I'm going to run for governor out there in the spring. Among other things they want the Oklahoma prisons reformed, and they want a man who is familiar with the problems from the inside."

And Mrs. McLean gripped the little man's hand. There were tears of gladness in her eyes. "You'll win; take it from me," she said. "Don't I know what you can do?"

TO TOUR STATES IN LABOR STUDY

United States Industrial Commission Announces Hearings.

HOPES TO SOLVE PROBLEMS

Looking For New Ideas Along Constructive Lines—Labor Men of Chief Cities to Furnish Data—Some of the Subjects That Are to Be Inquired Into and Cities to Be Visited.

Washington.—Public hearings in important industrial centers from New York to San Francisco will be held during the spring and early summer by the United States commission on industrial relations. This announcement was made by Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the commission. The hearings, according to Mr. Walsh, will embrace in their scope all the main divisions of the inquiry directed by congress.

Among the cities that probably will be visited are New York, Philadelphia,

FRANK P. WALSH.

Boston, Paterson, Scranton, Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Wheeling, Charlotte, Greenville, Atlanta, Birmingham, Nashville, Louisville, New Orleans, Detroit, Indianapolis, Cleveland, Chicago, Houghton, Milwaukee, Madison, St. Louis, Kansas City, St. Paul, Denver, Trinidad, Dallas, Houston or Galveston, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle, Butte and Lead.

Through examination of witnesses competent to speak for employers, trade unions, other labor organizations, unorganized employees and the general public, the commission hopes to obtain information concerning the industrial situation that will lead to constructive recommendations.

Some of the subjects to be inquired into in each city are irregularity of employment, possibilities of ending irregularity and increasing production through scientific management, the activities of trades unions and employers' associations and the extent and operation of governmental machinery for regulating the conditions of industry, including the relations between employers and employees.

Successful methods of maintaining harmonious relations beneficial to both employers and employees will be inquired into particularly, with a view to their adoption in other centers where no such methods have been tried.

Eminent authorities in subjects to be included within the scope of the inquiry have joined the staff of the commission and are now aiding in planning the hearings.

Witnesses desired by the commission will be summoned under the authority granted it by congress and volunteer testimony will be welcomed. Announcing the plan for hearings, Chairman Walsh said:

"The commission will carefully avoid acting as a board of mediation and conciliation and will not allow itself to be drawn into local controversies or recognize such controversies unless in doing so it can obtain information that has more than local and temporary significance.

"Every interest will be given a hearing. The commission will strive to put aside all bias and prejudice. It will urge others to do the same in the hope that the industrial problem may be studied in the light of reason. The open mind will be our watchword, and we shall endeavor to provide a forum where men representing all factions can meet in the common purpose of finding a way out from bitterness and strife. To accomplish this we shall need the co-operation and help of all concerned. We shall ask those who meet with us at the hearings to come not as employers or employees, but as men belonging to the same human family.

"The hearings are to be undertaken as one means of carrying out the instructions of congress to inquire into the industrial situation and to report our conclusions and recommendations.

"The commission wishes in particular to invite the help of every person who has a constructive suggestion. Such suggestions will be especially welcome when they are supplemented by testimony as to the successful carrying out of the ideas they embody."

POLITICS. THE TEACHER.

Says an editoral writer in a great western journal:

"There's one good thing about politics that few people suspect. Slowly, but surely, it enlarges the popular knowledge and use of words and phrases that would otherwise remain absolutely unknown to the masses. During the Grant administration, for example, the whole nation was taught the meaning of 'credit mobilier.' When Tilden was running for president, they learned the word 'usufruct.' During Cleveland's regime they memorized 'innocuous desuetude.' Mr. Bryan gave them full knowledge of 'sixteen to one.' Theodore Roosevelt taught them the 'square deal, and recent history has made 'conservation' a household word."

Yes, that is one good thing about politics—it has increased many a man's vocabulary. Oftimes, though, the quality of that vocabulary has sufferred in the process.

There are other good things about politics from the standpoint of teaching. Many a man in the midst of a political battle, learn for the ilast time, what the popular meaning of "friendship" is as it is used in politics.

In politics a "friend" is he who scratches your back- provided you scratch his. He will roll your logs uphill for you—if you roll his uphill for him. But if while scratching his back you step on his corns, he ceases to be a "friend." And if while rolling his logs up a hill you don't stop soon enough and let them roll down on the other side, he may pick up your log and "lam" you with it.

The brave laddies who have come out of the oyster light ahve learned several things about "friends" probably.

Oh, yes, "politics" teaches us lots of things we never knew before.

DEFYING FATHER TIME.

An esteemed contemporary in one of the Eastern cities, thus pays tribute to an old friend of this section:

Henry Gassaway Davis, United States Senator from West Virginia from 1871 to 1883 and candidate for Vice President on the Democratic ticket in 1904, who has recently celebrated his ninetieth birthday, told a reporter in Washington the other day that he expected to "live to be 100 and maybe more."

Mr. Davis enjovs the practically inestimable advantage of having been born in Maryland and of having passed the early and habit-forming years on the comfortable soil of this Commonwealth, with all its wealth of invigorating atmosphere and inspiring fellowship and good things to eat, so that he acquired in boyhood that generous enjoyment of life by which all good Marylanders are distinguished. Living and enjoying life have become with him a fixed habit—one of those good habits the medical fraternity now tells us we should not fail to cultivate.

Nevertheless, there is example here for all, even for the unfortunates to whom fate denied the early advantages that fell to the Davis lot. The old bromide, that "a man is as old as he feels," is still as true as it is bromidic, as Mr. Davis amply testifies. May the years of his prophecy and desire be his—and every year be filled with happy days!

To all of which we say most heartily, amen, so might it be.

THE GOOD ROADS APPROPRIATION.

We believe President Price of the State Senate will be sustained by thoughtful public sentiment in both the city and the counties in his determination to push his Roads Appropriation bill, without regard to politics or deals. It is one of the last subjects which should be influenced by sectional or partisan considerations, and if another Democratic caucus is held with regard to it we believe the majority of the members will come to this conclusion.

The Price bill embodies substantially the recommendations of the Good Roads Commission and is based on broad lines of general policy. It deals with the roads as a State-wide proposition, not as a local one, and provides for the appropriation of the appropriation by a general and well-balanced plan that will give the State just what was promised in the beginning a connected and connecting system of great trunk-line highways, into which all the smaller good roads of localities and counties can run. The undertaking on which the State has entered was never designed to take the place of local improvements, to relieve Baltimore or any other community of the duty of taking care of its own strictly local needs. To treat it from a sectional standpoint or to convert it into a log-rolling "pork-barrel" proposition would not only open the door to all sorts of demoralizing political influences, but would prove disastrous to the whole design of State road building. If the money is to be apportioned as the result of a deal between Western Maryland and the city, for instance, and if the interest of the State as a whole are to be subordinated to the interests of localities, we shall create a chaotic situation, in which there will be many separated links, but no connected or complete system, with the result that our State roads will be "up in the air" and our country roads will suffer from depending on State generosity and failing to utilize their own resources.

The Price bill makes all the concessions to Baltimore's demands which could reasonably be expected, and is at the same time fair to the counties. It represents a State policy and a State-wide scheme of improvement approved by experience elsewhere and by the authority of scientific opinion. No caucus dictation, inspired by local deals, should be permitted to cripple or throw into confusion a work so important to every section of the State.—Balto. Sun.

BITTINGER.

It is rumored that Rev. E. E. Oney, of Gettysburgh, Pa., will conduct an Easter Service in the Lutheran church here on Easter Sunday.

There is much bustle in the sugar camps this week getting ready for the first run of sap, which seems to be near.

Masters Lester and Irving Bittinger of near Deer Park, are spending a few weeks with relatives here.

Messrs. Dennis and Raymond Bittinger, together with two friends, of Cumberland, visited relatives in this neighborhood last week.

Deputy Sheriff DeWitt, of Oakland, was a pleasant caller in this village last week.

Charles Buckle and Miss Linnie Miller were visitors at the T. B. Wiley home on Sunday.

John Walburn, of Jennings, was the guest of Miss Myrtle Wiley last Saturday evening and Sunday.

W. L. Thomas, teacher of the Beachy school, passed through this village last Saturday.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

During the past two weeks seven car loads of hay have been shipped from this point.

Mrs. Thomas Harris has moved into the home she recently purchased near the public school building.

The Columbian hotel property was purchased Monday by Dr. Charles Fazenbaker, who will tear down a part of it and convert the remainder into a dwelling which he expects to rent.

Delphus Callis, engaged at the planing mill, was badly injured last Friday when his left hand came in contact with the heads of a moulding machine he was operating. Several of his fingers were badly lacerated.

The ladies of the Park and Loch Lynn Heights gathered in force last Monday and called on Mrs. F. P. Arnold, whose anniversary was celebrated that day. A pleasant afternoon was spent by both the hostess and her many visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. U. A. Clayton, of Fairmont, spent Tuesday in the Park where they superintended the removal of some of their furniture from the cottage which they sold to Mrs. Haymond. Mr. Bolden, of Oakland, purchased what furniture Mr. Clayton did not send to his home.

Mrs. Margaret Berhaus and her mother, Mrs. Bishop, who have been in Baltimore for some weeks arrived at the Park on Friday. They were joined here Monday by Mrs. Allie Haymond and took possession of their new home which was purchased last week from U. A. Clayton, of Fairmont.

The following paragraph is copied from the Wheeling Intelligencer: "Lieutenant Leland S. Devore, of Wheeling, graduate of West Point Military Academy, who is now located with the Seventh regiment of infantry at Fort McPherson, Ga., has been ordered to the Mexican border, and will leave for his station today (Friday.) His wife, nee Miss Genevieve Wilty, will return to Wheeling. Lieutenant Devore was one of the largest men ever graduated at West Point, and distinguished himself at athletics while in that institution, being captain of the foot ball team. He was also selected as a member of the All American football team in 1911."

Lieutenant Devore is the nephew of Mrs. Winchell and has spent much of his time with her here at her bungalow, Journey's End. He and his bride spent about a week with Mrs. Winchell last summer when they were on their honeymoon, making many friends while here.

ANNAPOLIS NEWS NOTES.

Oaklands Bills Have Been Signed by The Governor Other Matter.

The Governor has signed Senator Speicher's Oakland bills, as follows: 1, Increasing the city limits; 2, Relating to sidewalks in the corporation. The first bill will greatly increase the taxable property of the city as well as the population. The second bill enables the Mayor and Council to greatly improve the appearance of Oakland.

Senator Speicher's bill confering upon the mayor and council of Loch Lynn Heights authority to license livery stables, hacks, etc., has passed to the third reading.

Senator Speicher is going to be put on his metal to pass the House bill giving Garrett county $1,000 for its school fund. The State Board of Education has filed a written protest against the appropriation, and also appeared before the Senate Committee and made an attack upon the bill. The county has been receiving an appropriation for this amount for many years, but the Board of Education thinks it ought not to be given any longer. The Senator is making a hard fight to win out, and we believe he will win, but it will be a hard contested fight to do so. He remained at Annapolis Saturday to look after the passage of this bill. The Board permitted it to go through the House because it was easier to make the fight in the Senate.

Last week Mr. Shartzer introduced two more election bills, one relating to the registration of voters. This bill was unfavorably reported and the report adopted, thus killing the bill. The tombstones in Mr. Shartzer's graveyard of defeated bills are becoming quite numerous. Thus far he has offerred about thirty bills and not one of them has become a law.

Friday morning Senator Speicher offerred a bill in the Senate appropriating $12,500 each to protect Friendsville and Kitzmiller from nigh waters. The committees named in the bill are, for Friendsville, J. George Kolb, James W. Friend and Orval A. Welch; Kitzmiller, Ed. J. Hamill, Bert Pew and Stanley M. Bender. This bill has been carefully prepared by one of the best bill lawyers in Annapolis and has back of it one of the most experienced and successful legislators in the State House. If it does not become a law it will not be his fault. The bill was inspected by several Garrett countians and pronounced all right.

Former Delegate John A. Long, of Kitzmiller, was in Annapolis the latter part of last week. While here he visited the State House and called at Room No. 33, Republican headquarters, and made himself at home. He met a number of gentlemen who were in the House of Delegates two years ago. He consulted the Garrett delegation on a number of bills of interest to Garrett county. From here Mr. Long went to Washington to take in the sights of the National capitol.

Delegate Savage has introduced a bill for the further protection of pheasants, partridges, quail, woodcock, wild turkeys and rabbits in Garrett county. Non residents of Garrett county are required to take out a license to hunt, at a cost of $10. The bill was approved by half a dozen citizens of the county who were in Annapolis at the time of its presentation to the House.

Attorney G. Semmes Hamill was here the latter part of the past week trying to have introduced a bill to have a bridge built from the West Virginia Junction, Mineral county, West Virginia, to Luke, Allegany county. The State is asked by this bill to contribute $50,000, Garrett county $5,000 and Allegany county $5,000. Should this bill become a law Garrett county would have to build a bridge to get into Mineral county. The Allegany county delegation would not take hold of the bill, neither would Senator Speicher. It is a question if it will find any one willing to introduce it.

Delegate Savage was called to Garrett county last Friday, but was at his post of duty Monday. Mr. Savage is regarded as one of the sane and safe men in the house. When he offers a bill it means something and is clearly drawn.

Senator Price, President of the Senate, has offered a bill making appropriations for Good Roads throughout the State. This bill allots to Garrett county on mileage basis $114,600, and a special appropriation, $175,400, total, $290,000. Of course when the bill comes up for final passage these figures may be changed. Senator Speicher is greatly interested in the bill and looking earnestly after Garrett county's interests.

The County Commissioners as well as the Board of School Commissioners of Garrett County, will have to get busy to hold the annual appropriation we have been receiving from the State, viz. $4,000. The short school term will have to be increased. These two items were dwelt upon by the State Board of Education before the committee as objectionable. Garrett county needs to improve its style of school houses and keep up with the development and progress of the times.

The legislature has only eighteen more days to transact a very large amount of business. No new bills will be offered after the 27th of this month, consequently there will be a rush of bills for the next ten days. Two and three sessions are predicted a day for a time. Committees are holding sessions up to midnight in order to get bills out.

Monday night Mr. Shartzer's bill to increase the number of Judges in the Washington, Allegany and Garrett circuits was reported unfavorable and the report adopted. It is understood that the Judges opposed this bill. Its death deprives Oakland of a resident Judge.

The bill of Mr. Harvey, locating one of the polling places near Gormania, was reported favorably and advanced to third reading.

Senator Speicher's cigarette bill for Garrett county was reported favorably and advanced to the third reading for final passage. This bill has received many letters of approval and is backed by the W. C. T. U. and other societies.

The Wilkinson State road bill increases the allotment to Garrett county $70,000, a total of $340,000, instead of $290,000 for good roads. A strong fight will be made to pass this bill. Of course our delegation will support this bill. The Senator is giving this question his best service and is diligently at work to secure the largest amount.

Senator Speicher is doing his level best to overcome the objections of State Superintendent Stevens to Garrett county receiving $4000 school appropriation. He is going after this appropriation like he went after his Senate bil No. 1. He expects to win out.

Delegate Harvey re-introduced Wednesdaya bill making it amisdemeanor for any minister of the gospel or any other person authorized to perform a marriage ceremony to give, directly or indirectly, any present or reward to any hotel porter or railroad porter, or any other person as an inducement to said persons to bring or direct any person or persons contemplating matrimony to said minister. The fine is not less than $10 nor more than $50.

Mrs. W. W. Savage and daughter, of Friendsville, and Mr. Henry Speicher, of Accident, are visiting Annapolis and and called at the State House on the 18th.

Delegate Harvey offered a bil Tuesday, relating to the working of prisoners on the streets of incorporated towns.

Delegate Savage introduced a bill conferring upon the Sheriff the authority to work prisoners in the county jail on the county works.

SHORT RUN.

The weather has made a change, decidedly for the better and everyone heartily welcomes it. The reappearance of the robin indicates that spring is here. The thermometer has reached sixty degrees and the snow is disappearing rapidly.

Mr. J. W. Wilson had all hands and the cook out early Monday morning tapping sugar trees. The sugar season will quite likely be a short one, and Mr. Wilson is anxious to catch the first "run."

Sometime Friday the news got circulated throughout the county that Mr. Daniel Wilson of this place had been killed at Westernport on that day. Many inquiries as to the truth of the matter were received by telephone and we were glad to inform the public that the report was false. Mr. Wilson was at home at the time and cannot imagine how the report got started; but he remarked that he "knew it was false, as soon as he heard it."

Mr. C. W. Harvey, who is managing the Ringer Finger Co's large store at Hendricks, W. Va., stopped off at this place the first of this week, on his way to Baltimore where he will buy his spring stock. While here Mr. Harvey was the guest of his mother Mrs. S. E. Harvey.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Harvey and family, Miss Minnie Rodeheaver and Mr. Harry Hardesty of Bethlehem were visiting friends here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wilson were visiting friends at Eagle Rock Saturday.

Mr. Santford Moon of Kurtz Chapel, is spending a few days with relatives here.

Mr. Walter White, who is teaching a very successful school at Eagle Rock was a welcome visitor here over Sunday.

Mr. Robert Paugh and daughters, Misses Amy, Ina and Stella, and Miss Ivy Friend of Bethlehem were welcome guests at the home of Mr. J. T. Harvey Sunday last.

Mr. Scott Harvey attended lodge at Blaine Saturday night.

Mr. Waitman Harvey was visiting his cousin Mrs. Emma Harvey last Sunday.

Oakland High School Notes

Mr. R. E. Sliger, cashier of the First National Bank of Oakland, Md., and whose name has been sent by the Governor to the Senate as appointed for School Commissioner of Garrett county, has been selected to make the Maryland Day address, on March 25th. Our school, and the Grammar school, will celebrate the occasion jointly, at Grammar school building, at two o clock. Everyone is invited to be present.

A large number of our students have subscribed to Current Events, a weekly newspaper. This is an excellent little paper giving the leading happenings of the week, without unnecessary details. Our students are desirous of becoming well posted.

Our basket ball team went to Grantsville via Westernport and Frostburg, on last Saturday, and played a fast game with the team there, the score being 51-14 in Oakland's favor. The Grantsville team is reported to be swift, but deficient in practice, having been organized but a short time. The players and residents treated our team with unusual courtesy and hospitality. Our team is well pleased with the town of Grantsville, its citizens, and the National Hotel, where they stopped. We shall be glad of an opportunity to return Grantsville's cordiality.

The line-up was as follows:

O. H. S.		G. H. S.
Frantz	F	Beachy
Thayer	F	J. Younkin
Ashby	C	Broadwater
Chance	G	E. Younkin
Lyon	G	Stanton

Field goals: Beachy, 3; Broadwater, 3; Stanton, 1; Frantz, 2; Thayer, 9; Ashby, 6; Chance, 5. Foul goals; Chance 7. Welch substituted for Stanton. Referee, Livengood.

The Commercial Law class is going to conduct a mock trial in the near future, at the high school building. All the lawyers of the town, as well as everybody else, are invited to be present. The trial will be conducted by an all-star cast, from prisoner to judge.

Missionary Society Organized.

The ladies of St. Matthew's church met at the Rectory on March 13th and organized a Missionary society, when the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. James Willison; vice president, Mrs. Bowie Johnson; secretary, Mrs. B. F. Selby; treasurer Mrs. A. Hinebaugh.

Non-Jury Term of The Circit Court.

The March non jury term of the Circuit Court for this county convened Monday with Chief Judge A. Hunter Boyd on the bench, Judge Henderson being detained at his Cumberland home on account of illness. No cases of importance were determined by the Court except in one or two instances where judgments were rendered by default. Attorneys Semmes and Williams were in attendance.

DOES NOT SERVE THE PURPOSE.

No doubt you have frequently found after getting a purchase home that it does not always quite serve the purpose intended, or does not please you so well as you first thought. Whenever such a purchase is made at this store we want you to feel perfectly free to return it. We are here to sell you what you want, not what you don't want.

MR. HARNED'S LECTURE ON WILD FIOWERS

Delivered Wednesday Evening at The Keyser Educational Meeting.

Mr. Jos. E. Harned's lecture, delivered last Wednesday night at the Keyser, (W. Va.,) Educational meeting is spoken of in high terms by a Keyser paper, from which the following is clipped:

Mr. Harned said after his lecture last night that if only one person in the audience received an inspiration to study wild flowers after seeing his slides he he would consider his lecture here a success. How any one could help from becoming enthusiastic over the beautiful in nature after listening to Mr. Harned is hard to understand.

Possibly there are some who wonder what the relation is of wild flowers to farming. There is, of course, a connection, yet we inserted this number on the program more to create a diversion. Yet those who were observing could quickly see the advantage of all farmers knowing a few facts concerning flowers of fields and woo lands. For instance, if a person ever was a prospective purchaser of a farm and on inspection saw lupines growing profusely everywhere, would it mean anything to him? Yes, surely. He could set it down for a fact that the soil on that farm was poor then, and needed lime. There were many just such points as these brought out in the lecture which the wide awake farmer in the audience did not miss.

One young lady said to me, "The pictures were so wonderful, and I believe most of those present were so interested at what the screen was showing they failed to catch the beautiful and most scholarly talk Mr. Harned gave." He told of the many legends and superstitutions connected with different plants, of their historic interest, their many peculiar habits and traits in such a way that not one in the audience of two hundred and twenty persons but who realized they were hearing an exceptional address. Why so many Keyser people fail to respond to the course of lectures at this extension school is the question one hears on all sides from those who do attend. Although we had over two hundred last night, that lecture of Mr. Harned deserved an audience of several times two hundred.

The recent act of the Legislature now in session at Annapolis in passing a law making it mandatory upon the part of all railroads in the State of Maryland to give their telegraph block operators, towermen, signalmen and levermen in the handling of the movement of trains by dispatching or block service, two days off a month, has already shown some bad effects by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad to close their telegraph offices at a number of points within the State.

Postmaster Asa E. Riley of Selbysport, accompanied by a son of former County Commissioner Walter M. Lowdermilk, drove to Oakland last Friday afternoon where on Saturday Mr. Riley took the Civil Service examination for the appointment as postmaster at Selbysport. Mr. Riley had one opponent, Mr. R. Lison, who took the examination in Cumberland, as did a number of applicants for the postmastership at Friendsville, among them being Mr. Clarence V. Guard and Mr. Fred G. Fox, the latter being the present postmaster at Friendsville.

A large number of the representative citizens of Friendsville were in Oakland Monday when they appeared before the Board of County Commissioners in the interest of the proposed Shoemaker Road leading from the State Road to Friendsville via Bear Creek. The Friendsville people were represented before the Commissioners by Judge Williams of Cumberland, who presented the matter clearly and consisely. Among those before the Board were Messrs. John W. McCullough, George D. Browning, R. M. Holman, Fred G. Fox and George J. Kolb.

We Have The Goods!

WE surely have the goods Our big double store never had had as complete a stock as at the present time, chock full from cellar to garret. Then our quality and prices are right. Now, what we want you to do is to call and take a few hours to look our stock over.

If you have bought and sold mules for a number of years, you are pretty likely to be a "mule man." You not only know the value of a mule, but you know the ins and outs of the mule business; you know how to judge his quality; you can see at a glance all his fine points—likewise his blemishes; you know when, where and how to buy and sell mules. And you are justly indignant when this knowledge and ability are not conceded to you.

Then should it not also be admitted that the merchant who has spent his life handling a certain class of merchandise has learned where to buy it to best advantage, to judge its quality, and how to serve his customers to their profit?

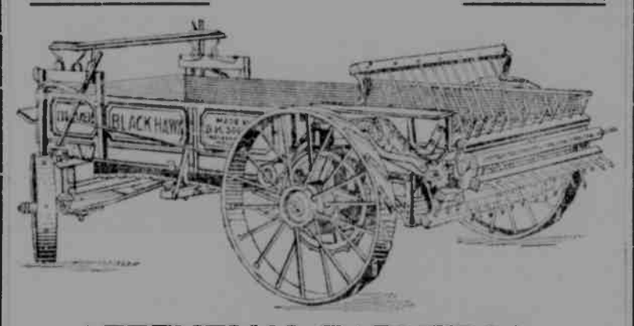
Our idea of cooperating with our customers is to always work for and protect their interests; to give them every possible trading convenience and render such prompt service as will result in their thorough satisfaction.

We take it for granted that you want good service, value, low ultimate cost, rather than specially low first cost and poor after service, and that is just why we so highly recommend our line.

The money you spend will build something somewhere; where, will depend on whether you spend the money in some other town or here. Isn't it to your interest to see tnings help your own home section grow?

The consumer cannot keep on hand food supplies, clothing, furniture, carpets, hardware, tools, farming implements, repairs, etc., to meet all his needs as they come; and he cannot await the movement of mails and trains, or the chance of appearance of peddlers to supply himself and family with such things. He must depend upon his dealer, a servant well worthy of his hire.

We want to so conduct this business that every customer will feel that we give better value and more helpful service than can likely be secured elsewhere.



Our prices are so reasonable as to be profitable to you as well as to us; for it is our idea that when a sale is not profitable to you it is not profitable to us.

The value of each man's property is enhanced by the value of the property around it. It is not enough to build a good house, we must help to make a good community.

Yours

SEEKING SHARE OF CHINA'S BUSINESS

Association Tries to Further Interests of Americans.

OPPORTUNITIES ARE WIDE.

Attempts to Impress State Department at Washington With the Necessity For Instant Action In Order That Americans May Share Profits—Other Nations Have Acted.

Peking, China.—The Americans of North China have formed a society under the style of the American Association of North China to foster the interests of American commerce.

They want a commercial attache to be assigned to duties of investigation throughout China following the practice of other nations, which keep a lively propaganda campaign afoot on behalf of their nationals and they are appealing to the American state department to appoint such an official.

Foremost among those who recognize the need for activity is the new minister, Paul Reinsch. Dr. Reinsch brings to his office a keen perception of the tremendous possibilities which await intelligent effort in this field and a desire to see the American flag holding its own if not topping the bunting of other nations.

Careful investigations have shown him that Americans have great opportunities for a market which is not only valuable but which it is also necessary to cultivate now in order to have it developed when the opening of the Panama canal will cause the westward drift of trade to become more and more pronounced.

The association, if it develops along the lines the founders have in view, will be a prod for the government. It will vigilantly protect American interests, advise the administration upon conditions and suggest action best calculated to keep American commerce moving with an upward tendency rather than stagnating or slipping backward.

DR. PAUL REINSCH.

The first desire, therefore, is for the appointment of a commercial attache, whose duty it will be to report constantly upon commercial conditions, journey to various centers and make compilations which will be of material benefit to those engaged or who wish to engage in operations in this part of the world.

The consuls at many ports already contribute valuable aid in this direction through their commercial reports, but a consul is restricted in his sphere. The commercial attache would have more of a roving commission, and his information could be first hand. Other nations have such officials constantly on the lookout for new avenues.

As a matter of fact, this proposal is not new. It was being investigated by the previous administration and the probability is that a commercial attache would have been at work in China had there been no change. That it is a desirable one is obvious.

China is the largest market in the world that is in process of development. Railway communication is being pushed ahead vigorously. Within the past year the government signed agreements with foreign financiers for the construction of more mileage than has been allotted in the past thirty-eight years.

Every other nation is striving energetically to lay foundations for commercial development, while America, the logical supplier, is idle. Americans in China appreciate this to the full, and the formation of the North China association is their answer to the question as to what they are doing to try to make the home land understand that there is a magnificent market awaiting exploitation, but which will not be permitted to await much longer. Other nations are wide awake and are securing the plums as fast as they can gather them.

She Wins Haircut and Shave.

Ortley, S. D.—At a recent farmers' institute here business men offered prizes for various exhibits. The village barber offered a dollar bottle of shampoo liquid for the best exhibit of popcorn and a shave and haircut for the second best. Mrs. L. French won the second prize.

AUTO WHEEL DOES DAMAGE.

After Wrecking Kitchen It Sets House on Fire.

South Norwalk, Conn.—The wheel of a large automobile, said to have been going a mile a minute, went through the pantry window of Mrs. Isabelle Seymour's home here, sending dishes in all directions. Then it entered the kitchen, knocked the stove to pieces and set the house on fire. Next it hit the other side of the house, which stopped it.

The wheel, which weighed more than 100 pounds, was broken from the automobile of William Ricker of New York as it was coming down steep Armory hill.

The wheel gained momentum for a hundred feet or so, then knocked over a fence at the side of the road and went down a precipitous incline to Mrs. Seymour's home.

"UNDESIRABLE" SHIPPED.

Locked Up In Tool Box of an Outgoing Locomotive.

Springfield, Mo.—How ten fathers horsewhipped a man who had been accused of improper conduct at his boarding house and then shipped him out of town by locking him in the tool box of a locomotive, was told to the police chief here by a committee of citizens who had been summoned to police headquarters.

The affair occurred the night previous, and its victim, according to the report to the police, was Jerry Malone, an employee at the St. Louis and San Francisco (Frisco) railroad shops.

No trace of Malone could be found the next day, and Frisco officials were asked to open the tool box on every locomotive between here and Newburg, Mo., as it is believed he was sent to that town.

SNOW ENTOMBS FOUR IN TENT

Hunting Party In West Forced to Dig Fifty Foot Tunnel.

Reno, Nev.—Marooned by a twelve foot fall of snow, R. D. Hawley, an eastern banker, and three companions on a hunting trip were forced to spend a week in a tent on one of the peaks of the Peavine mountain range.

The snowstorm was so severe that the men were obliged to remain in their tent until their provisions ran out. They then dug a tunnel fifty feet long and succeeded in killing some game. One of the party fell and sprained his knee.

Mountain lions prowled about the tent and once even penetrated into the tunnel, but were driven away.

APPEAL BY TILLMAN ABOLISHES SMOKING

Senate Votes to Forbid Tobacco at Secret Sessions.

Washington.—There will be no more smoking behind closed doors when the senate is in secret session nor in the secret party caucus room. The fragrant Havana will be put away voluntarily by the senators, at least so long as Senator Benjamin R. Tillman of South Carolina is one of their members. This was decided by a unanimous vote.

"Pitchfork Ben," who is sixty-seven years old and was given up by his friends for dead four years ago after a stroke of paralysis, now finds that tobacco smoke nauseates him, and he cannot take part in the secret proceedings because of the tobacco fumes. He introduced a resolution to abolish smoking in secret session. It was abolished in open session many years ago.

But for the personal appeal of the aged and infirm senator in a whimsical speech it is not likely that the resolution would have been adopted. All of his colleagues are very fond of him. He read a letter from Senator Root of New York indorsing his request.

The South Carolina senator appeared in the new role of health lecturer. Not only did he discuss the tobacco habit, but he said most people were digging their graves with their teeth. Overeating and other forms of high living, he said, were killing his colleagues.

NEW FUEL FOR FURNACES.

Pulverized Coal May Revolutionize Steel Making.

Sharon, Pa.—Officers of a steel company are elated over the successful result of experiments conducted with pulverized coal in an open hearth furnace.

The first heat with the new fuel was drawn off recently. Not only was the quality of the metal higher, but more heat was made in much less time than is obtained by the old method.

The new furnace is the only one equipped for pulverized coal, but officials declare several will be erected immediately. Steel men state that the use of the new fuel will revolutionize open hearth steel making.

Girl Beats Hole Digger.

Morgantown, W. Va.—Miss Emma Boughner, a young girl, compelled a gang of workmen employed by the West Virginia Traction and Electric company to lose a half day's work when she jumped into a hole they had dug in order to erect a pole in front of her father's home. After waiting for several hours for the girl to leave the hole the foreman decided to place the pole at another place.

EAT SALMON AND LOWER EXPENSES

Bureau of Fisheries In Bulletin Tells of Advantages.

Washington.—The bureau of fisheries has issued a bulletin to show folks how to smite the high cost of living by eating less meat and more salmon.

Statistics are presented to show that one can buy more bone, muscle, blood and brain building material for less money by purchasing salmon than by purchasing most forms of meat.

One pound of canned red salmon, according to the bureau of fisheries, will cost, if of the best quality, about 16 cents. The same quantity of nutriment in the form of strictly fresh eggs would cost 36 cents; steak, 33 cents; mutton, 32 cents; chicken, 21½ cents; smoked ham, 13¼ cents; pink salmon 12½ cents.

The best grades of canned salmon the bureau of fisheries finds, are richer than meats in body building materials and contain about the same amount of fats. Pink salmon, which is a cheaper grade, is better than meats for making flesh and bone, but has less fat.

"Either is as digestible as the best sirloin steak, there is no waste, and nothing has to be thrown away except the can," says the bureau.

"To reduce the cost of living eat more salmon, especially of the cheaper grades, and less meat. Meats spoil quickly in the home. Canned salmon will keep indefinitely if unopened."

ASKS DIVORCE AND RECALL.

Sheriff's Wife Seeks Liberty and Loss of Husband's Job.

San Francisco.—In addition to having brought divorce proceedings against Frederick S. Eggers, sheriff of San Francisco county, his wife announced in a signed statement that she would circulate a petition for his recall from office. They have lived together thirty years.

"This is not spite work," said Mrs. Eggers. "I simply do not believe that Sheriff Eggers is a fit man to be in a public office."

In her statement Mrs. Eggers outlined testimony which she had given before the grand jury.

Missing Father Found.

Decatur, Ill.—Mont Schultz, who was said to have been drowned in the Sangamon seven years ago and who was recently discovered in Sharon, Pa., working under an assumed name, returned to Decatur to visit his family, which consists of his wife, one son eighteen years old and a girl seven years old. The family will be united again, but expects to move from Decatur.

$1750
(f.o.b. Detroit)

The Most Talked-About Car in the Country

See This Innovation

A few days ago the first Six-40 was shipped from the HUDSON factory. Before this time the first month's output had been ordered by users who had not seen the car.

They were sold on these startling facts:

That the streamline body, the equipment, the new features were like the latest HUDSON Six-54, the handsomest car of the season.

That the weight would be under 3,000 pounds—under any comparable Four.

That the operative cost would be less than any equal-powered Four.

That the price would be $1750, f. o. b. Detroit—way below the price of Fours of equal power and size and class.

Think What This Means

Sixes have been high-priced, heavy, costly to operate. For that reason many have been forced to buy Fours.

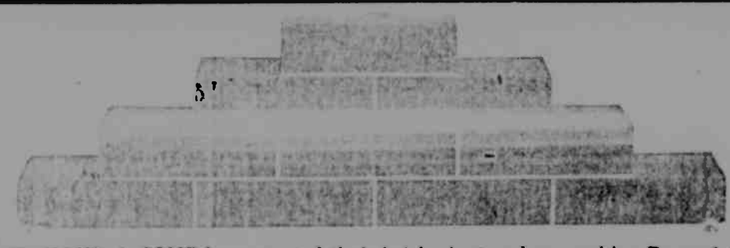
Now comes this Six-40. It weighs 500 pounds less than last year's HUDSON "37"—a Four. It costs one-fourth less to operate. And it far undersells any Four in its class.

You legions of men who seek lightness and economy find them now in this Six-40—beyond any Four you know.

A Distinguished Car

In addition, here is the new streamline body. Here are all the new features which characterize the new HUDSON Six-54.

Disappearing tonneau seats. Gasoline tank in cowl dash. Left side drive. Extra tires ahead of the front door.



Up to six months ago, no car at any price offered so many attractions.

And a car designed by Howard E. Coffin, the great HUDSON engineer. A car that embodies all the best HUDSON standards.

Our first Six-40 has just arrived. It is now on exhibition. Come, see it and ride in it while it is new. The car marks a new era in motor-car history, and all of you should know it.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson XII.—First Quarter. For March 22. 1914.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson. Luke xiii, 18-35. Memory Verses, 18. 19—Golden Text, Matt. vii, 21—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

The topic of this study is entitled "Lessons by the Way," and in the verses for today we have lessons for all the way, always centering upon Him who is "the way," hated by His adversaries, rejoiced in by His people (verse 17). There is much in the lesson concerning the kingdom, for which He taught us to pray to our Father in Heaven, saying "Thy kingdom come." We must distinguish between the present age, during which the kingdom is postponed and which our Lord spoke of as "the mystery of the kingdom of God" (Mark iv. 11), and the kingdom itself to be set up on this earth at His second coming in glory.

The two parables of our lesson must be studied in the light of their setting not only here, but as first recorded in Matt. xiii. The closing verses of our lesson chapter tell of the desolation of Jerusalem until He shall come again. But when the kingdom comes Jerusalem shall be the throne of the Lord, a city of truth and a praise in the earth (Jer. iii. 17; Zech. viii. 3; Isa. lxii. 6, 7). In Ps. cii. 16, it is written that the Lord will build up Zion when He shall appear in His glory. The kingdom was at hand when our Lord was here in humiliation, as was preached by our Lord Himself, and by His apostles, as well as by John the Baptist, but because they rejected Him and killed Him He plainly told them that the kingdom would not come till His return from the far country (Luke xix. 11, 12). He did not begin to speak in parables until they determined to kill Him (Matt xii. 14). Then follows in Matt. xiii the seven parables describing this age of the mystery of the kingdom. The parables of the mustard seed and of the leaven in this lesson are repetitions of two of those, the former speaking of a great tree with birds in the branches and the latter of leaven in the meal.

In explaining the parable of the sower our Lord said that the birds represented the wicked one (Matt. xiii. 4, 19), and a symbol once explained stands. We have seen in a recent lesson that leaven is always a symbol of evil. The teaching therefore is that in this age of the mystery of the kingdom or the time between the rejection and the coming of the kingdom, many followers of the wicked one will profess to be interested, but the teaching will become thoroughly corrupt, and tares, the work of the devil (Matt. xiii. 28, 39), will be found with the wheat till the end of this age. To all these deceived and deceiving ones He will have to say, "I know you not whence ye are; depart from me, all ye workers of iniquity" (verses 26, 27). Many shall come from all parts of the earth to share and enjoy the kingdom, while many who thought themselves deserving of it shall find their place where there is weeping and gnashing of teeth (verses 28, 29).

We must ponder well and lay to heart the words of our Lord to one of the best and most religious men of his day, "Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God" (John iii. 5).

Judging from the denial in our own times, of the fundamental truths of the gospel, it is to be feared that many church members and many ministers and missionaries have never been born again. It is not for us to talk about few or many being saved, but it is essential that each one should know for himself that he is saved by receiving the Lord Jesus Christ as his personal Saviour, and that appropriating the great truth "The Son of God loved me and gave Himself for me," "His own self bare my sins in His own body" (Gal. ii. 20; 1 Pet. ii. 24). He is able to say, "I know that my Redeemer liveth," "I know whom I have believed" and "having come to Him, I am not cast out" (Job xix. 25; II Tim. i. 12; John vi. 37). It is still the accepted time. The day of salvation for all who will come, but when once the door is shut it will be too late. There will come a time when the despisers and haters of truth shall call and get no answer (Isaiah lxv. and not find (Prov. i. 24-31). Our Lord said that unbelievers shall die in their sins, and thus dying, cannot come where He is (John viii. 21, 24). As in the days of Noah, it will be shut in or shut out.

In this age of the mystery or the postponement of the kingdom, the Spirit is, like the servant of Abraham, telling of the riches of the Father and the Son and seeking a bride for the Son, or, in other words, gathering from all nations by the preaching of the gospel of the risen Christ the church or body of Christ, but we must never confound the church with the kingdom. The church will reign with Christ in the kingdom, but the kingdom will include all nations, as it is said in Dan. vii. 27, "The kingdom and dominion and the greatness of the kingdom under the whole heaven." There may be some great surprises waiting us when we shall see Abraham, and Isaac and Jacob and all the prophets in the kingdom of God, and the twelve apostles on thrones judging the twelve tribes of Israel (verse 28 and chapter xxii. 30).

His reference to the two days and the third day (32) may point to the 2,000 years of this age, and the next thousand, which will be His reign of righteousness and peace.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

INDIAN DAINTIES.

THOUGH somewhat highly seasoned, most Indian dishes that are known as the accident are exceedingly appetizing. They give relish to any meal of which they are a part.

Some new and tempting dishes from India are those for which recipes are given here:

Made With Mutton.

Calcutta Kabobs. Mince some fat mutton very fine and season with pounded spice, pepper, salt and sliced onions, mixing in a little flour. Make the kabobs in the form of sausages by pressing the meat on a skewer and roast on one side at a time over a clear and bright fire. The skewer is about a quarter of an inch thick and thirteen to sixteen inches long.

Moley. This dish can be made of chicken, mutton or beef, which must be boiled first. Fry a sliced onion slightly, then the curry powder. Add the water, next the soup and the meat. The water and soup should just cover the whole mixture. Lastly add the milk of half or a whole cocoanut, acidulate with vinegar or fresh lime juice to taste.

For Afternoon Teas.

Nankatis.—Mix together a pound of semolina and three quarters or a pound of powdered white sugar. Make this into a dough with three quarters of a pound of butter a day old, knead this well for some minutes, shape the dough into balls, press into form of biscuits, make lines on the surface with the back of knife and place the nankatis on a baking tin two inches apart. Bake them a light brown color.

Country Captain. Cut a fowl in pieces, wash well and boil in water with a little salt till tender. Warm a heaped dessertspoonful of dripping or butter and brown three or four sliced onions and set aside. Brown the fowl in the same dripping or butter (adding more butter if needed) with a couple of green peppers and an inch of ginger cut in slices. Add the gravy of the boiled fowl, cook for about ten minutes longer, add a teacupful of boiling water and let simmer for half an hour or longer. Serve with the fried onions strewed over with rice.

LENTEN SOUPS.

DINNER
Cream of Potato Soup.
Boiled Fresh Fish, Oyster Sauce.
Potato Puffs.
Lettuce Salad.
Cranberry Pie.
Half Cups Coffee.

NOURISHING soups for the Lenten meal may be made without meat. Cream or milk and plenty of butter add richness to these. A thick vegetable puree or a cereal soup of this kind may be added to the luncheon or dinner menu with advantage.

Served With Croutons.

Cream of Potato Soup.—Take four or five medium sized potatoes, a small onion, two cupfuls of water, a tablespoonful of butter, a half teaspoonful of salt, a half teaspoonful of celery salt, a liberal dash of white pepper and half to three-quarters of a cupful of milk. Pare and cut potatoes into small pieces, boil in the water until well done. Put through a ricer, place back over fire, add butter and seasoning; then stir in milk until a creamy consistency. It requires about one third as much milk as strained pulp. Let come to boiling point after adding milk; then serve.

Combination of Vegetables.

Celery and Onion Soup. Take half a cupful each of chopped onion and celery, three cupfuls of water, a tablespoonful each of flour and butter, a teaspoonful of salt, a dash of pepper and milk or cream as needed. Prepare the onions and celery and simmer slowly in the water until tender; then run through a sieve, return to the kettle, add more water, put butter smoothly with the flour on some of the hot soup, add to the kettle and let boil well. Now add milk or thin cream until it is the desired consistency.

A Rich Soup.

Cauliflower Soup. Take two small cauliflowers, two ounces of butter, an ounce of flour, a quart of milk, a pint of white stock, the yolks of two eggs, salt, pepper, sugar and curry powder. Melt the butter in a saucepan and put in the cauliflowers broken into small pieces, add a salt-spoonful of salt, the same quantity of curry powder, a dust of powdered sugar and pepper, let them simmer very gently for ten minutes; then add the flour, mixing it smoothly with the butter, and pour in gradually the milk. Cover the pan and let the cauliflowers cook slowly until they are quite tender. Strain the soup and press the cauliflowers through a fine sieve. Replace it in the pan with a pint of white stock which has been well flavored with vegetables. Ascertain that the soup has sufficient salt and pepper, add the yolks of two eggs and serve.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

"First Day" Answars Mr. Paat, of Baltimore.

To the Editor of The Republican.

Will you allow me a word in reply to Mr. Paat's article in your last issue.

I have already answered it sufficiently, and convincingly to all who will apply common sense principles of interpretion to the Bible, Suffice is to say that I do not believe in soul sleeping as he evidently does, because it is contrary to the plain teachings of Scripture.

Nor do I believe in the total destruction, or annilihation of the wicked, for the same reason. I believe, with all orthodox, christian people, that those who die in unbelief and rejection of Jesus as the only Saviour, endure the sufferings of eternal torment, or hell, and for the following reasons:

1st, I believe it because God the Father has appointed it.

2nd, Because God, the Son, believed and taught it.

3rd, Because God the Holy Ghost clearly emphasizes it in the word of God.

4th, Because the Apostles believed it and used it as a motive to induce men to flee from the wrath to come.

5th, Because the early church had this doctrine as one of the articles of its faith.

6th, Because every orthodox church that accepts the Bible as its rule of faith and practice, has taught it and coutinues still to teach it.

7th, Because if there is no hell for the punishment of sin, there is no heaven for the reward of righteousness.

8th, I believe it because it is in perfect harmony with the character of a just and loving God whose character is established by the teaching of His word, and not by the "ipse dixits" of men who presume to read into that character the attributes that suit their modes of thinking.

I am done. Yours truly.

OPTOMETRIST

IS Your Child Handicapped in his or her physical and mental development by defective vision? Out of 100,000 school children examined in New York city, nearly 30 per cent. were found to be in need of glasses. In Boston the percentage was found to be slightly over 20 per cent., and most of these children were down on the books as "stupid," "stubborn" or unruly. In Philadelphia 354 children were discovered who could not read ordinary writing on a blackboard at a distance of twenty feet. You should make sure by a thorough examination at the hands of a competent optometrist. That your child is not among this vast army of little citizens who suffer from defective eyesight, delays often result seriously. My examinations are made by the most scientific accurate methods. If it is found that glasses are not required you will be told so frankly and no charge made for the examination.

NEW HOMES TO BE BUILT.

Messrs. Harry and Andrew Helbig Will Erect Dwellings This Summer.

Mr. Harry W. Helbig and his brother Mr. Andrew W. Helbig, of Oakland, have both closed contracts with Mr. John Ault for the erection of new dwellings on their respective farms adjacent to Oakland.

The home for the former will be built fronting the State road just north of the cross roads, the excavation having already been completed.

Mr. Andrew Helbig's dwelling will be on his farm just south of town. Both buildings will be brick and will be of the most modern construction.

Mr. Ault also has the contract for the erection of a dwelling at Ohio Pyle.

Slight Wreck But Much Damage to Track.

A wreck in which seven loaded steel hoppers, containing coal, were involved, occured Friday night near Bloomington which tied up traffic on this division of the B. & O. for several hours, trains Nos. 12 and 1 being detoured by way of Connellsville. The wreck was the result of a bursted wheel which derailed the cars and they piled on to the west bound track, tearing it up for several hundred feet.

News Notes of Interest to Garrett Countians.

Before the House Judiciary Committe the Wednesday atternoon Delegate Shartzer, of Garrett county, appeared in behalf of a number of local bills. One of these was Mr. Shartzer's bill to raise the marriagable age of females from 16 to 18 years, in Garrett county. Mr. Shartzer introduced a Statewide bill of the same sort some time ago, and the Judiciary Committee reported it unfavorably. He, therefore, introduced the same bill, making it apply only to Garrett county. Mr. Shartzer argued in favor of this bill before the committee, and Chairman Hoffman intimated that a bill meeting the purpose intended by the Shartzer bill will have the committee's support a little later.

Delegate Shartzer next took up his Mt. Lake Park bill, which authorizes and empowers the annual committee of the Mt. Lake Park Association to collect their community taxes as municipal taxes are collected. Chairman Hoffman asked Mr. Shartzer whether he is a member of the Mt. Lake Park community, and he replied he is not. The chairman then asked upon whose authority he is representing them, and Delegate Shartzer said the bills had been sent to him by G. Semmes Hamill, Jr., attorney for the community, and he was then informed by Chairman Hoffman that a gentleman, a reverend gentleman, had been before the committee during its forenoon session, who stated that he is the superintendent of the Mt. Lake Park Association, and that the only person authorized to speak for the Association; and that this reverened gentleman (Dr. Reed) had told the committee that at his instance a bill would be introduced at the same day's session (Wednesday) in the Senate by Senator Speicher, and that this bill is the only one which the Association desires to have passed at this session.

Delegate Shartzer denied that Dr. Reed has any authority to speak for the Mt. Lake Park Association and questioned Dr. Reed's official standing. Chairman Huffman dispatched his messenger for Senator Speicher, the Senate being at the time in session, and upon his arrival stated that Dr. Reed is the official head of the Mt. Lake Park Association, and had left the bill with him and it has been introduced in the Senate; also that Dr. Reed had said it is the only measure the community wants considered at this session. Chairman Hoffman stated that in these circumstances the Committee would of course, be compelled to recognize the official reperesentative in matters of legislation and that Dr. Reed's bill will have precedence.

At Wednesday night's session it developed that the Frederick county delegates were at odds among themselves on a local bill. There are five members of the Delegation, and three of them had voted for an unfavorable report on the bill, and two for a favorable report. When the bill was unfavorably reported by the Delegation Wednesday night, the minority moved to substitute the bill for the unfavorable report and a lively time ensued. The motion to substitute finally carried.

This case was no sooner disposed of than the Prince George's Delegation developed the same trouble, with the difference that there are only four members of this delegation and they stood 2 to 2. A motion to make their bill a Special Order for next Monday night at 8 o'clock, however postponed the skirmish at that end by being carried.

These delegations manifesting serious internal differences, detracts much of the uniqueness in this respect that has heretofore gone unchallenged to Garrett county. Garrett county no longer has the only delegation in the House that never agrees upon anything.

Mr. W. A. Smith, of Garrett county, State Fish Commissioner, was in Annapolis, Wednesday and yesterday and spent some time at the State House.

Delegate Harvey has re-introduced the bill to prevent ministers of the gospel in Garrett county from offering money to induce couples wanting to be married to be brought to them for the purpose of having the ceremony performed. The bill was referred to the Judicary Committee. The former bill was introduced by Delegate Shartzer early in the session, and was reported unfavorably by the Judiciary Committee, the report being adopted.

Delegate Shartzer's bill restricting the limits in Garrett county within which intoxicating liquors may be sold, or manufactured, was reported unfavorably by the Temperance Committee, said report being adopted and the bill killed.

Also Delegate Shartzer's bill providing for an appropriation of $15,000 for flood walls—Kitzmiller and Friendsville, and providing for a commission to supervise the work and expend the fund, was reported unfavorably by the Ways and Means Committee in the House, the unfavorable report being adopted. Senator Speicher, of Garrett county, has a bill for the same purpose pending in the Senate, carrying an appropriation of $25,000 and naming a commission.

Delegate Savage Thursday introduced a bill providing for the appointment by the County Commissioners of Garrett County, of a warden to the Garrett county jail. In addition to the usual duties of a warden, he shall also perform the duties of a janitor, keeping the jail heated and cleaned, and shall have the care and custody of the prisoners, and shall be responsible for the escape of the prisoners, and shall give bond in the sum of $2,000 for the faithful performance of his duties.

Under the present law which Delegate Savage's bill amends, the County Commissioners appoint a Deputy Sheriff and a Cook, but this system has proven unsatisfactory, hence the Savage bill. Mr. Savage's bill however, provides that the Commissioners shall appropriate the sum of three hundred dollars for the Sheriff for the purpose of providing a Cook for the jail.

Delegate Shartzer offered a bill Monday night to create an auditing committee for Garrett County officials.

Delegate Savage offered a bill amending the road law of Garrett County, providing for the placing of rails along dangerous places on Mountain sides.

Mrs. Harvey J. Speicher and four sons are expected to arrive in Annapolis in a few days to witness the closing hours of the present session of the Legislature.

Senator Speicher's cigarette bill will have to go through the House before becoming a law, but the Senator expects to win out. So far he has not lost a bill he introduced.

Tuesday President Smith of the Kitzmiller National Bank was a visitor at the State House.

Monday night the Ways and Means Committeeof the Senate reported favorably the special appropriation bill carrving $4,000 for the school fund of Garrett county and it was passed by the Senate. It is now in the hands of the Governor for his signature. This bill was fought hard by the State Board of Education and was only gotten through by the persistent and telling work of Garrett county's Senator.

Tuesday night the House Finance Committee reported unfavorably Mr. Shartzer's bill appropriating $50,000 for the West Virginia-Luke bridge.

THE LOCAL MERCHANT

The local merchant is not only a convenience, but a real necessity. Let the average housewife imagine herself trying to deal direct with the manufacturer and the producer for everything she needs. Then she will more readily understand how important is the function of the man who brings the wares of both into a convenient place for her convenience, pleasure and service.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

Mr. Richard Writsman has moved from the Jamison house in the Park to the Bunce house in Loch Lynn.

Mr. Taylor Schell moved Tuesday into the Park View cottage from the Henry May cottage, which has been purchased by Rev. H. E. Friend who will occupy it with his daughter next week.

Mr. Leonard Schell and daughter Effie have secured rooms in Mrs. T. J. Harris' cottage.

Mrs. Margaret Berghaus returned to Baltimore Saturday last.

Superintendent Reed held the second quarterly conference in the M. E. church Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Riley Schell, who have been with relatives in West Virginia most of the winter, are again here.

An Epworth League rally will be held in the M. E. church here tomorrow (Friday) evening at 7:30 p. m. The principal speakers will be Superintendent Reed, Rev. E. P. Idleman, Prof. F. E. Rathbun and Messrs. E. Ray Jones and H. V. Leighton. Special music. A cordial invitation is extended to everybody.

The executive committe of the Epworth League will meet here next Friday to arrange a program for the 23rd annual convention.

Mr. Alderson White was called home here Tuesday on account of the illness of his little daughter Elizabeth, who is now much better.

The spelling bee announced some time ago and postponed on account of the special services in the U. B. church, will be held at Haydenhurst next Tuesday evening. A silver offering will be taken at the door. Good "eats" free. Music and games. The invitation to be present is general.

A fast and furious game of basket ball was played here Monday evening between the Roughnecks of Oakland and the home team which resulted in a victory for the latter by a score of 37 to 9. A lively time but no bloodshed.

There will be no prerching in the M. E. church Sunday morning as Rev. Marquess will assist in the services at Deer Park, but will preach here in the evening.

Mr. H. B. Harvey has purchased a fine auto truck to be used in delivering goods to customers of the Peoples' Store.

Last Friday evening the friends of Rev. J. E. Marquess called at the parsonage in force, to the surprise of the good pastor. The occasion was to celebrate the anniversary of his birth which occurred several days ago but could not be observed on account of the special services in the U. B. church. A fine leather travelling bag was presented to Mr. Marquess in a short address by Mr. H. V. Leighton on the part of the donors, and was feelingly replied to by the pastor. After a time of social converse and music a dainty lunch was served by Mrs. Marquess assisted by the ladies of the congregation.

Meeting of Civic Club.

COUNTY FAIR WILL BE HELD EARLIER THIS YEAR

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Sept. 30. Oct. 1 and 2 Dates Set.

A recent meeting of the officers and directors of the Garrett County Agricultural Association fixed as the dates for holding the second annual fair under the auspices of the Association as Wednesday, September 30th, and Thursday and Friday, Oct. 1st and 2nd.

The fair officials have secured the same grounds as used last year, but which will be very decidedly improved, work upon the improvements being planned to begin as soon as weather conditions will permit.

It is the aim as well as the object of of the Association to promote and encourage as far as possible the agricultural, horticultural and live stock interests of Garrett county and the adjoining counties of Pennsylvania and West Virginia. With this end in view it is the desire of the Association that every one having the material interests of this section at heart and who aided so materially in the great success of the fair last year will again manifest that interest by becoming members of the Association, thus encouraging in a substantial manner the officers who worked so hard and faithfully last year. The membership fee is a nominal sum which admits the member to the fair grounds upon all occasions.

Now is the time to begin planning for the fall exhibit. Keep constantly in mind when you sow your grain, plant your garden or corn that you intend to exhibit the best product of the farm at the Garrett County Fair, whether that product be potatoes, corn, oats, wheat or other cereal, live stock, poultry or a product of the kitchen. The door is open to every farmer in the county to exhibit that which is raised upon his land. Take advantage of the opportunity to advertise Garrett county as the best place on earth to live and to raise good paying crops of everything that can be grown in this section of the country.

Purchased Summer Home.

Mr. Lawson L. Loar of Grafton, son of Mrs. Mary C. Loar of Oakland, has purchased the Lieut E. S. West property adjoining Oakland and will convert the property into a summer home. The purchase was made on Friday last from Mr. Gilmor S. Hamill, the consideration being $5900.

HOME SANATORIUM NEWS.

Two Patients Operated Upon Monday Evening—Both Doing Well.

Last Monday Mrs. Jonas Yutzy, of Sunnyside, was operated upon at the Home Sanatorium for gall stones and later in the evening Vernon Lyon, B. & O. assistant agent in Oakland, was operated upon for appendicitis, both operations being performed by Dr. Hawkins, of Cumberland, who was assisted by Drs. Hinebaugh and Broadwater. Both patients are doing remarkably well.

Yesterday Dr. Hinebaugh operated upon Mr. A. Marteny, of Loch Lynn Heights, removing a bone from his foot which has caused the patient more or less suffering for some months past.

Mr. George Porter, of near Oakland, who has been confined to the hospital for some time following an operation, is also improving.

HOYES.

This week comes in with sunshine and we hope March will leave us with the gentleness of a lamb.

Guy Harvey and family, who have been residents of our community for the past two years, are moving to Mr. Offutt's farm about eight miles from Oakland. We regret to see them go.

Quite a number of our young people attended the spelling bee and entertainment at Accident last Friday night and had a jolly time.

Joe Keller and family spent last Sunday with Arthur Custer and wife.

Will. Spoerline, wife and baby and Mrs. Emma Dewitt and son were guests at John Brenneman's at Thayerville last Sunday.

W. A. Smith spent last week in Baltimore and reports the "little fishes" at Druid Hill Park doing very nicely, and will be ready for distribution in a few weeks.

Rev. H. E. Friend is preparing to have a sale of his property shortly and will move to Mt Lake Park. We are loath to see so many of our life long and good neighbors leave our community.

Mrs. Christina Mattingly was visiting her brother Francis McGettigan last Saturday afternoon.

Rueben Enlow and wife spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Dodge, at Thayerville.

A number of our boys and girls took advantage of the good sledding and attended the basket ball game, at Friends-last Saturday night. All enjoyed it immensely. It was quite an exciting game. All feel grateful to Mr. Hauser, who handled the ribbons to the four horse team and landed all safely at their homes.

D. I. Dewitt and family, and Hamilton Friend and wife were all out for a sled ride Sunday afternoon.

By Paul Wentworth Potter.

There are always plenty of people to be found who are convinced that the world was never so bad as it is today. Drunkenness is ever on the increase; vice in its myriad forms is constantly raising its hydra head higher and more threateningly; the young are more sophisticated and forward; business is full of corruption and politics another name for graft; women are smoking and soaking and tangoing; the discussion of prostitution and sex hygiene has banished modesty; easy divorce and woman suffrage have broken up countless homes, and it is patent to the most casual observer that we are all going to the "everlasting bowwows."

What is more, the statistics prove it. Eminent divines who are specializing in social science are growing frantic over the untold possibilities of evil. Experts, who have, with immense devotion to truth, examined microscopically all the dens of filth and suffered nausea and vexation of soul in collecting salacious details, are getting out reports that would excite the envy of Rabelais.

It only remains for the denizens of the underworld to flood the magazines with the story of their lives—all, of course, in the interest of truth and uplift. No doubt there would be money in it if they could "put it over" in a penitential spirit, after the manner of Defoe.

Moreover, there is a sadder side to the picture as it is often depicted. It means nothing else than the failure of Christianity. If the world is getting worse every day, then the gates of hell are slowly but surely prevailing against the powers of good. One or two of the valiant warriors that could hew Agag to pieces alone remain. One or two hero saints, like Elijah in the midst of the Baal worshipers and calf kissers, only are left. The church is gradually going under. Minister after minister is throwing up his hands in despair.

His hopes are no longer fixed on the throne of grace, but on the ministerial unions and other devices which, with more or less frankness, work the wealthy.

Alas for the good old times, the golden age of faith and piety, when everybody went to church and enriched the sacredotal coffrs; when the Bible was an open book; when children reverenced their parents and devoutly kissed the sacred apron string! Welcome ignorance, bigotry and superstition! Welcome narrow outlooks, arrested mental development and rabbit brains, if only those good old times will return and abide those times of Arcadian innocence, when scantiness of apparel suggested no evil and the wine cup tempted to no abuse.

But this is not a jeremiad; it is a contribution to the uplift. The reader who sympathizes even remotely with the sentiments expressed above is living in the only Arcadia the world has ever known. He can hardly attain to greater or more blissful ignorance and bigotry than are already his.

Surely nothing is more short-sighted and irreligious than the idea that the world is growing worse all the time.

It is shortsighted because it fails to distinguish between the appearance and the reality. Mole hills become mountains if seen through a lens of sufficient power. So, seen through the higher standards of each succeeding age, the really diminishing evils assume a startling and malignant aspect. A single drunken man magnified into an orgy of Bacchus or a Roman carnival, while a disorderly house becomes a palace of Messalinas or a modern Avignon. Segregated districts are now confined to a few blocks. They used to be limited only by the city walls. One must read something of the past to judge wisely of the present.

But belief in the decadence of the world is not only shortsighted; it is irreligious.

Those who believe in God, that He created the world and ordered its development with infinite wisdom, also believe that He is governing it with the same wisdom and in spite of every hindrance will accomplish His all-wise purpose.

To be sure there is no hysteria in His methods, but instead a wonderful patience that always gets on the nerves of reformers.

Of course, if these men assume that they have on their shoulders the responsibility of stamping out evil and saving the world, they have cause for worry. But if they have received this responsibility from God, why do they not follow His methods? And if not, why do they hinder them?

It seems to be a tolerably safe position to take, that God is competent to manage the saving of the world, and if we want to help—which of course, we do—we have our little parts mapped out for us. Our business is to be as good and helpful as we can, but keep our hands off the helm.

And it is a great comfort to believe that God is directing the development of the world, both physically and morally. You do not eat your heart out because your neighbor allows himself some indulgence which you think is sinful. You just mind your own business and try to be good and helpful. The publicans and harlots sometimes go into the kingdom before those who want to convert them. Does anyone refuse to admit that God could have prevented people from drinking to excess if He had wished to? Evidently He preferred to have them learn self-restraint and moderation. And so of the other evils.

O you reformer, have a little faith in God, and calm your fevered soul! Are you quite sure God wants what you want so badly? Do you care for the truth, or only your own way?

No doubt the Ruler of the world brings about His reforms just as quickly as they can be wisely brought about. History seems to show that there is a Spirit pervading in the world that is always working for higher standards. The Bible says somewhere that what is done on earth He doeth it Himself. Why not have a little faith and believe it?

But they insist upon believing that God's earth is going to the bad. Heaven knows why but they do. They grow frenzied at the frightful condition of things, generally the over-indulgence of innocent appetites. How can we sit still, they say, and see all this terrible evil going on? Well God has done it for many a long day unless, perchance, as Elijah mockingly said, He is asleep or has gone hunting.

But if they really must reform something or burst, why not take a fall out of the corrupt politicians? Get up a crusade and corral the Royal Family. Or rather—not to appear to be joking—why not attack the inhuman evils, such as hypocrisy, backbiting, selfishness and greed? Not exciting enough? Then why concentrate on the petty gambling of the racecourse and not rather go in and clean up Wall street?

Is there any such thing as reforming a man till you have gained his heart? If you prevent his drinking openly, will he not do it surreptitiously? If you forbid him to bet on the races, can he not still get up a book on the number of converts Billy Sunday will make each day? Does this help God to reform the world, or is it a mockery of goodness and truth?

Then why not try everyone to mind his own business that is, to be as conscientious and good as he knows how to be? If a man is a preacher, why not preach the great truths of religion and leave the outcome to God?

WHY THE MAIL ORDER HOUSE GROWS.

The average town merchant has convinced himself that the mission of his "home paper" is no other than to cry down mail order houses. "Why don't you knock this mail order business?" he shrieks day after day. "You know as well as I that the 'foreigners are robbing our people. They are getting our good money and giving bad merchandise in spite of the fact we home merchants offer better goods for less money."

Its a case of seeking the other fellow's faults and being blind to our own. Why does the mail order house flourish? On first thought the stories we read of their tremendous growth and power seems almost incredible. They as a rule, do not employ traveling representatives, they send no brass band up and down the land extolling their virtues, they certainly do not give anything for nothing, yet some of these houses are better known in the United States than the name of its President. Why? Because they advertise. That is the whole secret.

John Wanamaker recently said, "If I had only a corner peanut stand, I would advertise the fact in the home paper." And that is the principle he is working on today. That doctrine raised him from the estate of a wheel barrow vender to the rank of Prince of Merchants. He advertises extensively, consistently and continuously.

The average home merchant considers himself too small to advertise. And he can't understand why his patrons likewise consider him to small when they have a big order to place. His mail order competitor heralds his wares far and wide. His field of endeavor is is limitless. Naturally he gets the business. It is not a question of moral right, but of "physical" right. We believe the home merchant has the goods, but we are not sure because he never tells us; we suspect our money if spent at home will give better returns, but we are not confident. So we follow the line of least resistance by picking up the mail order catolog, making out a long list of necessities we are not even privileged to inspect before laying down our money, write a check, and then experience the thrills of paying the express or freight bill. If disappointed, we console ourselves by thinking "next time we'll know better."

If your patrons are falling away, business is dead, ruination staring you in the face, and in spite of it all you fail to advertise, do not cry, Mr. Merchant, for the fault is yours. How can you expect people to buy when you fail to tell them what you have.

THEIR REASONS FOR WISHING

High School Students Give Answers To A Pertinent Question.

The following reasons in answer to the question "Why I Want to go to a University," are given by two of the graduating class of the Oakland High School, which follows in the wake of similiar reasons published in these columns last week:

"We all have a mission to fulfill in this world, and with a good education we shall be better prepared to do this work. A well trained man can obtain better positions than the untrained man. With a college education he uses system in doing things; and can see more clearly how and why things are done. The uneducated man, trying to do work of today is like a man trying to work in the dark, he cannot find tools with which to work.

"A college training develops man, physically, mentally, socially and morally, and enables him to enjoy life to a fuller extent. It helps him to specialize in any particular subject that he may desire. If he chooses teaching as his profession he can understand the nature and needs of his pupils better and, therefore, be better qualified to teach them. It will make him more considerate of others.

"The educated man considers his work a pleasure, rather than a struggle. He sees beauty and truth in things, which, to the uneducated man would be meaningless.

"The man with a Common School education has the advantage over the uneducated, the one with a High School education over the Grammar School, the College over the High School, the University over the College, therefore, we should all strive to get all the education we can.

"RHODA WELCH."

"The broader view of the importance of a university training, is a knowledge of simply more than that obtained in High School or College course. It is as it were, a training which enables one to encounter the difficulties which later arises in life. My main object of entering a university, is to equip myself more fully with the educational advantages of that institution. The universities of today are well equipped with all the modern conveniences thus enabling the student to obtain physical strength as well as mental ability.

"How many times has it been proved by men of great mental ability that the man with a university education has the advantage over the man with a common school education, thus the youth should ever be on the alert in obtaining this knowledge, which like the sharp steel blade of the stiletto will cut as it were a swath in the difficulties of life. One should not only think of the university as a place of acquiring mental culture, but, on the other hand, they should take into consideration the social standing which one acquires while there, which oftentimes has a bearing on the character of the student, thus the student should ever remember that the youth of to-day will be the man of tomorrow, and should seize every opportunity to make himself fit to fill the position of the man of tomorrow."

Importance Of Proper Pruning

Too much importance cannot be attached to the operation of pruning young fruit trees. Pruning should be done now before the buds swell. Each tree has its individuality and the pruner should know the fundamentals of the operation in order to develop trees along proper lines.

Many growers do not take sufficient pains or do not study the problem thoroughly to develop their trees to the best advantage. Often times severe pruning must be done in later years and often the tree can never be brought into proper shape owing to neglect during the first two or three years of its life.

Representatives of the School of Horticulture of the Maryland Agricultural College are now arranging for pruning and spraying demonstrations in different parts of the State. All growers who have young orchards especially and who are not thoroughly familiar with the proper methods of pruning should communicate with the College and seek its help at this important time in the life of the orchard. The College will be pleased to arrange for as many demonstrations as its means will permit.

Old apple orchards should be reclaimed by pruning and spraying. All fruit trees should be sprayed with the Concentrated Lime Sulfur Solution before the buds open.

Any one desiring information along these lines should write to the School of Horticulture, Maryland Agricultural College, College Park, Md.

No Place Like Home.

W. H. Swauger of Garrett county, Md., returned home Monday from a visit to various of his children living in Pennsylvania. He was accompained home by a young widow and child from Bowersville, Pa., related to him and who will spend the summer with him and Mrs. Swauger. He intended to be gone about three weeks, but got cured of his wanderings in ten days and came to the conclusion that after all there is no place like home.—Meyersdale Republican.

"Man's Inhumanity to Man Makes Countless Thousands Mourn."

A Temperance Talk to Voters

BY JASON KEP

What wonderful progress man seems to have made in knowledge and wisdom.

How we glory in our great educational system, our common schools, our great libraries all tending to make man more civilized and raise him to a higher standard of living. Besides these is the school of life and the scholars are as the sands of the sea. The text book and libraries are condensed into one book, The Book of Life.

That man has not made better progress is because he has failed to study. He has shirked his duty, like the child in the lower school who fails to realize that his lessons were stepping stones leading up to that higher education.

One lesson, "Love ye one another," "Bear ye one another's burdens," and "Do unto others as ye would that they should do unto you," was taught and especially dwelt upon, and exemplified by our Great Master.

Only twenty words, but learned and applied, what a paradise this world would be.

Avarice, covetousness, hate, spite, pride, greed and selfishness, together with hunger, want, misery and dispair, would be banished forever from the face of the earth.

There is no royal road to glory; man must study and work; you cannot lie dormant, you will either progress or retre-grade.

All nature is motion and the absence of motion is death.

Now scholars of the advanced class: you church people. A great responsibility rests upon you, you are looked upon as a guide for emulation by the infant classes. If you apply these lessons, then your work will stimulate the infant classes to greater exertion. If you do not, you are a hindrance and a clog upon their progress.

Beware of placing snares in the pathway of these little ones. The risk is too great and the remuneration too small.

Now, scholars of the advanced class: the 35,000,000 church members. To you especially and to the 20,000,000 moral-man-outsider, I want to draw your attention to some important facts, which some of you have overlooked or did not realize the importance.

Alchohol as a beverage, and the saloons are the greatest standing menace to defraud, debauch and kill our citizens.

In 1907 there were 276,854 liquor dealers in the United States, one to every 303 people. They collected $2,000,000,000 from the people and in return fill our asylums, poor house, jails and penitentaries; send 152,000 to drunkards graves every year and recruits 172,000 of our children to fill the ranks; brings hunger, misery, sorrow and dispair to countless thousands of women and little children. Why Dantes' Inferno is a poem besides this picture, and you upper classes have been impersonating the 'Annabel Rabbit.' You are not entitled to be in the upper class. Now you get busy at once, or back you go to the infant class.

Oh, you church people, if you expect to fight the battles of the Lord, you must face the enemy; your breast plate is no protection in your present position.

When the church people awaken and act together, the liquor question will soon be solved and not until then.

God hates a coward, and they are not thought well of on earth.

Try West Virginia's plan. Did it work? Well I guess yes, by 92,342 majority.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

The Republican Is Praised For Its Stand On The Liquor Question.

Benjamin H. Sincell, Esq.,
Editor of The Republican.

My dear Mr. Sincell: I have been wanting for some time to write to you to express my gratification upon reading your excellent editorial upon local option in Garrett county, published in The Republican of January 15th, in which issue you also published, under the heading, "What's the Matter with Kansas?" the splendid statement by the Governor of that state as to the prohibitory law there and its enforcement, and the wonderfully beneficial results.

I congratulate you upon the stand you have taken as an editor, in regard to the saloon question in Garrett county. The saloon men will fight for the privilege of selling liquor, because of the money there is in it for them. And they will have the outside aid of the wholesalers and distillers and the brewers, because of the money they will make if there should be license to sell liquor in Oakland. Of course, money-making is not a justification of a bad business, but is the motive.

But to their everlasting credit be it said, there are men who will not make money in a bad way. They will not sell that which will cause injury to their fellow men, as cocaine or intoxicating liquors, and they will not help others to sell.

I am glad that you are one of those newspaper proprietors (and their number is growing) who will not help the liquor business by selling advertising space for liquor advertisements, but, on the contrary, will fight the traffic because of the evil that it does.

In the conflict that is now on, every man who has a home and loves it, who has the welfare of his community at heart and who wishes well and not ill to his fellow men, should exert himself to the utmost to drive out the evil which too long has been a reproach to Oakland and to Garrett county.

Very truly yours,
WILLEY O. ISON.

Railroad Fatalties.

A contemporary has estimated that since the average length of a railroad journey in this country is thirty-four miles, and a passenger may take 2,275,122 such journeys with only one chance of being killed, it would take him, at two trips a day 7,795 years to run the full gamut of risk. That is to say, if the one fatal accident happened to him in the present year it would have been necessary for him to start his railroad traveling, at two trips a day, in the year 1879 B. C. It must be borne in mind however, that he might be killed on his first trip.

GOT RELIEF IN TWO DAYS

Quick Work of Bear's Emulsion.

L. H. Flick Had a Bad Cough, No Appetite, and Felt of No Account.

John D. Bear, Elkton, Va.

Dear Sir:—In the winter of 1908 I had a very severe cough, no appetite, pains through my back and lungs and felt weak and of no account. Bear's Emulsion was recommended to me by a friend and I got a bottle and after the first two days I felt like myself again and never had anything to help me like it did. Last year (1909) my wife began to complain as I did. So without waiting for anything I got another bottle of your Emulsion and although she took it very irregularly she began to improve at once. There is nothing better for a run-down system and cough.

Yours very respectfully,
LEE H. FLICK.

Don't you expect to do something for that long standing cough? Don't you expect to get something to build up your system? Bear's Emulsion gives relief and benefits the whole system. Get Bear's because it is not hard on the stomach and has proven to be the best. Sold by Sturgiss Pharmacy. advertisement.

CHRIST'S COMING WORLD'S END 1914

Not Pastor Russell's View at All—He Explains His View.

Canadian Minister Quoted—"The Earth Abideth Forever"—Christ Will Not Come Again as a Man, According to the Bible—Pastor Russell Believes That 1914 Marks a Great Change of Dispensation—Christ's Parousia Precedes His Epiphania.

PASTOR RUSSELL

March 22.—Pastor Russell, whose FREE Photo Drama of Creation is being put before the people in many large cities, everywhere arousing enthusiasm for God, religion and the Bible, preached today from the text "Thus shall also the coming [Parousia presence] of the Son of Man be: they shall be eating, drinking, planting and marrying, and know not." Matthew 24:37.

The Pastor was prompted to select his text by reading an extract from a recent sermon of a Canadian minister, who declared that 1911 would witness the Second Coming of Christ. The statement permitted the inference that the minister holds the view common to nearly all creeds: that the earth is to be burned up and the human race blotted out; and that Christ will come, to see that none of the Church are destroyed. All such expectations, the Pastor claimed, are wholly unscriptural, untrue and misleading.

Then the Pastor explained in full the various Scriptures commonly supposed to support such views. The wrong interpretations so prevalent, he claimed, belong to the Dark Ages, when public teachers seemed to lose all appreciation of figurative language; and when Christ's references to Gehenna Fire, which burned outside the wall of Jerusalem, were understood to refer to an eternity of torture for all except the saintly few. He showed that St. Peter's words, "the heavens shall be on fire," and "the earth and the things therein shall be burned up," refer to the very period which St. Peter elsewhere calls "Times of Restitution" and blessing and world learning to follow Jesus' Second Coming.

Both the Master and His Apostles, the Pastor asserted, frequently used the word fire as symbolical of tribulation. Among the many Scriptures quoted to substantiate his assertion was St. Peter's exhortation, "Think it not strange concerning the fiery trial which shall try you."

The Pastor quoted many Scriptures to prove that the earth is not to be destroyed, that "the earth abideth for ever"; that God "created it not in vain but formed it to be inhabited." This last prophecy, he claimed, has not yet been fulfilled; for immense tracts of land are still unoccupied.

The speaker then discussed popular misconceptions respecting the end of the world and showed that these are based upon a misunderstanding, due to the fact that our Common Version Bible uses the word world where the word age, epoch, order of things, would better express the thought of the original. According to Scripture, the present order, of which Satan is ruler, is to give place to a new order of things, under control of the Prince of Light.

Christ's Second Coming.

Next the Pastor demonstrated conclusively from Scripture that our Lord is no longer a human being. Nearly nineteen centuries ago, the Logos left Heavenly glory and was made flesh. God had pronounced a death sentence upon man, from which the race could not be released unless some one would become their redeemer and meet the penalty for them. This penalty was death, not eternal torment, of which the Scriptures know nothing. Our Lord carried out the Divine Program, and as a reward has been highly exalted "far above angels."

The speaker then showed that the word coming is used to translate several very different Greek words. One of these is Parousia, meaning presence, and used in reference to the first stage of our Lord's Second Advent. He will be invisibly present. For a while none will realize His Parousia, except the Church. All earthly things will continue as they have buying, selling, marrying, etc., for a while.

Later on will come the Epiphania—the revelation, or manifestation—not in the flesh, but in a great Time of Trouble, symbolically represented as fire. We read, "He shall be revealed in flaming fire, taking vengeance."

The Pastor understands the Bible to teach that Jesus has been present since 1874. The Second Advent began then. The wonderful prophecy of the world should know Bible study this explains. The Lord's Second Bible to teach that this Parousia continue for a thousand years; that the Epiphania will be due 1 years after the Presence began. this reason they are looking very tently to see what the year may bri

Everywhere is the sensation of impend time of trouble brewing. It looks a though this year would mark the beginning of the flaming fire of judgments which will characterize the Inauguration of Messiah's glorious Reign of righteousness and life eternal.

SENATOR SPEICHER ON THE OYSTER QOESTION

Remarks Delivered By the Senator From Garrett.

When the oyster bills were pending in the Senate last week Senator Speicher of Garrett, addressing the Senate upon the question said:

As a representative from the extreme western section of the State, where the oyster industry is almost unknown at least to a number of my constituents, yet I feel I owe an explanation of my vote not only to my constituents but to the tide water Counties as well. During the session of 1912 there was considerable discussion on the subject of oyster legislation and after listening to the tide-water representatives in their appeals for the protection of the God-given rights of the oysterman, I rather felt that perhaps, there was some room for their complaint against the Shell Fish Commission, but I did not feel that the mistakes could not be corrected by the Commission if any had been made, so I waited for the results from the Price-Campbell bill amendment to the Hayman law, hoping that this would bring about the relief the oysterman were asking for. However, do we find conditions now worse than ever before? And since giving more time and more study to oyster legislation and listening to the appeals of representatives of the tide-water counties for the rights of the oysterman, I am more convinced than ever that there is not and never has been any God-given right to to the oysterman, but a God-given right to the State of Maryland, and I do not believe that the oyster question will ever be settled or the proper protection to the oyster industry in this State (which should bring a revenue of several million dollars to the State of Maryland annually) until we change the Constitution of the State and let the Shell Fish Commission have full control of the oyster industry of this State, not only barren bottoms, but depleted and natural beds and bars.

By reason of the fact that some one's father or grandfather years ago dredged for oysters in the waters of this State is no reason why the right should be handed down from one generation to another. I am a citizen and a taxpayer of Maryland, and by reason of the fact that I live in Garrett county, I could not, even if I wanted to, come to any of the tide-water counties and take out a license and dredge for oysters unless I came and lived in the county for six months.

What rights has the miner in Western Maryland? Is he given the right to go into the mines and dig coal and sell it? No, and neither is he compelled to reside in the State or county for even a day before he can secure a job in the mines. The question comes from the tide water counties; what would you do with the poor oystermen if you take the natural bars from him. My answer to this question would be, let them lease an acre of the natural bars and pay to the State what it is worth, and those who are not able to lease an acre, let them work for the man who is able to lease and pay the price the same as the poor miner of Western Maryland who digs coal for the men who are able to own and operate the mines. The same question might be asked about the poor miner. What would you do if the mines should shut down or the coal be exhausted? The miners are compelled to look elsewhere for another job or seek other employment. They are not allowed to fall back on the natural resources of the State for a living. I am fully convinced that the State of Maryland owes no more protection to the oysterman than to any other class of working men or women. When I look back to the time when the Government owned the great grazing prairies of Montana and the middle west and the squatters settled on the Government land and some of them grew very wealthy from the natural resources and they began to think that they owned that which they so long held in their possession, at, when the Government decided to throw this land open to settlers, the squatters had no more right than men who were from the North, or from the South or from the East. The Government made no provision for those who thought they should have the land by right of possession. To obtain possession of it, they must file a claim, as any other citizen of the United States had to do. I think and feel that the same construction can be placed on the obligations of the oystermen of the tide water counties, and I am ready to vote for an amendment to the constitution of this State to give to the State of Maryland full control of all the bottoms of the Chesapeake Bay and tributaries so that the State may receive the income from the natural resource that belongs to the State of Maryland, and not to any class of people by right of possession. And further I would say that to my mind the natural oyster bars which belong to the State should not be considered an alms house for the poor in the tide-water counties and Southern Maryland, but should apply to the poor from all sections of the State alike and not to those only who claim this natural resource by possession right.

The Depot Girls.

In every town where railroads run
You'll find the "depot girls";
Some who are frisky and full of fun
And remind you of pet squirrels.

Some are old and some are young,
And some are middle-aged;
Some know how to use their tongues
Like a parrot that is caged.

Some have "rats" upon the brain
"Rats" quite large and brains quite small—
Some go just to see the train,
While others go to see it all.

Some go there to get their "mail,"
Others take their "male" along;
Some go there for fear they fail
To hear their sweetheart's latest song.

Some go there to meet their aunts,—
Knowing well they'll never come;
But, you see, it gives a chance
To go on a little "bum."

Some go there in broad daylight,
To be seen and see;
Others prefer the shades o'night,
When they feel more free.

Some advice I'd like to give
These wayward "depot strollers"—
It's true as gospel, sure as you live,
That you'll end like all "high rollers."

The girl that seeks the love of man
Will find it not in such a place;
But, if she wishes, she surely can,
Easily find her own disgrace.

Some parents ought to take a pill
Of good old "common sense,"
And block the road that leads down hill,
Where troubles all commence.

And keep the girl that wear short skirts
Away from the tempter's snare,
And thus keep a lot of budding flirts
From blooming as it were.

RETAIL DEALER'S GREW RICH

How many retail dealers have you known who grew rich from their business? They must, at their own expense, have stocks sufficient to meet the needs of all their customers; they must figure interest on the money invested in the contents of their shelves; they must pay rent for their stores, clerks and bookkeepers, license, taxes and insurance. Truly, their supposed profits are not excessive.

HOG CHOLERA IS FATAL.

Department of Agriculture Warns Farmers on Swine Diseases.

Washington.—At least 90 per cent of all deaths of hogs from disease in the United States are caused by hog cholera, assert specialists of the department of agriculture in a statement issued in response to numerous inquiries from farmers concerning methods for distinguishing hog cholera from other swine diseases.

Farmers are urged to remember that cholera kills millions of hogs where other diseases kill thousands, and attention is called to the fact that prompt administration of anti-hog cholera serum is essential to success.

"From a practical standpoint" says the department, "the important thing is to recognize hog cholera as soon as possible after its appearance in a herd that the serum may be applied before the disease progresses too far. Good serum may be depended upon to protect well hogs, and even to cure a large percentage of those in the earliest stages of the disease, but it will not be of much avail when used upon hogs that are already visibly sick."

PURE FOOD BOARD IS DEAD.

Secretary Houston Abolishes Body That Caused Wiley's Troubles.

Washington.—The board of food and drug inspection in the department of agriculture, which often was the center of attack by Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, former chief chemist, has been abolished by Secretary Houston.

At the department of agriculture it was said the board had been abolished in the interest of efficiency and economy. Dr. Carl Alsberg, who succeeded Dr. Wiley as pure food chief, will decide the appeals that formerly went to the board. He will be assisted by Dr. R. L. Emerson of Boston.

Dr. Wiley hotly attacked the pure food board in unmeasured terms at various stages of his administration, declaring its operations hampered administration of the spirit of the pure food law. Under the new plan the enforcement of the pure food law will virtually be intrusted to one man. That was what Dr. Wiley contended for.

$53 FROZEN IN ICE CAKE.

Pocketbook Found by Cutter in New Jersey Pond.

Whippany, N. J.—While cutting ice on a pond near his farm here Edwin Sanderson came across a black object frozen into one of the squares of ice which he was hauling to his storehouse. After cutting away the ice he found a purse containing $53 in bills and 48 cents in change. On a postal inside, addressed to "Lillian Hoffman," were the lines:

"Yours till the ponds of hades freeze over and the little devils go skating."

It was signed "Charlie." No one in this section knows "Lillian Hoffman," and it is thought the pocketbook had been carried down the Passaic river and backed up in one of the streams here which feed Sanderson's pond.

DINNER BY PARCEL POST.

Woman Offers Complete Chicken Feast For Four.

Boston.—A woman of Durham, Me., is advertising a cooked dinner of chicken, plum pudding, gravy, hard sauce, cranberry sauce, mince pie, pumpkin pie and vegetables delivered any time by parcel post.

She put a little advertisement in a local newspaper, and orders began to pour in upon her at once. She sends enough of all these good things for four people in one package. All that is necessary to prepare the dinner for the table is to warm it.

MANUEL FORFEITS CLAIM TO THRONE

American Girl's Husband Also Barred From Crown.

NEW PRETENDER APPEARS.

King George of England Cuts Off Ex-Ruler's Allowance—Manuel Carries Out the Wish of His Father-in-law, Who Feared Daughter Would Fall Into Hands of Mob.

London.—Ex-King Manuel of Portugal will in future be compelled to get along on his own resources, for King George, from whom he has received $50,000 annually since his dethronement, has cut him off. At the same time the former ruler of Portugal loses the title of "king," so far as official England is concerned. This has also been ordered by King George as the outcome of Manuel's renunciation of his claims to the throne of Portugal forever in favor of the Braganzas.

The claim to the throne falls upon Dom Miguel of Braganza and under ordinary circumstances would devolve upon his son, Prince Miguel and husband of the former Anita Stewart, who would thereby receive the honorary title of "queen." In view of the fact that Prince Miguel has married a woman not of royal birth, his claim as pretender has been set aside in favor of his younger brother, who is now seven years old. Thus the hopes of Anita Stewart of becoming queen of Portugal are blasted forever.

This arrangement was adopted at a meeting of the Braganzas in Vienna and followed the announcement to all the courts of Europe that Manuel had renounced his claims to the throne upon his marriage to Princess Augustine of Hohenzollern at Sigmaringen. Manuel thereby carried out the wish of his father-in-law, who refused to give his daughter under any other conditions, as he feared that bloodshed would accompany any attempt on Manuel's part to regain his throne, and he did not wish his daughter to run the risk of falling into the hands of the mob.

In so doing Manuel cut himself off from the purse of King George, who only recently learned the facts. The official order depriving Manuel of his title in England stated that it was done on "account of the internal conditions in Portugal."

It is well known that Manuel, through his apathy in regard to regaining his throne, has lost the sympathy of King Alfonso of Spain and a host of royalists who would have been willing to follow his lead. These followers will now flock to the standard of the Braganzas. There is no reason to believe that the new pretenders to the throne of Portugal will take any decisive steps in the near future, as it is expected in many quarters that the republic of Portugal is nearing its end of its own accord.

Anita Stewart is the daughter of William Rhinelander Stewart and was married to Prince Miguel of Braganza on Sept. 15, 1909. Her mother, after her divorce, married the late John Henry Smith. Miguel was at the time of the Portuguese revolution spoken of as a substitute for Manuel.

SCHOOLS FAILURES.—HILL.

Inaccuracy and Impracticability Are Chief Charges.

St. Paul.—"Our common and high schools are dismal failures. Accuracy is not taught in the schools, and accuracy is the main essential to success," said James J. Hill at the annual banquet of the Northwestern Yale Alumni association. Continuing he said:

"The time must come when public educational institutions must be more practical. My first public advice to all schools would be to simplify the curriculum by separating all 'facts they are so' from 'facts that are not so.'"

GOMEZ PALACIO RAKED BY REBELS

Fortified Torreon Suburb Weakens Under Villa's Assault

FILE STRATEGIC POSITION

Rebel Forces Go Into Battle With Tremendous Enthusiasm and Federals Fail to Check Their Advance—American Cavalrymen Fire Across Rio Grande at Mexican Federals After Being Shot at Themselves.

Juarez, Mex., March 24.—Gomez Palacio, the suburb three miles from Torreon, is gradually weakening before the onslaught of General Pancho Villa's force of rebels.

With Lerdo and Matamoras, important suburban towns in his possession, the downfall of Gomez Palacio is looked for momentarily.

Once in the hands of the rebels Gomez Palacio will be a big aid to them in attacking Torreon, as Villa's men can use the federal fortifications for protecting and masking their own men and guns.

The attack of the rebels had the enthusiasm that Villa expected and the fire of the rebel artillery was so accurate that the rebels rapidly gained ground and when dusk began to settle last night the rebel cannon were within close range to the town and the federal batteries upon the hill behind Gomez Palacio had ceased firing and the troops were apparently making an effort to remove their guns.

General Velasco, the federal commander of Torreon, is reported as being in Gomez Palacio.

If he is forced to surrender Gomez Palacio General Velasco can withdraw into Torreon and burn the railroad bridges over the Nazas river and at least delay the rebel assault upon Torreon from that direction.

The rebel army spent most of the day preparing for the attack. Villa asserting that he saw no use in rushing his men into battle when he could use his time to rest and feed them and then go into the fray in fine shape.

The rebel general appears to realize the necessity for keeping his men well supplied with food and water as well as cartridges and is devoting as much time as he can spare from the front in supervising the movement of these.

Villa's messages asserted that he had lost but few men in the fighting up to the time the attack was opened on Gomez Palacio. Most of these were encountered in the skirmishing as he moved south along the railroad and had but hastily fortified themselves.

Villa informed his generals at Juarez that his officers had been spying out the federal fortifications in and around Torreon by the aid of powerful field glasses sighted from commanding mountains and that the entrenchments are modern in their construction and at present very strong. However, he appears to think there is no chance to lose the battle.

Villa's Victories Confirmed.

Washington, March 24.—Reports of rebel victories preliminary to the real battle for the possession of Torreon were confirmed here in a dispatch received at the state department from George C. Carothers, its special representative with Villa.

Mr. Carothers practically substantiated the reports from Villa's headquarters about the advance on Torreon.

The consular official is concerned chiefly, it was said, with securing adequate protection for foreigners during the fighting at Torreon. He obtained from Villa some time ago an agreement for the establishment of a neutral zone at Torreon, but owing to the disinclination of the foreigners of Torreon to take advantage of this arrangement nothing has been done to carry the plan into effect.

Americans Clash With Mexicans.

El Paso, Tex., March 24.—Army officers and people generally were highly excited by the receipt of news of a clash between United States soldiers and Mexican federals across the border near Del Rio, Tex.

Mexican Constitutionalists and federals had been fighting while the American patrol looked on. The Constitutionalists were forced to retreat and fifty of them fled into the river and to the United States, pursued by a hot fire. The bullets from the federals began to whiz close to the American soldiers.

The commander of the American forces shouted a warning to the federals to cease. They fired back in derision and turned their guns point blank upon the cavalrymen while the rebels were clambering ashore.

The order to fire was then given the United States soldiers and the first real battle, small though it was, began. Firing lasted for fifteen minutes and the Mexicans retreated, carrying five who had fallen with them. The American troops plainly showed their elation when ordered to return the fire for it was the first time in recent history of the border patrol that they had been permitted to answer Mexican guns.

Child Killed by Truck.

Cleveland, March 24.—Two hundred school children playing about the Scranton school saw Fred Uffman, aged eight, one of their number, run over and killed by a heavy truck.

WOMAN SHOOTS AT JUDGES

More Gun Play in Paris—Wife of High Official Principal.

Paris, March 24.—Three shots from a revolver were fired at the judges sitting in the sixth chamber of the palace of justice by Mme. Lavigne de Sainte-Suzanne, wife of a high official of the ministry of the colonies. At the moment she fired she shrieked: "I will kill these base judges."

The shooting occurred during the hearing of a divorce case in which she was a witness. One of the attorneys had just alluded to the despair of some wives who were unable to obtain justice when the woman opened fire.

The reappearance before the investigating magistrate of Mme. Caillaux, assassin of Gaston Calmette, aroused great interest. She was taken from the St. Lazare prison to the palace of justice in custody of detectives. Strong guards were placed in the vicinity of the law courts to prevent demonstrations.

BRIDE BOSSES LAFE

Man Who Hitched First Wife With Mules Marries Again.

Liberty, Mo., March 24.—Lafe Choat, who became infamous two years ago when he hitched his wife with a pair of mules and plowed with her in a corn field, has married again.

More than that he is henpecked. The primeval brute who whipped his wife like a horse when she fell in the traces is as submissive as a child to the former Miss Nessie Evans of Kansas City, who since last Wednesday has been his bride. She weighs 200 pounds. At the first sign of trouble she put her foot down and announced that if Choat did not behave he would do a little plowing himself alongside some of his mules. Choat got real good.

BONNET STRING KILLS BABY

Infant Turns Over in Carriage and Strangles to Death.

Cleveland, March 24.—William Henry Yeomans, baby son of Henry Yeomans, a wealthy mine owner, was left alone in its cab on the porch of its home. When the nurse returned she found that a string on its bonnet had caught on a hook at the side of the buggy and in turning over the infant had strangled itself to death.

A train on which the father was traveling to his Colorado properties was stopped near Chicago by means of a long distance telephone message. Yeomans will return to Cleveland at once.

Cattle Found Starving.

Greensburg, Pa., March 24.—Finding six cows and seven dogs starving to death on the farm of Mrs. Isabel Kerr, seventy-three years old, a recluse, two miles from here, the state police preferred the technical charge of cruelty to animals against the woman and locked her up in the Greensburg jail.

Two Men Killed at Coking Plant.

Uniontown, Pa., March 24.—Miller Roderick, aged forty, and Michael Finn, laborers, employed by the Pitt Coke company at Smock, near here, were killed while at work, being crushed between a coke car and a stone wall.

Oakland, Md.

THURSDAY, MARCH 26, 1914.

ACCORDING to the almanac Spring has arrived. But according to facts, winter has a strong grip on the infant.

THE Republicans of the House of Delegates deserve the credit for the defeat of the Wilkinson Good Roads bill. This is one illustration of where the minority sometimes control the balance of power and know how to use it.

GARRETT COUNTY citizens will unanimously approve of the vote of the Garrett county delegation on the Good Roads bill. Garrett county needs all the money they can get for road improvement, but it does not want it at the cost of honor and justice.

THE Commissioner of Motor Vehicles for Maryland issues a statement which shows 1,385 more licenses taken out for motor vehicles for the first three months of this year than there were for the same period of 1913.

THE defeat of the iniquitious Wilkinson Good Roads bill Monday night by the House of Delegates reflects great credit on that body and the action of the Garrett delegation in the closing hours of the light is to their honor. An account of this effort to give Baltimore City $2,000,000 at the cost of honor, justice and equality, will be found on this page of THE REPUBLICAN.

THE DEATH RECORD

JOHN W. KIGHT.

John W. Kight, a native of Bloomington, Maryland, died at Parkersburg, W. Va., Monday, aged 75. He is survived by two brothers, William Kight, Westernport, Md., and Samuel Kight, Keyser, W. Va. In early manhood he engaged in the mercantile business at Glen Easton, W. Va. He removed to Parkersburg in 1866. He was a member of the Methodiat Episcopal Church South for 60 years and was superintendent of the Sunday School for 16 years. He was a Knight Templar. Mr. Kight was twice married. He is survived by his second wife and two sons. Frank W. and Newton M. Kight by his first marriage.

MRS. GEORGE E. BISHOFF.

Mrs. George E. Bishoff died Tuesday night at her home near Oakland of organic heart disease after an illness of several months. Mrs. Bishoff was born near Crab Orchard, W. Va., seventy years ago, where also she was married, coming to Garrett county many years ago with her husband and residing in Friendsville, from which point they moved to Hoyes and from thence a few years ago to near Oakland. She was a true Christian woman, a splendid neighbor and friend and an excellent wife and mother. Her funeral will occur today with interment at Hoyes. Mrs. Bishoff is survived by her husband, several children and by a host of friends and relatives.

MRS. CLAYTON KITZMILLER.

Mrs. Hettie Maud Harvey-Kitzmiller, wife of Clayton Kitzmiller, died at her home near Mt. Lake Park, Md., Thursday, March 19th, 1914, of a complication of diseases. Mrs. Kitzmiller had been dangerously sick for three weeks but she became alarmingly worse on Sunday afternoon and death came at 1 oclock p. m., Thursday. Mrs. Kitzmiller was a fine christion woman and mother. She leaves three children, all boys, one a babe of but 9 months. Its tender age called forth the affection of the mother's heart. Mrs. Kitzmiller leaves an aged father, Mr. Thomas K. Harvey, one sister, Mrs. Elijah Moon, and four brothers who feel sorely their grief. The writer visited her the day before she died and notwithstanding her great affliction, found her mind clear and a faith with firm hold upon the Christ who had been her stay from childhood. Her delight was to be in her home, and with those she loved.

A good neighbor has gone from us. A faithful christian that taken delight in being with the people of God in His house will be missed as she will enjoy eternally the fellowship of saints above.
S. E. BAUMAN.

DRAPER VAUGHN.

At Akron, Ohio, Sunday, of tuberculosis, after an illness of several months, Draper Vaughn, aged twenty-six years. He was the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Vaughn, formerly of Oakland. He is survived by his wife, his parents and several brothers.

A FRAME OP THAT OID NOT GET THROUGH

An Effort Made To Wreck State Roads Work.

The past week the State House witnessed one of the most corrupt efforts to appropriate two millions of dollars of the Good Roads fund to Baltimore city. An effort was made, and successfully, to have members of the legislature to support this movement. It carried in the House of Delegates but was lost in the Senate by an overwhelmingly large vote.

The apportionment made by the State Road Commission and embodied in the Price and Veasey bills was changed by taking from the counties of Baltimore, Caroline, Cecil, Dorchester, Somerset, Wicomico and Worcester, part of their allotment and dividing it up between Allegany, Carroll, Frederick, Garrett, Harford, Prince Georges, Talbot and Washington counties. Montgomery and one or two Southern counties refused to go in the first deal, so a new apportionment was made and the amount allotted to them greatly increased. In the first deal Garrett county was to get $100,000, but in the second deal the amount fell down to $50,000, just one half the original offer, presumably because Messrs Savage and Harvey could not be influenced to sacrifice their idea of honesty and justice.

Log rolling, wire pulling, bargaining, trading and all sorts of legislative devices were employed in connection with this $2,000,000 for the Light Street bridge and city paving of Baltimore city. Baltimore city in order to get what it wanted switched about the apportionments of the Good Roads Commission, which were indorsed by Governor Goldsborough, giving one county more than the Commission allowed and another less, adding to the appropriations for those counties whose representatives agreed to vote with it, substracting from the appropriations for the counties whose representatives would not consent to such vicious log-rolling, all without pretence of fitting the appropriation to the amount of work needed to be done.

Under this bill Allegany was promised $100,000 more than was necessary to improve the main gaps in the State road in that county, Frederick county $75,000 more; Garrett county $50,000 more, and so on In all $533 000 more than is necessary is appropriated for certain counties, and an equal amount is deducted from appropriations for other counties which do need the sums originally allotted in order to complete the main gaps within their borders.

The Baltimore News of Friday editorially says:

"But if the bill is a steal for the politicians of the Democratic city ring, then it is the boldest steal ever put over by any Legislature in any State in the union.

"The deplorable part of the business is not that the city is getting its due; it is that to get its due its delegation deliberately sacrifices the interests of the State upsets the well studied system for a truly State Roads system, bribes the county delegations to help it do so, and that enough county delegations are open to the kind of official bribery resorted to put the bill over. The gentlemen from Western Marvland are not a whitless blameworthy than are the gentlemen from Baltimore. Mr. Mahon of this city has given not a whit more disgraceful exhibition than has United States Senator Blair Lee. One and all have been flagrantly oblivious to their binding pledge to make the good roads situation the subject of constructive, not political study."

The Evening Sun of Friday editorially had this to say about this ungodly deal:

"The main purpose of every machine such as we have in Baltimore is to get hold of the people's money. It is organized for that object and for nothing else. It is in the business of politics for what it can get out of it, and if there were no rich graft in it the partnership of plunder would be dissolved in disgust. The shameful spectacle that is now presented in Annapolis will not be without ultimate influence for good, if it arouses the masses of the people in this city and throughout the counties to the necessity of destroying corrupt machine government. A reckless and unscrupulous organization like our Baltimore machine is not only a disgrace and danger to the city, but a menace to the whole State through its baneful influence and activity for evil. How long will the people of Maryland tolerate this unblushing combination of political looters and plunders?"

In regard to the trading and attempted trading the Senators from the Western Maryland counties are showing up finely. They have one after another refused to go into the deal to grab more than the original apportionment for their counties, In this class can be found Senators Mathias, Jones, Snader, Speicher, Emmart and Zihlman, all of whom were offered extra money for their counties at the expense of other counties. Said Senator Speicher:

"I know my people want all the road money they can get, but I stand for this measure as a State-wide proposition, and I do not propose to go into any deal or grab game. I did not come here for that purpose."

Said Senator Beck, of Kent county:

"I was offered for my county many thousand dollars to go into this deal, but I would not do it. Had I done so, I would tonight resign my seat in the Senate and return to my nome and hide my head in shame."

In reply to an interview Delegate Savage of Garrett county said:

"A dozen or more persons came to me and asked me to change my vote from the Price bill to the Wilkinson bill in favor of the $100,000 graft for Garrett county. I told them I was not in the market for graft or any deal that was not fair to all the counties of the State. That I would not change my vote; if it was a grab-all game I would then try for all I could get for my county. I do not believe the Governor will sign the Wilkinson bill for $7000,000. If not, we will lose the $290,000 allotted to the county in the Price bill, unless there is a compromise."

Mr. Harvey another delegate from Garrett is reported as follows:

"I am opposed to the Wilkinson bill as it does not deal squarely with the people of the entire State, reducing some counties in their apportionment while raising others. When it comes to a graft game I will not support it. I voted for the Price bill because it gives to every county the amount needed to complete the State Road system."

The Baltimore News of last Saturday says:

"The neat sum of $50,000 which would have gone to making more good roads in Garrett county had been refused by Senator Speicher. The ridiculous feature of the whole proceedings was the attitude of the Cecil county delegation. They had been complaining that they were not getting enough money, when the city people came along and lopped off $100,000. Then when they squealed the louder those who manipulated the deal gave them $11,000 back and got the votes of all three of them."

Throughout the contest Senator Speicher and Delegates Savage and Harvey voted with the friends of the Good Roads Commission standing solidly against any deal whereby Baltimore City would get more than her share of the public money as recommended by the commission.

Monday night the House took up the Good Roads bill and a lively discussion took place and a hotly contested fight was enjoyed. It was nearly 4 a. m. Tuesday when the House adjourned. All day Monday the believers in honest legislation were at work trying to win over those who had been hypnotized into supporting the Wilkinson bill. It is true the counties wanted all the road money they could get, but they wanted it to come in a decent and honorable way. Delegations came in from the counties of Western Maryland, telegrams and letters were addressed to delegates urging them to stand by the Price bill and forsake the iniquitous Wilkinson bill. All day long a royal battle was fought. The house session was ordered for 8 p. m. but it was after 9 o'clock when the Speaker called it to order. He and his associates were busy trying to hold their henchmen to the Wilkinson bill.

Along about midnight a motion was made to substitute the Price bill for the Wilkinson bill. The vote stood 49 to 49 when the name of Delegate Harvey was called. He responded by saying "aye" and the Wilkinson amendment was lost. The Garrett delegation voted solid on this question. Twelve men who voted with the Baltimore ring forsook their first love and fell in line of justice, honesty, and righteousness. Among this number was Mr. Shartzer.

The same time a bitter fight was made to prevent the advancement of the Price bill. Motions to adjourn were made and lost. Tumult prevailed, but at last justice prevailed, and the Price bill was passed to the third reading and final passage. The vote throughout the night found the Garrett delegation standing shoulder to shoulder, to their credit, and to the honor of Garrett county.

Oakland Defeats Friendsville.

Oakland easily defeated Friendsville in a stubbornly fought basket ball game by a score of 24 to 15 at Friendsville on Saturday evening. The Friendsville quintet fought hard during every minute of play, but were easily outclassed by the visitors.

Friendsville succeeded in caging the ball but once during the first half, while Oakland, by superior playing, succeeded in caging five. In the second half the Friendsville boys fought stubbornly and forced four goals through, while the Oakland team scored as many.

Sunday School Attandance Reached High Mark.

The attendance at St. Paul's M. E Sunday school on last Sunday afternoon reached the high water mark when the secretary announced that there were present two hundred and four scholars, teachers and visitors. The highest number ever in attendance at a session of the school. The collection amounted to $5.06. At the Lutheran school Sunday morning 76 were present; the collection amounted to $2.04.

Oakland High School Notes.

As advertised, the Juniors and Seniors held a spelling match and box supper on the evening of St. Patrick's Day. There was a marked lack of interest in the spelling match on the part of the townspeople, the teachers of both Grammar and High schools, and the students, the result being that there were but eight on each side, all of them being students. We did not intend the spelling match to be for the students alone. We were anxious for the co-operation of the citizens of Oakland. And above all, it was a surprise and disappointment when those teachers present refused to take part. We appreciate the fact that several of the townspeople and teachers who were asked to come and spell were unable to do so. We wish to thank our patrons for their assistance and the orchestra for its music, and we wish to especially thank Mrs. Nally, who gave us the use of the Empire Theatre. We also wish to thank Capt. Sanner, who pronounced the words for us.

The Rev. Dr. Ely, of the Presbyterian church, gave us a most interesting talk on Friday last, his subject being "Some Things To Hold On To." Tnis unusual topic was handled in a pleasing and instructive manner. We are very grateful to the Doctor and will cordially welcome him at any time.

Edward Chance and Guy Ashby went to Friendsville with the Oakland Collegians B. B. Team Saturday last. The game was won for Oakland, the score being 24-15.

The girls basket ball team went to Terra Alta on Saturday and defeated the girls team there by a score of 8-9. Hurrah for our girls!

Our principal received a letter from St John's College some days ago in reference to the annual inter scholarship declamation contest. Under the regulations of the same our school is entitled to send a representative, and Robert Garrett White is going to uphold our banner. The contest if to be held on April 3d, three gold medals being offered as prizes.

For the school month of March the following students have made not less than 80 per cent in each subject studied, and not less than 95 per cent in deportment:

Oakland, Md.

THURSDAY, MARCH 26, 1914.

ACCORDING to the almanac Spring has arrived. But according to facts, winter has a strong grip on the infant.

THE Republicans of the House of Delegates deserve the credit for the defeat of the Wilkinson Good Roads bill. This is one illustration of where the minority sometimes control the balance of power and know how to use it.

GARRETT COUNTY citizens will unanimously approve of the vote of the Garrett county delegation on the Good Roads bill. Garrett county needs all the money they can get for road improvement, but it does not want it at the cost of honor and justice.

THE Commissioner of Motor Vehicles for Marvland issues a statement which shows 1,385 more licenses taken out for motor vehicles for the first three months of this year than there were for the same period of 1913.

THE defeat of the iniquitious Wilkinson Good Roads bill Monday night by the House of Delegates reflects great credit on that body and the action of the Garrett delegation in the closing hours of the fight is to their honor. An account of this effort to give Baltimore City $2,000,000 at the cost of honor, justice and equality, will be found on this page of THE REPUBLICAN.

THE DEATH RECORD

JOHN W. KIGHT.

John W. Kight, a native of Bloomington, Maryland, died at Parkersburg, W. Va., Monday, aged 75. He is survived by two brothers, William Kight, Westernport, Md., and Samuel Kight, Keyser, W. Va. In early manhood he engaged in the mercantile business at Glen Easton, W. Va. He removed to Parkersburg in 1866. He was a member of the Methodiat Episcopal Church South for 60 years and was superintendent of the Sunday School for 16 years. He was a Knight Templar. Mr. Kight was twice married. He is survived by his second wife and two sons. Frank W. and Newton M. Kight by his first marriage.

MRS. GEORGE E. BISHOFF.

Mrs. George E. Bishoff died Tuesday night at her home near Oakland of organic heart disease after an illness of several months. Mrs. Bishoff was born near Crab Orchard, W. Va., seventy years ago, where also she was married, coming to Garrett county many years ago with her husband and residing in Friendsville, from which point they moved to Hoyes and from thence a few years ago to near Oakland. She was a true Christian woman, a splendid neighbor and friend and an excellent wife and mother. Her funeral will occur today with interment at Hoyes. Mrs. Bishoff is survived by her husband, several children and by a host of friends and relatives.

MRS. CLAYTON KITZMILLER.

Mrs. Hettie Maud Harvey-Kitzmiller, wife of Clayton Kitzmiller, died at her home near Mt. Lake Park, Md., Thursday, March 19th, 1914, of a complication of diseases. Mrs. Kitzmiller had been dangerously sick for three weeks but she became alarmingly worse on Sunday afternoon and death came at 1 oclock p. m., Thursday. Mrs. Kitzmiller was a fine christion woman and mother. She leaves three children, all boys, one a babe of but 9 months. Its tender age called forth the affection of the mother's heart. Mrs. Kitzmiller leaves an aged father, Mr. Thomas K. Harvey, one sister, Mrs. Elijah Moon, and four brothers who feel sorely their grief. The writer visited her the day before she died and notwithstanding her great affliction, found her mind clear and a faith with firm hold upon the Christ who had been her stay from childhood. Her delight was to be in her home, and with those she loved.

A good neighbor has gone from us. A faithful christian that taken delight in being with the people of God in His house will be missed as she will enjoy eternally the fellowship of saints above.
S. E. BAUMAN.

DRAPER VAUGHN.

At Akron, Ohio, Sunday, of tuberculosis, after an illness of several months, Draper Vaughn, aged twenty-six years. He was the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Vaughn, formarly of Oakland. He is survived by his wife, his parents and several brothers.

A FRAME OP THAT DID NOT GET THROUGH

An Effort Made To Wreck State Roads Work.

The past week the State House witnessed one of the most corrupt efforts to appropriate two millions ot dollars of the Good Roads fund to Baltimore city. An effort was made, and successfully, to have members of the legislature to support this movement. It carried in the House of Delegates but was lost in the Senate by an overwhelmingly large vote.

The apportionment made by the State Road Commission and embodied in the Price and Veasey bills was changed by taking from the counties of Baltimore, Caroline, Cecil, Dorchester, Somerset, Wicomico and Worcester, part of their allotment and dividing it up between Allegany, Carroll, Frederick, Garrett, Harford, Prince Georges, Talbot and Washington counties. Montgomery and one or two Southern counties refused to go in the first deal, so a new apportionment was made and the amount allotted to them greatly increased. In the first deal Garrett county was to get $100,000, but in the second deal the amount fell down to $50,000, just one half the original offer, presumably because Messrs Savage and Harvey could not be influenced to sacrifice their idea of honesty and justice.

Log rolling, wire pulling, bargaining, trading and all sorts of legislative devices were employed in connection with this $2,000,000 for the Light Street bridge and city paving of Baltimore city. Baltimore city in order to get what it wanted switched about the apportionments of the Good Roads Commission, which were indorsed by Governor Goldsborough, giving one county more than the Commission allowed and another less, adding to the appropriations for those counties whose representatives agreed to vote with it, substracting from the appropriations for the counties whose representatives would not consent to such vicious logrolling, all without pretence of fitting the appropriation to the amount of work needed to be done.

Under this bill Allegany was promised $100,000 more than was necessary to improve the main gaps in the State road in that county, Frederick county $75,000 more; Garrett county $50,000 more, and so on In all $533 000 more than is necessary is appropriated for certain counties, and an equal amount is deducted from appropriations for other counties which do need the sums originally allotted in order to complete the main gaps within their borders.

The Baltimore News of Friday editorially says:

"But if the bill is a steal for the politicians of the Democratic city ring, then it is the boldest steal ever put over by any Legislature in any State in the union.

"The deplorable part of the business is not that the city is getting its due; it is that to get its due its delegation deliberately sacrifices the interests of the State upsets the well studied system for a truly State Roads system, bribes the county delegations to help it do so, and that enough county delegations are open to the kind of official bribery resorted to put the bill over. The gentlemen from Western Maryland are not a whitless blameworthy than are the gentlemen from Baltimore. Mr. Mahon of this city has given not a whit more disgraceful exhibition than has United States Senator Blair Lee. One and all have been flagrantly oblivious to their binding pledge to make the good roads situation the subject of constructive, not political study."

The Evening Sun of Friday editorially had this to say about this ungodly deal:

"The main purpose of every machine such as we have in Baltimore is to get hold of the people's money. It is organized for that object and for nothing else. It is in the business of politics for what it can get out of it, and if there were no rich graft in it the partnership of plunder would be dissolved in disgust. The shameful spectacle that is now presented in Annapolis will not be without ultimate influence for good, if it arouses the masses of the people in this city and throughout the counties to the necessity of destroying corrupt machine government. A reckless and unscrupulous organization like our Baltimore machine is not only a disgrace and danger to the city, but a menace to the whole State through its baneful influence and activity for evil. How long will the people of Maryland tolerate this unblushing combination of political looters and plunders?"

In regard to the trading and attempted trading the Senators from the Western Maryland counties are showing up finely. They have one after another refused to go into the deal to grab more than the original apportionment for their counties. In this class can be found Senators Mathias, Jones, Snader, Speicher, Emmart and Zihlman, all of whom were offered extra money for their counties at the expense of other counties. Said Senator Speicher:

"I know my people want all the road money they can get, but I stand for this measure as a State-wide proposition, and I do not propose to go into any deal or grab game. I did not come here for that purpose."

Said Senator Beck, of Kent county:

"I was offered for my county many thousand dollars to go into this deal, but I would not do it. Had I done so, I would tonight resign my seat in the Senate and return to my home and hide my head in shame."

In reply to an interview Delegate Savage of Garrett county said:

"A dozen or more persons came to me and asked me to change my vote from the Price bill to the Wilkinson bill in favor of the $100,000 graft for Garrett county. I told them I was not in the market for graft or any deal that was not fair to all the counties of the State. That I would not change my vote; if it was a grab-all game I would then try for all I could get for my county. I do not believe the Governor will sign the Wilkinson bill for $7000,000. If not, we will lose the $290,000 allotted to the county in the Price bill, unless there is a compromise."

Mr. Harvey another delegate from Garrett is reported as follows:

"I am opposed to the Wilkinson bill as it does not deal squarely with the people of the entire State, reducing some counties in their apportionment while raising others. When it comes to a graft game I will not support it. I voted for the Price bill because it gives to every county the amount needed to complete the State Road system."

The Baltimore News of last Saturday says:

"The neat sum of $50,000 which would have gone to making more good roads in Garrett county had been refused by Senator Speicher. The ridiculous feature of the whole proceedings was the attitude of the Cecil county delegation. They had been complaining that they were not getting enough money, when the city people came along and lopped off $100,000. Then when they squealed the louder those who manipulated the deal gave them $11,000 back and got the votes of all three of them."

Throughout the contest Senator Speicher and Delegates Savage and Harvey voted with the friends of the Good Roads Commission standing solidly against any deal whereby Baltimore City would get more than her share of the public money as recommended by the commission.

Monday night the House took up the Good Roads bill and a lively discussion took place and a hotly contested fight was enjoyed. It was nearly 4 a. m. Tuesday when the House adjourned. All day Monday the believers in honest legislation were at work trying to win over those who had been hypnotized into supporting the Wilkinson bill. It is true the counties wanted all the road money they could get, but they wanted it to come in a decent and honorable way. Delegations came in from the counties of Western Maryland, telegrams and letters were addressed to delegates urging them to stand by the Price bill and forsake the iniquitous Wilkinson bill. All day long a royal battle was fought. The house session was ordered for 8 p. m. but it was after 9 o'clock when the Speaker called it to order. He and his associates were busy trying to hold their henchmen to the Wilkinson bill.

Along about midnight a motion was made to substitute the Price bill for the Wilkinson bill. The vote stood 49 to 49 when the name of Delegate Harvey was called. He responded by saying "aye" and the Wilkinson amendment was lost. The Garrett delegation voted solid on this question. Twelve men who voted with the Baltimore ring forsook their first love and fell in line of justice, honesty, and righteousness. Among this number was Mr. Shartzer.

The same time a bitter fight was made to prevent the advancement of the Price bill. Motions to adjourn were made and lost. Tumult prevailed, but at last justice prevailed, and the Price bill was passed to the third reading and final passage. The vote throughout the night found the Garrett delegation standing shoulder to shoulder, to their credit, and to the honor of Garrett county.

Oakland Defeats Friendsville.

Oakland easily defeated Friendsville in a stubbornly fought basket ball game by a score of 24 to 15 at Friendsville on Saturday evening. The Friendsville quintet fought hard during every minute of play, but were easily outclassed by the visitors.

Friendsville succeeded in caging the ball but once during the first half, while Oakland, by superior playing, succeeded in caging five. In the second half the Friendsville boys fought stubbornly and forced four goals through, while the Oakland team scored as many.

The Oakland boys were greatly handicapped by the low ceiling and small floor crowded with spectators.

Sunday School Attandance Reached High Mark.

The attendance at St. Paul's M. E Sunday school on last Sunday afternoon reached the high water mark when the secretary announced that there were present two hundred and four scholars, teachers and visitors. The highest number ever in attendance at a session of the school. The collection amounted to $5.06. At the Lutheran school Sunday morning 76 were present; the collection amounted to $2.04.

Oakland High School Notes

As advertised, the Juniors and Seniors held a spelling match and box supper on the evening of St. Patrick's Day. There was a marked lack of interest in the spelling match on the part of the townspeople, the teachers of both Grammar and High schools, and the students, the result being that there were but eight on each side, all of them being students. We did not intend the spelling match to be for the students alone. We were anxious for the co-operation of the citizens of Oakland. And above all, it was a surprise and disappointment when those teachers present refused to take part. We appreciate the fact that several of the townspeople and teachers who were asked to come and spell were unable to do so. We wish to thank our patrons for their assistance and the orchestra for its music, and we wish to especially thank Mrs. Nally, who gave us the use of the Empire Theatre. We also wish to thank Capt. Sanner, who pronounced the words for us.

The Rev. Dr. Ely, ot the Presbyterian church, gave us a most interesting talk on Friday last, his subject being "Some Things To Hold On To." Tnis unusual topic was handled in a pleasing and instructive manner. We are very grateful to the Doctor and will cordially welcome him at any time.

Edward Chance and Guy Ashby went to Friendsville with the Oakland Collegians B. B. Team Saturday last. The game was won for Oakland, the score being 21-15.

The girls basket ball team went to Terra Alta on Saturday and defeated the girls team there by a score of 8-9. Hurrah for our girls!

Our principal received a letter from St. John's College some days ago in reference to the annual inter scholarship declamation contest. Under the regulations of the same our school is entitled to send a representative, and Robert Garrett White is going to uphold our banner. The contest if to be held on April 3d, three gold medals being offered as prizes.

For the school month of March the following students have made not less than 80 per cent in each subject studied, and not less than 95 per cent in deportment:

Messrs. Henry Speicher and William M. Frazee, both of Accident, spent the week-end at Annapolis where they were guests of Senator Harvey J. Speicher. Mr. Speicher went from Annapolis to New York City to receive a consignment of several imported stallions which were due to arrive in that city early this week and which will be brought to the Garrett county farm of Messrs. Speicher Bros. The shipment via rail will be made from New York to Friendsville.

Mr. G. Semmes Hamill, Jr. returned home Saturday morning from Annapolis, where he had been for a week as the representative of the people of Bloonington who are interested in having a hill passed by the Legislature for the erection of an inter-state bridge leading from West Virginia Junction to Luke. While the bridge will not touch Garrett county territory Maryland is asked in the bill introduced in the House to appropriate some fifty thousand dollars for its construction. Of this amount Garrett county is supposed to furnish $5,000 to be levied by the Board of County Commissioners upon the presumption that Mineral county, West Virginia, will furnish a sufficient additional amount to complete the work. While it is agreed that the Bloomington people should have some outlet, it strikes the casual observer that the wrong course is being pursued to get the money necessary to build the structure.

LICKED BY TERRA ALTAN.

Oakland Struck Her Colors in Spelling Bee Tuesday Night.

On Tuesday evening the spelling bee advertised to take place under the auspices of the Grammar School, came off upon schedule time.

Quite a large crowd of townspeople were present whose numbers were augmented to some extent by visitors from the neighboring town of Terra Alta, among them being Mr. C. F. Dodge, who was present at the second bee conducted by the Civic Club, and was one of the last to leave the floor on that occasion.

Tuesday night Mr. Dodge retrieved his fortunes and came off victorious, his remaining opponent being Mrs. H. A. Loraditch, who went down on the word glutinous.

The Terra Altans have issued a challange to the Oakland people to come to that village next Tuesday night to a contest which is being arranged. The Oakland people have accepted and they will go in force. What the outcome may be is of course a matter that cannot be foretold but we have hopes.

The Republican job printing department has never been quite so busy as during the past two or three weeks. In addition to the demands of our local customers orders have come in for lines of work from several states, including Kentucky, Pennsylvania and West Virginia. In addition we have filled one order for a nice lot of stationery for a Washingtonian and on Saturday an inquiry reached this office from New York City. Oakland printing, The Republican kind, is gaining a reputation.

It is said by those who have kept a record that snow has fallen in Oakland every day during the present month except four days of last week. But then Oakland is not the only place it snows. According to newspaper reports Richmond, Va., was blanketed Friday by six inches of the beautiful and Sunday Baltimoreans woke up to find that during the night three and a half inches of snow had fallen in that city. Saturday night and Sunday no snow fell in Oakland but Monday weather conditions had changed and the snow came down practically all day.

While merchants generally are complaining about business being dull the energetic firm of Messrs. J. M. Davis & Sons, by the liberal use of printer's ink, has failed to experience a depression in business. This week the firm received from the factory a car of the celebrated Davis Patent Steel Ranges in addition to a lot shipment, totalling seventy-five ranges in all. Of this number fifteen were shipped the present week to parties in Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania, which proves conclusively that advertising pays. In addition to the large shipment of ranges this firm has stocked over $2,000 worth of paints, in addition to a very large stock of Chi-Namel stains and floor varnishes. The columns of The Republican today show that Messrs. Davis & Sons have faith in advertising.

Hawley-Ely Wedding.

Rev. Dr. John C. Ely of Oakland, assisted by the Rev. C. M. Young, rector of St. Thomas' Memorial Protestant Episcopal church, Pittsburgh, Pa., officiated at the wedding Miss Margaret Hawley to Rev. John C. Ely, Jr., of Mineral, Washington, Monday at Pittsburgh. The ceremony was performed at 7.30 o'clock in the library of the Hawley home before an improvised altar of cibodium and ferns, palms and tropical plants, within white wicker gates. Standards of pink Killarney roses outlined a path for the bridal party.

The bride was given away by her father, and wore a beautiful gown of white crepe meteor, fashioned en traine, and trimed with exquisite shadow lace. Her long tulle veil was held to the coiffure with a cap of the same lace and sprays of orange blossoms. She also wore the bridegroom's gift, a circle of sapphiers and pearls, and carried a shower of white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Mary Nicholson, the maid of honor, appeared in pink charmeuse, with French lace and brown fur trimming, having a girdle of amethyst velvet. English violets and pink roses formed her boquet. Albert Ely, a student at Central University, Danville, Ky., served as his brother's best man, and the ushers were J. L. McKnight and the Rev. William Claudy, assistant pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

A reception and wedding dinner followed the services, Mr. and Mrs. Hawley and the bridegroom's parents receiving with the bridal party.

Mr. Ely and his bride departed later for the East, arriving at Oakland yesterday. After April 1 will be at home in Mineral, Washington.

The bride is a graduate of Smith College. Mr. Ely attended the University of Virginia, graduating from Princeton Theological Seminary in the class of '13.

To Friends and Customers:

CASH AND CREDIT.—One of the most unpleasant duties of the merchants is the urging upon their customers the necessity of prompt payments of their bills. So far as possible we have endeavored to sell for cash and where credit is extended to meet a temporary emergency payment is expected within 30 or 60 days unless there is some understanding for a longer time and price is made to correspond.

Small accounts are always the hardest to collect and adds very much to the merchant's expense, as it costs at least 5 per cent. on an average to collect them and another 5 per cent. to 10 per cent. loss for those that cannot be collected, thus showing a loss of 10 per cent. to 15 per cent. on all small accounts, although aiming to sell only those that are considered worthy of credit.

These conditions make it necessary where goods are sold at cash prices to demand the cash and to charge an advance of 5 or 10 per cent. on small accounts over cash prices in order to make up the expense that necessarily follows a credit system.

Competition on all lines of goods is so keen and the merchant so anxious to sell that the credit system is constantly abused and on the other hand customers too often use their money for other purposes that should go to pay for obligations already made and when asked for their account are compelled to ask for longer time regardless of the position in which it places the merchant in meeting his.

Many a dealer has said, "How I wish I had money enough to take advantage of every discount that firms are willing to allow."

The dealer who has that idea hits the nail right on the topknot, for too much emphasis cannot be placed on the tremendous earning power of discounts.

Do you know that 5 per cent. cash discount 10 days is equivalent to 180 per cent. a year, 2 per cent. 10 days is equal to over 70 per cent. a year?

PRICE AND DISCOUNTS—Goods are manfactured and sold according to their quality and cost of distributing. There is a cheap, medium and high grade of goods manufactured in almost every line. It requires close investigation and knowledge to determine values and select standard goods.

The amount of purchases, cash or time sales, direct or factory shipments, have much to do with the price and make it almost impossible to name prices and discounts that are subject to frequent changes, but we are ready at any time to quote you our lowest prices both wholesale or retail according to quality or quantity required.

Very often large shipments can be made direct from factory. This saves time and expense when a large assortment of goods are needed for the building of a barn or house and when the new housekeeper requires a large variety of household goods. It would be a pleasure to us to quote prevailing prices and your privilege to investigate our lines. If same is not satisfactory to you or our prices and qualities are not equal to what you can do elsewhere, then the fault lies with us and not with you. All we ask is a fair chance. We will at least give you the best information we have as to quality, price and years of experience in regard to same.

We want your trade and are willing to meet any fair competition both as to price and quality, but in order to do this must demand the cash and an advanced price over cash price where goods are charged.

ULSTER HAPPY OVER SITUATION

Army Disaffection Gives Twist to Irish Trouble

GOVERNMENT'S EXPLANATION

Ministers In House of Commons Say "Misunderstanding" by Sir Arthur Paget Resulted in Demoralization of Army in Ireland—Home Rule Project Which Would Include Ulster Now Thought Out of Question.

London, March 24.—Triumphant whoops by the Unionists and bitter anger by the goverament's supporters are the immediate results of the recent handling of the army crisis.

The Unionists are not convinced by the ministerial declaration in the house of commons that the movement of troops was merely a precautionary measure to safeguard the depots of arms, ammunition and stores.

They have no doubt that the forcible coercion of Ulster was determined upon but that the action of a number of officers in resigning had convinced the government that the army could not be employed for that purpose.

Details of the revolt of the army officers against service in Ulster had been awaited with strained expectation by the whole country. Only brief statements were forthcoming from the secretary of war and the premier and the gist of these was that the whole affair was due to "misunderstanding" and that all the officers had now returned to their duty.

As far as the ministers statements can be interpreted the "misunderstanding" arose through General Sir Arthur Paget placing a wrong construction on the orders given him by the war office and telling his subordinates they were to be employed in quelling an uprising in Ulster.

The number of officers who resigned their commissions, the extent of the disaffection in the army and other details were not disclosed.

Colonel Seely was derisively jeered during his explanation. Andrew Bonar Law, leader of the opposition, had stated that "nothing can save the army now except that a declaration that officers will not be compelled to engage in civil war against their wish." When he said that officers refusing to serve against Ulster were only doing their duty the Labor members shouted "How about strikes?"

The whole affair is generally accepted as demonstrating that the army cannot be counted upon to fight Sir Edward Carson's volunteers if such a contingency should arise. Opposition politicians declare that this means the collapse of the home rule project and express their belief that the government may soon relinquish office.

Arthur J. Balfour, former Unionist premier, ridiculed Premier Asquith's efforts to minimize the occurrences in the army and declared that Brigadier General Hubert Gough had been reinstated after he had still declared that he would not fight against Ulster.

"The insane policy of the government," Mr. Balfour asserted, "has brought abont a crisis of infinite harm and evil to the community, a crisis which will live for years and which the government would have escaped if it had ascertained what Ulster thought and what her supporters were ready to sacrifice."

The Unionists are convinced that the army cannot in any event be compelled to fight Ulster and for that reason the government cannot force that province to accept home rule.

"It may pass the home rule bill," says the Daily Mail, "but the rock of Ulster will remain and on that rock the government will shatter its strength. Ulster stands armed, unconquered and unconquerable. She cannot be coerced and she cannot be fooled. She will not be sacrificed because the ministers have not the power to sacrifice her."

This is a fair sample of the comment of the Unionist papers. On the other hand the Liberal press voices the indignation felt by the bulk of the government coalition.

"The country is faced with the greatest issue that has arisen in our time," says the Daily News and Leader. "It is whether we are to be governed by parliament or by the army. The power of the house of lords is gone and it is now the army to which the Tories look to keep the democracy in check and the aristocracy in power.

"It is no longer a question of home rule for Ireland, but a question of whether we are to govern ourselves or are to be governed by Brigadier General Gough. Though every officer in the army be dismissed we will have no mailed hand raised against our people."

The Daily Citizen, a Laborite paper, says: "Until we are supplied fuller evidence we are bound to assume that the premier acted with weakness and irresolution in a situation that demanded strength and courage."

Auto Owner Mulcted Heavily.

Wilkes Barre, Pa., March 24.—Because his son William drove the family automobile when he injured Andrew Rauh, Frank Z. Donn of Plymouth was directed to pay Rauh $11,250 damages. The father denied ownership of the machine, but a letter written at the time the car was purchased indicated his responsibility.

REPEAL DELAY NOT RELISHED

Administration Leaders Fear Opposition Is Strengthened

PRESIDENT SEES MAJORITY

As Time For Consideration of Panama Canal Tolls Proposition Approaches Congress Becomes Excited—Whether Speaker Clark Will Become Active In Opposition to Tolls Repeal Arouses Considerable Conjecture.

Washington, March 24.—Convinced that danger for the repeal of the Panama tolls exemption lies chiefly in delaying its consideration by congress President Wilson will center his energies upon bringing about an early test of strength on the issue in the house.

It was disclosed that the president regards the hastening of the vote on the repeal as the most important phase of the task that confronts the administration leaders in the fight to begin this week. He figures a safe majority, however.

Reports from house leaders are to the effect that the opposition to the administration program is losing strength.

The position of Speaker Clark is causing grave concern to the administration leaders, but it has been a question of doubt whether he will openly oppose the president with anything stronger than his single vote.

Reports that have been in circulation that the president is endeavoring to pass the repeal bill through the house by "coercive" methods formed the subject of a lively debate. Representative Humphries of Washington, Republican, started the trouble. He declared that it was common report in the house that the president had suggested the debate on the repeal bill should be limited and that Mr. Wilson had made the charge that a filibuster had been organized against the rivers and harbors bill with a view of delaying action on the repeal measure.

In the senate Mr. Thornton of Louisiana, who voted for free tolls when the legislation passed the senate but who has since decided to support the president's policy for repeal, submitted a petition purporting to be signed by Irish-American citizens of New Orleans in which objection was urged to the "incorporation of the United States in the British empire."

JURY DOESN'T FIX BLAME

St. Louis Fire Disaster Responsibility Not Placed.

St. Louis, March 24. A coroner's jury that investigated the death of thirty persons in the Missouri Athletic club fire two weeks ago did not fix the blame for the disaster. The responsibility could not be fixed, the jury reported, because the city ordinances did not provide for the regulation of buildings used for clubs.

Whether the fire started from a cigaret thrown among the draperies on the dining room or from defective electric wiring the jury could not determine.

The jury reported that the following conditions prevailed at the building: The fire escapes were inadequate; wooden doors led to the enclosed fire escape from various floors; doors at the entrances of elevators had been removed, reducing the efficiency of the elevators in case of fire; the only stairway in the building was of wood; the building was of improper construction for sleeping purposes.

THINK ROOSEVELT SAFE

Party in Brazil Meets With Accident. Goods Lost in Rapids.

New York, March 24.—Absence of further messages from South America was interpreted by those most interested as indicative of the fact that Colonel Roosevelt was not involved in the accident to Anthony Fiala's party in the rapids of the Tapajos river.

Neither Mrs. Roosevelt nor Mrs. Fiala learned anything beyond the brief declaration of Fiala that he was safe.

Lawrence Abbott of the Outlook said he assumed that Colonel Roosevelt was not with the Fiala party or he would have been mentioned in the dispatches.

The telegram from Fiala said:

"We have lost everything in the rapids. Telephone my wife of my safety."

STALLED TRAIN STONED

Nonunionists Attacked by Mob Near Buffalo—One Man Shot.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 24.—In a clash between strikers from the Gould Coupler works at Depew and nonunion men one man was probably fatally shot and several others seriously injured by being struck by bricks and stones.

The strikers held up the train which was carrying 800 men to the plant from this city by felling a tree across the tracks. When the train came to a standstill hundreds of strikers began to pelt it with stones. Shots rang out and deputy sheriffs on the work train fired in return. A foreigner was shot in the head and will die. The train returned to Buffalo.

None of the men in the train was fatally hurt, but many were badly cut by flying glass and a few were hit by stones or bricks.

DESIGNS FOR NEW CURRENCY ARE READY

Three Kinds to Be Printed Under the New Law.

Washington.—Designs for new paper money, to be issued under the currency act, have been prepared by experts of the bureau of engraving and printing for submission to John Skelton Williams.

This money may not be needed for months, but Director Ralph will have the designs ready within a few days, and as soon as Mr. Williams has secured the approval of Secretary McAdoo plates will be made and a few millions will be printed.

There will be three kinds of new currency—one for emergency purposes, succeeding the present but never used emergency currency; one for federal reserve banks issued against United States bonds, with the circulation privilege, and the third one-year gold notes, to be issued to reserve banks against United States bonds, but not to have circulation privilege.

These designs contemplate the present size of paper money, although the plan of the Taft administration for smaller bills may be reflected in future issues.

The law authorizes notes of $5, $10, $20, $50 and $100. Present designs would have the five dollar note bear the portrait of Lincoln, the ten dollar note that of Cleveland, the twenty dollar note that of Jefferson and the fifty dollar note that of Grant.

Varied phases of human activity are depicted on the backs of the notes. As provided by law, currency issued to particular reserve banks will bear serial numbers as distinguishing marks.

HUDSON Six-40
$1750
(f.o.b. Detroit)

The Most Talked-About Car in the Country

See This Innovation

A few days ago the first Six-40 was shipped from the HUDSON factory. Before this time the first month's output had been ordered by users who had not seen the car.

They were sold on these startling facts:

That the streamline body, the equipment, the new features were like the latest HUDSON Six-54, the handsomest car of the season.

That the weight would be under 3,000 pounds—under any comparable Four.

That the operative cost would be less than any equal-powered Four.

That the price would be $1750, f. o. b. Detroit—way below the price of Fours of equal power and size and class.

Think What This Means

Sixes have been high-priced, heavy, costly to operate. For that reason many have been forced to buy Fours.

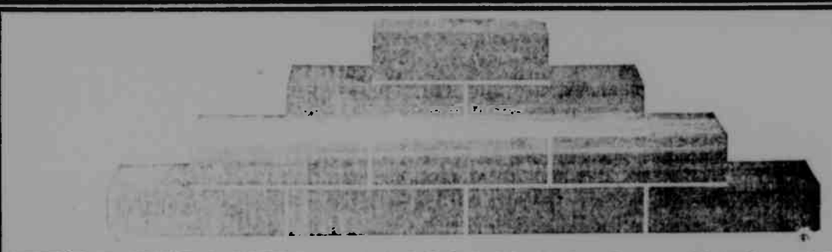
Now comes this Six-40. It weighs 500 pounds less than last year's HUDSON "37"—a Four. It costs one-fourth less to operate. And it far undersells any Four in its class.

You legions of men who seek lightness and economy find them now in this Six-40—beyond any Four you know.

A Distinguished Car

In addition, here is the new streamline body. Here are all the new features which characterize the new HUDSON Six-54.

Disappearing tonneau seats. Gasoline tank in cowl dash. Left side drive. Extra tires ahead of the front door.



Up to six months ago, no car at any price offered so many attractions.

And a car designed by Howard E. Coffin, the great HUDSON engineer. A car that embodies all the best HUDSON standards.

Our first Six-40 has just arrived. It is now on exhibition. Come, see it and ride in it while it is new. The car marks a new era in motor-car history, and all of you should know it.

THINK ROOSEVELT SAFE

Party in Brazil Meets With Accident. Goods Lost in Rapids.

New York, March 24.—Absence of further messages from South America was interpreted by those most interested as indicative of the fact that Colonel Roosevelt was not involved in the accident to Anthony Fiala's party in the rapids of the Tapajos river.

Neither Mrs. Roosevelt nor Mrs. Fiala learned anything beyond the brief declaration of Fiala that he was safe.

Lawrence Abbott of the Outlook said he assumed that Colonel Roosevelt was not with the Fiala party or he would have been mentioned in the dispatches.

The telegram from Fiala said:

"We have lost everything in the rapids. Telephone my wife of my safety."

STALLED TRAIN STONED

Nonunionists Attacked by Mob Near Buffalo—One Man Shot.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 24.—In a clash between strikers from the Gould Coupler works at Depew and nonunion men one man was probably fatally shot and several others seriously injured by being struck by bricks and stones.

The strikers held up the train which was carrying 800 men to the plant from this city by felling a tree across the tracks. When the train came to a standstill hundreds of strikers began to pelt it with stones. Shots rang out and deputy sheriffs on the work train fired in return. A foreigner was shot in the head and will die. The train returned to Buffalo.

None of the men in the train was fatally hurt, but many were badly cut by flying glass and a few were hit by stones or bricks.

DESIGNS FOR NEW CURRENCY ARE READY

Three Kinds to Be Printed Under the New Law.

Washington.—Designs for new paper money, to be issued under the currency act, have been prepared by experts of the bureau of engraving and printing for submission to John Skelton Williams.

This money may not be needed for months, but Director Ralph will have the designs ready within a few days, and as soon as Mr. Williams has secured the approval of Secretary McAdoo plates will be made and a few millions will be printed.

There will be three kinds of new currency: one for emergency purposes, succeeding the present but never used emergency currency; one for federal reserve banks issued against United States bonds, with the circulation privilege, and the third one-year gold notes, to be issued to reserve banks against United States bonds, but not to have circulation privilege.

These designs contemplate the present size of paper money, although the plan of the Taft administration for smaller bills may be reflected in future issues.

The law authorizes notes of $5, $10, $20, $50 and $100. Present designs would have the five dollar note bear the portrait of Lincoln, the ten dollar note that of Cleveland, the twenty dollar note that of Jefferson and the fifty dollar note that of Grant.

Varied phases of human activity are depicted on the backs of the notes. As provided by law, currency issued to particular reserve banks will bear serial numbers as distinguishing marks.

The Most Talked-About Car in the Country

See This Innovation

A few days ago the first Six-40 was shipped from the HUDSON factory. Before this time the first month's output had been ordered by users who had not seen the car.

They were sold on these startling facts:

That the streamline body, the equipment, the new features were like the latest HUDSON Six-54, the handsomest car of the season.

That the weight would be under 3,000 pounds—under any comparable Four.

That the operative cost would be less than any equal-powered Four.

That the price would be $1750, f. o. b. Detroit—way below the price of Fours of equal power and size and class.

Think What This Means

Sixes have been high-priced, heavy, costly to operate. For that reason many have been forced to buy Fours.

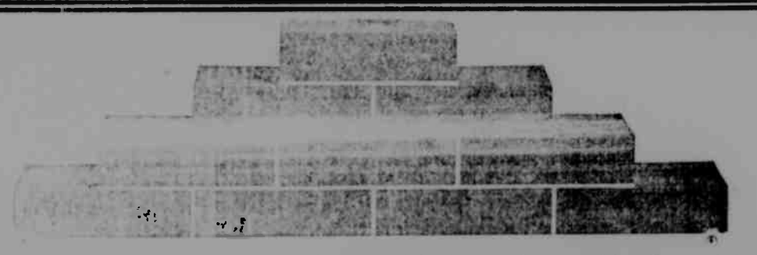
Now comes this Six-40. It weighs 500 pounds less than last year's HUDSON "37"—a Four. It costs one-fourth less to operate. And it far undersells any Four in its class.

You legions of men who seek lightness and economy find them now in this Six-40—beyond any Four you know.

A Distinguished Car

In addition, here is the new streamline body. Here are all the new features which characterize the new HUDSON Six-54.

Disappearing tonneau seats. Gasoline tank in cowl dash. Left side drive. Extra tires ahead of the front door.



Up to six months ago, no car at any price offered so many attractions.

And a car designed by Howard E. Coffin, the great HUDSON engineer. A car that embodies all the best HUDSON standards.

Our first Six-40 has just arrived. It is now on exhibition. Come, see it and ride in it while it is new. The car marks a new era in motor-car history, and all of you should know it.

LAWTON'S GARAGE
OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

W. H. KAHL & SONS have started their brick plant and are making Pressed Brick and Building Blocks of the highest grade at the lowest price. We can guarantee them for all purposes that they can be used, such as Brick Buildings or brick and blocks combined. Ornamental Brick can be seen at their plant. We can color them to suit as desired at a small additional cost. We have a nice pile of them now on hand, selling price $12.00 per M.

¶ Never be afraid to buy a pressed cement brick or block that comes of the home press.

1st. Are superior to tamped brick.
2nd. Are equal to pressed clay brick.
3rd. Compete with pressed clay brick in price.
4th. Better than common clay brick.
5th. Compete with common clay brick in price.
6th. Combine the advantage of concrete and clay
7th. Lay faster than other brick.
8th. Are used by U. S. Government.
9th. Lay easier than other brick.
10th. Perfectly true.
11th. Perfectly uniform.
12th. Specified by architects.
13th. Uniformly dense.
14th. Clean, sharp corners on edges.
15th. Beautiful texture.
16th. Low absorption.
17th. Absolute fire proof.
18th. Do not deteriorate.
19th. Harden with age.

Be Sure You Get These Two Points:

¶ FIRST.—A building must have 253 12-foot stories to secure enough weight to cause these brick to crush under their own weight.

¶ SECOND.—This is the practical way in which any competent architect would figure the load these brick will carry. He would allow a factor of safety of four; consequently he would specify these brick for a building SIXTY-THREE (63) Stories high. Do they build that high in your locality?

Lesson XIII.—First Quarter, For March 29, 1914.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Matt. vii, 21-29. Comprehensive Quarterly Review. Golden Text, Mic. vi, 8—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Lesson I. Jesus and the Children. Mark ix. 30-37; x, 13-16. Golden Text, I Pet. v. 5. "Be clothed with humility, for God resisteth the proud and giveth grace to the humble." In the first part of our lesson the contrast is between the desire for greatness on the part of the disciples and the humility of a little child. In the second part it is the contrast between the fullness of the rich young ruler and the emptiness of the blessed children.

Lesson II. The Mission of the Seventy. Luke x, 1-16. Golden Text, Matt. x, 20. "It is not ye that speak, but the Spirit of your Father that speaketh in you." Prayer that the Lord would send forth laborers to be honest prayer must be from hearts willing to be sent forth, as lambs among wolves. We are to preach peace by Jesus Christ and to have no anxiety about our recompense. When the kingdom comes there will be no sick folks (Isa. xxxiii. 24).

Lesson III. The Good Samaritan. Luke x, 25-37. Golden Text, Mark xii, 31. "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." When our Lord called any one's attention to the law it was that they might be convinced of sin and led to Himself as the Saviour of sinners (Rom. iii. 19, 20; x, 4; Gal. iii. 21-24). We are as helpless to do anything to save ourselves or obtain eternal life as was the man who fell among thieves. He was half dead, but we are wholly dead (Eph. ii, 5).

Lesson IV. Serving Jesus. Luke viii. 1-3; ix. 57-62; x, 38-42. Golden Text, Matt. xxv, 40. "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, My brethren, ye have done it unto Me." In the first and last sections of this lesson we see women ministering unto Him, and Mary of Bethany, having done her part, found time to listen to His teaching. In the second section we learn that serving Him means none of self and no looking back.

Lesson V. The Unfriendly Neighbor. Luke xi, 1-13. Golden Text, Luke xi, 9. "Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you." A better title for this lesson would be "The Father who giveth all," according to Rom. viii, 32. If we honor Him, as in the first three petitions of the prayer (verses 2-4), we may count upon Him to make good all the rest and verse 13 also.

Lesson VI. Darkness and Light. Luke xi, 14-26; xxxiii, 36. Golden Text, Luke xi, 35. "Take heed, therefore, that the light which is in thee be not darkness." These religious people were so blinded by their own self righteousness, which was really darkness and not light, that they could not distinguish between God and the devil.

Lesson VII. Christ's Hatred of Shams. Luke xi, 37-54. Golden Text, Gal. vi, 7. "Be not deceived; God is not mocked." There is always a loving welcome from the Lord Jesus for all who penitently turn to Him, but for hypocrites, such as these Pharisees and lawyers, He has the most severe words—a welcome for sinners, but a woe for the self righteous.

Lesson VIII. Faith Destroying Fear. Luke xii, 1-12. Golden Text, Luke xii, 8. "Whosoever shall confess Me before men him shall the Son of Man also confess before the angels of God." The hatred of the truly righteous by the self righteous resulted in expulsion from the synagogue and even in death (John xvi, 2), but the separation of soul and body was given to the believer and not a thing to be feared (Phil. i, 21-23).

Lesson IX. Trusting In Riches and Trusting In God. Luke xii, 13-34. Golden Text, Luke xii, 34. "Where your treasure is, there will your heart be also." It is still manifestly true that, as a rule, men are more interested in earthly things than in heavenly things and act as foolishly as did the man in this lesson. He who gives us life may require it of us at any time.

Lesson X. Watchfulness. Luke xii, 35-48. Golden Text, Luke xii, 37. "Blessed are those servants whom the Lord when He cometh shall find watching." In verse 43 there is also a blessing upon the one found doing. When saved we are put in trust with pounds and talents, and the Holy Spirit is given to us to dwell in us, work in us and teach us, and our commission is "Occupy till I come" (Luke xix. 13).

Lesson XI. The Lawful Use of the Sabbath. Luke xiii, 10-17; xiv, 1-6. Golden Text, Mark ii, 27. "The Sabbath was made for man and not man for the Sabbath." Their greatest accusations of Christ were that He made Himself equal with God and, in their estimation, dishonored their Sabbath (John x, 33-36; ix, 14; v, 18). They were so blinded by their own doings that they could not see their need of what He came to give them.

Lesson XII.—Lessons by the Way. Luke xiii, 18-30. Golden Text, Matt. vii, 21. "Not every one that saith . . . but he that doeth." There is much false teaching, and there are many deceived people, and the only safety is by the Truth, which is in Christ Jesus, who is Himself the Truth. In Him is Life and nowhere else (I John v, 12), and until we have Life by truly receiving Him we can do nothing to please Him.

POTATO RECIPES.

DINNER.
Cream of Onion Soup.
Roast Leg of Mutton.
Scalloped Mashed Potatoes.
Buttered Carrots. Celery.
Cream Puffs.

ALTHOUGH potatoes are a starchy food and in themselves contain little real nourishment, they may by the addition of butter and cream or egg be made not only palatable, but nutritious.

Served In the Casserole.

Scalloped Mashed Potatoes.—To one and one-half pounds of hot mashed potatoes add one ounce of butter, two tablespoonfuls of cream, a tablespoonful of parsley and two yolks of eggs and season with pepper and salt. Butter a fireproof casserole dish, dust it with fine bread crumbs and fill with the potato mixture, smooth over with a knife and brush over with oiled butter. Besprinkle with breadcrumbs and grated cheese. Bake in a quick oven to a golden brown. Serve hot, garnished with parsley.

Vermicelli Potatoes. Cook some potatoes. Then drain and dry them and pass them through a wire sieve, putting the dish on which they are to be served nacerneath the sieve. Once passed through the sieve to the dish they must not be touched, but served just as they are. Only the edge of the dish is wiped. Before serving place the dish in a hot oven for a few minutes.

Browned With a Salamander.

Salamander Mashed Potatoes. Wash two pounds of mealy potatoes and boil them in their jackets. Then drain, peel and mash them. Put them in a saucepan with one ounce of butter and season with salt and pepper. Moisten with one gill of fresh cream and stir them over the fire for some minutes. Add more cream and continue to stir till quite creamy. Dish up the potatoes, smooth over the surface and brown the top under a hot shovel or salamander. Serve hot.

French Potato Fritters. Take some potatoes prepared in the same way as croquettes. Peel and chop two shallots finely and fry them in butter. Add some finely chopped fresh mushrooms and a little chopped parsley. Fry all the ingredients for a few minutes. Season with a good pinch of cayenne and grated nutmeg. Shape the mixture into croquettes or balls. Roll them first in flour, then dip in beaten up egg, then roll them in breadcrumbs made from fresh bread. Fry the fritters in hot lard. Drain them and dish them up in pyramidal form. Garnish with some fried parsley and serve hot.

HERRINGS DAINTILY COOKED.

THIS delicate and dainty fish may now be obtained fresh. It makes a desirable addition to the Lenten table. Herring may be cooked in many ways, recipes for a few of these being given.

Kippered Herring au Gratin.—Divide some kippered herrings which have been soaked in milk into fillets, place them in a hot frying pan containing a small quantity of melted butter and let them cook until they are just tender. Then take out the fillets and cover them thickly with grated cheese which has been mixed with dry breadcrumbs. Butter a small pie dish and put in the fillets; cover them with browned bread crumbs, put a few pieces of butter on the top and bake in a quick oven for ten minutes.

Dipped In Egg.

Fried Herrings. Take as many fresh herrings as you wish to use. Cut the fish open, remove the backbone; then wash and dry thoroughly in a clean cloth. Take each piece of fish, brush over the inside with beaten egg, season with chopped onion, pepper and salt and press together. When all are done in this way have a pan of boiling fat ready, brush over each herring with egg, dip into fine breadcrumbs and fry till [illegible]. Serve very hot after drying on [illegible] to the fat.

Herring Salad. Pour boiling water over three salt herrings and when they are cold enough easily clean, split and bake. Then cut three small cold boiled potatoes, one hard boiled egg, one pickled cucumber, a sprig of parsley, adding a finely minced small onion. Mix with the herring, toss up with a fork, add salt and pepper to taste and serve with a dressing made of equal parts of beaten oil and vinegar. Made mustard may be added.

Using the Fillets.

Pickled Herrings. Fillet some fresh herrings, sprinkle them with a few drops of lemon juice and brush them over with some melted dripping; then cover them thickly with fine browned breadcrumbs which have been mixed with some chopped parsley and seasoned with salt, black pepper and a little nutmeg. Coat a white china baking dish lightly with dripping, place the fillets in it and let them cook in a well heated oven for from twenty to thirty minutes. The herrings should be served in the dish in which they are cooked.

DAVIS' PATENT STEEL RANGES

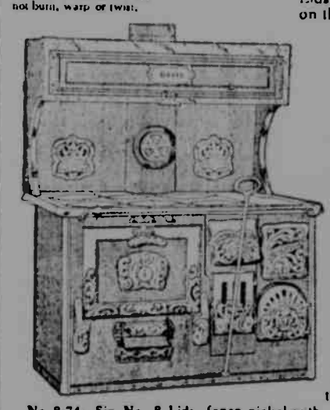
Burn More Air Less Fuel

Excels any high-class range on the market—matters not what price you pay—its baking, cooking, broiling and roasting qualities are unexcelled.

The handsomest Steel Range made. Perfect Satisfaction with it everywhere.

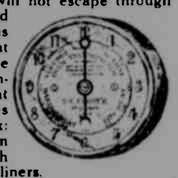
Two Ventilated Lids over Firebox Construction of DAVIS RANGE. Firebox, showing Liners and Grates.

Rocking Grates with poker and hand shake, for coal. Guaranteed not to burn up warp or twist out of shape.



Section of Davis Grate, Poker and Shaker that will not burn, warp or twist.

Ventilated Lids



Compare the DAVIS Range with any other range on the market and you will find the DAVIS has more advantages and has the only hotblast firebox with ventilated lids and liners offered the public.

The SPECIAL Feature of Grate Rests, Rocking Grates, Poker Shaker, Ventilated Lids and Liners are found complete only on the DAVIS.

OVERDRAUGHT. An overdraught to the firebox is obtained through holes made in front of the liners near the top, forming a hotblast firebox that requires less fuel, burns up the gasses, has a much better combustion and adds materially to the life of the firebox. Ventilated lids are placed over the firebox that makes it possible for one to see the fire burning and to cook on top instead of removing the lids and blacking up your cooking utensils. Smoke will not escape through the ventilated lids, as there is a down draught and with the ventilated liners a draught on all four sides of the firebox: through lids on top, through the grates and liners.

No. 8-74. Six No. 8 Lids, fancy nickel with Reservoir and Kindling Box. Double weight Cast Iron Tops that will stand the heat and strain, wearing twice as long as light weight tops. Shipping weight 500 pounds.

Heated Air Saves Fuel

In the DAVIS RANGE the air is heated as it passes from ash pit behind and through the ventilated liners to firebox, supplying heated air and a saving of 50 per cent. or more of your fuel bill.

BURNS MORE AIR, LESS FUEL—NOTHING LIKE IT ON THE MARKET. By the use of our ventilated lids, liners and rocking grates you have a construction that will not burn up, warp or twist out of shape, and is the only true construction used in building a firebox. THEREFORE WE SAY, BUY A DAVIS. BURN MORE AIR, LESS FUEL, and save liners, grates and lids.

Catalogue and Price List FREE setting forth 25 reasons why you should buy a DAVIS' PATENT STEEL RANGE. We solicit your order if in need of a Range. Shipment made from stock or factory. Freight prepaid on factory shipments. Address.

The man Who Makes A STUDY OF HIS APPEARANCE

Is the man who best appreciates the detail of the tailoring we turn out. The workmanship passes without a question, the fit is naturally a matter of course, but the shape we mould into the garments give them a character that finishes them off and makes the satisfaction of the owner complete.

All this is a bid for your next tailoring order. We know we can make you the best clothes you ever wore. We want you to know it. That order is the best and only sure way to settle the question.

Under and by virtue of the power vested in the Treasurer of Garrett County, Maryland, by section 52 of Chapter 566, of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1890, title "Garrett County," sub-title "County Treasurer," and as amended by the General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1898, Chapter 144, the undersigned Treasurer in and for Garrett County, Maryland, will on beginning at 2 o'clock p. m., at the front door of the Court House in the town of Oakland, Garrett county, Md., offer and sell at public auction to the highest bidder all of the following pieces or parcels of land lying and being in Garrett county, Md., to wit:

No. 2—All that piece or parcel of land containing 105 acres, being a part of Lot No. 10 of the subdivision of the original tract known as "Lochiel," which land is located in Election District No. 11 of Garrett county and is the same property which was conveyed by deed by Alice A. Snyder et al. to Levi Bittinger bearing date the 9th day of January, 1867, and duly recorded in Liber L. Z. T., No. 32, folio 77, etc., one of the Land Records of Garrett county, excepting therefrom the quantity of 50 acres of said tract conveyed by Levi Bittinger and wife to Silas Bittinger by deed dated the 8th day of December, 1900, which was duly recorded Liber E. Z. T., No. 39, folio 149, one of the Land Records of Garrett county, the residue being 55 acres more or less, which will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1912 and 1913 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Levi Bittinger.

No. 13—Military Lot No. 78, containing 50 acres of land, it being the same property conveyed by Jacob C. Carey and wife to Thomas A. Carey by deed dated the 11th day of March, 1907, being part of the same property described in a deed from J. A. Carey to Daniel Carey which is recorded among the Land Records of Garrett county in Liber E. Z. T., No. 34, folio 557. Said land is located in Election District No. 9 of Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon, for the year 1913 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of Thomas A. Carey.

No. 25—All those two pieces or parcels of land known as Military Lots Nos. [illegible] and 57, containing one hundred acres, more or less, which were devised by the last will and testament of Daniel Carey, late of Garrett county, to Thomas Carey and R. A. and Rose Galvin, said will probated March 15th, 1905, and of record in Wills Liber B. folio 155, etc., of the Orphan's Court for Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 9 of said Garrett county, and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1912 and 1913 as is charged on the Assessment Books of Garrett county in the names of the said Thomas Carey and R. BITTINGER.

The old ground hog must have taken a double dose of sleeping potion on Feb. 2nd, for it is time for him to waken up, and still it continues winter with more than enough snow on the ground.

Miss Laura Fazenbaker, of Clarksburg, W. Va., is spending a few weeks with her mother here.

Charles Buckle and Miss Linnie Miller spent Sunday visiting on the east side of Meadow Mountain.

A sled load of young folks from this village drove to Jennings last Saturday night to attend the oyster supper.

Samuel Broadwater, of New Germany, was in this neighborhood last week buying beef cattle.

Mrs. T. B. Wiley and Mrs. Albert Brenneman were shopping in Grantsville a few days ago.

James P. Wiley, of Negro Mountain, was visiting in this section on Saturday.

Lloyd Brenneman and Miss Mary Buckle, spent Sunday with Miss Buckle's sister, Mrs. James O'Brien, near Meadow Mountain.

Gus. Stanton lost a tine fat steer last week as a result of the animal swallowing a piece of bale wire about three inches long.

Davis' Standard Paint.

This paint, as it's name implies, is "standard," being a three-pigment paint ground in pure Linseed Oil weighing in its white and tints made from white, over 17 lbs. per gallon. It is as durable as paint can be made and extremely economical, since it covers approximately 350 square feet, two coats, per gallon, according to the condition of the surface to be painted, and manner in which it is applied. Though many competitive paints are sold at a higher price, none will give you greater satisfaction than Davis Standard—Pure Linseed Oil Paint. Try it when in need. Send for color card.

Adv. DAVIS HARDWARE.

BLOOMINGTON.

The remains of the infant daughter, aged 5 months, of Postmaster and Mrs. Bert Price of Kitzmiller, were brought to this place on No. 10, W. M. R. R. on Monday morning and interred in the family lot of the Bloomington grave yard. Her death occurred on Saturday and was caused by pneumonia, following an attack of chicken pox.

Orfy Nelson, aged about seventeen years, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Nelson, of near Barnum, was caught under a fall of slate on Thursday morning while digging coal in one of the small seams of the Big Vein Co. at Shaw, and sustained serious injuries about the head and body. He was taken to the Hoffman hospital the same day on No. 4, W. M. R. R., for treatment and at last accounts is improving rapidly.

Miss Mattie Kight, daughter of Capt. Samuel Kight, a well known and popular citizen of Keyser and a retired employe of the B. & O. R. R., was the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Kemp on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Grant, of Elk Garden, after attending the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Kelly at the Devon Club at Luke on last Friday night, spent the week-end with Mrs. Grant's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wolf of this place.

Mr. George C. Macfarlane of Barnum, returned the first of this week from a business trip to New York City.

Little Pansy Morehead, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Morehead of this place, who was a patient in the Hoffman hospital for the past month suffering from typhoid fever, retuned home Sunday.

Mr. John Brydon, of Somerset, Pa., and his brother, Mr. L. B. Brydon of Grafton, both prominently identified in the coal business of this and adjoining communities, were in town this week looking after the interests of the Bloomington Coal Company of Bloomington.

Mr. Daniel Smouse, is the first Democratic post master since the time of the late Thos. Garvey and one of the most efficient and accomodating the town has ever had.

A bunch of bright eyed baby girls, fresh from babyland—one at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Beard, another, with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Kight, one at Mr. and Mrs. Clarance Miller's and another at Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hotchkis and still another at Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wilson,s.

County Commissionar Dixon of Oakland was in town during the past week, inspecting, we are informed, the work of destruction wrought by the Westernport water works on the county road between Bloomington and the top of Luke hill. It is more than likely that a suit for damage to the county's property may grow out of the transaction before it is settled.

Well, what do you think of this: It is reported, on good authority that the Interstate Commerce Commission is about to compel the B. & O. R. R. to build a walk for pedestrians at the side of the R. R. bridge crossing the Potomac river at this place, likewise with the W. M. R. R. bridge at Beryl.

OPTOMETRIST

IS Your Child Handicapped in his or her physical and mental development by defective vision? Out of 100,000 school children examined in New York city, nearly 30 per cent. were found to be in need of glasses. In Boston the percentage was found to be slightly over 20 per cent., and most of these children were down on the books as "stupid," "stubborn" or unruly. In Philadelphia 354 children were discovered who could not read ordinary writing on a blackboard at a distance of twenty feet. You should make sure by a thorough examination at the hands of a competent optometrist. That your child is not among this vast army of little citizens who suffer from defective eyesight, delays often result seriously. My examinations are made by the most scientinc accurate methods. If it is found that glasses are not required you will be told so frankly and no charge made for the examination.

VOLUME 39. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, APRIL 2, 1914. NUMBER 5.

TERRA ALTA WAS VICTORIOUS.

But Our Neighbors On The West Knew That Oakland Was Present.

The spelling bee arranged some time ago between Oakland and Terra Alta came off on Tuesday night when about thirty ladies and gentlemen of Oakland journeyed to that village and journeyed home after a set-to lasting more than two hours, leaving behind the banner so coveted, for Terra Alta was victorious.

The bee was held under the auspices of the Terra Alta Civic Club and was fairly well patronized by the people of the town.

In the spelling Oakland marshaled her forces, twenty strong, while Terra Alta could get but nineteen to compete. The rules as laid down at the beginning of the contest, while not broken, were very badly disfigured in a number of instances. After spelling a large number of words from the spelling books used in both the West Virginia and Maryland schools, a list of specially prepared words was drawn on the contestants. This list contained words never seen outside of the covers of a dictionary and the result was that the contestants went down in one, two, three order until but one on each side remained, they being Miss Sisler of Terra Alta, and Miss Jean DeBerry, of Oakland, the latter missing Ailanthus.

The pronouncers were Prof. Bender and Prof. Reed, while the judges were Mr. DeVee, for Terra Alta, and Mr. J. M. Stanton, for Oakland.

A return "spell" is being arranged for the Terra Altans which will be held in the Maryland theatre some time in the near future.

Mr E. Z. Tower captained the Oakland aggregation, while Mr. C. F. Dodge acted in a like capacity for the Terra Altans.

Mr. E. R. Jones, who has been associated with Mr. G. Semmes Hamill in the practice of law, has rented and moved into the rooms in the First National Bank building which had until recently been occupied by the Masonic Club.

LAST WEEK OF THE LEGISLATIVE SESSION

Many Local Bills are Killed By Various Commfttees.

Delegate Savage's bill permitting the Sheriff of Garrett county, under certain conditions to use convict labor on the public roads, was reported favorably and passed for third and final reading in the House Thursday; as was also Delegate Harvey's bill for the employment of prisoners on the streets of incorporated towns.

The same day the committee in the House having charge of Senate bill No. 422, Speicher's, relating to the drawing of Jurors in Garrett county was favorably reported and advanced for final passage. This bill was introduced by Senator Speicher at the request of the Garrett County Bar Association.

Delegate Harvey's bill to divide Election District No. 8 passed the House and was sent to the Senate. His bill describing the limits of Loch Lynn Heights was also passed in the House and sent to the Senate.

Delegate Shartzer introduced a bill providing for the creation of an auditing committee to examine all the books and accounts of the officials of Garrett county. This bill was referred to the Judiciary Committee of which Judge Hoffman of Washington county, is chairman. The bill named Mr. G. Semmes Hamill, of Oakland, and Mr. F. G Fox, of Friendsville as the committee, who were authorized to select the third member of the committee. The committee learned that Mr. Fox was postmaster in his town, therefore not eligible for the place. The committee reported the bill favorable, but substituted the names of Mr. Andrew Gonder, of Oakland, and L. A. Rudisill of Mountain Lake Park for those named in the bill. Notwithstanding the earnest protest of Mr. Shartzer the report of the committee was adopted and the bill advanced for third reading.

Delegate Shartzer's bill regulating the sale of agricultural seed was reported unfavorable by the committee and lost.

The committee having charge of the following bills of Mr. Shartzer's reported them unfavorably and they were lost:

To amend the fish laws of Garrett county; amending the Charter of the Community of Mountain Lake Park; to appropriate $5,000 to build a bridge from West Virginia Junction to Luke, Md.; to increase the term of office of Mr. A. G. Ross, Clerk to County Commissioners two years.

Mr. Savage's bill to extend the term of the Clerk to the County Commissioners to four years, at the expiration of Mr. Ross' term, was reported unfavorably and lost.

Mr. Shartzer's and Mr. Savage's bill relating to the sale of cigaretts to minors was referred to the judiciary committee. Both of them will be reported unfavorably.

Delegate Shartzer's bill relating to the declaration of intention of voters in Garrett county was referred to the Garrett delegation.

Senator Speicher's two bills relating to wild animals, and the sale of cigarettes to minors were reported favorably and advanced to the third reading in the House, both bills having passed the Senate.

Ex Senator McCullough Brown of Garrett county had business in Annapolis Monday.

Senator Benson has introduced a bill in the Senate to recast the membership of the House of Delegates. By this bill Garrett county would have two delegates instead of three; Allegany county 3 instead of 6; Baltimore City 16 instead of 24, and so on, reducing the membership of that body from 102 to 61. The bill also recommends that the pay of the legislator be $15 a day instead of $5 per day as now. The indications are that the bill will not pass this session of the legislature.

Mr. Thomas Browning, chairman of the Democrat State Central Committee of Garrett County, was in Annapolis last week pulling some political wires. From here he went to Washington for the same purpose.

Among the last bills introduced in the legislature was Senator Speicher's bill to allow persons intending to declare citizenship in Garrett county to do so before the board of registry, instead of before the County Court Clerk as is now required.

The legislature will adjourn next Monday. There will be many bills left over because of want of time for their passage. Among this number will be Senator Speicher's bill for the Oakland Hospital and the appropriation for Kitzmiller and Friendsville water protection.

Senator Speicher spent Saturday and Sunday at his home, in Accident, as also did Delegate Harvey at his home near Gormania. Both of these gentlemen returned for the Monday session.

Delegate Savage is recognized as one of the solid legislators of the State House. His manly bearing, his courteous manner, and his cheerful disposition has won for him the respect of everybody.

All Garrett countians will be glad to hear that Governor Goldsborough has signed the bill giving Garrett county $4,000 a year for the public schools of the County for 1914 and 1915. This is the bill the State Board of Education so bitterly opposed and for which Senator Speicher so determinedly fought.

Delegate Harvey's bill changing the dividing line between precincts Nos. 1 and 2 in District No. 8, Garrett county, has gone to the Governor for his signature.

Mr. Shartzer's hog bill passed the Senate Monday night and has been sent to the Governor for his approval. This is the first bill of Mr. Shartzer's to pass through the legislature and reach the Governor. Garrett countians from this on will have to keep their hogs penned up or be liable for damages.

Mrs. Spiker and five sons who are splendid specimens of Garrett county boys, are spending the week in Annapolis and will witness the closing of the Legislature next Monday.

Delegate Savage's bill to establish a county home for the poor of Garrett county passed the Senate Monday night and has gone to the House for concurring amendment.

Last Saturday a committee of seventy members of the legislature went to Cambridge to inspect the State hospital in that city. The trip was made in one of the boats of the oyster navy. A splendid ride of 40 miles down the bay and up the Choptank river was enjoyed. A splendid banquet was served by the citizens of the town. By invitation, Mr. L. A. Rudisill accompanied the law makers on the trip.

Fresh shad are coming into market and are fine eating.

The trees are budding and being filled with leaves.

Delegate Shartzer is preparing to make a last stand fight on his bill provided for the appointment of an auditing committee to audit the books of the Garrett county officials, when it comes up for third reading and final passage. Mr. Shartzer's bill named three persons as auditors, two of them being Messrs. Hamill and Fox. When the Judiciary Committee reported the bill favorably Friday night the names of Rudisill and Gonder were substituted for Hamill and Fox.

Mr. Shartzer demanded an explanation as to why these names were substituted, and when Chairman Hoffman, of the Judiciary Committee, stated that Delegates Harvey and Savage, of the Garrett delegation, had appeared before the committee and asked that these names be substituted, and, they being two of the three members from that county, and therefore, a majority, their request had been granted by the committee.

Mr. Shartzer then moved that the bill be re-committed to the Garrett delegation, but this motion was lost, this amendment adopted, and the bill ordered to be printed for the third reading calendar.

RETAIL DEALERS GREW RICH

How many retail dealers have you known who grew rich from their business? They must, at their own expense, have stock sufficient to meet the needs of all their customers; they must figure interest on money invested in the contents of their shelves; they must pay rent for their stores, clerks and bookkeepers, license, taxes and insurance. Truly, their supposed profits are not very excessive.

CIVIL LIST FOR GARRETT COUNTY CONFIRMED

Fish Commissioner W. A. Smith Was Among the Number.

In the Senate last Thursday evening the civil appointments for Garrett county, sent to that body early in the session by Governor Goldsborough, were confirmed.

Among those included in the list for this county was Mr. W. A. Smith, of Hoyes, appointed Fish Commissioner for the Western Shore.

The appointments for the county as submitted by the Governor and confirmed by the Senate were as follows:

School Commissioner to serve for a term of six years, R. E. Sliger of Oakland.

Justices of the Peace—Joseph Friend, Jr., William H. H. Friend, Sr., Jacob S. Myers, Levi C. Fike, Thomas H. Bittinger, M. M. Fazenbaker, Geo. F. Ault, Rutus M. Enlow, David W. Fraker, Franklin P. Arnold, Lewis A. Rudisill, Joseph M. Conneway, Bradford Blocher, Wm. D. Hoye, George B. Brown, Jerome B. Emory, Frederick D. Kerins, George Pool, John C. Dunham, Robert L. Fries and J. Bray.

ATTEMPTED ROBBERY.

Postoffice at Deer Park Broken Into But Burglars Secured Nothing.

The second unsuccessful attempt at robbery at Deer Park within the past few weeks was made Monday night when the postoffice at that place was entered by burglars, but they secured nothing for their work, the evidence they left behind leading to the conviction that they were frightened away before they accomplished that which they had set out to do.

The entrance to the building was effected through a window which had been forced. The knob of the iron safe was twisted from its place and the hole left was packed with a sponge filled with nitroglycerine, but before it was set off the burglars beat a retreat.

The tools to do the work had been stolen from the wagon making shop of James W. Walter in Deer Park.

BALTIMORE, OUR HISTORIC METROPOLIS.

Was The Subject of an Address Delivered on Marylands Day by Mr. R. E. Sliger.

At the "Marvland Day" exercises conducted jointly by the Grammer and High Schools of Oakland Mr. R. E. Sliger, Cashier of the First National Bank, made the principal address which is published in full as follows:

When we refer to Baltimore as "our historic metropolis," we are stating a fact of which every citizen of this grand old state of Maryland is justly proud. Baltimore is a historic city, and the history of the United States cannot be written without taking in the history of Maryland and its metropolis.

We find that the city of Baltimore had its beginning in the year 1729. Owing to the many natural advantages of Baltimore county, its fertile soil and the abundance of natural food near the Chesepeake Bay, it was found necessary to provide an outlet for these natural resources, and we find the following act passed by the Assembly in 1729: "An act for the erecting of a town on the north side of the Patapsco in Baltimore county, and for laying out into lots, sixty acres of land in and about the place where one John Fleming now lives."

To those of you who are familiar with Baltimore, I might say that John Fleming lived at what is now the intersection of Charles and Lombard streets. I do not know the price of land in this section at this time, but it will certainly sell for many hundreds of dollars per front foot, and yet the price paid for this original sixty acres was forty shillings per acre, or about ten dollars.

A survey was then made and the plot divided into sixty lots of about one acre each, and on January 14th, 1730, an office was opened for purchasers.

The sale of lots in no way resembled some of the land booms of our present time. Purchasers were few and some of these lots reverted to the original land owners after remaining untaken for seven years. Separated from the proposed town by Jones Falls and a marsh was Jones Town which was annexed in 1742, and the name Baltimore given to the whole town. The growth was slow at first, and in 1752, twenty two years after the town was started, there were only twenty-five houses, including the school house and a church, and the total population was about two hundred.

The first large increase in the population of Maryland occurred in a rather unusual manner. Like in all new counties there was serious inconvenience from lack of labar and a contract was made with England, much to the chagrin of the good people of Baltimore, for from lifteen to twenty thousand convicts which were brought to Maryland and sold into servitude for the price of their passage. These became identified with the people and after their term of servitude had expired became good and useful citizens, some of them rising to positions of prominence.

In order to give you some idea of the growth of Baltimore, I may say that the population in 1790 was 13,503; in 1890 it was 434,439, and in 1910, when the last census was taken, it was 558,485. There are at least 100,000 persons living just outside the limits of the city proper and form a part of its population.

Baltimore has every natural advantage for commercial and industrial development. It has a large commodious harbor on tide water and is the natural center of trade and commerce for the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries. It is nearer to the great soft coal regions, and the grain fields of the West than any of the Atlantic seaboard cities.

Baltimore leads all American cities in the export of coal and corn, and is second only to the city of New York in the export of wheat. The exports from the port of Baltimore amount to over $100,000,000 annually, and the imports will reach half this amount. In addition to the many thousand vessels used in the bay trade, there are thirty-four steamship lines engaged in foreign and domestic trade. All the large railroads of the Eastern United States reach Baltimore.

The broad flat plains around the city make excellent factory sites; and we find that there are twenty-seven hundred factories with an annual output of $260,000,000. These factories give employment to ninety-five thousand persons. In the production of canned goods, cotton duck, fertilizers and straw hats, Baltimore is the first city in the world; and in the manufacture of clothing, is only surpassed by Chicago.

Baltimore is the gateway between the North and the South and is the entrance to the West. Midway between North and South in the dark days of '61, she was torn between her allegiance to both. Today she unites the best attributes of each, and forms the connecting link between them. To the Northener, Baltimore is a Southern city, possessing the courtesy, hospitality, and warm heartedness of the South; while to the Southerner she often presents the aspects of a Northern municipality, having all the energy, progressiveness and financial acumen and enterprise which have been heretofore more credited to the section to the north of us than to that which lies to the south.

There are three general qualifications under which all good attributes group themselves naturally—greatness, goodness and beauty, and the combination of these in their highest development is perfection. Baltimore possesses them all, and in a high state of development, too. Baltimore is great because her early destinies were laid out and guided by men of genius, integrity and public spirit. They builded for the future and laid a groundwork on which succeeding generations, with the example of their predecessors before their eyes and the love of their city and her institutions firmly implanted in their hearts, have reared a structure grand in its outlines, graceful in detail, and everlasting in its architecture.

Baltimore is good because her people are moral, sober, industrious and imbued with a deep sense of gratitude to, and trust in, the Source whence cometh every good and perfect gift. Baltimore is beautiful because having been founded on a site of great natural beauty those who built the city exercised taste and judgment.

From a physical standpoint, Baltimore is truly a queen among cities. The geographical situation places it too far south for the severe winters; and yet it is too far north to allow any intrusion of disease or the epidemics that have been common in more Southern cities.

If you were to ask me what I considered the most pleasing thing about Baltimore, I think I would say the politeness and courtesy of its people. They are all courteous and affable, and I have had a perfect stranger stop, walk four or five squares with me and make himself sure that I understood the direction he gave me, when I asked the location of some building.

In speaking to you of the history, growth and success of our metropolis, I feel that I should also touch upon her tragedy. The great Baltimore fire in 1904 is probably fresh in the memory of you all. When I tell you that one hundred and forty acres of the business district were burned over and that fifteen hundred and twenty-six buildings and four lumber yards were destroyed, you can form some idea of what the fire really was. I had an occasion to visit the city shortly after the fire and unless one were actually on the scene, no proper conception of the utter waste and desolation can be had. Block after block of substantial business buildings were demolished; all land marks obliterated, and it was an easy matter to become lost and bewildered in the barren waste. Buildings that were considered fireproof crumbled and fell like a house of cards. In less than two days property worth at least $70,000,000 was totally destroyed. Today no trace of the fire remains. Baltimore was stunned, but only for a short time, and like all good red blooded Americans, her citizens, refusing all outside aid, set out to make good the loss they had sustained. Larger and better buildings, wider and more beautiful streets have taken the place of those that were lost, and the great Baltimore fire remains only as a memory.

We could not leave the history of our metropolis without speaking of the part she took in the war of the Revolution and in the war of 1812. While not the scene of active hostilities during the Revolution, Baltimore furnished many brave soldiers. Is there a boy in Maryland who is not proud to know that the people of Long Island still point out to strangers the spot where half of the Maryland battalion stemmed the advance of the British army. Don't you like to think of Maryland's four hundred under command of Major Gist, after ordering all the other troops to make their escape, advancing against Cornwallis' brigade. And, as they advanced with fixed bayonets upon this overwhelming force, don't you like to remember that the Great Washington exclaimed "Good God, what brave fellows I must this day loose." Don't you like to remember that this little band of soldiers charged the powerful forces of Cornwallis five times, and each time were driven back. There was no lack of determination, no lack of courage in the men of Maryland, and at the sixth charge the columns of the British army began to waiver and to give way in confusion.

It was in the War of 1812, however, that Baltimore took a high rank, and this war was really our second war for independence. It was won on the sea, not on land, and in its prosecution the American Navy earned its reputation for skill and bravery, which it has maintained to this time. Did you know that the first two cruisers of the present navy were built in Baltimore? Our metropolis has really earned a reputation as the "City of First Things."

The first monument to the memory of George Washington was erected in Baltimore. Here was built the first railroad, the Baltimore & Ohio in 1828. Here was erected the first Methodist church in America; the first silk ribbon mill; the first sub-marine boat, the first college of dental surgery in the world; the first telegraph line, from Baltimore to Washington; the first metal pens used in America; the first linotype machine, which has done so much for the newspaper business; the first balloon ascension occured here; the first gas light company, was founded; the first electric railway was built; the first water company was formed. Here is also the oldest shot tower in the United States, and is still standing.

But to return to the war of 1812. You are no doubt familiar with the story of how the privateers from Baltimore scoured the ocean, harassed British commerce, and took thousands of prizes of war. You will also remember the history of the defeat of the American troops at Bladensburg, the capture of the city of Washington and the burning of the public buildings.

It was only natural that the British troops, flushed with victory, should consider this the proper time to be revenged on Baltimore, and that General Ross should boast that he would make it his winter quarters. I am sure every Marylander is familiar with the history of this attack on Baltimore. General Ross with a force of about 7000 men was defeated at North Point by a little band of raw militiamen and General Ross himself was killed.

The attack on Fort McHenry, which was made at the same time that Ross fought his battle on land, was renewed with vigor after his defeat as if in hopeless vengence. You all know the result of this bombardment of the fort. "In the dawn's early light, the flag was still there."

There is one thing in which Baltimore stands not only first, but alone and that is giving to the United States its national athem, "The Star Spangled Banner." Can you imagine the emotions of Francis Scott Key as he paced the deck of the "Minden" on that memorable night of Sept. 13th, as the bombardment continued, and he knew not at what moment his beloved city would be forced to surrender.

The fall of Baltimore would mean that Philadelphia, New York, Boston and in fact all the Atlantic coast towns might meet a similiar fate. Some of the people of the New England states already contemplated withdrawing from the union. The whole government was tottering on the brink of exhaustion; discouraged, disorganized and disheartened. Can't you get a conception of what the capture of Baltimore meant to the new Republic? Have you ever pictured to yourself this man on the enemy's ship during the twenty-five hours of the bitter attack.

Gave proof through the night, that our flag was still there.

As long as the flag was still there, the city had not surrendered. Can you imagine his feelings when the first red rays of the rising sun showed the majestic folds of the stars and strips floating over Fort McHenry. It was then that Key's emotion burst forth in an anthem of joy, and he wrote down on the back of a letter the Te Deum of the nation, The Star Spangled Banner. This anthem became the inspiration of a great nation, and the glory of the people of Baltimore became the glory of the nation, infusing them with new patriotism and new vigor.

In Baltimore, peace hath had her victories no less renowned than war. She has furnished other writers that have achieved international fame. Is there a school child that has not heard of the matchless Edgar Allen Poe, who is rated as the most original writer that America has produced? Is there one of us who has not sympathized with him in his early struggles, his misfortunes, and his untimely death. The whole English-speaking world is familiar with "The Raven," "Annabel Lee," and the "Bells" and these poems are still famous. His "Gold Bug" and "The Purloined Letter" are unsurpassed as gems of prose construction.

Baltimore has furnished many writers of note up to the present time. It is the home of one of the foremost religious writers of the day, Cardinal Gibbons. His classic, "The Faith of Our Fathers," has reached a circulation of 1,250,000 copies.

Baltimore has given so much to the literature of the country that it would take too much time to give the names of the authors and their productions. I feel, however, that I should mention one lyric that was written here in Oakland, Sep. 18, 1862, while the battle of Antietam was in progress, by John Williamson Palmer. It is called "Stonewall Jackson's Way," and is probably known to some of you. I will give the first stanza:

"Come, stack arms, men.
Pile on the rails.
Stir up the camp fire bright:
No growling if the canteen fails,
We'll make a roaring night.
Here Shenandoah brawls along,
There burly Blue Ridge echoes strong,
To swell the brigades rousing song
Of Stonewall Jackson's Way.

On Sept. 12, 1914, Baltimore will celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of the victory at Fort McHenry and North Point and the defeat of the British, the event that established our rights on land and on sea as a free and independent nation.

The PRICE

A Temperance Talk to Voters

BY

JASON KEP

I want to impress on the young men just starting out in life that you can not, in this world, get anything for nothing—you must pay the price.

There are a few things, which, if learned from study or observation, will save you the hardship of getting them knocked into you by experience.

While experience is a good teacher it is a hard one and in most casee the price is too high.

Some people are so skeptical they must have the experience before they will believe, and they pay the price.

A lot of supposedly worldly-wise chaps want you to take a drink, just to be sociable, just to be a bully feilow sis-boom-ah! and you hate to refuse for fear they will think you are green or a goody-goody mama's baby.

If you are ready to pay the price, then go to it. But wouldent it be considered good business judgment to first find out the price and see if you can afford to pay it.

Let us investigate, let us absorb a few facts by study and observeration.

Medical scientists tell us that alcohol taken into the system tears down the tissues of the body, weakens it and leaves it less able to withstand or throw off disease; that it destroys the cells of the brain, dulling the intellect and incapacitates one for work, and if continued brings one to an asylum or drunkard's grave; that it dries up the water of the body, causes ulcers of the stomach and produces a craving for more drink; that it is a narcotic and a slow poison.

Look around you. Over 152,000 pay the price every year in the United States. Yes, 152,000 once happy boys and girls; somebody's darlings dies drunkards every year. They pay the price.

You meet a nice young lady, a perfect peach; your heart goes pit-a-pat. "She's the girl for me," you begin to look ahead; dreams, beautiful cottage, etc., you hustle to make good. You don't seem to make any headway. The atmosphere is chilly, thermometer going down, you almost get cold feet, but being desperate ask the reason of so much frost. You are informed that she doesn't care to associate with a young man who drinks. Ouch! you must pay the price. Good society will not tolerate a man who drinks.

You go to college; there is a little bunch of "warm babies;" there always are. They have a bully time, considerable booze, spend a lot of money, make poor headway in classes, go home with the first stages of a habit. A large percentage of that bunch die drunkards. They pay the price.

A merchant begins to drink, neglects his business, makes bad bargains, the whole sale houses and banks refuse him credit; why? They know that he will surely fail, and he does. He pays the price.

The big corporations will not hire a man who dinks. Hardly any one will hire a man who drinks, and certainly will not put him in a responsible position. It is becoming harder each year for a drinking man to secure employment. They must pay the price. Yes, and their families. Can you afford the price?

If you don't take the first drink, you won't take the second and the habit will never be formed.

Would it not be a good plan to prohibit the manufacture of such a dangerous commodity. To remove the temptation from before the people? You know it would.

As a good citizen won't you get busy and help by work and vote to blot it out.

JASON JEP.

ARBOR DAY.

Its Observance in Maryland Schools, Will Be Friday, April 3 rd

Arbor Day was first observed in this country by the school children of a Western State more than forty years ago. From a small beginning in a treeless State the idea spread, until now it is a day regulary set apart each spring not alone in nearly all of the States, but in many foreign countries as well.

The Governor has designated Friday, April 3d, as Arbor Day in Maryland, and much good can be accomplished in the right direction, and a valuable lesson conveyed to the children in the public schools, where it is properly observed. The State Board of Forestry recommends the planting of useful trees on that day. The shade and protection afforded by a few well planted trees or belt of trees adds much to the attractiveness of the school yard, and comforts in all seasons to the school itself. Trees planted on that day should not be forgotten when the exercises are over, and allowed to die through neglect for given careful attention they serve as object lessons in usefulness, and the children will watch their growth from year to year with intersest and satisfaction.

But Arbor Day in Maryland is not alone a day for tree planting, important as that is in itself. It is a day when children should be made better acquainted with our native trees and their use to us, not alone the trees and which shade and ornament the city streets and country highways, but the the forest trees and the forest itself. The great importance of Maryland's woodland should be shown—its importance as a regulator and conserver of stream flow a modifier of climate, and the source of industries which are worth millions of dollars to the State each year, not alone in valuable products, but in the employment they give to thousands of her men and women. Children will enjoy hearing these things, and in later years will look with pride on school yards improved and beautified by them in their observance of Arbor Day.

"G. W. E." Away Off In Baltimore Uses Considerable Space To Say A Very Few Words.

To the Editor of The Republican.

In your issue of February 26th, under the heaoing, "First Day proves conclusively that G. W. E. is in error concerning the Sabbath," appears some very remarkable statements and conclusions, to say the least. I will thank you for space to reply, and with all due respect for "First Day" I must say that the evidence is lacking.

Christ's coming to this world was not to revoke any part of God's law. He came to magnify the law, Is. 42:21. He enjoins, "Think not that I am come to destroy the law," etc. Again "It is easier for heaven and earth to pass away, than for one tittle of the law to fail," Luke 16:17.

It would certaly seem that "First Day" is "hard put to it," for material to use in his argument when he says, "any one contending for the Seventh Day should practice circumcision, observe Pentecost, the feast of the Passover," etc. I want to give "First Day" credit for being sincere but this argument is almost the limit. Surely "First Day" knows that there is a distinction between the law of God and the law of Moses, or as they are termed for brevity and simplicity, the Moral law and the Ceremonial law. The Moral law is God's Ten Commandments written with his own finger on the tables of stone, while the Ceremonial law was written by Moses in a book. This was the law that First Day says "was nailed to the cross with the shadows and types." The Moral law as above shown will never pass away or fail. "The law of the Lord is perfect." In fact nearly every Protestant denomination in their articles of faith, allow that God's Holy Law, which is perfect, holy, just, good and spiritual, is binding upon all men to the close of time.

"First Day" tries to give the impression that there was no seventh day Sabbath keepers, until it was revealed to Francis Bampfield A. D. 1600. How dare he make such a charge in the face of all the evidence that can be shown to the contrary. Let me quote him a very few historical evidences:

"Centuries of the Christian era passed away before the Sunday was observed by the Christian church as a Sabbath. History does not furnish with a single proof or indication that it was at any time so observed, previous to the Sabbatical edict of Constantine, A. D. 351."—Exam. of Sixth Texts p. 291.

"It was Constantine the Great who first made a law for the proper observance of Sunday."—Ency. Brit., article Sunday.

Prynne says: "The seventh day Sabbath was solemnized by Christ, the apostles, and primitive Christians, till the Laodician Council did, in a manner, quite abolish the observance of it."—Dessertation on the Lord's Day, 1633, p 163.

If space permitted pages could be supplied similar to the above.

"First Day" seems to think he scored a point when he quotes, "Jesus appeared to his followers on the first day of the week." True Christ met with his disciples on the evening of the first day, but this meeting was not a religious meeting in honor of the day; for (1) the deciples did not believe that Jesus had risen; and (2) they were only gathered in their own common abode, at the very close of day and had shut the door for fear of the Jews. First Day then adds, "a second appearance was one week later on the first day, there by approving the day," etc, here again I must correct him. The record says "after eight days" which after Sunday night would carry it at least over to the next Monday or Tuesday. There is not a shadow of influence for first day sacredness here.

"First Day" makes one statement that I do heartily concur with him on. He says I should be a Sabbath keeper. I fully agree with him. So should he. He like myself is a first day keeper. God says the seventh day is the Sabbath, and commands us to keep it holy. First day disagrees with the commandment and calls the first day the Sabbath. Pray tell us where you get your authority from to do this? You use almost two colums of paper, defending your position, and yet fail to show a single sentence from the word of God that calls Sunday the Sabbath. You fail to show a single instance where God, Christ, angles or inspired men have ever said one word in favor of Sunday being a holy day. Give me just one passage that would seem to indicate that Christ changed the Sabbath to Sunday and you never saw a person that will give up quicker than I will.

Cardinal Gibbons says "The Catholic Church by virtue of her divine mission changed the day from Saturday to Sunday." and at another time he sa "The observance of Sunday by t. Protestants is an homage they pay spite of themselves to the authority c the Catholic Church." I would lik for "First Day" to answer the quea tion, is the Cardinal correct in his claims or not.

Next week I will answer his assertion that "you never hear of the followers of Jesus assembling on the Seventh day for religious worship," and conclude my reply.

THURSDAY, APRIL 2, 1914.

THE ambitious war correspondent can't make up his mind, these days, whether to go to Mexico, Ireland or Washington.

FORMER President Taft favors a world court to end war. Would this court also have jurisdiction over warring political factions?

SOME people, observes the New York World, learns from the bee not how to be busy but only how to be buzzy. "Ain't it the truth?"

ONE'S thought does not, perhaps turn lightly to flies at this somewhat uncertain period, when the weather man may surprise us at any moment, but vigilant and strict science has already reminded us of the necessity of preparing for the anti-fly campaign. Here watchful waiting won't do at all. To hesitate is to lose.

Oakland High School Notes.

Mr. S. T. Jones, Cashier ot the Garrett National Bank, gave us a splendid talk on last Friday afternoon about "Some Elements of Success." Mr. Jones said that the secret of the whole matter was "honesty, industry and frugality," and forcibly called to our notice the scriptural passage: "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches." He illustrated his address with examples and anecdotes, which served to bring out the strong points of his talk. We thank Mr. Jones most heartily.

Harry Weimer a graduate of the class of 1913, visited us on Friday. He now attends the W. Va. Wesleyan College at Buckhannon.

Ths basket ball season closed on Friday night with a double header game between the Grafton High School boys and our boy's team, and the Terra Alta High School girls, and our girl's team. O. H. S. was victorious in the latter game, defeating its opponents by a score of 11-4. Everyone present was enthusiastic over the O. H. S. girls playing and strong interest was manifested from start to finish. The Grafton team defeated us, however, the score being 30-22. The theatre was crowded for both games, the crowd overflowing into the foul lines.

Song, Society; balloting on constitutional amendment; inaugural address, President-elect; piano duet, Ross Isenberg and Julius Littman; talk, "What We Should Know About Roads," Delbert Davis; vocal solo, Mr. John Martin; reading "Roadside Gleanings From Prose and Poetry," Dottie Doman; song, "Planting of the Tree," Society; reading of the O. H. S. Star, editor; address, Mr. J. E. Harned; song, "Mill May," society.

As this will be Arbor Day the program has been arranged so as to be appropriate to the occasion. Mr. Harned's address, we understand, will pertain to trees. Everyone is welcome.

As stated in a recent communication, Robert Garrett White will go to St. John's College on April 3d, to compete for a gold medal, in the oratorical contest. The Oakland High School will have an oratorical contest of its own during May. A public spirited citizen has offered five dollars in gold to the Junior or Senior who delivers the best original oration.

Series of Services.

In St Paul's M. E. Church a series of services to continue until Easter was begun Monday evening, being in charge of the pastor Rev. Dr. A. Moore. This week the theme being followed is that of the graces. Next week the themes will be the study of the life of Christ. The attendance at the various services this week has been large considering the condition of the weather.

THE LOCAL MERCHANT

The local merchant is not only a convenience, but a real necessity. Let the average housewife imagine herself trying to deal direct with the manufacture and the producer for everything she needs. Then she will more readily understand how important is the function of the man who brings the wares of both into a convenient place for her convenience, pleasure and service.

adv. DAVIS HARDWARE.

THEIR REASON FOR WISHIMG

High School Students Give Answers To A Pertinent Question.

The following reasons in answer to the question "Why I Want to go to a University," are given by three of the graduating class of the Oakland High School, which follow in the wake of similiar reasons published in these columns last week:

One of the great desires of my life has been to finish my education at a University after I had completed the high school course.

Of course the foundation of our education is laid in the grammar and high schools, but at College we can take a special course of study for which we have a special liking and talent, and thus be better prepared for our work in the world. No matter what work we may wish to take up, there is some college where we can prepare ourselves for it.

People from all over the world attend college, and by daily association with these people our own minds become broader and gain new thoughts and ideas. There is also a great deal of pleasure at College and the life is in itself an education. Therefore all sides of our nature is developed.

HELLICE RATHBUN.

Why should I go to a University? This is a question every boy asks himself when he graduates from the high school. It is a question well worth a great deal of consideration. It is a question thousands of successful men have asked themselves at this particular point of life.

I should go to a University to increase my efficiency. Statistics show that a man with a University education is much more efficient than one without. It stands to reason that if one goes to a University and studies on one subject for four years he is going to be more efficient than one without this essential foundation work.

I should go to a University to develop myself not only mentaly, but physically and socially as well. The well equipped gymnasiums of the Universities as well as the outdoor sports such as baseball, football, and tennis offer a splendid opportunity for physical development. At a University one is thrown in with all classes of people and therefore learns to pick his company.

For the above named reasons I think every boy or girl should go to a University, to enable them to better meet the difficulties which one encounters in life from inefficiency and lack of knowledge of our fellowmen

ROBERT G. WHITE.

In these modern days one's education is not considered complete unless one has studied at some college or University.

One may say that a college education has an actual money value, for most women, after finishing their education, are prepared to take up some profession. Today she may go to most any good college and learn law, medicine, library work or any profession she may choose. In this way she will have as good a chance to command a good position as her brother. Although they are not as yet being adequately paid, they are making continual headway in this respect.

In college women are trained to deal with more difficult problems and larger subjects than her untrained sister is capable of handling.

In this way the trained woman will be able to command a better salary than the uneducated woman. Not only the money value but also the cultural phase and social experience are important. She receives an education, thus broadening her mind and helping her not to form hasty opinions. Meeting and conversing with people of so many different types gives her a clearer insight into human nature.

When she is not studying or occupied with social affairs which the college offers, she may engage in athletics, and thus receive physical culture. This phase of education is important.

In the end she has a good store of knowledge and a grasp on life, which will make her a useful person in the world. She will be a better citizen, a more efficient worker and possess a stronger personality.

Obituary.

Mrs. Mattie Bishoff, wife of Mr. George E. Bishoff, died at her home near Oakland, Md., on March 25th, 1914. She was born in Preston County, W. Va., October 12th, 1845. She was the mother of 12 children; four of them had preceeded her to the better land and eight remain to mourn her departure. She had been a faithful and consistent member of the Methodist Episcopal church for fifty years. She was converted and joined the church at Ringger Chapel, Preston County, W. Va., January 4, 1864. She loved the services of God's house and her place was seldom found vacant there. She was a faithful wife, a loving mother, and a kind and affectionate neighbor. She died in full hope of immortal life. The funeral services were conducted in the Hoyes M. E. church, by the Rev. B. S. Hamrick, assisted by the writer, who had once been her pastor for four years. Her remains were deposited just back of the church where she had so often been a worshiper, there to await the coming of her Lord on that great day.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

The postponed spelling bee Tuesday evening was a howling success. From 7:30 until 10:30 o'clock there was something doing every minute. About sixty people, old and young, were present and each and every one contributed to the evening's enjoyment. The older folks spent a pleasant hour in social converse while the younger set engaged in games and—we were about to tell on you, but were reminded that we should not tell tales out of school. The first spelling contest commenced at 8:45 and continued for nearly an hour. Messrs. H. V. Leighton and A. T. White were the captains and J. A. Hayden pronounced the words. This contest resulted in a victory for Mr. Leighton's team, the last one remaining up being Mrs. Upton Cuppett. The last one who went down was Mr. Russell Cuppett, step-son of the victor. Another contest was immediately organized after the manner of the old time country school when the objective point was the head of the line. When one failed to properly spell a word it went to the next and so on down the line and the one correctly spelling it would take a position in the line directly above the one who first failed to spell the word. The rule adopted was to continue the contest for twenty minutes and the one at the head of the line at the end of that time should be declared the victor. Several occupied the coveted position but failed to hold it. One minute before time was called Mrs. J. E. Marquess captured the coveted position from Mr. A. T. White and held it until time was called, Mr. White remaining in the second place. Orange punch and cake was served about 10:30 and the guests shortly after departed for their homes—or the homes of their best girls—all pleased with the evening's diversions and unanimous in their desire for more of the same kind in the near future. Several expressed appreciation of the manner in which Mrs. J. A. Hayden had acted the part of hostess.

The public schools of Garrett county closed yesterday afternoon. The work of pupils and teachers in all parts of the county has been favorably commented upon by numerous patrons of the schools who have expressed themselves as being entirely satisfied with the progress made under the superintendency of Prof. Rathbun and the splendid achievements of the Board of County School Commissioners in bringing about a friendly feeling between the board and the taxpayers.

Mr. F. W. Chase, manager of the Glade View Farm, located about eight miles South of Oakland, returned to his home yesterday morning after an absence of several weeks, considerable of the time being spent in a hospital and under a physician's care, his illness dated from the day he left Oakland when he suffered an attack of the grip which eventually terminated in a mastoid tumor. Mr. Chase brought home with him a number of thoroughbred Irish pointer and English setter dogs, the property of his brother, Mr. E. B. Chase of Rador, Pa., who is an importer of these animals.

Yesterday, if at any time, the practical joker had a license to turn his talents loose to devise ways and means to "fool" his friends, or posibly his foes, and quite a number of local jokesmiths tried their hands out in the usual, approved, April 1st fashion. While some persons were wise to the calander and went prepared for the worst, there were the usual number of unsuspecting folks, who "fell" for the jokes to the satisfaction of the jokers. Most of the stunts of April 1st are of an innocent nature, but some of them are of the real fool nature that is almost deserving of punishment at the hands of the authorities.

Mr. Harry J. Frear, of Roseburg, Oregon, arrived in Oakland Saturday night and went from here to Crellin Monday morning where he has established headquarters while engaged in engineering for the Kendall Lumber Company which corporation recently purchased an additional three thousand acres of timber land located in Tucker county, W. Va., to operate which will require the extension of the Preston railroad some fifteen miles, the survey of the line bringing Mr. Frear east. He will be assisted in the work by a competent corps of men, among them being Mr. J. E. Flanagan, of Meyersdale, who arrived here Sunday afternoon where he joined Mr. Frear. This addition to the holdings of the Kendall Company insures the operation of the Crellin mill for a long term of years, probably a dozen or more. The timber standing on the new tract has been estimated to be several millions feet.

When Mr. Scott Harvey and bride arrived here from Cumberland on Monday, March 23rd, everyone began making preparations for a serenade. A wedding is such a rare occurrence here that the young folks consider the serenade almost as important as the ceremony. So after the moon had gone down and everything was still all the young men of this place and about ten more from Kitzmiller, armed with every thing imaginable that would make a noise, went to the Harvey home and for an hour or more furnished some ear splitting music. Just as the boys were about to despair, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey appeared and were compelled to treat.

Mesdames V. E. Rafter and J. E. Chappell of Kitzmiller, spent one day last week visiting the sugar camp here.

PROMPT SERVICE. WORK GUARANTEED.

To Friends and Customers:

CASH AND CREDIT.—One of the most unpleasant duties of the merchants is the urging upon their customers the necessity of prompt payments of their bills. So far as possible we have endeavored to sell for cash and where credit is extended to meet a temporary emergency payment is expected within 30 or 60 days unless there is some understanding for a longer time and price is made to correspond.

Small accounts are always the hardest to collect and adds very much to the merchant's expense, as it costs at least 5 per cent. on an average to collect them and another 5 per cent. to 10 per cent. loss for those that cannot be collected, thus showing a loss of 10 per cent. to 15 per cent. on all small accounts, although aiming to sell only those that are considered worthy of credit.

These conditions make it necessary where goods are sold at cash prices to demand the cash and to charge an advance of 5 or 10 per cent. on small accounts over cash prices in order to make up the expense that necessarily follows a credit system.

Competition on all lines of goods is so keen and the merchant so anxious to sell that the credit system is constantly abused and on the other hand customers too often use their money for other purposes that should go to pay for obligations already made and when asked for their account are compelled to ask for longer time regardless of the position in which it places the merchant in meeting his.

Many a dealer has said. "How I wish I had money enough to take advantage of every discount that firms are willing to allow."

The dealer who has that idea hits the nail right on the topknot, for too much emphasis cannot be placed on the tremendous earning power of discounts

Do you know that 5 per cent. cash discount 10 days is equivalent to 180 per cent. a year, 2 per cent. 10 days is equal to over 70 per cent. a year?

PRICE AND DISCOUNTS Goods are manufactured and sold according to their quality and cost of distributing. There is a cheap, medium and high grade of goods manufactured in almost every line. It requires close investigation and knowledge to determine values and select standard goods.

The amount of purchases, cash or time sales, direct or factory shipments, have much to do with the price and make it almost impossible to name prices and discounts that are subject to frequent charges, but we are ready at any time to quote you our lowest prices both wholesale or retail according to quality or quantity required.

Very often large shipments can be made direct from factory. This saves time and expense when a large assortment of goods are needed for the building of a barn or house and when the new housekeeper requires a large variety of household goods. It would be a pleasure to us to quote prevailing prices and your privilege to investigate our lines. If same is not satisfactory to you or our prices and qualities are not equal to what you can do elsewhere, then the fault lies with us and not with you. All we ask is a fair chance. We will at least give you the best information we have as to quality, price and years of experience in regard to same.

We want your trade and are willing to meet any fair competition both as to price and quality, but in order to do this must demand the cash and an advanced price over cash price where goods are charged.

VOTE TODAY ON TOLLS REPEAL

Bitter Fight in House Comes to End This Afternoon

WILSON MEN SEE VICTORY

Majority of Not Less Than Fifty Predicted by Supporters of Repeal, While Opponents Claim Many Congressmen Have Jumped to Their Side—Speaker Clark's Address This Afternoon Will Conclude Debate.

Washington, March 31.—With the final vote on the Sims repeal bill in the house scheduled for late today interest in the controversy increased, the closing speech of Speaker Clark in opposition to the repeal serving as to the chief objective point of anticipation.

Little doubt as to the result of the vote on the bill is entertained by anyone, the majority for the repeal being variously estimated at not less than fifty.

Congressman Knowlands said: "There are developments in this situation that are not observable on the surface. In my opinion the tolls bill is in danger.

"Do you think there is a chance of beating the bill?" Mr. Knowlands was asked.

"I do most emphatically," replied Mr. Knowlands. "Wait and see the finish."

In today's debate the heavy artillery of both sides is being unlimbered. Speaker Clark's speech will be the most important feature of the concluding debate.

Others of the anti-administration group to be heard today were Minority Leader Mann and Progressive Leader Murdock. Representative Sherley of Kentucky presented the closing argument for the administration side. Mr. Sherley's speech was an exhaustive presentation of the economic principles involved and an insistance upon an honest observance of America's international treaty obligations.

Voting will begin at about 5 o'clock. There will be two roll calls at least. The first will be on the motion to recommit the bill to the committee on interstate and foreign commerce with general or specific instructions as to amendment and the second on the passage of the measure.

Each roll call will consume approximately forty minutes, so that definite action on the bill will have been accomplished by 6 o'clock.

Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois startled his colleagues when he declared that the reason the president was so anxious to settle the tolls controversy in a way satisfactory to England was to prevent the occupation of Mexico by England, Germany and France. The senator went further and predicted that in case such a thing came to pass Russia would seize Alaska and Japan would take the Philippines and Hawaii and attack the Pacific coast.

Senator Lewis dashed this warning off in a matter of fact way which caused his colleagues to look at him with an expression of incredulity. He calmly asserted that this was the real motive behind the president's speech to congress when he referred to delicate international relations as a reason for tolls exemption.

The president referred with considerable feeling to charges that have been made in congress that he had entered into a deal with Great Britain by which Great Britain was to get a repeal of the free tolls legislation and in return for it was to support President Wilson's Mexican policy.

The president characterized this as one of a number of "insults" that have been injected into the tolls debate. He expressed great regret at what seemed to him to be a degenerating of the debate into an effort to discredit the administration. He declared, however, that the outcome would not be affected by this.

The president told visitors that the international emergency referred to by him was merely the unanimity of opinion among the powers that the exemption clause in the Hay-Pauncefote treaty.

GOVERNOR SAVES MAN

Refuses Pardon, Thereby Keeping Prisoner From Gallows.

Jefferson City, Mo., March 31.—By refusing to pardon James Schum from a ninety-nine-year prison term for the murder of Mount Hall, Governor Major saved the man from death on the gallows.

The prison sentence makes it impossible for the sheriff of St. Francis county to obtain Schum and hang him for the murder of Gint Gibson, although the sentence of execution has been approved by the state supreme court.

Eleven Students Sacrifice Skin.

Morgantown, W. Va., March 31.—Two hundred and fifty square inches of skin given up by eleven students of West Virginia university is being grafted on the body of Mrs. Albert C. Price of this place in an effort to save her life. A month ago Mrs. Price sustained severe burns.

TO MARRY COUPLES FREE.

One of the New Social Plans of Trinity Church In Chicago.

Chicago.—Marriage ceremonies for which no fee will be accepted is one of the innovations which will be inaugurated at Trinity Episcopal church in case a fund of $75,000 a year can be raised to make possible the extension of the church's activities.

"We wish to make Trinity something like the Little Church Around the Corner in New York," declared Andrew R. Sheriff, chairman of the campaign committee. "It is proposed to have a clergyman in attendance at all hours of the day and night to offer spiritual consolation, perform baptisms and marriage ceremonies and attend to the physical needs of the poor. An after midnight service on Sunday mornings for actors, newspaper people and those detained downtown late is also probable, while the social center work of the church will be greatly extended."

At one time Trinity church had eighteen multimillionaires as members of its congregation. Many of the wealthy members have moved away, making the task of maintaining the church a serious problem.

"SABLES" OF RABBIT SKINS.

America Sends Many Pelts to Paris Every Year.

Spokane, Wash.—Local postoffice employees who loaded and unloaded four wagon loads of rabbit pelts consigned to Paris believe they have discovered the source of some of the "sable" furs of the world's fashion center.

Homer Elwell, superintendent of the railway mails, was astonished not long ago when the postmaster at Chewelah wired him that sixty big mail pouches would be required to ship a consignment of rabbit skins to Paris. While Mr. Elwell considered the request a joke, he finally sent the pouches.

Railway mail clerks declared that they had been receiving small shipments of the pelts for several weeks.

The latest shipment is said to have been made by a Mr. Oppenheimer, a buyer. The parcel post rules provide dried pelts may be sent through the mails.

BE A SPINSTER AND LIVE LONG, HE SAYS

Life Insurance Man Gives Statistics on Death Rate.

New York.—The spinster lives longer than the married woman.

The business woman lives longer than the business man.

The woman who takes out an endowment insurance policy lives longer than the woman who takes out a straight life policy.

These facts and Arthur Hunter, actuary of a leading company, said they were facts were gathered last year by experts in the employ of the forty-three leading companies in this country.

Mr. Hunter didn't explain why the unmarried woman survives the matron nor why the business woman outlives the business man, but he revealed why the woman who takes unto herself an endowment policy lasts longer than the woman who has to die to win.

"The endowment woman just gets up her spirit and determines to live until the policy matures," he said. "The other woman sighs, 'Oh, what's the use?' and shuffles off."

Mr. Hunter said there were more fatal accidents in this country than elsewhere because of the American "I'll take a chance" spirit. The American, he said, takes all sorts of risks to save time and inconvenience. The foreigner doesn't do that at home, but when he comes here he becomes infected.

"The mortality rate among engineers and firemen is eight times that of men in other callings," he said, "and among policemen about 40 per cent higher. With policemen it is on the increase."

Mr. Hunter said that the business woman kept herself going by a determination to fight it out. She had something tangible, something to live for whereas the business man takes his work as a matter of course and is apathetic.

"JAG" CURE COSTS $10.000.

Minnesota Experimental Farm Saves Thirty-nine Patients In a Year.

St. Paul.—Minnesota's "jag farm" at Wilmar has succeeded in its mission, but it has been an expensive enterprise, according to the report.

The cost of running the farm for a years was $385,823. Eighty-eight men were admitted for treatment. Thirty-nine were said to have been cured. Thirteen have relapsed. Eleven are missing and thirteen are back for more treatment at $10,000 per cure.

Feel of Corpse Revives Him

GIRL SECRETARY AIDS GOV. WEST

Miss Fern Hobbs Holds Unique Position in Oregon.

VISITS LAWLESS PLACES

Delivers Message From Governor to Violators of the Law and Is Always Treated With Respect—Pays No Attention to Threats Against Her, and They Are Never Executed.

Portland, Ore.—The cares of office, an exacting one, too, lie lightly on the shoulders of probably the only woman private secretary to a governor of any state in America.

Miss Fern Hobbs has won fame and honor as the "right hand woman" of Governor Oswald West, Oregon's unusual Democratic executive.

Witness her trip to the rough mining regions of the state, when she stood to the utmost height of her five feet three inches and read the governor's proclamation that ordered closed the saloons run by the accused Copperfield officials—and incidentally divested the same city officials of their authority.

"I truly did feel rather timid when I read in a morning paper that I was to be sent to Copperfield, but it's part of my job, so I trotted right along."

Outside of that Miss Hobbs refused to say any more about her trip—that is, about the "frightening" part of it for as she laughingly replied to questions: "Why should I be afraid? I had heard that the men were a rawboss element, but found many respectable people. When I arrived they were quiet, kind and considerate.

"There was absolutely no noise as I spoke of while I read the governor's message. These men, who had vowed vengeance on Governor West and had made open brags that they would not heed my message, stood peacefully by the track and listened to what I had to read. Some of them even shook hands with me, and a number of women carrying small children came to me with tears in their eyes and thanked me for coming to their town with law and order back of me. Yes, I will admit that I did dread it at first. What woman wouldn't? But when I got there I just got up and told them what I had come for—and it wasn't bad at all."

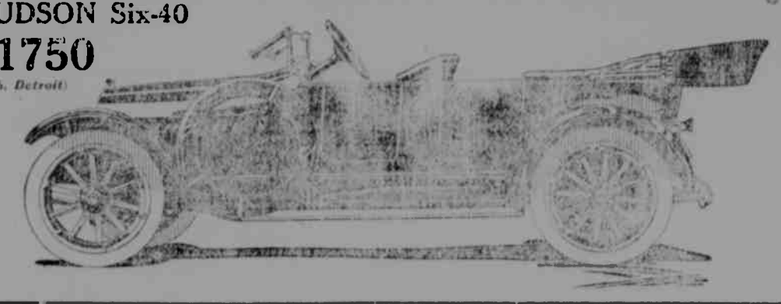
All the pleasing prominence that her recent appointment has given her has not "turned her head," as our grandmothers would say. She is just the same sweet, clever little girl who left Hillsboro, Ore., several years ago to accept a position as stenographer in the office of an attorney in Portland. Her father is J. A. Hobbs, who lives on a farm near Hillsboro, and her mother is just her mother.



She always studied, and she put her heart and soul into her work. When she went to Salem as a stenographer in the office of the governor she enrolled as a student in the Willamette College of Law and was graduated in the class of 1913. Several months ago, upon the resignation of Ralph Watson, who was promoted from his position as private secretary to the governor to that of corporation commissioner, Miss Hobbs was appointed to succeed him. She is the only woman in the world who holds such a position.

At Copperfield Miss Hobbs stood out on the rickety little platform surrounded by an interested crowd of citizens, some in rags and most of them wearing great top boots and bandana handkerchiefs tied about their necks. Greeted by a silence that at times seemed almost ominous, the little woman, who would scarcely tip the scales at 110 pounds, fearlessly warned the city officials that the town must be cleaned up at once or action would be taken by the Oregon state militia. It is said that a number of threats were made among a few, but as a general thing the governor's representative was treated with the utmost respect. However, Miss Fern Hobbs, lawyer and teacher, implicitly trusted American chivalry and she was not disappointed.

$1750

(f. o. b. Detroit)

The Most Talked-About Car in the Country

See This Innovation

A few days ago the first Six-40 was shipped from the HUDSON factory. Before this time the first month's output had been ordered by users who had not seen the car.

They were sold on these startling facts:

That the streamline body, the equipment, the new features were like the latest HUDSON Six-54, the handsomest car of the season.

That the weight would be under 3,000 pounds—under any comparable Four.

That the operative cost would be less than any equal-powered Four.

That the price would be $1750, f. o. b. Detroit—way below the price of Fours of equal power and size and class.

Think What This Means

Sixes have been high-priced, heavy, costly to operate. For that reason many have been forced to buy Fours.

Now comes this Six-40. It weighs 500 pounds less than last year's HUDSON "37"—a Four. It costs one-fourth less to operate. And it far undersells any Four in its class.

You legions of men who seek lightness and economy find them now in this Six-40—beyond any Four you know.

A Distinguished Car

In addition, here is the new streamline body. Here are all the new features which characterize the new HUDSON Six-54.

Disappearing tonneau seats. Gasoline tank in cowl dash. Left side drive. Extra tires ahead of the front door.

Up to six months ago, no car at any price offered so many attractions.

And a car designed by Howard E. Coffin, the great HUDSON engineer. A car that embodies all the best HUDSON standards.

Our first Six-40 has just arrived. It is now on exhibition. Come, see it and ride in it while it is new. The car marks a new era in motor-car history, and all of you should know it.

STEYER.

We have been having some very bad weather the past week, but are glad to say that it is slightly warmer at this writing.

Mr. A. J. Wilson, of Sulphur, spent Sunday with his family at this place.

Mr. B. L. Hardesty of Mt. Lake Park, was calling on friends at this place one day last week,

Messrs. Scott Harvey, Boyd Moon, Milo and James Wilson, Orvis Stafford, Tobe Ashby and Mrs. Oscar Wolfe and little daughter were pleasant callers at the home of A. J. Wilson Sunday last.

Mrs. R. W. Moomaw is visiting friends at Mt. Lake Park at this writing.

Several people from our village attended the funeral of Mrs Maud Kitzmiller at White Church last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hamill spent Sunday visiting friends at Swanton.

Mrs. Oscar Wolfe and Miss Myrtle Wilson were the guests of Mrs. E. W. Kelso near Mt. Lake Park Monday last.

Mr. H. H. Harper was calling on friends in this vicinityrecently.

Messrs. O. D. Eastman and W. W. Steyer were Oakland visitors a few days ago.

Messrs. Tobe Ashby, Joe Trickett and Orvis Stafford have the contract of making sugar for Mrs. Hester Harvey. Hope they may have a "sugar-boiling" so that we may all go and get a piece of spotza.

Mr. Frank Moomaw, who has been on the sick list for some time, is much improved at this writing.

Mr. W. G. Riley was a business caller in town recently.

KITZMILLER.

Mr. George Coffman is ill with the quinsy.

Mr. Frank Trout slipped on the icy pavement last Wednesday. At the time he was carrying a large piece of plate glass; when he felt the glass broke and a piece ran in his arm, causing a very painful injury.

On Wednesday morning when the manager of Pool and Scothern's store entered they found thieves had paid them a visit the night before. The thieves did not get much to amount to any great value. They had gained admittance by taking a window out of the back of the store.

Mrs. H. A. Paugh moved to Chaffee, W. Va., last week.

Mrs. John Bishop and Mrs. L. Holmick were in Piedmont, W. Va., shopping Thursday.

Mr. Dick Markwood has been confined to his home this week with the quinsy.

Thursday about five o'clock there was a powder explosion at the Lee house. Two men, George Moon and Frank Wilson, were badly shaken up and burned about the face and arms. There was not very much damage done, although for an hour or so the people were rather excited.

Saturday morning the second and third teams of Boy Scouts went to Piedmont to play basket ball. They returned victorious having won three games from the Piedmont boys.

Miss Isabel Tibbets of Beryl, spent Sunday with relatives and friends.

Saturday night the F. O. E. lodge held a banquet and pig roast in the K. of P. hall. It was largely attended and every one reported a good time with plenty to eat.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Price died Saturday.

Mrs. Otis Abernathy spent Sunday at Piedmont, W. Va.

SHORT RUN.

We are glad to learn that Mr. Raymond Paugh, whose illness was noted in these columns a few weeks ago, is on the rapid road to recovery. After trying many different remedies without relief, Mr. Paugh decided to try some of natures remedies and the result was far beyond his greatest expectations. Just to demonstrate the fact that his medicine will cure, Mr. Paugh offers to treat a few patients free of charge and if it still continues to cure, he will apply for a patent.

Mr. Scott Harvey, of this place, and Miss Nora Solomon, of Blaine, W. Va., were married at Cumberland last Saturday. Their many friends here wish them a long and happy life.

Miss Markwood was called from her school here Monday to attend the funeral of her nephew, little Jesse Edward Markwood, who died at Bayard on Sunday.

Those who were visiting at Mr. Claude Harvey's Sunday were, Mr. and Mrs. Smith Upole, and G. W. Moon of Eagle Rock, and Misses Cinda Wilson and Nelle Harvey of this place.

Messrs Milo and James Wilson were visiting friends at Ryan's Glade over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Wilson were calling on Mrs. S. E. Harvey Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Jesse White made a trip to Oakland Tuesday.

WHY EMOLSION IS THE BEST

Other Consumption Medicines Are Hard on Stomach.

But Bear's Emulsion Builds Up Body and Beats Germs in Race.

Dr. Robert Koch, distinguished German scientist, discovered in 1882 the cause of consumption, and since that time Bear's Emulsion is the first and most effective remedy ever used. Although there have been a great many other preparations used but in nearly every case the remedy was so hard on the stomach that the patient had to stop its use before much good was derived.

Digestive organs are almost constantly in a disordered state in consumptive patients. Bear's Emulsion relieves these symptoms almost immediately and thus institutes the first indispensable step to proper treatment by getting you in a receptive condition of food and medicines. Fever is reduced steadily and progressively because the toxaemia is antagonized and because tissues are not burned up so rapidly as before the Emulsion was administered. This is due in part to the fact established experimentally and clinically, that Bear's Emulsion maintains the proper ratio of waste and repair tissue. It does more; it makes tissue construction a more rapid process than tissue consumption, thus overcoming Bear's Emulsion is not only good for consumption, but for the treatment of coughs, croup, bronchitis, influenza, whooping cough, colds, lagrippe, asthma, pneumonia, weak and rundown systems.

ASQUITH RETIRES TO STEM CRISIS

Premier Seeks Approval of His Constituents

TAKES WAR SECRETARY JOB

Asquith's Move Is Considered a Wise One as Army Crisis Can Now Be Allowed to Lay Dormant Pending Premier's Return to Parliament by Voters—Premier Will Be Away Two Weeks.

London, March 31.—Sensation follows sensation in the political crisis. Of all the amazing happenings of the last few days none has so thoroughly electrified parliament or the country as Premier Asquith's dramatic announcement that he had decided to assume the duties of the war office for a time. Colonel Seely has recently vacated the office.

He added that, as provided by law, he would retire from the house of commons until his constituents in East Fife re-elected him.

The premier's action is considered an adroit move and will help to tide over a difficult situation. The government will thereby get some days of breathing spell in the house where every Opposition question can be met with the answer that nothing can be settled in Asquith's absence.

The premier's absence from parliament will not be longer than two weeks. His re-election for the Scottish division he has represented ever since he entered parliament is regarded certain.

The decision of the premier was unexpected. It momentarily overshadowed the retirements of Colonel Seely, Field Marshal French and Adjutant General Ewart. Politicians, however, were brought back to the original cause of the ministerial crisis by the admissions of Viscount Morley in the house of lords, which confirmed many Unionist charges, and gave the intimation that Viscount Morley himself intended to retire from politics.

Sir John French, chief of the imperial general staff of the British army, and Sir John Ewart, adjutant general to the forces, definitely resigned from the service.

"Colonel Seely's resignation has been accepted." This was the euphemistic expression employed by Premier Asquith in announcing to the house of commons that his war secretary had paid the penalty of his indiscretions in adding to a cabinet document the two paragraphs which have aroused such feeling as to threaten the existence of the entire cabinet.

Premier Asquith's further announcement that he himself would take up the portfolio of secretary for war came in the nature of a surprise. He declared he would retire from the house of commons, in accordance with the law "until it pleases my constituents to sanction my return."

The premier then dramatically walked out of the chamber amid cheers from the Liberals, the Nationalists and the Labor members, the whole body of whom rose to their feet and waved handkerchiefs and papers as he left.

Mr. Asquith, having accepted "an office of profit under the crown," must now return to his constituency of East Fife, Scotland, for re-election. On the last occasion he received 5,149 votes against 3,330 of his Unionist opponent.

In a brief personal statement Colonel Seely told the house there was no differences between himself and his colleagues in the cabinet on any point of policy or principle. He said he had pressed his resignation because there appeared, although such was not his intention, to have been a bargain with the army officers regarding the service they should render to the crown. Neither had Sir John French nor Sir John Ewart the intention of making such a bargain.

Andrew Bonar Law, leader of the opposition, thought it would be impossible to proceed with the Irish home rule bill in the absence of the premier, but Premier Asquith remarked that he would be at hand if advice was wanted and then left the house, of which Reginald McKenna, the home secretary, assumed the leadership.

SUIT ORDERED FILED

Ohio Attorney General Must Begin Ouster Action Against Standard Oil.

Columbus, O., March 31.—Judge Dillon of the common pleas court granted an alternative writ, ordering Attorney General Hogan to begin proceedings to oust the Standard Oil company and its subsidiaries, including the Imperial Oil Company of Canada, from doing business in Ohio. The case is set for hearing April 20.

The suit to compel Attorney General Hogan to file ouster proceedings was begun several days ago by George H. Phelps, an attorney of Findlay, O. Phelps alleged that the Standard Oil company, Ohio Oil company, Buckeye Pipe Line company, Solar Refining company and the Imperial Oil Company of Canada are being operated in the state in violation of the federal Sherman anti-trust law and the Valentine anti-trust law, an Ohio statute.

Mr. Hogan had announced after an investigation that he would not begin the proceedings demanded by Mr. Phelps. The issuance of the writ by Judge Dillon will force him into court to resist the Phelps application.

Rev. Beecher Clasps Hand of Boy Who Killed Daughter.

Little Falls, N. Y., March [illegible] Gianini, aged seventeen, under arrest for the murder of Miss Lydia Beecher, the young school teacher who was found beaten and stabbed to death in the woods near Poland, has confessed his guilt, according to District Attorney Farrell.

Rev. A. W. Beecher, father of the girl, visited Gianini in his cell. The clergyman grasped both hands of the lad and said:

"This is a sad, sad affair, young man." Gianini stood silent and expressionless.

LEAVES TRAIN AND SHOOTS

Man Believed Demented Probably Fatally Wounds Railroader.

Akron, O., March 31.—Frank Moran and Jessie Armstrong, Baltimore and Ohio railway employes, were shot by an unidentified man when he alighted from a train here.

The assailant fled and when he saw a crowd of men pursuing him, turned the revolver on himself. Moran may die. The police believe the unidentified man is demented.

Barber Is Robbed of $601.

Ashtabula, O., March 31.—As J. Johnson was opening his barber shop a stranger entered and asked him to change a bill. Johnson drew out $60. The man attacked Johnson, who was getting the better of him when an accomplice entered, hit Johnson several blows on the head and knocked him senseless. The shop was rifled and the robbers got away with $601, including $500 that belonged to the barber's daughter, a manicurist.

Toledo Car Rides Still Free.

Toledo, O., March 31.—With divisions in all court proceedings involving the Toledo Railways and Light company, ran hisses delivered [illegible] ledeans who insist are riding free on the street cars. Reports issued by the company showed that 22,000 passengers were carried Saturday. That was 15 per cent of the traffic. Sunday the percentage had increased to 18. No fares are collected from passengers who refuse to pay more than 3 cents.

Refuse to Mine Coal For Engines.

Uniontown, Pa., March 31.—At a meeting of the United Mineworkers of America here it was decided that the members of that organization engaged in the mines in getting out coal to be used on locomotives of the Pennsylvania railroad would not mine any more coal for use in locomotives until the trouble between the freight conductors and brakemen was settled with the officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad company.

Noodles Explode; Firemen Called.

Pittsburg, March 31.—When a pot of noodle soup being prepared on the stove for the family dinner exploded in the home of Edward Himelrich, second floor of 1202 East street, North side, the fire department was called out. Beyond the spilling of noodles little damage was done.

DEFENDERS ARE READY TO QUIT

Velasco Would Surrender Conditionally to General Villa

FEDERALS HOLD TWO CUARTELS

General Velasco Can Repel Attacks by Enemy Without Endangering Own Position—Carranza Sees in Surrender Offer Recognition of Rebels—Tremendous Loss of Life on Both Sides in Torreon Battle.

Juarez, Mex., March 31.—Demanding that his 3,000 officers and men be granted amnesty Federal General Velasco, defender of Torreon, has made an offer of surrender to Rebel General Villa. This is the unofficial report here.

It is stated that Villa has wired to General Carranza here for advice about the surrender offer as his own army is in a badly battered and disorganized condition.

Unofficially it has been learned in Juarez that Velasco still holds two big cuartels in Torreon, Villa having taken one of the three. In the larger of the cuartels Velasco, it is said, has 2,000 men, food sufficient to last several weeks and an abundance of ammunition. The cuartel is a large warehouse located in a low spot in such a way that rebel cannon cannot be trained upon it and the only way to reach it is through a pass between two hills.

Following the receipt of the dispatch from Villa a conference of rebel officers was held in Juarez and arrangements were made to get a through leased wire from Juarez to Washington for the purpose, it is said, of getting into direct communication with the United States state department.

It is said Carranza may ask the state department for recognition for the rebels if he grants general amnesty to the federals at Torreon, claiming that in treating with Villa for surrender the federal army recognizes the existence of the Constitutionalist government and the United States should be magnanimous enough to recognize it.

An argument in favor of accepting the offer of surrender is said to have been made by Velasco, for it is said in Juarez that the federal position might not be taken for weeks and in the meantime the rebels would lose many men in attempting to dislodge the federals.

Juarez sent to Chihuahua 100 cots, a large supply of blankets and a large quantity of hospital supplies for the use of the wounded rebels in the Chihuahua hospitals, also five machine guns and a quantity of ammunition.

General Manuel Chao, who came north to extend a welcome to General Carranza for Villa, returned south again. It is stated in Juarez that the commission investigating the death of Benton and Rauch has prepared its report to submit to Carranza. Nothing was given out on the matter.

Carranza took time to pose for the moving picture men with "Buffalo Bill" (William F. Cody). Dr. Henry Allen Tupper, representing the International peace forum, also called on Carranza. He had a letter of introduction, he said, from United States Senator Morris Sheppard.

According to the department of information in Juarez a message was received from Brownsville, Tex., reporting the arrival of several cannon of large caliber and long range, together with ammunition as well as 500 rifles with several hundred thousand rounds of ammunition. These munitions will be distributed among troops of the Constitutionalists.

Losses Heavy.

Chihuahua, March 31.—For seven days General Villa, military leader of the Constitutionalist revolution, has waged his battle against Torreon. For six days the fight has been the bitterest and the loss of life the heaviest in the recent history of Mexico, judging from the meager press dispatches from the front, and the stories of slaughter told by many of the 588 wounded refugees of Torreon who are interned in hospitals here.

The loss of life on both sides will be enormous much greater than in any other battle ever fought in Mexico. Fully 2,500 federal soldiers are dead, according to rebel leaders, and it is believed as many more have been wounded.

The rebel loss has been estimated at 1,500.

When the rebels captured Cerro de la Cruz early Sunday the most crushing blow of the whole campaign was delivered against the federals. The latter abandoned all of their artillery and great stores of ammunition there.

Robber Shoots Railroad Man.

Pittsburg, March 31.—Luigi Santucci, aged thirty-nine, of Verona, watchman in the Verona yards of the Pennsylvania railroad, was shot in the left hip by one of two masked highwaymen. At the hospital it was reported that the condition of the watchman was serious.

Earthquake Felt From Southward.

Cleveland, March 31.—Father Odenbach professor at St. Ignatius university, reports his seismograph recorded an earthquake 3,000 miles away. He thinks the earthquake was either in Mexico or South America.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson I.—Second Quarter, For April 5, 1914.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Luke xiv, 7-24. Memory Verses, 13, 14—Golden Text. Luke xiv, 11—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

As He ate bread in the house of one of the chief Pharisees on the Sabbath day He not only healed a man who had the dropsy (xiv, 1-6), but He had a special message for the guests and then for the host and later for one of the guests who had made an interesting remark. Oh, how He did live before God and seek the souls of men fearing no one's frown and desiring no one's favor. To the guests He taught humility, for then as now there was often a desire for the best place that could be obtained. Humility is a rare virtue, and few there seem to be who in lowliness of mind esteem others better than themselves (Phil. ii, 3). There was only one who was perfect in humility and lowliness, the speaker on this occasion, and He could truly say, "I am meek and lowly in heart" (Matt xi, 29). Exalting self is like anti christ (Dan. xi, 36; II Thess. ii, 4; Rev xiii, 5, 6), but renouncing self is Christ like, for He made Himself of no reputation and took upon Him the form of a servant (Phil. ii, 7, 8). See also verse 11 of our lesson.

His message to His host was in reference to a future rather than a present recompense. How common it is to be kind to those who can return the kindness, to invite those to enjoy our hospitality who can return the invitation. How much of social life is filled up in this way? This may seem all right for those who know no better way. But when in church work, supposed to be the Lord's work, people act as if money could be obtained only by giving a present equivalent in the form of a lecture or an entertainment or something to eat, does it not all seem contrary to our Lord's admonition to this host? My own intense conviction is that giving or living only for a present equivalent is all wrong, and I have proved in a ministry of over thirty years that the love of Christ and the need of those who never heard of it will constrain people to give freely to help make Him known and gladly await the recompense in His kingdom in connection with the resurrection of the just.

It does not appear from the Scriptures that believers are rewarded at death, though it is a common saying that he or she has gone to his or her reward. The truth concerning the dead in Christ is that they rest from their labors and their works do follow them, but rewards are promised only at His coming again (Rev. xiv, 13; xxii, 12; I Pet. v, 4). Here is a plain reference in verse 14 of our lesson to the difference between the resurrection of the just and the unjust. That there shall be both is written in Acts xxiv, 15, but that there shall be a thousand years between them is just as plainly written in Rev. xx, 5, 6. The hour of John v, 28, does not conflict with this, for the hour of John v, 25, has already lasted nearly 1,900 years, and that of verses 28, 29, may easily cover the two resurrections at the beginning and end of the thousand years.

His mention of the resurrection of the just seems to have led one of the guests to remark, "Blessed is he that shall eat bread in the kingdom of God" (verse 15), which he evidently associated with the resurrection. This led our Lord to speak of the great supper and of the way the invitations were treated and of the excuses which men will make rather than accept the invitation. He seems to reply to the remark of the guest that men are more interested in property and in earthly enjoyments than in the things of the kingdom.

The things unseen and eternal are so unreal to most people that things seen and temporal hold all their attention. Contrast the way of the believers in II Cor. iv, 17, 18. The redemption which leads to the kingdom is described as a great supper fully prepared, and the invited ones have only to come and enjoy it. It is probable that the inviteeress of this chief of the Pharisees, in whose house they were, had all been accepted eagerly, but the invitations of which our Lord spoke were treated far otherwise. The great salvation has been fully prepared by the life and death and resurrection of the Lord Jesus, nothing can be added to it; but, oh, the cost of it all to the Father who gave His only Son and to the Son who gave Himself! And all is offered freely, for "the free gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord." "We are justified freely by His grace through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus" (Rom. vi, 23, R. V.; iii, 24). How often we hear Him say, "Come!" from Gen. vii, 1 to Rev. xxii, 17; notably in Isa. i, 18; Matt. xi, 28, and how frivolous are men's excuses when compared with the importance of the salvation offered them and the glory of His kingdom.

I have heard of one man who was led to accept the great Invitation by the remark, "There will be no excuses at the bar of God." Meantime, the devil, the god of this world, is busily blinding the minds of them which believe not lest the light of the glorious gospel of Christ, who is the image of God, should shine unto them (II Cor. iv, 3, 4). Yet the word stands "Whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely."

Last but not least we desire to mention the very pleasant surprise given by friends and neighbors of Eld. and Mrs. Jeremiah Beeghly, Saturday evening, March 28th, in honor of the sixteith anniversary of their marriage. It was a complete surprise to the aged couple, they knowing nothing of it till the party arrived about 5 p. m. carrying baskets, etc., containing many delicacies which was soon placed on the table and all present enjoyed a bountiful repast. Eld. Beeghly is the only son of Eld. Jacob Beeghly deceased and was born Feb. 26, 1834, in Somerset county, Pa., but moved with his parents in early life on a farm near Accident, Md. Mrs. Beegly was born Dec. 20, 1836, near Frostburg, Md., and is the youngest daughter of Geo. Harden deceased. They were united in marriage at the bride's home near Frostburg March 28, 1854, by Eld. Jacob M. Thomas, of Preston county W. Va. The day after their marriage they arrived at the groom's home near Accident. That vicinity being their home during all their wedded life save a few years they lived at Selbysport, (some forty years ago) until Nov. 1910, they moved to Markleysburg, Pa., and have since had their home with their youngest daughter. Eld. and Mrs. Beeghly have been life long members of the church of the Brethren he having served in the ministry for many years; was always an honest, hard working man, enduring many hard-hips of the early settlers, having cleared a part of several farms which have become fine farming land. Through hard work both mental and physical he contracted both brain and nervous trouble more than thirty years ago and much of the time since has been unable to do any preaching or labor. They are both enjoying fairly good health at this time considering their age. To them were born nine children, all of whom are living save one son who died in infancy. Those living are Jacob H., of Coalport, Pa., Geo. W., of Markleysburg, Pa., Mrs. D. M. Merrill, of Avilton; Mrs. Jonas Hosteller and Miss Maggie of Payette, Idaho; Eld. James W., of Oakland, Mrs. A. J. Alexander of Accident, and Mrs. Andrew Chrise, of Markleysburg. They have thirty-eight living grand children, and about thirty great grand children. After all had been satisfied with the good things the friends brought to eat we enjoyed some fine singing and music the organ being presided over by MissFo Mz a in ee. Also an earnest prayerabehalffry r all present, especially for the aged pair by Eld. Solomon Bucklew, after which the crowd departed, wishing them many happy years. Nearly all present attended preaching in town by Rev. Howell. Those present were Eld. and Mrs. Jeremiah Beeghly, Eld. and Mrs. Solomon Bucklew, Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. M. N. IS Your Child Handicapped in his or her physical and mental development by defective vision? Out of 100,000 school children examined in New York city, nearly 30 per cent. were found to be in need of glasses. In Boston the percentage was found to be slightly over 20 per cent., and most of these children were down on the books as "stupid," "stubborn" or unruly. In Philadelphia 354 children were discovered who could not read ordinary writing on a blackboard at a distance of twenty feet. Last Hours Of House Argument For Reducing Membership.

Annapolis, Md., April 7—No better argument for Senator Benson's plan to reduce the membership of the House of Delegates could be presented than the scenes in the closing hours of that body as contrasted with the smaller and more decorous Senate.

Throughout the evening the House was a scene of disorder and tumult the Senate was a well-conducted legislative body.

With the usual rush of unfinished business, the more than usual number of important questions still unsettled, the last night of the session was the longest in years and did not end in the Senate until about 3 o'clock this morning. The House had adjourned a half hour earlier. That the Senate was later was due to the fact that the city Senators had postponed to the last action on the appointments of Governor Goldsborough.

While it had been asserted on the floor that the business of the House was 10 hours ahead of any previous session it did not so work out as the tired and sleepy members found.

The proceedings became so disorderly and so unlike a real legislative body that Lloyd Wilkinson, the Democratic floor leader, who for the last few days has been objecting to the slipshod manner in which things have been done, denounced the proceedings as disgraceful.

"Thousands of dollars of the public's money is being voted away," he said, "and no one knows what is being done. Time and again have I asked that the business of the House be conducted with decorum, but without result. It is a disgraceful proceeding to thus vote away thousands of dollars of the people's money. I will not stay here any longer unless there is order in which to pass bills."

The reading clerk had been reading a great pile of orders in which it seemed that almost everybody among the list of employees was getting extra pay. The members, to find out what was really going on, not being able to hear in the rear of the House, had crowded four deep around the desk of the reading clerk. Speaker Trippe explained to Mr. Wilkinson that the orders had been carefully considered by committees, but Mr. Wilkinson replied that no committee should be permitted to legislate for the people of Maryland; then order was somewhat restored.

The mass of orders that went through mainly for special services and as gratuities, seemed to be endless, and there was so much confusion that it was impossible to tell what they totaled, but they ran into thousands of dollars. It was the final grab at the State treasury, and though few got all they asked, not many were turned down entirely.

The last measure to be acted upon by the House was the amendment to the Baltimore city charter providing for the naming of a Chief Engineer. In the Senate the bill was amended so as to provide that the term of the new appointee should end in October, 1917, instead of 1919, as had been proposed by the city Senators. The bill was amended over the heads of the city Senators by county members, and provoked quite a discussion. The House concurred in the amendment.

Earlier in the night the House had taken up the Maryland Agricultural College bill which it had amended and which the Senate had changed back to its original form on the protest of some of the directors named in the original measure, but who had been eliminated. The House, on motion of Speaker Trippe, refused to concur in the amendments and a conference committee failing to induce the Senate to recede, the bill was killed by the House.

With it went a loan of $350,000 for new buildings, which was contingent on the new charter bill getting through.

The scheme fell through the stubborness of some of the directors, who preferred that the College should go without money than to see themselves eliminated as life directors representing an interest that they had agreed to surrender.

Another feature of the closing hours was the killing of the bill to put the State in the business of making lime in Southern Maryland and on the Eastern Shore through the use of convict labor. The scheme originated in Southern Maryland, which always demands some special concession from the Legislature, and was bitterly fought by the lime manufacturers in Western Maryland.

The Senate amended the bill and the House refused to concur and killed the measure.

The bank tax reduction bill went through the House on its final passage without more than a perfunctory effort to amend it, while a great crowd of bank people, including their lawyers, looked on expecting a strong fight.

At night session there was a long list of bills on the House file and many on that of the Senate. The bills in the House were run off in such rapid fashion that few could keep track of them, the roll calls having been filled out in advance, and but half a dozen names, including the first and last, being called. Usually when an important bill was about to be passed the Speaker would call attention to it, but some, including the general appropriation bills, carrying many thousands of dollars, went through without having been noticed by anyone except Lloyd Wilkinson, who protested at the rush.

In the Senate the roll call being so much shorter there was not so much hurry, though its proceedings was delayed by debate. As the night wore on in the House the patience of the members weeks, but it emphasized the importance of the Legislature acting more promptly and not leaving anything of importance till the last night.

Nearly every measure of importance that has been finally passed on in the last week could have been more satisfactorily disposed of many days earlier and with a better understanding on the part of members what they were doing.

The Legislature has adjourned without having stripped the Republican Governor of any of the powers he possessed at the beginning of the session, but in creating new powers it has reserved them for the Democratic party, and that the Democrats did not take away from him the naming of the important boards in Baltimore was due not so much to the political highmindedness of the Democratic leaders as to the belief on their part that the people of the State believe that the Governor made as good appointments as he could, and to undo what he has done might prove to be their own undoing.

Oakland High School Notes

We take great pleasure in announcing that Robert G. White took fifth honor at the Inter-High School Oratorical Contest, which was held at Annapolis on the evening of April 3rd. He recited the "Last Hymn," a selection filled with pathos. The fifth place was quite a desirable one, considering that twenty students, some of whom have doubtless studied elocution, took part in the contest.

Dr. Wm. W. Grant spoke to us on "Oral Hygiene." His address was by no means technical, but so plain as to be easily understood by all. We are very much obliged to Dr. Grant and hope to see him soon again.

Spring has come. This fact is evidenced by our boys playing ball and our girls strolling up and down the walk in the morning and at noon. The time for spring fever expeditions is at hand.

In spite of the fact that the weather was far from suitable, we celebrated Arbor Day on April 3rd. A very interesting program was given by some members of the literary society. Mr. John Martin was present and sang two beautiful solos, being accompained by Miss Daisy Grant, after which the latter played Grieg's "Wedding Day," and Chaminade's "Marlequin." Mr. J. E. Harned made the address of the day, considering plant-life in general and trees in particular. We wish to especially thank Mr. Martin, Miss Grant and Mr. Harned and cordially invite them to visit us again.

In accordance with the State law, the school will close on Holy Thursday and reopen on the following Tuesday.

The school term will close on May 23d. The literary society expects to render an exceptionally fine program on that day, and in order that each member may be well prepared no other meeting will be held this year. The mock trial which was advertised will be conducted on April 17th, by the entire Commercial Law class.

Call and look over Thomas Little's big line of wall paper. Prices from 10 cents to 50 cents a double roll.

ADDRESS AT CLOSE OF SESSION BY MR. SAVAGE

He Paid A High Compliment To His Fellow Members.

Annapolis, April 6, 1914.

Saturday the following Garrett county bills, having passed the House of Delegates were passed by the Senate and sent to the Governor for his signature:

House bill 879, Shartzer, requiring the payment of license for dogs. Any constable failing to perform the duty of collecting this tax or killing a dog for which tax is refused to be paid, will be removed from office.

House bill 761, amending the game laws of the county, providing a license fee of $5 from each non-resident who desires to hunt or fish in the county. This bill will increase the revenue of Garrett county considerable.

The House passed the following bills of Senator Speicher and they went to the Governor for his signature.

Senate bill 422, relating to the drawing of juries. This bill was introduced by the Senator by the unanimous vote of the Oakland Bar Association, and of Judge Henderson, who had a conversation with the Senator on the subject. This bill will reduce the court expenses no little.

Senate bill 251, relating to the hunting of foxes, etc.

Senate bill 619, authorizing the community of Mountain Lake Park to collect license from livery stables, all kinds of vehicles for carrying passenger or baggage, and to license stores.

Senate bill 511, conferring authority upon the Mayor and Town Council of Loch Lynn to collect license from hackmen, liverymen, automobiles, transfers, etc.

Senate bill 551, to amend the Charter of the Youghiogheny Power Company.

Senate bill 675, to refund A. E. Weimer a sum of money paid erroneously to the Comptroller of the State.

On Saturday night Senator Speicher's cigarette bill was laid on the table, owing to a misunderstanding. It had passed the Senate and was up in the House for final passage. A number of the Delegates thought it was a State wide bill and voted to table it, but on hearing that it was a Garrett county bill proposed to have the vote reconsidered, which was done and the bill passed.

A number of Garrett county bills were consigned to the junk heap, at a considerable expense to the State, as they cost $1.25 per page to print them.

Delegate Savage Monday in a very short address thanked the Speaker and his fellow members for the courteous treatment and favors alloted to him and his colleagues during the session. His remarks were ordered engrossed in the Journal of the House. It was one of the pleasant moments of the closing hours of the legislature. Mr. Savage said:

Mr. Speaker and Fellow Members of the House of Delegates. In the closing hours of the session of this body I desire to express the pleasure I have had in associating with you the past ninety days. My words may seem strange to you, but nevertheless they are true.

During the campaign my entire thought and aim was to be elected. Never did I feel any responsibility until after the election returns came in from my county declaring my election. Then I began to feel a weight of responsibility resting upon me, a responsibility due the great State of Maryland, as well as to the citizens of Garrett county. The election returns began to come in from all over the State. Many counties that had always been Republican had gone Democratic. My Democratic as well as Republican friends, began saying to me you may as well stay home, you few Republicans cannot do anything. I replied, I will go to Annapolis and see the boys this winter, anyway.

Mr. Speaker, directing my remarks to both Republicans and especially to the Democrats, because of their large majority, I want to say that I never in all my life met so kind, good hearted and intelligent body of men—men who seemed to lay politics aside, and were always ready to assist a fellow-delegate in the transaction of business.

Mr. Speaker, my falling into the hands of so fair and honorable a body of men has brought relief to me, enabling the Garrett Senator and Delegates to carry back to our constituents the greatest piece of legislation placed upon the statute books for Garrett county: Namely, a county-wide vote upon the liquor question.

Mr. Speaker, I want to say in conclusion that this body of 102 men whose names are enrolled here, both Democrats and Republicans, who have answered to the roll call by order of the Speaker day after day, will probably never be so situated again upon this earth, not one of us knowing whether we will again return here to answer to a roll call, but let each and every one try to so live that we may be able to answer to the final roll call of the Father and Speaker of us all, and may it be said of us well done, thou good and faithful servant, enter now into the joys of life.

I shall return to my mountain home with feelings of joy and comfort because of my association with you in the business of this body and shall remember my days at Annapolis with great pleasure.

Mr. Harvey, as chairman of the Garrett delegation, carefully guarded the best interests of the county. 'Twas he who offered the bill which gave to Garrett county $4,000 yearly for 1914 and 1915 to the public school fund.

Thursday afternoon a trout dinner was tendered the Republican Senators at Carvil Hall. Those present were Senators Mathias, Emmert, Chesley, Williams, Mudd, Snader, Zihlman and Mrs. Zihlman, Speicher and Mrs. Speicher, State Fish Commissioner W. A. Smith and son Earl, Capt. Jones, assistant fish commissioner, Delegates Harvey and Savage and Mr. L. A. Rudisill. The occasion was a very pleasant one. The trout were delicious and the dinner a most enjoyable one.

State Fish Commissioner William A. Smith and son Cecil of Hoyes spent last Thursday at Annapolis, going to Baltimore Friday morning to look after business matters connected with the Druid Park fish hatchery.

Monday Senator Speicher's bills, as follows, were passed and sent to the Governor for his signature:

Senate bill 530, strengthening the charter of the Youghiogheny Power Co.

Senate bill 699, regulating declarations of intention of voters in Garrett county.

The following House bills were passed:

Protecting wild turkey in Garrett county.

A bill requiring owners of dogs to pay license.

Mr. Savage and Mr. Harvey returned home Tuesday morning and Senator Speicher and Mr. Rudisill on Wednesday night.

The Baltimore Sun of April 6 says:

"Delegate Shartzer tried hard today to have amended Senator Speicher's bill prohibiting the sale of cigarettes to persons under the age of 21 years in Garrett county. It had been laid on the table, but was rescued from that position by Mr. Waters, of Montgomery.

Originally it was a State-wide measure, but Baltimore city and county after county were exempted until only Garrett remained. Mr. Shartzer was especially anxious to have knocked out the provision imposing a jail sentence on boys who refuse to state where they have secured cigarettes. This was not done, however, and the measure was passed."

We've Caught our Easter Rabbit!

The Easter Egg

By Grace McKinstry

© 1914, by American Press Association

"If I had some fady calico
I'd dye you the nicest egg
I'd sew it round the egg, you know"—
"And, as it boiled, each flower or spot
Would print right on the shell.
I'll hunt—perhaps somewhere I've got Bits that will do quite well."

She found a stray bit of pretty pink.
With rosebuds so quaint and prim.
But as she sewed it round I think
Her eyes grew rather dim.
But why this was she did not tell
She boiled the egg awhile.
Then clipped the cloth and showed the shell
Rose printed, with a smile

Much More, For Easter Flowers.

"A million and a half will not cover the amount spent on flowers in New York before Easter is over this year," said a fashionable city florist. "Plants are more popular for gifts than flowers, and there are fashions and fads in plants just as in anything else."

EASTER PLANTS.

A little plant is an Easter sermon

It preaches more eloquently than many men

The life story of the plant is the life story of man.

Endurance and patience are seen in the struggling seed

Buried in the black earth, it patiently endures until the time of birth

The struggle of the plant pushing its way from darkness to light is well rewarded

In the sunlight and air of the upper world the plant reaches higher growth and development.

The beauty of the blossom is symbolic of the beauty of the soul, which has overcome evil influences and radiates its glory to all about.

The Meaning of Palm Sunday.

Palm Sunday is recognized in the Roman Catholic church as the triumphant entry of Christ into Jerusalem amid the hosannas of the people, for this day, the gospel tells us, "a very great multitude cut boughs from the trees and strewed them in the way, crying: 'Hosanna, the son of David. Blessed is he that comes in the name of the Lord. Hosanna in the highest'" (Matthew xxi, 1-9). Nowadays people will be seen carrying the palm branches given to them in the churches to their homes, as the multitude of old applauded the triumph of the Redeemer. The palm branches proclaim his victory over Satan.

Church Etiquette For Easter.

Church etiquette for Easter Sunday, where the stranger is concerned, consists chiefly in doing nothing which would make one conspicuous or a nuisance to others. For the rest, a little genuine reverence is something that costs nothing and is always in keeping with taste. So if this has hitherto been lacking try listening with a new heart to the triumphant songs of this most joyous of all Sundays.

EASTER VISIONS

An Easter Message.

You must live before you can believe. If you would have a right to the tree of life, if you would have the right to know that there is a tree of life, you must seek this immortal life here, and seek it from the God who is here, and seek it through the channels that he opens for you.

Live here and now the immortal life, and then, if you are mistaken and there is no life after the grave, still you will have been immortal.

We must have the immortal life here and now if we would have a rational hope to have it hereafter. This is my Easter morning message to you.—Lyman Abbott.

AN EASTER REUNION

HIGH in the church amphitheater hung the choir loft, and at its rail that bright Easter morning stood the church quartet.

The organ pealed forth the strains of the opening anthem, one of those divine compositions of Mozart which make the pulse of the righteous beat more quickly and cause the ungodly to think anew—and after it had been sung the singers took their seats, separating the two higher voices to the right, the two lower to the left side of the organ.

Herr Steinbuch, the organist, retired behind the organ, drawing from his pocket as he did so a copy of a Sunday newspaper.

He was musical editor of the sheet and hastily scanned its pages for an article, "The Decline of the Fugue," which he had written the Friday previous, stealing far into the night that it might be concluded in time for the issue of Sunday.

The pastor began his Easter sermon, but the singers paid small heed, each was busy with his or her own thoughts.

If the eyes of Mateel Stuart, the contralto, came a faraway look as she sat beside her aged husband, the basso.

She was thinking that but three short years before she had gone from that church a bride, leaning proudly upon his arm.

And now? Yes, she was happy, she reasoned though her stalwart husband had, unconsciously perhaps, dropped those little courtesies and attentions which usually play so delightful a part in newly wedded life.

Not that Stuart was discontented but his lack of appreciation of the contralto was caused by a lack of thought no doubt. Manlike, he was selfish though it must be said of him that he had always proved what is known as a "good husband." In the commonly accepted meaning of the term.

For the first time in months Stuart thought that perhaps he did not place a sufficiently high value upon his wife when his attention was attracted to the other side of the choir loft. Something unusual was going on there apparently.

John Crayton and Marian Griffin were seated together, and the soprano was so interested in what Crayton was saying to her that she failed to note the gaze of the basso.

Marian had known Crayton for a number of years, but had never looked upon him as a suitor.

And now as she felt his breath upon her cheek, heard his earnest words, his appeal for a reply, she could only cast down her eyes until their long black lashes seemed to throw a shade over her face.

The tenor seized her hand at the conclusion of his passionate entreaty and was rewarded by a slight—a very slight—pressure, which told him that he had not pleaded in vain.

Then it was that Stuart placed his great hand upon his wife's arm and leaning toward her, whispered gently:

"My darling, I realize now that I have been neglecting you, but I have not meant to do so; it was only that I didn't think."

In the eyes of the contralto a bright love light burned, and she patted the hand of the big basso with a loving touch.

The droning of the minister suddenly ceased, and the rustling of the people below as they turned in the pews told that the sermon was at an end.

The closing hymn was announced, and when it was finished the singers walked from the organ loft arm in arm, while Herr Steinbuch exclaimed petulantly:

"Donnerwetter! The singers seem to be going to the dogs. That last hymn was given atrociously!"

But then perhaps Herr Steinbuch was annoyed because he had been unable to find "The Decline of the Fugue" in his Sunday newspaper.—Virginia Harned in Philadelphia Press.

Live and Enjoy Easter.

Easter, glad feast of life, belongs only to those who are alive in soul and heart and mind. Hearts buried in graves have but little share in its resurrecting thrill.

CHRIST IS RISEN—A JOYOUS EASTER MESSAGE.

Easter is the [illegible] days. It is [illegible] of [illegible] truth, [illegible] premises [illegible] basis of [illegible] time. Of Christ [illegible] were witnesses. His [illegible] the cross and [illegible] with [illegible] and the [illegible] the new [illegible] that last bright Easter [illegible] joy. The [illegible] multitudinous [illegible] of that great Easter [illegible] have rolled through all [illegible] ages [illegible] unspeakable gladness. That resurrection, that triumph over death, has changed all the destinies and brightened all the life of mankind throughout the world during the nineteen centuries which since have passed.—Dean Farrar.

EASTER BUNNY IS OLD.

Not a Frisky Young Animal, but One with a Very Ancient History.

Next to the Easter eggs the bunny maintains its place as the star Easter novelty. To find out just how the bunny came to be associated with Easter one looks away back to antiquity, for the hare or rabbit has had unusual significance to many peoples.

In ancient mythology the hare's connection with the moon was well established. Hindu tradition tells us that while Indra was dying of hunger the hare threw himself into the fire in order that the god might be provided with a meal.

For this sacrifice he was translated to the moon by the grateful Indra. In Buddhist legend we again find him sacrificing himself in order to provide food for the hungry. Here again he was translated to the moon, where the Hindu Japanese and Chinese still affect to see him in the well known spots on the disk.

The Chinese [illegible], at their great moon festival of the Yuepan, exchange cakes of various sizes with relatives and friends upon which are stamped figures of hares crouching among the trees.

In Norse mythology we find bunny figuring as the trait-bearer and chariot bearer of Freyja, the goddess of the moon, and also identified with the Roman goddess Venus, whose festival was held at the beginning of April. Freyja has also been identified with the Anglian goddess Eostre or Ostara, from whose name we derive our present term of Easter.

Ancient records will show that in the seventeenth century no Englishman thought his feast complete unless on Easter day he ate a fine big hare killed for the occasion.

The hare by reason of its connection with the moon became in a sense the herald of a new life, the springtide. From these several causes it has come to be associated with the anniversary of Christ's resurrection, and thousands of children too young to appreciate the blessed truths that lie at the base of the faith will nevertheless rejoice over novelties in Easter bunnies.

The LILIES of EASTER

From Darkness to Light

An Easter Poem

By Clara A. Mellon Wilson

Brown, barren fields and leaden sky,
Where Lenten days dragged slowly by.
And death had mocked at faith;
Now sunglow on the eastern hills,
New grass blades, lilies, daffodils,
For Love has conquered Death.

EASTER CELEBRATIONS.

How the Holy Day Is Observed In Various Parts of the Earth.

The greatest Easter celebration is at Jerusalem.

Jerusalem at Easter is crowded with pilgrims.

The historic Church of the Holy Sepulcher is the center.

According to tradition, this church contains Christ's tomb.

Great as it is, it is too small for the Easter crowds.

Nowhere in all the world is there so cosmopolitan an Easter gathering.

Nowhere else is Easter celebrated with such impressive pomp and ceremonial.

Jerusalem is the historic city in which Christ's spiritual embassy began.

All the churches of Jerusalem are crowded at Easter, the crowning glory of the religious year.

In Roumania, Christian women distribute cakes marked with the symbol of the cross in the [illegible].

Silver clarions herald the dawn of Easter in Berlin, blown by trumpeters in the imperial palace tower.

Full dress uniform is the order of the day, and the German emperor and empress attend public services.

At the courts of Italy, Austria, Spain and Portugal Easter day is the occasion of a state banquet and a military display.

Lily, the Easter Flower.

Lilies have been cultivated in American gardens since early colonial days, but the pioneer Madonna lily is far from common even in New England and Virginia, where it doubtless had its first foothold. The old orange lily is tolerably scarce, and the tiger lily has made no more than a fair amount of headway. Add the auratum and the speciosum and the list of those that are so much as tolerably familiar figures in the home garden stops at five—this despite the fact that there are a score or more of easy to grow species, with numerous varieties and hybrids. And how many kinds of lilies are frequently seen in greenhouses? Just one.—"Lilies," by H. S. Adams.

CLEAN-UP! PAINT-UP!

A well appearing town is generally a good town. Certainly it is the sort of town that impresses the newcomer most favorably.

Unsightly streets and alleys, filthy front yards and filthy back yards as well, unkept lawns and weeds growing to waste, heaps of garbage and refuse certainly produce upon the stranger the sort of impression that Oakland does not want to produce, in addition to the far more serious menace that they constitute to the health and happiness of the community.

A clean up campaign, waged in every part of the city, will do wonders in improving the appearance of the city and in adding to the health of the community.

By the same token the house that is freshly painted, that presents an attractive outward appearance, is a far greater asset than the same house when the paint has vanished, or is discolored or is scalmg off. If your house needs it, paint up, as well as clean up. It will add to the value of your property and your neighbor's property. It will make you a more comfortable and better citizen.

Clean up; paint up!

THROWING SPITBALLS.

Some good people will throw up their hands in horror when they read the closing hours of the Maryland Legislature were devoted principally to the throwing of spitballs by the supposedly staid and dignified lawmakers.

Why shouldent lawmakers throw spitballs? What is there to cause disgust, in the fact that the body of men picked and chosen by the people to manufacture and codify their government should relax their nerves after a long period of mental strain by hurling wet wads of paper about the legislative chamber? People praise the hurling of word bombs in legislative halls that hurt when they hit ten times more than an innocent spitball, but they deplore the apparent childishness of a spitball fight between the solons.

There is perhaps no time-honored or ancient custom that has a more soothing effect on tired nerves than a good old-fashioned spitball battle. From the time the knickerbockered schoolboy wearily drops his book to take a surreptitious whack at the teacher's tempting bald head to the day he throws a pillow at the doctor who tells him he can't live two weeks, throwing things is the great panacea for shattered nerves.

Aside from the nerve proposition a man who can hit the top of an unwary legislative opponent's head with a spitball at fifty paces is a good legislator and ought to be sent back for another term. Any man who can hold his own in a free-for-all spitball battle and stand upright while the groans of the wounded are filling the air around him, needn't possess any particular qualifications of oratory or eloquence. His position in the legislature is assured for life.

When the printed Acts of the General Assembly of 1914 are received from the hands of the State printer, some Marylanders of exact minds, with veneration for traditional forms and sticklers for nicety in the legal use of the English language, will curiously inspect the title page. For something like a hundred years the title pages of the printed laws of Maryland had recited that these wise and salutary enactments were "made and passed" at a certain session of the Assembly "begun and held." Then in the '90s the State printer for the time being put out a volume of the laws with the title-page recital that these laws had been "made and passed" at a session "made and held." Whether this was a typographical error or a serious attempt to change the phraseology of the title page is something that casual inquiry has failed to ascertain. With the shining exception of the year 1902, the second session of the Assembly in the administration of John Walter Smith, all Maryland Legislative sessions have been "made and held." although on the following leaf of the biennial issue of printed Acts, the scilicet reads: "At a session of the General Assembly of Maryland, begun and held in the city of Annapolis, on the— day of January, 19—, His Excellency, — being Governor," and so on.

Fish Commissioner Wm. A. Smith

Two years ago Governor Goldsborough recognized the Republican party of Garrett county by appointing Mr. William A. Smith, of Hoyes, Fish Commissioner for the Western Shore of Maryland. A few weeks ago he re-appointed Mr. Smith to the same position and he was conlirmed by the Senate. By this action the Governor recognized the efficient service of Mr. Smith the past two years.

In his report to the Governor Mr. Smith presented a splendid showing of the progress and successful administration of his department, which doubtless had much to do with his re-appointment.

Mr. Smith is one of Garrett county's wide-awake, up-to-date merchants, conducting a successful country store at Hoyes. Not only is Mr. Smith a prosperous merchant, but he is one of the progresive farmers of the county, and is establishing a twentieth-century model farm, conducted upon business methods, which makes farming a profitable business. His home is one of comfort and happiness, with its own acetyline gas plant, hot and cold water, and other conveniences for the enjoyment of his family. He is of that class of men who believe in getting something out of this life for himself and family.

He is an up-to-date citizen. In his automobile he and his family spend many pleasant hours. Mr. Smith is not only a successful and progressive merchant and farmer, but is a live citizen of the village community in which he lives. He is a member of the M. E. church of Hoyes; a firm advocate and patron of the public school system of the county and a loyal Republican. He is in short a friend of mankind, good natured, jolly and at the same time one of our solid citizens.

Mr. Smith is a public spirited citizen, always ready to take hold of any enterprise that will be productive of good to his community, as well as to the public at large. He is president of the Garrett County Telephone Company, a director of the First National Bank, Oakland, and is also connected with several local and county institutions.

THE REPUBLICAN congratulates: 1, The Governor, in selecting Mr. Smith as Fish Commissioner; 2, Garrett county, the most western and youngest county of the State, in securing the appointment for one of its citizens; 3, Mr. William A. Smith, on his appointment, and we wish him the greatest success possible for his term of 1914 and 1915. In this we believe we express the voice of a very large majority of the citizens of Garrett county.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

A Contributor To These Columns Pays Tribute to the Citizens of Oakland.

To The Editor of The Republican.

In the closing tide of the Lentent observance and mellowing season of Holy Week, it should impress all to observe how high Oakland has lifted the banner of better things and challenged a public admiration. What other town has so fully and so pronouncedly expressed a decent regard and religious acknowledgment for Good Friday as is Oakland's purpose in the present week? Her people credit themselves no less than they do the great event commemorated by pausing even for one hour, in deferential homage to an occurrence that revolutionized the world and forever opened the gateway to all believers.

It must mean something, to all who pass by, in this age of mad rush and inordinate greed, to behold all denominations, creeds and classes, both in religious walks and in the mart of civil pursuits, meeting on a common ground in a single exalting purpose for a united expression of faith in the central truth handed down through the centuries by the Saints to us. Infrequent, indeed, do communities combine for so lofty an object and may the custom descend to many posterities.

It is but the revival of a trite statement, to say that, in the firament of human history, all stars circle in a lesser magnitude about the one star followed by the Wise Men of the East, and that from then until now, the wisest men on earth have been those who have kept closest and most constantly in the shining of that star.

The late Senator John J. Ingalls, an orator noted for clear-cut English and clarion-like ring of eloquence, during the delivery of an oration of rare charm in the United States Senate said: "The most momentous declaration that has ever fallen on the human ear, is that of the Master to Mary: 'I am the resurrection, and the life, he that believeth on me, though he were dead, yet shall he live: and whosever liveth and believeth on me, shall never die."

Oakland's memorial next Friday will be in memory of the divine author of that declaration. Since the shouting of the mob and the vanishing of the sun in the terrors of that crucifixion, nearly two thousand years are as an evening gone, but the Light of Life that went out upon a cross left a reflected glory forever around the world's horizon.

Mr. Brown Again Urges Garrett County Farmers to Raise Potatoes Of One Kind In Large Quantities

In the communication below former Senator W. McCullough Brown of Garrett county, directs attention of our farmers to the fact that they can raise with great profit large quantities of seed potatoes and find a ready market for their product in other sections of Maryland and also in other States of the Union, requesting The Republican to call attention to the fact, which we do with pleasure, publishing Mr. Brown's letter in full as follows:

To the Editor of The Republican:

DEAR SIR: A year ago I sent to Oakland samples of Maine grown seed potatoes, which were displayed in the First National Bank windows and have attracted more or less attention.

For some years potato growers have been saying to me that the farmers of Garrett county had a soil and climate conditions which would almost insure the profitable raising of seed pototoes for the Eastern trade.

Our great drawback is that too many kinds are raised with us, and in consequence large lots are not to be purchased. I now have inquiries from three parties for "Green Mountain" and "Irish Cobbler" for seed. Will you not once again bring this subject before your readers.

Yours truly
W. MCCULLOH BROWN.

Mr. Benjamin Shepp At Home In California.

To the Editor of The Republican.

As I was visiting through Garrett county in February and March I wish to let my friends know that I have returned to Pasadena, California. I found the weather here like midsummer and fruit bloom has fallen off and fruit is a good size. As California has had more than the double the amount of rain this season than usual there is a good prospect for fruit and grain here.

Yours respectfull,
Benjamin Shepp.

CEMETERY FENCE.

Report Made to the Civic Club By Committee Chairman.

At the meeting of the Civic Club held last Tuesday afternoon, Miss Lottie Loar, chairman of the cemetery committee, submitted the following report, which is published for the benefit of our readers:

Owing to unavoidable delays during the summer in securing architectnral plans for the cemetery fence the committee was unable to let the contract until September 10th when a meeting with the advisory board was held and Mr. J Coddington's bid of $520 was unanimously accepted.

Work at the quarry was begun at once, but the rainy and freezing weather and the early winter made it not only inadvisable but almost impossible to continue the work last fall.

The material is practically all on the ground and as soon as weather conditions are favorable to insure good work, the fence will be commenced and carried to completion as rapidly as possible.

It was hoped to have it in place by the 30th of May.

The amount collected to the present time being $361.64 with a number of substantial subscriptions not yet paid.

The money has been bearing interest at 3 per cent. which will augment our fund by about $5.00.

The committee consists of Miss Loar, chairman, Mrs. E. H. Sincell, Mrs. H. A. Rasche, Miss E. Z. Towers, Miss Fundenberg, Miss Sturgiss, Miss Offutt, Mrs. Connell, secretary. The advisory board is composed of Messrs. F. A. Thayer, D. E. Offutt, A. D. Naylor, H. Loar, Thomas Little.

REMEMBER,

We endeavor to describe each and every article as it is, as we want everyone to understand the quality and kind of goods we offer to sell them. We treat everyone in an honest, straightfoward manner just the same way we wish to be treated, and by keeping our promise to give our customers first class goods at best prices.

EIGHT CARS DERAILED ON GRADE.

Traffic Tied Up ano Tracks Were No Cleared Until Six this Morning.

While descending the Seventeen-mile grade last night at eleven o'clock eight coal cars of an east-bound freight train were derailed at a point about three miles west of Bloomington, blocking traffic on both the eastbound and westbound tracks for several hours.

The tool car from Keyser was sent to the scene of the accident where the work of clearing away the wreckage was at once begun, but it was not until six o'clock this morning that the track was cleared and restored. The train was descending the grade at a moderate speed when a broken flange caused the derailment.

Town Assessors at Work.

City Assessors George W. Legge, James A. Delawder and Robert C. Townshend, appointed by the town council to make an assessment of the real and personal property within the town limits, have been at work for several days past visiting each home and business house in the corporation. They expect to complete their labors yet this week.

Another officer elected by Council was M. R. Maroney, street commissioner.

Mayor Matthews named R. L. Fries as police magistrate and B. B. Nethken, bailiff. He also submitted the name of W. R. Offutt for the position of attorney to Council, but Mr. Offutt failed to be confirmed and the Mayor refused to submit another nomination.

The monthly salary bills and expense accounts were passed, committes on street and water system were chosen and Council adjourned.

Holy Week, the most sacred season during the year, was ushered in on Sunday the churches with the celebration of Palm Sunday. In the Catholic church at the last mass, which is always a late one, palm branches were blessed and distributed among those constituting the congregation. Next Sunday, which is Easter Sunday, special services will be held in all the churches of the town. Tomorow from noon until three o'clock Rev. W. W. Shearer, pastor of St. Matthew's P. E. church, will conduct special services which promises to be largely attended, as every business house in town has agreed to close during those hours.

It is easy to be an editor. To run a newspaper successfully a man has merely to be able to write poems, discuss the tariff and money questions, umpire a base ball game, report a wedding, saw wood, describe a fire so that the readers will shed their wraps, make $1 do the work of $10, shine at a dance, measure calico, abuse the liquor habit, test whiskey, subscribe to chairty, go without meals, attack free silver, wear diamonds, invent advertisements, sneer at snobbery, overlook scandal, appraise babies, delight pumpkin raisers, minister to the afflicted, lead the disgruntled fight to a finish, set type, mould opinion, sweep out the office, speak at the prayer meeting, and stand in with everbody. And in addition to the above essentials the poor editor has to print a paper once a week.

SPELLING BEE ARRANGED.

Terra Altans will Visit Oakland Nex Tuesday Night.

The return "spell" preliminary arrangements for which were fixed upon the recent visit to Terra Alta by the Oakland "spelling bee bugs," has been definitely arranged to take place at the Grammar School in Oakland next Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Civic Club of the town. Terra Alta has accepted the invitation to to come here upon the occasion, but the managers of the "bee" have stated that they will be unable to bring a large crowd along.

Whether the crowd should be large or small Oakland feels that she will hold her town in the contest. The dictionary is about the most popular book now being "used" in Oakland and we may not miss our guess by including Terra Alta.

Funeral of Mrs. Jonas Yutzy.

On Saturday last at 2 p. m. all that was mortal of Mother Yutzy were placed to rest in the family burial plot in the Red House cemetery. The services were conducted by Rev. Richardson, of Grafton, former pastor of the deceased. The remains were encased in a handsome cloth covered casket which bore a plate on which was engraved the endearing word "mother." The floral display was chaste and expressive, the gifts of her children and friends. Dr. Richardson delivered an impressive sermon from Deuteronomy 33:27, "The eternal God is thy refuge and underneath are the everlasting arms."

The St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church rendered very appropriate music, in a very impressive manner. She was born June 27, 1858. She joined St. Matthews Central Ave. Lutheran Church, Baltimore, Easter Sunday, 1874; was married to Jonas Yutzy June 15, 1880. Wm. B. Kanauer, an only brother preceded her to the spirit world in 1864, also by her mother who passed away several years ago.

Her six sons acted as pall-bearers, who lovingly, tenderly and reverently laid the honored remains to rest in mother earth, where they shall remain until the Judgment Day, when the earth and the sea shall give up their dead, and until then we say, "Farewell, dear mother." Mother Yutzy is survived by six sons: Guy, George, Arthur, Jacob, Wellington, Gilbert, and by two daughters, Mrs. Floyd Stahl and Mrs. Wm. Glotfelty, also by her husband and by her aged and infirm father, John Knauer. The family have the sympathy of a large circle of friends and acquaintances. H.

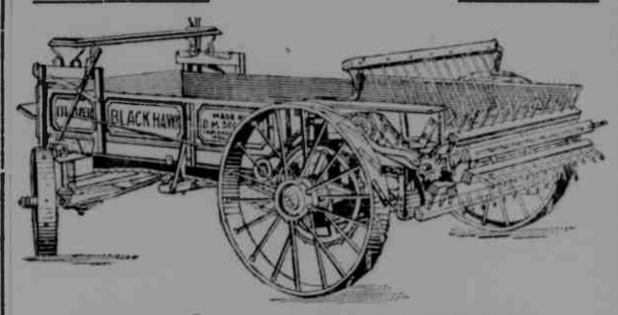
Another Evening Function.

Miss Lenora Steyer, of Steyer, Md., the guest of Mrs. William Turner in Garrett county, was the guest of honor at a surprise party held Monday evening at the home of Charles Frost, Shade's Mill. A part of the evening was given over to dancing and a musical program during which Miss Steyer rendered several vocal solos. Musical numbers were also contributed by Mr. Frost and Miss Mamie Durst. Those who attended the party were: Misses Laura B. Durst, Ida and Mamie Durst, Emma Baker, Sally N. Turner, Lenora Steyer, Sarah E. Turner, Gertrude Wilhelm, Mary Poland, Messrs. Frank and Dan Hummel, Joshua Turner, Marshall Durst, and Charles Frost, of Garrett county.



A farmer who was carrying an express package from a city mail order house, was accosted by a local merchant: "Why didn't you buy that bill of goods from me? I could have saved you the express and besides you would have been patronizing a home store, which helps pay the taxes and build up this locality." With characteristic frankness the farmer asked: "Why don't you patronize your home paper and advertise? I read it and didn't know you had the goods I have here, nor do I ever see your name in the paper inviting one to come to your store."

Davis' Standard Paint.

This paint, as it's name implies, is "standard," being a three-pigment paint ground in pure Linseed Oil weighing in its white and tints made from white, over 17 lbs. per gallon. It is as durable as paint can be made and extremely economical, since it covers approximately 350 square feet, two coats, per gallon, according to the condition of the surface to be painted, and manner in which it is applied. Though many competitive paints are sold at a higher price, none will give you greater satisfaction than Davis Standard Pure Linseed Oil Paint. Try it when in need. Send for color card.

Protection Afforded Dons Driven Out of Mexico

VILLA ORDERS THEIR EXPULSION

Rebel General's Force Sent After Velasco's Federals Meets With Strong Resistance at San Pedro and Halted While Main Body of Retreating Army Gets Away—Likely to Be Another Fight at Torreon Soon.

Washington, April 7.—Deeply concerned about the safety of the large Spanish colony in Torreon, Mex., Spanish Ambassador Riano was busy with officials of the state department planning to do everything possible for the protection of the men, women and children whom General Villa, the Constitutionalist commander, is reported to have ordered out of the country, and to save their property from confiscation.

Spain has no consular representative in Torreon and in such cases the United States has undertaken to afford all foreigners the same protection as it gives its own citizens.

An explanation of the insistance of the Huerta government that the contest at Torreon is not yet at an end was received here in a dispatch from Admiral Fletcher. It is indicated that another conflict is impending which it will be necessary for Villa to win to retain possession of Torreon.

According to Admiral Fletcher's report the federals placed 5,000 fresh troops within striking distance of Torreon Sunday. These troops approached from the east and are expected to effect a junction with those of General Velasco.

All Spaniards Are Expelled.

Juarez, Mex., April 7. Northern and central Mexico, it is said, are being thoroughly cleared of Spanish residents by the Constitutionalists.

The expulsions are being made under section 33 of the Mexican constitution, which permits "pernicious foreigners" to be deported from the country. Huerta has been using this section to rid himself of troublesome newspaper men and others, so the rebels have decided to use it for the expulsion of the Spaniards.

There is an ancient hatred on the part of all Mexicans for Spaniards, particularly because in many business transactions the shrewdness of the Spaniard has largely benefitted him over his Mexican opponent. Most of the storekeepers and many hacienda owners are Spaniards.

Each time a band of Spaniards is expelled it is announced that when they prove their innocence they may return, but with their cases resting in the hands of those who expelled them the Spaniards realize the slim chance they have for redress.

Announcement was made in Juarez that Andres Farias has been named mayor of Torreon. At Carranza's headquarters it was vehemently asserted that this appointment was made by Villa after a telegraphic correspondence with Carranza.

It is asserted that Carranza is preparing to leave tomorrow for Chihuahua and that Villa will return from Torreon to meet him there. A joint reception to the two is being planned at Chihuahua.

News from the front indicates that Villa's victory at Torreon was not as great as the public has believed, inasmuch as most of the federal army escaped, to fight again. Villa failed to take more than a few federal prisoners.

The killed and wounded in the army of defenders is about all the loss that Huerta sustained except in ammunition. General Velasco when he retreated succeeded in getting away with most of his command and Villa's forces have not overtaken him.

That Villa has given up the chase in person is made certain by the telegram received by Carranza from him. That General Rosalia Hernandez has been checked in his pursuit at San Pedro is reported. During the battle of Torreon a federal command, presumably that of General Maure, reached San Pedro, but rebels sent out by Villa prevented the command getting into Torreon to join Velasco.

As Velasco retreated he left some of his foot soldiers at San Pedro with the command already there and pushed on toward Saltillo with his main body. News came through that Hernandez had been checked at San Pedro and had also been forced to abandon temporarily his attack upon that place.

Villa is reinforcing Hernandez and a battle will be fought there. If Hernandez wins he can continue his pursuit after Velasco, but will hardly be able to overtake him before he can reach Saltillo. The result will be that Villa will find Saltillo heavily fortified and may have another battle as bare as Torreon before he can take the town and continue his advance to Monterey. Even if the latter happens Velasco is out of danger of capture.

UNDERWOOD FOR SENATE

Returns Indicate House Leader Has Beaten Hobson by 20,000.

Birmingham, Ala., April 7.—The count of the votes in the Democratic primaries held in Alabama, the nomination being equivalent to election, is progressing slowly because of the length of the ballots, but enough is known to assure the election of Congressman Oscar W. Underwood for the long term United States senatorship over Congressman Hobson by at least 20,000 majority.

For the term from now until next March there is doubt as to the victory between Frank S. White of Birmingham and Ray Ruston of Montgomery.

Congressman Tayler in the First district is defeated by Oscar L. Gray. W. B. Oliver of Tuscaloosa is the winner over W. B. Bankhead of Jasper in the Sixth, while George Huddleston of Birmingham is leading the three other candidates in the Ninth.

The gubernatorial contest is close between former Governor B. B. Comer and Commissioner of Agriculture, R. F. Kolb.

BURTON TO QUIT OFFICE

Ohioan Decides to Remove Himself From Public Life.

Washington, April 7.—Theodore E. Burton, after almost a quarter of a century of service in congress, made a statement which is interpreted as an announcement of his withdrawal from the contest for re-election in Ohio.

The Republican veteran gives as the reason of his willingness to retire a desire to further reuniting of his party in Ohio. Apparently Mr. Burton thinks that his candidacy for another term would be an obstacle to the smoothing of differences among Ohio Republicans and would result in defeat.

Joseph B. Foraker, the Republican war horse, already is in the field attacking Senator Burton and working for his own nomination. It is expected that the Burton statement will bring forth other candidates, including Myron T. Herrick.

Mr. Burton is serving his first term in the senate and it will expire next March.

REGENTS PARK ESTATE SOLD

Land Deal in London Involves More Than $2,500,000.

London, April 7.—Another great land deal was consummated in London when documents were signed transferring the whole of Lord Howard de Walden's Regents park estate to S. P. Derbyshire for more than $2,500,000.

The property comprises 62½ acres. The estate contains 750 houses, which are distributed in about twenty streets. Mr. Derbyshire has a scheme for converting the district into a new Mayfair by building mansions with gardens and spacious surroundings.

MICHIGAN DRYS WIN

Seven of Twelve Counties Drive Out Saloons; Another In Doubt.

Detroit, April 7.—Incomplete returns indicate that out of twelve counties that voted for local option the drys were victorious in seven, the wets won out in four and one county is still in doubt.

The wet counties are Clare, Oscoda, Arenac and Ogemaw. The dry counties are Benzie, Kalkaska, Mecosta, Midland, Shiawassee, Roscommon and Ingham, with Wexford in doubt.

HOME RULE BILL IS AGAIN PASSED

Measure Given a Second Reading in House of Commons

ONCE MORE AND IT IS LAW

Majority of Eighty For Bill, Which Is Smaller Than Two Other Votes During Present Parliament—Foreign Secretary Grey, Who Is Subbing For Premier Asquith, Not Present, Having Gone Fishing.

London, April 7.—The Irish home rule bill passed its second reading in the house of commons by a vote of 356 to 276. This is the third time in the life of the present parliament that the bill has progressed so far toward enactment. On the two other occasions the house of lords made the bill ineffective by a negative vote.

Passage of the bill on the final reading in the house—the third time—will make the bill a law irrespective of what action the lords again take.

The majority was 101 when it was passed in 1912 and 98 when it went through the house of commons in 1913.

The normal majority of the government coalition is 98. The reduction to 80 was mainly due to the fact that William O'Brien and his Irish followers refrained from voting, which drew cheers from the Opposition.

Timothy Healy, Nationalist, made a bitter jibing speech at the expense of John Redmond and his followers, whom he accused of mishandling the Ulster question. Among other things, he taunted the Devlins with being the hereditary horse boys of the O'Neills.

Several of the speakers back of the benches pleaded for a settlement of the home rule question by consent. The members of the Opposition criticised the absence of Sir Edward Grey, who was nominally in charge of the bill during the absence of Premier Asquith. Lord Robert Cecil said it was an insult to the house. Bonar Law, leader of the Unionists, said it was neither fair nor respectful. It was the general understanding that Sir Edward had gone fishing in Scotland.

Mr. Bonar Law made this offer: If the government would submit the bill at a general election and the country approved it the house of lords would pass it without amendment, without delay and without depriving the government of any of its privileges under the parliamentary act. Mr. Law said the Marquis of Lansdowne, leader of the Opposition in the house of lords had authorized him to say this.

Mr. Birrell, chief secretary of Ireland, closed the debate for the government in a conciliatory speech. He contended that considerable progress toward a settlement had been made and if both sides put their heads together a solution could be achieved. Mr. Birrell dwelt on the horrors of civil war and said:

"Ulster must be won. Her unwillingness to share in the government of Ireland must be conquered, but it cannot be conquered by force. For this reason we made proposals along a line which at all events approached to some degree the claims of the signers of the Ulster covenant."

ELEVATOR IS BALKY

Drops From Fifth Floor Then Starts Up Again—Three Killed.

New York, April 7.—Three factory workers, two women and a man, were killed in a factory building at 128 Crosby street when the combination freight and passenger elevator which was carrying them down refused to stop at the fifth floor, dropped all the way to the basement and started up again.

On the upward trip when the car reached the third floor those who were killed had forced back the elevator doors and tried to jump out. They struck the gate and dropped down the elevator pit.

Eleven passengers who were left in the elevator were carried up to the seventh floor, where the elevator stopped again. No one was hurt except the three who were killed.

Recollections

A Temperance Talk to Voters

BY JASON KEP

As we we look back to childhood's hour, how well do we remember that first little prayer we learned to lisp at our mother's knee.

"Now I lay me down to sleep" then the little addition,—"God bless papa and mama and every body. Amen."

We said that little prayer in confidence that our petition would be granted.

As we grew older this was followed by that beautiful and all-embracing petition, "The Lord's Prayer."

Yes, we remember it, but in what spirit do we repeat it, if we repeat it now? "Lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil"

We rush through it by express, and act as if we were scared to death for fear our petition might be granted. A groundless fear, as long as we are doing all we can to keep temptation within easy reach our petitions will not rise higher then the celing.

Mankind at best is weak and it does'nt take much of a temptation to get a half-nelson on the strongest of us

We may deny it strenuously, but away down in our hearts we know it to be true, and all the noise is to deceive others, and, possible, ourselves.

Now, honestly don't you think it policy to remove as far as possible the temptation from before our face. At least the most dangerous ones?

We all expect to make good before we die. We look around at our neighbors and say to ourselves. "I'll bet a cookie some of those old boys will hit the ironworks, and if they ever get wings, they will look like Pittsburgh," while we are on the same road but will switch off just in time to win a little harp.

But say, isn't it a little dangerous? The switch might be locked and the key in our other pants. Then we could meet the other boys at the ironworks. There would be quite a reunion but the weather might not be all that one could wish.

Have you taken an inventory lately? Are you nearer to or farther away from those little wings, than when you lisped those little prayers at your mother's knee? Looks bad, dosen't it?

Having taken stock, now let us get busy and build up a few credits on the ledger that will be used in our final settlement on that last great day. Let us put at least one temptation from before our face and from the pathway of our children. Let us take the hardest one first. The most suitable, most persistent, most far reaching, the most dangerous to health, safty and life—King Alcohol.

You know that the saloons are a standing temptation to degrade, wreck, and destroy the sobriety, manhood and lives of the community.

There is not one single reason why alcholic drinks should be sold as a beverage, in any community, and every reason why it should not be sold. Sit down and do some honest thinking on the subject.

If you build a factory, you are very careful to place the shafting and belting in a position of safety to the employees.

You guard against leaving any dangerous holes or other meuaces. You do this for two reasons. You would feel remorse if some of your employees were hurt or killed through your negligence. The other reason is that you be held criminally liable, and might have to pay heavy damages and perhaps have to go to the pen.

Now you are a stockholder in the larger corporation—the community—and as a good citizen you must help to remove the pitfalls and snares from the pathway of your children. You cannot shirk the responsibility. There are 152,000 poor souls die drunkards evey year in the United States. Has it caught any of your children yet? Can you afford to take chances?

There is no neutral grounds; you are either for the saloon or against them. Can you afford to be in favor of the saloons?

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

"G. W. E." Finally Brings His Long Winded Articles on Seventh Day Adventism To A Close For Which he Editor Is Truly Thankful.

...of The Republican:

...at the close of my last ...y to "First Day" I will now ... assertion that "you never ...d the followers of Jesus assemb... the seventh day for religious ..." Surely this was a most re...mark...le statement to say the least.

Suppose we compare the record of the assemblings and observance on the seventh day with those found for the first day. First there we find Christ observing the Sabbath, Mark 1:21. It was his custom to preach on that day, Luke 4:16.

The disciples rested on the Sabbath while Christ was lying in the grave, Luke 23:56. It was Paul's manner to make the Sabbath a preaching day, Acts 17:2. The Gentile believers also observed the Sabbath, Acts 13: 42-44.

Paul preached by the river side where there was no synagague on the Sabbath, Acts 16:13.

He reasoned in the synagogue at Corinth every Sabbath, Acts 18:4.

He continued there a year and six months (seventy-eight Sabbaths) teaching the word of God, Acts 18:11.

The church of Corinth was a Christian church as proven by the fact that they celebrated the Lord's Supper, I Cor. 11: 23.26.

They were taught to keep God's law I Cor. 7:19 and they were Sabbath keepers, (Acts 18:5.) All this in spite of First Day's assertion that "there is not a single instance of a Christian Assembly convened on the Sabbath or seventh day for worship.

On the other hand, how about Sunday? What the scriptures have to say about the first day is very brief. It is ...nly mentioned eight times in all the ...w Testament as follows:

...hrist rose from the dead on that day, ...k 16:9; Matt. 28;1; Mark 17:2, John ...1. But he did not say that it was ...erefore the Sabbath.

The women brought spices to the ...ave of the Saviour on that day, Luke ...:1; Christ appeared to his disciples on ...at day, John 20:19.

The Corinthians were commanded to ...e a collection for the saints on the ... Cor. 16:2.

Pa...e preached on the evening of ... all ...y, (Acts 20:4.) This is the ...ous meeting occurring on the ...f the week recorded in the ...ament. It occurred on what ...our Saturday night, the bible ...ning at sunset. But the next ... answering to our Sunday ...

...he continued his journey to Jerusalem. The whole of the ...ght was spent in travel by Paul ...and had nothing whatever of a Sabbath...atian character about it.

The foregoing are all the texts which speak of the "first day of the week." There are just eight of them and not a single one proves anything at all in favor of Sunday as a Sabbath. Carefully examined they prove the reverse.

Another thing I want to call "First Day's" attention to is this, had Christ changed the commandment, as he claims, is it not reasonable to suppose that one of his apostles would have made some mention of it?

Matthew wrote six years after Christ and he spoke of Sunday as the first day, not the Christian Sabbaah. Matt. 28:1.

Mark wrote ten years after Christ. He calls the seventh day the Sabbath, and the day following, the first day. Mark 16:1.

Luke wrote twenty eight years after Christ, and gives the days of the week in this order: the preparation day, the Sabbath and the First day. John wrote sixty three years after Christ and he observes the same order; no change.

Christ was explicit when he gave them a new commandment, Jno. 13:34.

"A new commandment I give unto you, etc." He also speaks plainly when his teachings disagreed with those of the prophet (Matt. 5: 33-34-38-39) and tells us in no uncertain language that they had been taught certain things, but He commanded them different. Now do you suppose for an instant that had He wished to change one of the Ten Commandments that He would not have been just as explicit or even more so? Will "First Day" please express his honest convictions on this point?

Christ lived our example. He never kept the first day of the week as sacred; He ever kept the Sabbath, (Jno. 15:10) and commanded us to do likewise. "If ye love me keep my commandments," Jno. 14:15. Again we are told to "fear God and keep his commandments for this is the whole duty of man," Eccl. 12:13. "Blessed are they that do his commandments, that they may have right to the tree of life and may enter in through the gates into the city." But where is the commandment to keep Sunday? it's not in the bible. It is in the Roman Catholic catechism together with the declaration that there is no scriptural authority for it.

First Day says G. W. E's summary is without foundation, and is contrary to the teaching of the New Testament. I know that the summary was a poser for him. If he could have found one passage of scripture to refute a point made in it, it would have been produced in big letters, but he could not do it, and I will give him till "dooms-day in the morning" to do so but he never will.

In conclusion let me say to First Day if he poses as a champion of that unscriptural institution and feels it his bounded duty to challenge the teachings of the Seventh Day Adventist, I am sure I can find him a man who will meet him on the public platform, and hold his own to the binding claims of the Seventy day Sabbath. I will go farther and become responsible for all the expense connected therewith. Just name the date giving proper time for arrangements. Let truth prevail and let the public hear both sides, from the lips of those prepared to put up the arguments.

THAT UBIQUITOUS PEST SEVENTEEN YEAR LOCOST

Is Due To Visit Western Maryland This Year.

The periodical cicada or so-called seventeen year locust in an unique insect in point of longevity and subterranean in existence. This insect is peculiar in America and appears in different broods in various parts of the country.

It is now known that there are two distinct races of the cicada, one requiring seventeen years to complete its developments and the other but thirteen years. In the main the former occupies the northern and northeastern part of the United States, while the latter occurs in the southern portions of the country.

However while the extent of their ranges is such that the two races ranges overlap considerably, Maryland does not have broods of the thirteen year race, but the visit of the seventeen year cicada this year will be watched very closely.

The counties in this section of the state will be most effected and Garrett county farmers and orchardists should be prepared.

The story of the life of the cicada is interesting but its ravages are what should receive most attention. Young fruit trees, nursery stock and young shade trees often suffer, while any tree that has been given fresh wounds, by such work as pruning, etc., will especially be affected. Every kind of bird finds the cicada a choice article of diet, but especially the English sparrow. His natural enmity to this insect is his apparent only redeeming trait.

Spraying with kerosene emulsions the best protection againat the cicada, while small and unusually valuable trees may be covered with mosquito bar or cheese cloth, during the time the cicada is present.

STEALING HORSES.

A Novel Petition Printed In A Pennsylvania Paper.

Recently the Coudersport, Pennsylvania, Enterprise contained the novel advertisement printed below. The North American, of Philadelphia, reprinted it as a telegraphic dispatch. It should be printed in every paper. Read carefully:

APPLICATION FOR LICENSE.

No. 87 March Term. 1911.

"In Re-petition of G. I. Lovegold for Licenses to Steal Horses.

"Hon. John Fairmind, judge of court of quarter sessions of Almostany County, State of Pennsylvania:

"I hereby make application for a special licenses to steal horses. I am willing to pay liberally for the privilege. I am embolded to make this application by reason of other special privileges petitioned for about this time of year by other citizens of 'good moral character.' The business for which they are asking license produced at least three-fourths of all the crime committed in the county the last year. It has filled our borough lockups and the county jail. It has made our criminal court the most expensive in the history of the county.

"The business for which I ask a license I deem less injurious to the community than the business of selling intoxicating liquors either at wholesale or retail.

"1. I pledge myself not to take away the senses of any man nor rob his purse.

"2. I obligate myself not to cause men to beat their wives, damn their children into the world, commit murder, or raise hell in the community. I only want to steal their horses.

"3. And if man has a soul, which most men consent to, I promise to do nothing to destroy this germ of immortality, but leave it to its own moral course. I only want to steal horses.

"4. I furthermore, solemly promise that if the licenses is granted I will not steal horses on Sunday, nor on election day, nor on legal holidays, nor after ten o'clock at night. I also solemnly promise not to steal colts, nor horses that have no sense, or old broken-down plugs.

"5. Your honor will see the license I pray for will result in less harm to the community than a license to sell intoxicating liquors. Of course, I may damage the property of a few well-to do people, but their bodies, their minds, their reputations, and character I am above impairing. I only want to steal their horses.

"6. I would further enforce my application by reminding the court that 'you can't run the county without the license foe'; that 'if I don't steal horses somebody else will'; that 'all attempts to prohibit horse stealing only result in producing sneaks and liars'; that 'I am a liberal contributor to the political jackpot,' and that 'I control more votes than most of the other applicants for license.'

"I also call the attention of your judicial mind to the number and (especially) character of those subscribing to my petition.

Trusting you will grant my petition, and this I shall ever pray, etc.

"G. I. LOVEGOLD.

"Bondsmen, Winalafud Syne & Deth Trust Company.

"Attorney, Firm of N. O. Scruples & Moore Longgreen.

"We, the undersigned, certify to the good moral character of the applicant, G. I. Lovegold, and believe him to be a man fit to be entrusted with a license to steal horses, and pray the court to grant the license."

IT CURED HIS BOY'S COUGH

Now L. O. Lindamood is Trying a Bottle Himself.

In Fact He Has Never Seen Anything as Good as Bear's Emulsion.

John D. Bear, Elkton, Va.

Dear Sir: My little boy (nine years old) had been very much complaining all one fall and winter; no appetite, high fever, very sickly look and a hacking cough.

I tried a great many home remedies but without any relief. I got several patent remedies and still he got no relief. On hearing of Emulsion I tried a bottle and have never seen any one improve as he did It was no time before the cough was gone and he strengthened up and his appetite improved. I am now taking a bottle myself and feel it is doing me a great deal of good.

Bear's Emulsion is undoubtedly the best tonic I ever saw.

Very respectfully,
L. O. Lindamood

KISS WRECKED CONVERSION

Wife's Plans Knocked Awry by Affectionate Minister.

New York, April 7.—A threatening postal card sent to Mrs. Hilme Dehl, advising her not to press her charges, was a contribution to the incidents which have attended the secret ecclesiastic trial of Dr. Jacob E. Price, the Methodist clergyman who is charged with misconduct by nine women members of his congregation.

Mrs. Dehl said on the stand that Dr. Price had made improper proposals to her and "treated her as no man had ever treated her before."

Mrs. William Moore, a witness, told in a vivid and circumstantial way how a kiss from Dr. Price had led to what she called a tragedy in her home.

"A kiss is a small thing sometimes," she said, "but in my home it grew into a tragedy."

The witness broke down as she talked, explaining that the incident caused the failure of an aim which she had long been trying to fulfill the religious conversion of her husband.

"I had just managed to get him interested and he was on the point of beginning regular attendance at the church when this awful episode happened," she said. "Dr. Price came to condole with me in the affliction which had visited my mother-in-law. As he rose from prayer he kissed me on the cheek, afterward saying it would be wise not to tell my husband about it. As a matter of fact, he found out, of course, and a storm followed."

PENROSE SAYS HE'S READY

Will Stand by Charges Made Against Postoffice Appointments.

Philadelphia, April 7.—Senator Penrose declared that he had not received Postmaster General Burleson's letter inviting him to submit to the postoffice department any evidence he had regarding "corruption" in the appointment of postmasters in this state.

"I am fully prepared to sustain the charges that I have made," observed the senator. "The kind of investigation I shall stand for is a public one." I shall probably ask that the investigation be made by the committee on postal affairs of the senate. That would insure publicity."

PRISON NEARLY EMPTY

Governor Blease Gives Freedom to Fourteen More Convicts.

Columbia, S. C., April 7. Governor Blease released fourteen prisoners among whom were eight men convicted of manslaughter, three of larceny, two of arson and one of practicing dentistry without a license. This makes 1,190 convicts to whom Governor Blease has extended clemency since he assumed office in January, 1911.

There were more than 1,300 prisoners in the state penitentiary when Blease became governor, but there are only 186 left.

One Asks License In Greene County.

Waynesburg, Pa., April 7.—The Greene county license court opened, with Judge James Ingram on the bench. There was only one applicant. Joseph C. Carpenter of this place applying for a brewer's license. It developed that Carpenter had failed to advertise his application in the newspapers. As a result Greene county is dry for another year.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. church will conduct an exchange at H. B. Harvey's store Saturday next from 10:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m. There will be on sale bread, pies, cakes, colored eggs, homemade candy, and useful and fancy articles.

One of our enterprising farmers last week brought to the store of Leighton & Harver nearly eighty-five dollars' worth of marketing, consisting of country cured hams, and butter and eggs.

Mr. H. V. Leighton, of the firm of Leighton & Harvey, is in Baltimore purchasing a stock of summer goods.

Mrs. Nancy J. Haymond arrived here Tuesday, after spending the winter in Florida.

The game of basket ball played here Monday night between the Oakland Cadets and the home team resulted in favor of the latter by a score of 36 to 12.

Rev. H. B. Jordan's household goods were shipped to Richmond, Va., Tuesday, where Rev. Jordan has accepted a call to serve a Baptist congregation.

Dr. Widdowson went to Baltimore Tuesday to be absent several days.

Mrs. Wingate arrived yesterday and opened her cottage, after an absence of two months.

We understand that Mr. David Ritchey of Fairmont has sold his cottage to a gentleman from Clarksburg and has purchased the Willet cottage on the same street.

Miss Josephine White is with relatives and friends here but will return to her home near Rowlesburg, W. Va., Saturday.

About all of our young people and some not so young have been fishing in nearby streams, but the result has only been a few small fish.

Mrs. Alma Clary has been tendered a position in Mr. E. E. Kesner's store. Mrs. Clary will be an efficient clerk.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Dunnington and daughter June returned to the Park last week, after spending most of the winter in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. C. H. Friend and little son, of Pomroy, State of Washington, are with Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Friend, Mr. Friend having returned to the northwest to dispose of his property there, when he will return and they will made their home in or near Mt. Lake Park.

BLOOMINGTON.

The funeral ceremonies of Mr. Frank Krouse, a well known miner employed at the Pattison mine, whose sad death occurred suddenly on last Monday evening about half past seven o'clock while walking along the B. & O. R. R., to his home, a short distance west of town, took place from the M. E. church on last Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock. His sudden death was a great shock to his many friends and acquaintances in this community as none of them had ever heard him complain of any illness that threatened such serious consequences. Rev. William Beevers of Hampshire preached the funeral sermon. The Junior Orrder of this place and the I. O. R. M. of Westernport of which orders he was a member, had charge of the funeral arrangements and both orders officiated at the final exercises at the grave. He was unmarried and was aged about forty years.

The members of Miners Sunshine Council Jr. O. U. A. M., of Bloomington, deserves a great deal of credit for the way its members worked in trying to raise the back salary of the Methodist minister before he left for conference, now in session at Cumberland. They put their shoulders to the wheel and for three evenings of last week kept the wagon going until the required amount was raised. Nobody appreciated these efforts more than the Reverend, who certainly seemed grateful for the kindness of his neighbors and friends. Of course, quite a number of the ladies auxiliary, the Daughters of America worked hard if not harder than the brethren, and they were not forgotten in summing up the credit for making the festival a great success financially and socially.

Va., where she had been called on account of the critical illness of her mother, Mrs. Frank Beck, spent a few days in Bloomington and Piedmont, visiting both friends and relatives.

Mr. Daniel Walker, of Kitzmiller, accompanied by his wife, spent the early part of the week visiting relatives in town.

Mr. "Jack" Barnhouse, a well known and highly respected citizen of Barnum, and one of the oldest and most faithful employees of the Monroe Coal Mining Co., of that place died at his home, on Wednesday evening about half past ten o'clock, from brights' disease. He leaves a widow, two daughters, Misses Maggie, and Annie and one son, Mr. Roy Barnhouse. The remains were taken to Chaffee, on Friday morning and from there to Mt. Zion grave yard, where they were intered.

BITTINGER.

Rev. E. E. Oney, of Gettysburg, Pa., will preach from the Lutheran pulpit in this village on Friday evening, April 10th, at 7:30 and also on Easter Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

Last week's snow storm and freezing weather has aroused new hope in the hearts of local sugar makers.

Dr. R. C. Bowen, of Grantsville, was called to this neighborhood last Sunday afternoon by the illness of the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Speicher.

The young folks of this place gave a surprise party in honor of Miss Linnie Miller, the efficient and popular primary teacher in our public school on Wednesday evening of last week.

Prof. G. W. Sterling returned to his home at Mt. Lake last Friday after closing a successful term of teaching in the village school.

George Stark of this village, and Clarence Stark, of McHenry "swapped" driving horses a few days ago. It is said to the advantage of each.

It is reported that Gilbert Green and family, of Jennings, will move to the Jefferson Broadwater farm, near here, this spring.

Peter Bickford of Meadow Mountain, was a pleasant business caller in our midst one day last week.

GORTNER

Not seeing any items from this section for some time we think a few lines might be of interest.

Our school which closed April 1st, ended one of the best terms of its history. The entertainment on the night of the 28th, was well attended considering the inclemency of the weather, and the program which was gotten up by the teacher, Miss Viola Enlow, and the scholars, was a splendid one and well rendered. We are sorry that we are not able to secure the service of Miss Enlow for another year, but it seems there is an opening elsewhere that likely offers higher wages, so we will have to be satisfied and take chances.

We are sorry to state that Mr. Ernest Gortner of this place, is on the sick list, as is also Mrs. Benj. Yoder, the latter being somewhat improved.

Our community was very much shocked to hear of the death of Mrs. Jonas Yutzy. But each moment of our life takes us closer to the same dividing point, death. Our sympathy is extended to the bereaved family.

L. J. Swartzentruber is busy putting in some new machinery which he hopes will enable him to turn out a better ware with which to serve his customers.

The sugar makers of this place are anxiously looking forward for the maple sweets.

Miss Laura Sanders, who is at present at Piedmont visiting her sister, will be home in the near future.

Eli Petersheims expects to move on the farm which they bought of D. C. Slabach. In a short while Mr. Slabach intends to make Alabama his future home; we are sorry to see them leave.

Miss Mary Lichty intends to leave for Ohio next week where she will spend some time visiting her sister.

SHORT RUN.

Our school closed on Wednesday, April 1, after a very successful term taught by Miss Markwood. This day was chosen by teachers and scholars as a day of festivity, and the trustees and all past patrons of the school were invited in to help make merry. The day was unfortunately a stormy one, but this did not in the least prevent the young folks from having a good social time. At noon a splendid dinner was served which consisted of almost all the the toothsome eatables imaginable. Later in the afternoon an excellent programme consisting of dialogues, recitations, readings and songs were rendered by the scholars and in conclusion a helpful talk was given by the teacher and another by Mr. George Wilson, a scholar. This entertainment was cleverly gotten up and we enjoyed it all immensely, excepting the opening exercise which proved to be a---, well we think it too bad that the scholars should play a prank on such an expectant audience just because it was April 1. The stage decorations were also very artistic and we feel that the day was a long-to-be-remembered one for all.

Mr. Walter White spent a few days following the close of his school at Eagle Rock, visiting friends, before returning to his home, near Cranesville, W. Va.

Mr. Martin Sharpless, of Wildell, W. Va., was transacting business in Kitzmiller last week, spent a night at the home of his father-in-law, Mr. Daniel Wilson at this place.

Mr. Clarence Davis and Miss Katie Rotruck, of Keyser, W. Va., spent Sunday at the home of Mr. J. H. Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Harvey and Miss Lois Harvey were visiting at Claude Harvey's Sunday last.

Messrs. Arthur and Robert Harvey attended the literary entertainement at Kitzmiller Thursday evening.

A number of our young men attended the Vaudeville performance in the Maryland Theatre, at Kitzmiller, Saturday night.

Mr. Jesse White spent Sunday with home folks at Bethlehem.

The little freeze which came the latter part of last week, afforded us another splendid sugar "run" and the farmers who have camps are busy gathering the sap at this writing.

The Precious Maple.

The inroads that are being made upon the hard maple trees of the country must alarm every boy who has a taste for genuine maple syrup with his buck wheat cakes. Nor is the crystalized liquid distributed in the form of sugar cakes to be lightly surrendered by boyhood. A bulletin of the United States Department of Agriculture points out that maple is one of the most widely used of native hardwood and so brings warning that the syrup is in danger. Maple is a favorite flooring, being especially in demand for roller skating rinks and bowling alleys. How many joy-producing trees do you suppose must be slaughtered to floor a skating rink? It is reported that the shoe manfactures of Massachusetts use thirteen million board feet of sugar maple every year in the manufacture of shoe lasts. You see much bird's eye maple furniture--sugar trees were cut to make it. The strength and hardness of this wood causes it to be used for a wide variety of purposes. Altogether one billion, one hundred and fifty million feet of sugar maple are cut in the United States every year. So make the most of your opportunities to consume real maple syrup, for the the time is coming when the only "maple" syrup obtainable will be the kind concocted from brown sugar flavored with the juice of the corn cob. OPTOMETRIST

Is Your Child Handicapped in his or her physical and mental development by defective vision? Out of 100,000 school children examined in New York city, nearly 30 per cent. were found to be in need of glasses. In Boston the percentage was found to be slightly over 20 per cent., and most of these children were down on the books as "stupid," "stubborn" or unruly. In Philadelphia 354 children were discovered who could not read ordinary writing on a blackboard at a distance of twenty feet. You should make sure by a thorough examination at the hands of a competent optometrist. That your child is not among this vast army of little citizens who suffer from defective eyesight, delays often result seriously. My examinations are made by the most scientific accurate methods. If it is found that glasses are not required you will be told so frankly and no charge made for the examination.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING.

Bids Will Be Asked For the Erection of New Building at Accident.

The Board of School Commissioners convened in session last Friday in its office in Oakland, with all members of the Board present. The purpose of the meeting was to receive statements of repairs needed to school buildings throughout the county as well as to hear delegations and receive petitions in behalf of new schools and buildings.

Statements of repairs needed to the following schools were made by the trustees thereof: Friendsville High and Grammar, Dorsey, Pope, New Germany, McCabe, Beall, Jennings, Red Gate.

Appeals for new buildings to supplant the present ones, which were represented as further unfit or inadequate for present school needs, were made for the following schools: Strickers, Dry Run, Sand Spring, Oak Hill, Accident.

Requests were made for additions to the following school buildings: Jennings, Maysville, Kitzmiller, Dodson.

Petitions for new schools and buildings were presented for Trap Run, in District No. 2, and for Red Run, in District No. 14; a petition was likewise presented for the removal of the Gorman school building from its present site down into the town of Gorman.

The following order was passed: That hereafter graduates of the state high schools of Garrett county shall not be permitted to be graduated in dresses er gowns costing more than those in authority at the school shall determine.

A representative of the Palmer Penmanship Co., of New York, appeared before the Board, advocating the adoption of the Palmer system of penmanship in this county, and among the stipulations the Company agreed to give each teacher of the county a free course in penmanship.

The secretary was directed and authorized to advertise for bids for the erection of a new school building at Accident, the same to be in harmony with the plans and specifications on file in the office of the Board of School Commissioners, and said bids to be received until 12 o'clock meridian, of Tuesday, May 5th, 1914.

County Normal Schools, to be open Monday, May 25th, and to close upon Friday, July 17th, were authorized at the following places, with teachers as named: Oakland, Messrs. R. R. Sanner, A. W. DeWitt and C. Edward Bender; Friendsville, Mr. J. P. Jacobs and Miss Emma Goehringer.

Terms under which the county superintendent is authorized to renew teachers' certificates, valid for the approaching school year, were passed, and will be sent by the superintendent to any one upon application.

The superintendent was authorized to conduct examinations, at a time to be advertised, for the awarding of all vacant scholarships apportioned to Garrett County for the coming school year and to make his reports thereof to the Board.

The secretary was directed to advertise the next meeting of the Commissioners for Tuesday, May 5th; and to include in the advertisement that school communities are requested to assemble in their respective school houses upon Monday, April 27th, next, where elections should be held or petitions prepared setting forth the choice of the citizens as to whom they desire as trustees for the school year of 1914-1915, the same to be forwarded to the office of the School Commissioners in time for their next meeting, which is to be held Tuesday, May 5th, which is the date set by law for the appointment of all trustees.

The Cigarette Law in Force.

A report is in circulation on the streets of Oakland that Senator Speicher's cigarette law does not go into effect until June 1st next. At least one constable has been informed that such is the case and that no arrests should be made for a violation of this law before that date. The law emphatically states that the "act shall take effect from the date of its passage." We advise the store keepers to be on the safe side and refuse to give or sell cigarettes or cigarette papers to minors.

EASTER IN THE CHURCHES.

The Great Christian Festival was Fittingly Observed Sunday.

In commeration of the resurrection of The Christ the churches of Oakland last Sabbath held appropriate religious services. Easter sermons were peached. Easter music was sung and Easter flowers decorated the churches.

Easter music in the churches of Oakland is each year becoming an event that is eagerly looked forward to by the membership of the several congregations. It is a time when there is a great rejoicing and the music always strikes a happy note.

Palms and cut flowers were set about the altars and greens of many kinds hung about the altar railing and pulpit. Easter denotes life, and the churches endeavor to impress it upon the minds of the multitudes.

ST. MATTHEW'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

Minister Wm. W. Shearer had a special program prepared for the members of his congregation. At 11:00 a. m. the Easter sermon was preached by Mr. George Lechonby, a student of the Virginia Theological Seminary. The sermon was highly spoken of by those who heard it. At 4:00 evening prayer and reading was enjoyed. The church was made cheerful by the floral offerings. Mrs. Cushing presented the church with two seven-branch candleabra as a memorial to her mother and two brothers, which were used at this service, on the altar, for the first time.

ST. PAUL'S METHODIST EPISCOPAL.

The music at St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church is made a speical feature of the Easter service. This year the selection was especially appropriate and greatly enjoyed by large congregations. Miss Lottie Loar was the accomplished organist. The soloists were Prof. C. Edward Bender and Mrs. Anita Poling Mealy. Dr. Moore, the pastor, preached a strong, helpful and inspiring sermon appropriate to the day. Three persons were baptized and special collection was taken for the several benevolent enterprises of the church amounting to nearly $600. The church was beautifully decorated with Easter flowers. The evening service was of special interest. Several persons took part in the exercises. The pastor made a stirring address. The Sunday school had its Easter program. Two hundred and thirty persons were in attendance, the largest attendance in the history of the school. The men's Bible class numbered 41 persons. The school contributed nearly $100 to the benevolences of the church. Supt. F. A. Thayer was delighted with the exercises and the large attendance.

GARRETT MEMORIAL PRESBYTERIAN.

The floral offerings were appropriate for this great church day. Dr. Ely, the pastor, preached a very able and interesting sermon at the morning service, which was followed by an impressive communion service. The congregation was large and greatly enjoyed the morning hour. The Sunday school held an interesting session at 2:30 p. m. There was no evening service, Dr. Ely preaching at that hour in Terra Alta.

ST. PETER'S CATHOLIC CHURCH.

As is always the case St. Peter's church was beautifully decorated with Easter flowers and ferns. Special music had been provided for the occasion. Father James E. Connell was assisted by Father Maloney, of Baltimore. The services were as follows: 7:30 a. m., mass; 10:30 a. m. high mass, and at 7:30 p. m. regular services. These services were well attended.

ST. MARK'S LUTHERAN CHURCH.

The congregation of this church were delighted to have their former pastor, the Rev. Edmund Manges with them on Easter day to conduct the services. The Sunday school assembled at 9:30 and held a profitable session. At 10:30 a. m. Rev. Manges conducted a communion service which was preceded by preparatory services and a short sermon. This service will long be remembered as one of the pleasant and profitable occasions of their congregation life. At 7:00 p. m. the Sunday school had its exercises. It was a children's program carried out by the children of the school. The little tots had their part as well as the larger scholars, and they did well. The music throughout the day was carefully selected for the occasion, and the floral offerings were many and added no little to the enjoyment of the day.

The New Fish Law.

Several persons have called at THE REPUBLICAN office to inquire about the Fish bill Senator Speicher had passed at the recent session of the legislature. Conflicting statements have been made about what the bill provides for. The bill as it passed will be found in another column. Read it carefully before you go trout fishing, for it is in affect today and a violation of it may cause you a financial loss.

A GREAT BIBLE CONFERENCE FOR MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK

Dr. W. D. Reed, manager of the Mountain Lake Park Association, is trying to arrange for a Bible Conference at the Park to begin July 21 and end August 2. The conference will be under the management of Rev. Sol C. Dickey, Sup't of Winona. He is now in England securing the cream of that country for the program. Among those already secured for the convention are Rev. F. B. Meyer, of London; Rev. W. Watkinson, also of London; Rev. B. C. Slater, of Edinburg; Billy Sunday, Hon. Wm. J. Bryan, Wm. Beiderwolf, Melville Trotter, Bishop Hughes, Bishop Quayle, Dr. S. D. Gordon, Major Cole, Evangelist M. H. Lyon, and E. O. Excell, with his pianist, Mr. Roper, "the greatest in the world," will have charge of the music from start to finish.

Such a program will cost some money. But it is worth all it will cost. It is an opportunity of a life time. It is a program that will bring great crowds to the Park—such crowds as never before assembled in the Park. Can Dr. Reed secure this program? We believe he can. To do so he must have the hearty co-operation of every man and woman who believes in an intellectual or spiritual uplift.

The Conference cannot be secured without a guarantee of $4,000. Dr. Dickey and Evangelist Lyon will agree to assume $1,000 of this amount. That leaves $3 000 to be guaranteed by others. Dr. Reed wants to secure the promise ot the purchase of 1500 tickets at $2.00 each, and the reservation of 1000 reserved seats at $1.00 each. This is for the entire ten days and the entire lecture course. Considering the reputation of these men and their wonderful drawing qualities, this is a very low price. A single lecture from any one of these men commands in our city halls $1.00 and the largest halls are crowded. For $2.00 we can hear for ten days many, many lectures and the best music in the land.

Are you interested? Do you want to meet and hear these great men? This is your opportunity. It may never come again. Each member of the family ought to hear these men. Write to Dr. Reed at once and tell him how many tickets you will take. If you can attend but three of these lectures you will have more than the worth of your money. Many people travel hundreds of miles to hear Mr. Sunday, the most remarkable evangelist in the world. You may hear him right at home, as well as the many other wonderful, magnetic orators and speakers.

Every man and woman in Garrett county ought to be interested. Write Dr. Reed. Do this today. There is no time to lose. Address him at Oakland or Mountain Lake Park.

Obituary.

MRS. MARY THOMPSON.

At the home of her daughter, Mrs. Melvin Calhoun, near Loch Lynn, Mrs. Mary Thompson departed this life, aged 81 years, 7 months. Mrs. Thompson was the widow of Henry Thompson, who died a few years ago. The cause of her death was old age. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Jonas Fike and the interment took place Saturday, April 4th, at the Thompson grave yard, at the old nome place. A large number of people attended the funeral services.

JOHN ALEXANDER.

Squire John Alexander, a well known citizen of Morgantown, W. Va., died at his home Sunday morning, aged 72 years. The interment took place Tuesday morning and was in charge of the Odd Fellows order, and was largely attended. The deceased is survived by his widow, who was Mrs. Mattie Townshend, formerly of Oakland, and two sons, who were with him at the time of his death. The Morgantown New Dominion had this to say about Mr. Alexander: "The passing of such a man is a loss to any community. His life and character are worthy of emulation."

MISS LOUISA BILL.

Miss Louisa Bill, daughter of the late Charles Bill, of Grantsville, Md., died at the Allegany Hospital at Cumberland, at 1:10 o'clock Monday afternoon, aged 56 years. She is survived by one sister, Mrs. J. A. Frazier, of Niles, Mich., and the following brothers: John Bill, of Keyser, W. Va., Frank Bill, of Lonaconing; H. G. Bill, of Wheeling, W. Va., and C. H. Bill, of Grantsville, Md. The funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

OAKLAND LOST AGAIN.

Terra Altans Successful at Spelling Bee Tuesday Night.

Oakland struck her colors for the third time in a spelling bee with Terra Alta on Tuesday night when the latter came off victorious in a match conducted in the Grammar school building here.

The visitors, twelve in number, came to Oakland on train No. 72, returning home after the "spell" on train No. 1.

The affair was held under the auspices of the Civic Club, the members of which served refreshments to the visitors and others who were in attendance. Capt. Sanner was pronouncer, who also arranged the words to be spelled. Prof. Gnegy was the last to go down on the Oakland side, he missing the word shellac. Mr. K. E. Burke carried off the laurels for the Terra Altans.

Easter Dance Monday Night.

A very enjoyable Easter dance was given in the hall of the first National Bank, Oakland, Monday night. The music was furnished by the Oakland orchestra. Those present were, Mrs. R. E. Sliger, Mrs. C. E. Offutt, Mrs. T. A. Gonder, Mrs. W. A. Sturgiss, Misses Mary West, Francis Hamill, Jane Smith, Bess Offutt, Annie Gonder, Annie Lowenstein, Alma Scherr, Cleo Krantz, Alice Hart, of Oakland, and Miss May Long, of Keyser, W. Va., Messrs. J. M. Jarboe, Mark White, Dr. Grant, R. E. Sliger, Dwight Townshend, C. E. Offutt, Roy Hammond, Wellington Crane, Joseph McComas, Andrew January, Thomas A. Gonder, Will Sturgiss, D. E. Offutt, Jr., Dr. Bartlett, of Oakland, and Mr. Justin, of Baltimore.

Another Garrett County Boy Wins Out.

Wesley H. Rudisill, who has been employed as an electrical engineer at Anniston, Alabama, has accepted a position with a company which has consolidated all the electric lighting and railroad companies on Staten Island and the Borough of Richmond in Greater New York. The new company has about 450 miles of street railway in operation. Mr. Rudisill has charge of the rehabilitation of the roads and lighting plants. While in the South Mr. Rudisill was frequently called into consultation upon electrical matters and made a number of special investigations of large plants and his reports were published in the electrical trade journals. The promotion to this New York City plant is quite a compliment to this young and successful electrical engineer.

WIDE RANGE IN NEW TAXATION

Old Ideas Swept Away by Recent Legislature.

More important and more far reaching laws bearing upon taxation in Maryland for the present and for the future were passed by the last legislature than by any of its predecessors. Many old ideas have been swept away. Here are some of the more important tax laws enacted.

1. Taxing business corporations on their assets instead of on their shares, as heretofore.
2. Reduction of the bonus tax by which the formation of corporotions under domestic, instead of under laws of other states, will be encourrged.
3. Exemption of manufacturer tools and implements from State taxation.
4. Exemption of county, town and city bonds from taxation.
5. Fixing 45 cent tax on securities.
6. State-wide exemption of household furniture, with $500 as a maximum from taxation.
7. Reducing the tax on bank stock, under conditions to 1 per cent.

By this reduction it is claimed that there will be an increase in banking capital and in deposits in order that the lending facilties of banks may be increased.

The Governor Signs Many Bills.

Last Friday Governor Golesborough signed 250 bills, among which were the following Garrett county bills:

No. 688. Authorizing the community of Mountain Lake Park to collect license fees.—Speicher

No. 278. Providing for a county home under certain conditions- Savage.

No. 565. Prisoners sent to county jail may be worked on public roads.

All laws relating to Garrett county will be published in THE REPUBLICAN within the next few weeks.

The following bills were signed Monday: Relating to game laws

Ministers paying porters for bringing couples wanting to be married to them.

Tax on dogs.

Great Council Red Men.

The annual Great Council of the Independent Order of Red Men of the State of Maryland, will convene at Cambridge, Md., next Tuesday. There are about 10,000 braves connected with the order in this State. Mr. Jacob Stump, of Bloomington, is the Senior Sagamore of the Great Council. He is the candidate for Great Sachem, the highest State office and has no oppesition. Squire R. L. Fries will represent the Oakland braves at the Great Council.

FISH HATCHERY FOR MARYLAND

Provisions Made in a Bill Reported Favorably.—A Big Experimental Plant.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 10.—Provisions for the establishment in Maryland of a special fishery establishment, which will be the only one of its kind in the whole country, is made in an omnibus fish-hatchery bill that was favorably reported to the House late yesterday afternoon by Representative Faison, of North Carolina, from the Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

The bill appropriates $790,000 for the establishment of this Maryland fishery experimental plant and for 15 other fishery plants in as many states. In the other states the plants will be the usual sort of fish hatchery and cultural plant. They were to cost $50,000 each as a starter. But in Maryland the plant instead of being a fish hatchery, will be devoted to the study of diseases and problems in connection with the propagation of fish and $40,000 is the initial sum recommended for the establishment of this plant. The bill does not attempt to fix the location of the plant, but leaves that to the discretion of Secretary Redfield.

The Maryland project is based on the provisions of a bill introduced by Representative Frank O. Smith, of the Fifth Maryland district. The report filed today contains a letter from Secretary Redfield, of the Department of Commerce, stating that the proposal to establish an "experimental station for the study of fish diseases and fish propagation," as provided for in the Smith bill is strongly indorsed.

In his letter favoring this Maryland station Secretary Redfield said: "Fish culture has reached such a high degree of perfection in the United States, and the magnitude of the operations as a whole leaves little to be desired. There is, however, much room for effective work in fish culture similar to that conducted in animal and plant industry, at agricultural experimental stations, and one of the greatest needs of the service is an experimental station for the study of fish diseases and the propagation of fish breeding.

"The matter of improving the food and game qualities of fishes by selective breeding is a subject to which practically no attention has yet been given in this country, but the possibilities are all using the project is well worthy of support from Congress in view of the great improvements that have been produced in domestic animals and plants by the application of scientific methods.

"The serious aspect of disease among cultivated fishes has frequently been set forth in the Bureau of Fisheries reports and brought directly to the attention of Congress. An experimental station would, no doubt, pay for itself every year in the actual money value of fish saved that are now lost at the hatching stations all over the country because of lack of knowledge of the proper means for preventing and curing the various destructive maladies to which domesticated or semi-domesticated fish are liable."

ELDER

Hello! everybody! as you havn't heard from this place for sometime will say we are still here and doing well. We are glad to see the winter break, but at this writing we are having lots of rain and some snow. The farmers will be late getting out the crops if this continues.

Mr. John Ferguson had a sale on last Friday and sold his entire personal property. On April 7th Mr. Ferguson and family started to Springfield, Oregon. We wish him a safe journey and success there.

We learn that our real estate man, S. F. Cuppett, has purchased the John Ferguson farm and Mr. Hud Burgess is his tenant. He moved on April 6.

We are glad to see "Uncle Tom" Frazee out again after being housed up about all winter.

Our Sunday school opened on Sunday, April 5th, with a good turnout. S. F. Cuppett is Superintendent.

Mr. N. K. Welch and wife have returned from Grantsville where he was teaching school.

Our school closed on April 1st with an entertainment at night. Although the rain was pouring down there was a full house and everybody enjoyed it. Our teacher made the children sweet and happy. The patrons of our school were more than pleased with the advanced per cent made this winter, and the good conduct of the school under the management of our teacher, S. K. Welch. The children are all sorry that the school is over for the summer,

Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Cuppett and family spent a very pleasant evening at B. F. Schroyer's last Sunday.

S. W. Sterling and family of Kendal, were visiting parents and friends at this place last week.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

The Rev. Frank McCamic of Deer Park.

To The Editor of The Republican.

It is seldom that ambition has to stir for twenty years within a human breast before it has been satisfied, and curls itself up in the mantle of its long sought glory on a couch of contentment, while the mind gives forth the lessons of life it has so long been learning, emphasized with all the fervor and energy and enthusiasm of youth. Very often when ambition knocks at the door that leads to the heights of aspiration, twenty years ahead, and points to the path that twists and turns through the darkness and uncertainty of discouragement and lack of proper training, and the hardships which always beset those who fly in the face of a cold world, when trying to follow their star, without the necessary material equipment, the knock is very light and the voice that urges a trial is so low that they cannot be heard.

As hard to follow as the paths of ambition have been proven to be, occasionally there is one that hears the light knock and soft voice, and starts at the foot of the trail that leads over the many mountains of difficulties, and undismayed by the many pitfalls that lie before him, he keeps his eye on his shining star, slowly growing brighter, and gaining courage to attempt what lies by the overcoming of obstacles seemingly so great, he climbs the last hill and enters into the land of promise, abundantly fruitful, lying before him like a modern fairy land.

Ministering unto others is the noblest of all the professions; the greaest of all arts; its star shines brightest in a firmament of twinkling lights. Its preparation is the most exacting; its remuneration is the smallest; its work is the most arduous. It claims many people, but few are really inspired; to most it is merely a profession of trying to preach a Christianity that does not inspire practise; to a lesser number it is preaching Christianity and trying to live up to those preachings; but to a very few it is living Christianity and preaching what it teaches. One of the very few is the subject of this sketch. Leaving school at an early age, before he reached the High School, and being a husky lad, the work circumstances forced him to choose was the kind that developed brawn instead of brain. But while his muscles increased in size and hardness his mind began to drink in the beauties of nature, and the reward is satisfaction, of doing good to others, The difficulties to be overcome were almost appalling in number; slow of speech and with practically no knowledge of English, he developed into an earnest and eloquent speaker by faithful attendance and regular performance at a literary society; lacking in history close reading made up that deficiency; through years of attendance at Sunday school and Christian Endeavor he assimilated the Christian side to his studies; many years in grime and overalls has given him a knowledge of human nature that will enable him to reach the hearts of his hearers, and to apply the Christianity he has lived. Once again a working man has leaped across the chasm of ignorance and poverty, precedents and customs, and is leading others to the Master.

Frank McCamic, to whose name Rev. must now be prefixed, was born in Wellsburg, W. Va, over thirty years ago. The public schools of that city afforded him what schooling he posesses. Early in life he identified himself with the Presbyterian church, and was for many years one of its most faithful members. For a number of years he was president of the Wellsburg Literary Society, and as a reader has a reputation that is more than local. For many years he was time-keeper for the J. H. Mathews Company, and with them traveled extensively, tney building glass factories in all parts of this country. Almost two years ago he went with the Company to Clarksburg, W. Va., where they were engaged in erecting the Owens Bottle Factory. While in Clarksburg he was licensed to preach by the Methodist Episcopal church, and at the last conference held at Buckhannon, he was assigned a charge at Deer Park, Maryland, where he is now located. It has been almost twenty years since he turned his eyes toward the ministry, and by living the life of Christianity he is better able to preach it.

Guilty of Sending A Black Hand Letter.

Arraigned on the charge of sending a black hand letter through the mails to M. Tamburini, an Austrian merchant, Achilles Defacco, a Greek residing at Bayard, W. Va., entered a plea of guilty and was sentenced to two years in the Moundsville penitentiary by Judge Dayton. Debaco demanded $500, declaring he would kill Tamburini if the latter failed to send the money, and destroy his family if he told of the letter. District Attorney recommended mercy for Debaco, although Walker himself recently received a black hand letter demanding $10,000 under penalty of death and the destruction of his handsome home.

SEES VICTORY FOR REONITED PARTY

Senator Cummins Calls Republicans True Progressives.

At Chicago United States Senator Albert B. Cummins, of Iowa, in an address Thursday night, criticised the Democratic administration, defined his stand on the Tolls Repeal Bills, pronounced the Republican party the true progressives and blamed the Republican National Committee for the Democratic victory of 1912. He was the chief speaker at the Appomattox Day celebration of the Hamilton Club. Democratic defeat at the next national election, Senator Cummins predicted, would be effected by Republicans and progressives united as the Republican party and embracing a platform for progressive doctrines.

In dealing with the records of the Democratic administration, Senator Cummins declared it unnecessary to speak of Congress. "The President has, for the time being, obliterated that ancient and once powerful department of the government," he said.

"When therefore, I speak of the Democratic administration, I mean Woodrow Wilson. The overthrow of Representative government does not seem to have excited alarm, but the day will come when the country will understand better than it does now how vital it is to preserve independence of legislative authority.

"The President passed the tariff law. The Republican tariff of 1909 was too high. We ought to have reduced it, but we did not, and are now suffering the consequences of our folly."

The Panama tolls exemption repeal probably will pass the Senate, according to Senator Cummins. "There are two entirely distinct and independent questions involved in this controversy," he said. "The first concerns a domestic policy and with it no foreign nation has a right to interfere and we would be a craven people if we permitted even the suggestion of interference.

"That is, if we had no treaty obligations, is it wise, is it fair to the whole country to give coastwise boats free passage through the canal? My answer is no. I believe these ships ought to pay their just proportion of the expense of maintaining and operating the canal.

"The second question concerns our rights under the treaty. To that I would say there is nothing in the treaty, nothing in the understanding of the treaty at the time it was made, that in any way restricts or limits our absolute sovereignty in this ragard, and the man who is willing to accept the construction asserted by Great Britain or yeild to the still more ignominious interpetation involved in assenting to the demand made by the President, is willing to pay a higher price for the friendship of that country than I am willing to pay for the favor of the whole world."

The Republican defeat of 1912. Senator Cummins declared, had been the result of failure of some of the leaders to head the voice of the rank and file of the party.

"We suffered defeat and disaster," he said, "because some of the men clothed with the power of office refused to grapple with their problems.

"The unfair, unjust representation of the South, and the overthrow of the primary laws were two of the great factors which brought about the disintegration which followed."

REJECT POTOMAC RIVER PROJECT.

Secretary of War Garrison Sends Special Report to Congress.

The project for the improvement of the Potomac River from Washington to Cumberland, so as to provide for steam navigation either by canalization of the river or the establishment of slack water navigation, was Friday rejected in a special report sent to Congress by Secretary of War Garrison.

The rejection of the project is based to Congress by Secretary of War Garrison and W. C. Langfit, of the army engineer corps, who regard the proposition as not worthy of being taken up at this time by the government. The Army Board, headed by Col. F. V. Abbot and Chief of Engineers Dan C. Kingman, also oppose the undertaking. The report which is very voluminous, goes into the history of efforts to provide navigation from Cumberland to Washington, and deals extensively with the affairs of the C. & O. Canal and the commercial aspect of Western Maryland.

The army engineers assert that the Potomac River can neither be canalized nor provided with slack water navigation without the purchase of C. & O. Canal by the government. They say the section traversed by the canal is well supplied with rail transportation; that the improvement desired by certain people is a slackwater navigation suitable for cheap transportation of coal and other bulky commodities and the development of water power, but that while this improvement was favored by a number of people, "no material assistance was rendered by them in the attempt to ascertain the probable benefit that would result."

The report shows that a committee composed of the mayor and citizens of Harpers Ferry disapproved of the project, saying such a waterway would in no sense benefit that town and the surrounding country.

THE DEATH RECORD

JOSEPH GREEN.

At his home on the Killius farm, near Loch Lynn, Mr. Joseph Green departed this life, Thursday morning, aged 57 years. Rev. Bauman conducted the funeral services, at home, Friday evening. Saturday morning the remains were taken to the Thayer grave yard, at Thayerville, for interment.

GOOD FRIDAY SERVICE.

Death of Christ Commemorated in Oakland Churches.

The death of The Christ was commemorated in the St. Peter's Catholic church and in St. Matthew's Episcopal church, this city last Friday. For the first time in the history of Oakland the day was generally observed. From 12 o'clock noon to 3 p. m. all the business houses and saloons of the town were closed.

The services in St. Matthew's church were undenominational and in charge of the Rector, Rev. Shearer. The services were divided into period of 15 minutes each. One might attend any of these periods and retire at pleasure. During the three hours of the "Passion Services" large numbers of people attended the services which were full of interest and greatly enjoyed.

At night the sacrament of our Lord's supper was administered in the Methodist church. This service was also largely attended. Dr. Moore, the pastor, was assisted by District Superintendent Reed. This was a solemn service, but very impressive.

The services at St. Peter's church were of much interest to the Catholic portion of the city. Good Friday is one of the great days in the church life of tnis denomination and is always well attended. Good Friday of 1914 will be joyfully remembered by many of our citizens as one of the "red letter days" of their life.

Running For Governor in Pennsylvania

MICHAEL J. RYAN,
City Solicitor of Philadelphia.

MRS. COXEY IN FRONT

General's Wife Will Start Off With Army.

Massillon, O., April 14.—Mrs. Jacob Coxey will ride with her husband at the head of the army of the unemployed when it starts from Massillon Thursday morning on its way to Washington. Mrs. Coxey believes in the doctrines of her husband and is taking this method, she says, of demonstrating that she is with him in asking congress for the passage of laws providing employment for the idle.

Mr. and Mrs. Coxey will ride in a phaeton in which Coxey rode on the first march, twenty years ago. They will be accompanied by eleven-year old David Coxey on a pony. The boy will be aid to his father throughout the march.

Canton Socialists notified Coxey that they would shelter the army in their hall in Canton at the end of the first day's march, and that they would provide food. Mrs. Coxey placed at the disposal of the newspaper correspondents who will accompany the army her large limousine, which has a capacity of seven.

OPERATORS MEET MINERS

Annual Wage Conference in West Virginia Today.

Charleston, W. Va., April 14.—Delegates elected by the miners at the several local unions comprising District No. 17 of the United Mineworkers, with the coal operators of this organized district, are holding the annual joint conference to consider a wage scale.

The scale committee's report embraces twenty-four demands, the first of which is for a 10 per cent increase in pick mining and a corresponding advance in machine mining with the present differential. A similar increase is asked on all outside and inside day labor.

Considerable donbt exists over the prospects for a settlement. Through an agreement effected some time ago there will be no suspension of work for at least sixty days and it is believed that the operators will not accede to the demands made by the miners.

TEDDY WILL SOON BE BACK

Progressives Want Him to Run For Governor of New York.

New York, April 14.—Theodore Roosevelt is expected back from the jungle about May 15 or 20. His fellow Progressives hear that he has given up the idea of going to Madrid for the marriage of his son Kermit to Miss Belle Willard, daughter of J. E. Willard, American ambassador to Spain.

Progressives throughout the state are preparing to hit the colonel a body blow as soon as he lands in the form of an "irresistible demand" that he run for governor this fall.

Posse Hunts For Assassin.

New York, April 14.—A sheriff's posse was scouring the country for any trace of the assassins who murdered Frank Lanzara as he was at supper with his wife and three children. Lanzara, who was sixty years old, was sitting at the table with his back to the window. Mrs. Lanzara says that so far as she knows her husband had no enemies.

Smallpox Scare in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, April 14.—Following the discovery that a young woman with smallpox had spent several days in West Philadelphia, 3,000 persons were compelled by the police to undergo vaccination. Fifty physicians and 100 policemen did the work. Houses in which people refused to submit to vaccination were placed under quarantine.

Peacemaker Is Murdered.

Youngstown, O., April 14.—In attempting to end a quarrel between two brothers here Joe Sobo was killed instantly. An iron bar was used on his head in a crowded lodging house. Lupson Pavel, alleged slayer, fled, while his brother was arrested.

1914 BASEBALL SEASON OPENS

Two Big Major Organizations Start Play Today

FEDERALS ARE UNDER WAY.

Baltimore Gives Fine Encouragement to New League When 30,000 Persons Crowd Park—Organized Baseball Heads Predict Banner Year For Game—Federals Sued by President Gaffney of Boston Nationals.

New York, April 14.—The pennant races of the National and American leagues, the major organizations of organized baseball, start this afternoon.

With the coming of the Federal league a big change has taken place in the baseball situation since the last opening, but the newcomer as yet occupies an undetermined position.

Presidents Tener and Johnson of the National and American leagues have made statements that the present season promises to eclipse any previous ones in interest and attendance. The managers of the different organizations feel satisfied with the results of the training trip in the south and the teams start off today with the best wishes of their admirers in the different cities.

Trades during the winter and the raids of the Federals have altered the outlook so far as it bears on several of the clubs concerned in the fights for major supremacy in 1914.

Greater New York's opening emotions will be divided into three parts. While the fans of Manhattan are flocking to the Polo grounds, those of Brooklyn will be crowding Ebbets field to see the Dodgers lock horns with the remade Postons, guided by George Stallings, with the redoubtable Evers as first aid. The third of the getaway which concerns the metropolis has to do with the Giants. A good many New Yorkers will go over to Philadelphia and all will give McGraw and his champions their moral support.

Today's baseball games are:

National League—Pittsburg at St Louis, New York at Philadelphia, Chicago at Cincinnati, Boston at Brooklyn.

American League—Cleveland at Chicago, Philadelphia at New York, Washington at Boston, St. Louis at Detroit.

Federal League—Brooklyn at Pittsburg.

Baltimore All Perked Up.

Baltimore, April 14.—Baltimore celebrated its reappearance into major league baseball by a delicious baseball frenzy that had not been seen here since the old four-time champions in 1904 won their first pennant. Thirty thousand witnessed the game. The governor of the state, the mayor of Baltimore, the mayor of Buffalo and President J. A. Gilmore of the Federal league were present.

Quinn and Jacklitsch; Moore, Krapp and Blair.

Federals Are Sued.

New York, April 14.—James A. Gaffney, president of the Boston National League club, has opened a suit for $25,000 damages against President J. S. Gilmore and his Federal league associates of the Baltimore club. Gaffney charges conspiracy on the part of the independent promoters. He bases his claim against the Federal magnates on the fact that Pitcher "Jack" Quinn had in writing accepted the terms of the Boston Nationals before he was induced to sign with the Baltimore Federal club.

HOLCOMB A SUICIDE

Chief Supervising Inspector of Indian Service Kills Himself.

Washington, April 14.—E. P. Holcomb, chief supervising inspector in the Indian service, committed suicide here by shooting himself in the head. Mr. Holcomb's body was found on a bed in a room of the National hotel. Arrangements for the suicide had been carefully made. Mr. Holcomb had been in bad health for many months.

Mr. Holcomb was fifty years old. He had been employed in the Indian service twenty years.

Cigaret Causes Murder of Man.

Philadelphia, April 14.—The police are searching for Frank Sims, a negro inmate of Blockley, the city hospital, who is charged with having beaten to death with his fists William Dougherty, a patient of the institution, while the latter was doing temporary guard duty. After the killing, which was committed in the presence of 100 patients, Sims scaled a ten-foot wall and made his escape. Dougherty endeavored to prevent Sims from smoking a cigaret and a quarrel followed.

Falls Five Floors; Feels Fine.

Boston, April 14.—After falling five stories to the bottom of an elevator well in a Pemberton square office building, John McInnis, a painter, was picked up smiling. He calmly smoked a cigar as he was rushed to a hospital, where it was found that his injuries were limited to a broken ankle and several bruises.

422 CONVICTS IN KENTUCKY FREED

New Law Furnishes Serious Problem in Blue Grass State.

ALL MUST SECURE WORK

Indeterminate Sentence Measure Opens Prison Doors to Men Guilty of All Kinds of Crimes—Farmers Anxious to Employ Prisoners, as There Exists a Scarcity of Labor.

Hopkinsville, Ky. Kentucky is facing the problem of caring for 422 convicts to be liberated at approximately the same time and for whom no provision has been made. The prospect is viewed with varying sensations in different parts of the state. In cities and towns there is alarm, but on the farms and plantations, where help is scarce, no fears are felt, and in fact the liberated criminals will be made welcome for their labor.

This condition is brought about by the new indeterminate sentence law which is now operative in Kentucky and which does away with the old law by which the jury trying a case fixed the term of years for which a person should be confined, in the same verdict declaring him guilty. As it is now, the jury merely passes upon a prisoner's guilt or innocence, and if he is found guilty his prison term is automatically fixed by the law covering the offense with which he is charged. These sentences, of course, range from a specified minimum number of years to a maximum. And it has been the rule heretofore for the prison board, with whom the power of parole rests, to allow the prisoners their freedom largely upon the character of their crimes and their prison conduct.

But in the John De Moss case, recently decided by the court of appeals, it is held that if a prisoner has completed his minimum sentence and shows a clear record in the prison he must receive a parole then. Another feature is that he must be able to show that he has some legitimate occupation waiting for him when he is set at liberty again. This parole of course does not free the prisoner absolutely. A string is held on him, and should he ever transgress again he may be brought back and made to complete his original sentence.

Naturally, the convicts are delighted. Of the 422 convicts to get their liberty 232 will go from the penitentiary at Frankfort and 190 from the Eddyville prison.

One of the requirements with which a prisoner must conform before he can be paroled, even under the new order, that he must have a job awaiting him, has caused the 422 prisoners who are to be released to cast about for a landing place. Among them are individuals of all classes, some very expert in certain lines, but the most of them are ordinary laborers, this being especially true of the negroes, who are in the majority. Right here is where the release of the prisoners promises to be a good thing for the state at large. For several years the question of farm labor has grown to be more and more a matter of serious nature. The negroes prefer to live in the towns or to work on the public works, where they can be together in crowds. Often the farmers are sorely tried in their efforts to get labor at rush seasons and are forced to pay exorbitant prices.

But the ordinary laborers among the convicts find the farms their best chance for getting the coveted job. The farmers are willing to take the risk, if risk it is, and they are offering to give employment to the prisoners. In one county the seventeen negroes that are due to return have all been thus guaranteed work. Other counties are doing the same thing, and probably the majority of this class of the convicts will find a home and freedom on the farms.

Governor James B. McCreary has pardoned only a few convicts, but the executive has nothing to do with the wholesale liberations. The court rules that he is powerless to interfere in any way with the release of the prisoners

ICE RINGS A NEW CRAZE.

Paris. Sandals, with bare feet for ice rinks, are the latest fad in Paris. Jewelers are already busy making ice rings with settings to match the color of the sandals.

The new fashion was started by Mlle. Jeanne Prevost, the dainty actress who launched the trouser skirt. She made her debut in the crowded foyer of a theater during a dress rehearsal with her bare feet shod in pretty sandals, which were fastened around her shapely ankles by cross ribbons in the old Greek style.

"Why should women cram their feet into narrow boots with four inch heels?" she said later. "It's delightful to have the feet quite free."

OFFERS STUDENTS A CHANCE.

Government to Provide Outdoor Work For College Men.

Washington. The United States forestry service and geological survey are offering many positions to college men for vacation work. Health and endurance are the two biggest requirements for the positions, which will keep the collegians out of doors the greater part of the time. The students will have most of their expenses paid and at the same time draw good wages.

The geological survey desires to employ a limited number of men during the summer months to assist geologists in their field work or to serve as camp hands. Only those who are fit mentally and physically for rough outdoor work are eligible. The appointees are required to pay their traveling expenses to the field of operation, all such expenses incurred while under the supervision of the survey being met by the government.

The forestry service offers a more limited form of employment. In addition to the permanent force, temporary assistants are employed during the summer months as fire guards or when other special work requires additions to the regular force.

Only men will be selected who are qualified by familiarity in the district in which the work is required. No examination is necessary, but applicants may be called upon to perform work similar to that of a ranger.

EIGHT HOUR LAW STIRS SUFFRAGISTS

Now Want Probe of Living Cost in Washington.

Washington. The passage a short time ago of the Peters La Follette bill limiting the hours of labor for women in the District of Columbia, exclusive of stenographers, to eight a day has by no means settled the woman labor problem in Washington. It has brought the problem into the field of open discussion, with a result that more people are talking about the problems of women workers in the capital than ever before.

The center of the discussion is the District branch of the National Consumers' league, whose operations are directed by Miss Constance D. Leupp. Inasmuch as the activities of the Consumers' league here are typical of the kind of work which is being done by the same or other organizations throughout the country, the matter is really one of more than local interest.

The Consumers' league has laid out a definite program of action. Having passed the eight hour law, it is now asking the senate to appropriate $6,000 for a study of the cost of living in the District of Columbia to be made by the federal bureau of labor statistics. Having secured officially the statistics of living and a favorable report on the resolution in question indicates that the chances are in favor of the inquiry's being ordered—the Consumers' league will next press for a minimum wage law.

MUSIC TO CURE INSANITY.

Instead of Listening Only, Patients Are to Be the Musicians.

Kankakee, Ill.—Music as a cure for insanity is to have a more extended test in the Eastern Illinois State Hospital for the Insane than has ever before been attempted in the institutions of the state. The plan is an advance on previous music cures in which the patients were merely listeners. It is intended that the patients shall be the musicians.

Instruction and coaching in music will be given, and patients who are capable of it will be encouraged to undertake the teaching of less advanced students.

Women Buy For Farm Colony.

Richton, Miss.—Mrs. L. A. Johnson of Chicago, representing the Chicago Business Women's Commerce association, has visited Richton to inspect the 1,080 acres of land which have been bought by business women of Chicago. The land was acquired by these women for farm sites, and it lies just two miles west of Richton. It is the association's intention to colonize this land with young women, who are to develop and farm it under the direction of an expert. They intend building a model dormitory and dairy farm.

DESERTED IN '61, SHE SUES.

For Thirty Years She Lived Near Husband, Unaware of His Existence.

San Francisco.—Contending that she was legally married to Hiram Hughson in 1860 and had thought him dead since 1861, Mrs. P. H. Brigham has filed suit in Modesto, Cal., for the widow's share of the $500,000 estate left by Hughson, who died intestate three years ago.

Mrs. Brigham alleges that a year after their marriage in Norwich, N. Y., fifty-three years ago Hughson left his home, saying he was going to seek his fortune in California and promising to send for her later. But she never heard from him again.

Thinking him dead, she married Brigham and moved to Ventura, Cal., in 1880, and for more than thirty years she lived half a day's ride from Hughson's home without knowing it. The truth was revealed by accident recently to a man whose father knew of her marriage to Hughson in New York, and the presentation of the claim followed.

Hughson prospered as a rancher after coming to California. In 1864 he married Luella R. Avery, a school teacher in Stockton. The second Mrs. Hughson, with whom he had ten children, took charge of the estate upon her husband's death.

BILLY SUNDAY, SUICIDE CURE

Has Checked Despondency at U. of P., Provost Smith Says.

Philadelphia.—The hope that a religious revival would tend to prevent suicides by students is said by Provost Edgar F. Smith to have been among his reasons for inviting Billy Sunday to hold meetings at the University of Pennsylvania.

Since the number of suicides in the university began to be a subject of public comment Provost Smith has felt that a religious awakening would be the best deterrent. He believed that Sunday was sincere and that his method of mixing religion with athletics in the language of his discourses might excite the students' attention.

The results of Sunday's shirtsleeve evangelism exceed what Provost Smith had hoped for. Much fervor has been shown by the students at meetings and Bible classes are being organized in all departments of the institution. The fraternities, among them Provost Smith's own fraternity, are in earnest big classes for the study of the Scripture. For all this Provost Smith gives a good share of credit to Billy Sunday.

LIEUT. GOV. O'HARA TO WORK IN MILLS

Will Study Labor Conditions by Actual Experience.

Springfield, Ill.—In order to study labor conditions in cotton mills of the east and south Lieutenant Governor Barratt O'Hara and Mrs. O'Hara will work for two months or more at the looms by the side of the common laborer. The lieutenant governor's identity will not be known.

"I'm going to get the best job in a New England factory that I can get," the young lieutenant governor said, "and so is my wife, because we want to find out what our respective economic values are in the eyes of a mill owner. I know my economic value both as a lawyer and as a reporter, but I want to find out what the New England factory boss values me at."

When this question has been answered for the lieutenant governor and Mrs. O'Hara they will go to a factory town in the south and get the best day laboring jobs they can corral. And after answering the morning whistle call for two weeks or so in the south Mr. and Mrs. O'Hara will return to Illinois, where the lieutenant governor during four months of campaigning for the United States senatorship will use his practical knowledge of factory conditions during his campaign.

"The work of the Illinois vice commission, in which we were personally interested," he said, "showed that thousands of girls in Chicago alone receive only $1 or $1.50 a week. Many employers had to testify that they paid their girls less than the girls can possibly live on.

"I am largely basing my campaign for senator from my state on what I think to be about the most important question before the country, the necessity for a federal minimum wage law. Therefore, now that our legislature is in session, I am taking the present time to learn about factory conditions at first hand. I hope in this way to make my arguments for a federal law much more graphic.

"The necessity for the law is a national one, and therefore Illinois cannot settle the problem all by itself. Because the question is national is the reason why we are going to work in the east and south instead of sending into conditions near at home in our own state."

Says Sun Will Run Mills.

London.—Sir [illegible] has suggested as the source of power for [illegible] and heat. So predicted A. S. E. Ackermann to the Society of Engineers. When Europe's mills would close for lack of coal her manufacturers will find in upper Egypt a motive power many times greater than that now employed in them. Egypt's sun pours down 4,440 horsepower per acre.

THE CHIEFEST RESURRECTION

There Will Be Several Classes in the Resurrection.

The Chiefest Resurrection Began With Jesus—His Footstep Followers Will Share In It With Him—Then Will Come Another Class on the Spirit Plane—Then Will Follow the Resurrection of the Ancient Worthies. Theirs Is the "Better Resurrection" of Hebrews 11:36—The Remainder of Mankind Will Be Resurrected Gradually During the Messiah's Reign.

April 12.—Pastor Russell delivered an intensely interesting discourse today on the Chiefest Resurrection, from the text, "There shall be a resurrection of the dead, both of the just and of the unjust."—Acts 24:15.

By way of introduction to his theme, the Pastor declared that perhaps there had never been a time when the professed followers of Jesus believed less in the resurrection of the dead than at present. This shows a great falling away from "the faith once delivered to the saints"; for the resurrection is the great hope which the Bible sets before mankind.

The speaker cited Scriptures to prove that death is the penalty of sin—the curse upon the race because of Adam's disobedience in Eden. God's declaration that at some future time the Seed of the woman should bruise the serpent's head was the only ray of hope given for 1,500 years after sin had entered the world. Then God made another statement and of His purpose to bless mankind. To Abraham particularly He made known His purpose to bless the whole world.

The Pastor reminded his hearers that God not only made a Covenant with Abraham, but confirmed His Promise with an Oath, to prove the certainty of the whole matter. The Covenant was, "In thy Seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed." Abraham saw into the future with the eye of faith, the speaker asserted. He saw The Christ of glory and the Reign of Righteousness, and under it the recovery of the human family from degradation, sin and death. He discerned that there would be a resurrection of the dead—not merely an awakening to the condition in which they fell asleep, but a raising up to the full perfection of God's image and likeness, from which they fell through Adam's disobedience.

The Law Covenant and Shadow.

The Pastor then discussed Abraham's posterity—the Israelites. God permitted them to become bondsmen in Egypt. Then He brought them up to Mount Sinai, where He entered into a Covenant with them through Moses as mediator, and promised that if they would keep His Law perfectly He would use them to bless all mankind.

The speaker then explained that God had a double purpose in entering into this Covenant with Israel:

(1) It demonstrated that mankind were sinners and could not keep God's perfect Law, which is the measure of a perfect man's ability; hence no man is entitled to eternal life; for God will give that life only to the perfect.

(2) Another object, an important one, was that the Law Covenant was typical and pointed forward to glorious antitypes, which would bring in the real blessings.

The Antitypes Far Superior.

The Pastor showed that the Law Covenant itself typified a future New Law Covenant, to be in operation for all mankind during the Messianic Kingdom. Its Mediator will be The Christ—Jesus the Head and the Church the Body. As the typical Law Covenant was inaugurated by the sacrifice of bulls and goats, so the antitypical Law Covenant will be inaugurated upon the basis of "better sacrifices" than these. As the typical Covenant had its Day of Atonement, so the antitypical Covenant will have a much greater Atonement Day.

Continuing his explanation, the Pastor demonstrated from Scripture that the offering of the "better sacrifices" takes place during the early part of the antitypical Atonement Day, which began eighteen hundred years ago and is not yet completed. The great Sin-Offering was that of Jesus, finished at Calvary. His secondary offerings, as our great High Priest, have continued ever since. During this period He has been offering up the Church—members of His Body, justified through His precious sacrifice.

The Pastor believes that very soon the antitypical sacrifices will all be finished and all the members of the Body of Christ glorified with their Head, their Lord Jesus. This is the First, the Chiefest Resurrection. Jesus' change to the Heavenly condition at His Resurrection was the beginning of this Chief Resurrection. The glorious change of the last member of the Church will be the consummation.

In this Resurrection, the Pastor declared, only the blessed and holy will have part. Only those accepted by the Lord as members of the Royal Priesthood, and found faithful unto death in presenting their bodies sacrifices, will be identified with their Master in the great transaction constituting the basis of their exaltation with Him.

THURSDAY, APRIL 16, 1914.

LET every farmer plan and work to be a prize winner at the Garrett county fair next fall.

SINCE the postal banks were opened, January 1, 1911, the deposits have grown to almost $34,000,000 and $2,389,000 have been invested by the depositors in postal savings bonds.

THE State Department at Washington needs just now some other kind of a statesman than a "silver tongued" orator. The Wilson-Bryan treatment of the Mexican question is a farce.

THE Garrett county fair officers will have several prizes for the boys and girls who produce the best corn, potatoes and vegetables. THE REPUBLICAN would like to see an earnest contest in this direction.

THE public schools of Gordonsville, Texas, were closed last Thursday and Friday, when all the men, women and children of the town devoted their time to killing rats which had overcome the homes of the town.

IT would be a wise move if all the local church congregations throughout this county would organize neighborhood temperance societies, to plan for a thorough campaign next fall to make Garrett county dry territory.

LAST week Judge Dayton, of the United States District court for West Virginia, in session at Martinsburg, severely denounced the liquor traffic. He truthfully said: "The saloons make drunkards of your sons and prostitutes of your daughters."

THE first shot for the redemption of Garrett county from saloonism will be fired June 5th next, by Dr. Hare, Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Maryland, at the Epworth League convention to be held at Mountain Lake Park. His subject will be, "The battle of ballots for Garrett county."

Now is the time to get busy in a general cleaning up of the home premises. Everybody is or ought to be interested in making things more attractive about their homes and places of business. Don't forget to swat the fly at every opportunity, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

THE Illinois woman by their ballots, at the recent State election, closed more than one thousand saloons and voted six big towns dry. Forty-nine counties in that State will soon be without saloons. May the good work continue until this fair land of ours is free from the curse of rum.

THE old soldiers of the Civil War are rapidly passing away. This is evident from the fact that the appropriation for pensions, by Congress, for next year will show a decrease of $21,150,000 under the present year, because of the death of 57,459 veterans the past year. These old heroes are dying at the rate of 1120 a week, or 160 a day.

THE REPUBLICAN should be found in every progressive family in Garrett county. It is the kind of a paper that ought to be read by each member of the family circle. It is the local paper of the county. It is devoted to the best interests of Garrett county, hence should have the support of every well-wisher for the greatest success of the county.

THE Fairmont West Virginian remarks that "the newspapers all over the country carried the news that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company had discontinued over a hundred passenger trains on its system, throwing thousands of men out of employment; the New York Central has dismissed 25,000 men since December; the B. & O. is retrenching in every place possible, and Coxey is planning the second march of his army to the capital. Verily these do be good old Democratic times."

THE REPUBLICAN office had the past few days a number of telephone enquiries about the Fish law, the Cigarette law and whether it was true that household goods to the amount of $500 were exempt from taxation. It was a pleasure to answer these calls on the phone and also to say that THE REPUBLICAN of this week would give information on these subjects. We feel sure that our readers will appreciate this effort to inform the public on these subjects.

RECOGNIZING the daily papers of Baltimore City as competent judges, the legislature which closed its session on the 6th inst., was the best held for several years, in every particular. Considerable temperance legislation was enacted, which will place several counties in the dry column. Considering that the legislature was wet by a large majority, the vote on State-wide local option bill was very encouraging to the Temperance public. The anti-shipping liquor bill will prove of great benefit to the local option counties of Southern Maryland.

The Workingmen's Compensation bill will receive general approval. The appropriation of sufficient funds to complete the good roads system of the State was the proper thing to do. This was due to the farmers and traveling public. Many worthless bills were consigned to the junk pile.

Of the legislation for Garrett county we will speak in the near future. That the county will be greatly benefitted by the local laws will not be questioned. Its best interests were safely guarded.

ONE day last week Col. Hinojosa, of Huerta's Mexican army, arrested a paymaster and a squad of blue jackets of the U. S. warship Dolphin, and paraded them through the streets of Tampico. While passing through the streets the men were subject to jeers at the hands of Huerta followers. U. S. Admiral Mayo gave the Colonel a certain number of hours to fire a salute of 21 guns to the American ships in Tampico harbor and also display the stars and stripes in the streets of Tampico. Failure to comply with this demand would result in the city being bombarded by the fleet. President Wilson approved the actions of the Admiral, President Huerta made an apology, but it did not go far enough, consequently it was not accepted, but the time for a compliance to the request was extended 24 hours. All honor to Admiral Mayo. His name will stand in the same column as that of Paul Jones, Admiral Farragut, Admiral Dewey, Fighting Bob Evans and other illustrious naval officers. The American navy has some backbone if the Secretary of State has not.

GARRETT county womanhood, especially, will be under lasting obligations to Senator Speicher for two far reaching laws he had passed at the session of the State legislature which closed its labors last week. The first is the County-wide local option bill. What this drastic bill means to the men, women and children of this county no one can estimate. Next November the citizens of the county will, by their ballots, proclaim Garrett county among the dry spots of this great Commonwealth, and the prayers of the noble women, who for years patiently worked and prayed for "God and home" in the overthrow of liquor selling, are about to be rewarded. The second, is the Cigarette bill. The enactment of this law will meet the hearty approval of every lover of boyhood. It provides that any person who shall furnish to any minor by gift or sale or otherwise any cigarette or cigarette paper shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. It also provides that any minor being in possession of a cigarette or cigarette paper and being, by any police officer, constable, truant officer, or teacher, asked where and form whom such cigarette or cigarette paper was obtained who shall refuse to furnish such information, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor * * * shall be sentenced to pay a fine of not less than $5 nor more than $10, and on failure to pay the fine and costs of prosecution shall be sentenced to be confined in the jail of the county for a period of not less than ten days nor more than thirty days. This act goes into effect at once. Many a mother will say, "God bless Senator Speicher for this law." Delegates Harvey and Savage supported earnestly this bill. By the passage of these bills Senator Speicher has more than fulfilled his election pledges.

DID THEY TELL THE TRUTH?

During the late political campaign in New Jersey for the election of a Congressman Senator James said, in a public speech:

"The eyes of the country just now are upon the voters of the seventh New Jersey district. If the Democratic candidate is defeated it will be taken as a personal insult to President Wilson, coming as it does from his own State."

Senator Lewis, another Democratic speaker in the campaign, said:

"If this man is not elected, New Jersey will be dishonored before the whole country."

What was the result of the election? Why the Democratic candidate was defeated and the Republican elected by a large majority—5320.

Did these gentlemen tell the truth when they uttered the words quoted from their speeches? If so, the President has been insulted by the citizens of his own State and New Jersey is dishonored, from a Democratic standpoint.

Bear's Emulsion Puts the Body in Shape to Resist Germs of Consumption.

Squire Shifflet, one of the most successful farmers and business men in East Rockingham, writes:

Mr. John D. Bear, Elkton, Va.

Dear Sir: Three years ago my little grandchild had a very bad cough and cold. We gave her nearly everything that was recommended for coughs, but she appeared to be getting worse all the time. My neighbor, E. E. Coffman, told me of Bear's Emulsion. I bought a bottle and a few doses began to make such a difference in the child that we all felt greatly relieved as we had been uneasy about the cough for some time. The remedy not only broke up the cough but toned up the system better than anything I ever saw. I can recommend it to any one wanting something for a cough or general tonic.

FORD'S RESERVE HAVEN OF BIRDS

Feathered Tribe Fed and Protected on 3,000 Acre Tract.

ALL KINDS OF BIRDS THERE

Known as Home to the Pets, Although Many of Them Spend the Winter In a Warmer Climate—Shrubs Especially Planted to Produce Food and Places For Nests.

Detroit, Mich.—Thomas A. Edison, John Burroughs and Henry Ford were taking a vacation together in Florida—just a loaf, they said, denying a report that they would make a study of bird life in the Everglades. Yet each is keenly interested in birds, and they found much of the enjoyment of their rest in bird study.

The vacation brings up a fact not generally known that Mr. Ford has a bird farm in Michigan, where he finds great enjoyment and much relaxation. A recent visit shows the great things Mr. Ford has done and is doing for bird life in America.

Ten miles west of Detroit lies a tract of land containing nearly 3,000 acres, which represents many individual farms purchased by Mr. Ford. On one of these farms Henry Ford was born fifty-two years ago, so he is familiar with his vast farm—the woodlands where he romped when a youngster and the swimming hole in the river Rouge, which flows through his lands. Being both a lover and student of wild birds and knowing their true value as crop protectors, he has established a bird reserve—has built homes for them and is building more and encourages the feathered tribes to live with him.

Many visitors to the Ford farm wonder if there really are more birds than are common to the surrounding country, in city parks, etc., but if an early morning observation were made near the feeding stations, in the swamp regions where weeds are abundant and along the river banks, it would reveal the feathered visitors that come for the suet on trees and for the grain placed for them in familiar places, which will easily convince one of the greater abundance and larger variety of birds than are common to such places where food is not supplied for them.

Two years ago Mr. Ford, on a visit to England, took a great fancy to a pair of Irish larks and was told that the birds would be sent as a present to his Dearborn farm. Mr. Ford returned to his home and nearly forgot his Irish larks, but the promise of his English friend was kept. A cable message announced the departure of the larks, accompanied by a man and about 500 other birds of various varieties.

This was indeed a surprise to Mr. Ford, who at once arranged to have his secretary, E. G. Liebold, himself a bird fancier, meet the birds upon their arrival in New York.

The English attendant experienced all the horrors of seasickness on his way over, and consequently his mammoth family of 500 did not receive the necessary attention they should, the result being a loss of 20 per cent by death.

For the last leg of the long journey a special car was chartered as the safest way to get the birds "home," where they finally arrived.

The correct number of healthy birds and variety were 15 yellow hammers, 51 chaffinches, 63 greenfinches, 16 redpates, 10 twits, 13 bullfinches, 23 blackbirds, 6 jays, 75 larks and 158 linnets, a total of 440 birds.

For attracting and keeping the wild birds at least 5,000 shrubs of various kinds have been set out. Five hundred or more bird boxes, ranging from an ordinary square design to a seventy-four room house, have been constructed. Food houses have been erected, which are daily supplied with hemp, millet seed, oatmeal, sunflower seed, etc., while suet is tacked to trees behind screens to prevent it being carried away by larger varieties.

To a casual observer extensive work of this kind might seem unprofitable but the mere fact that results have been obtained in itself is sufficient to repay any one at all interested in so important a question

URGES NEW LAW FOR INSANE.

Alienist Tells of Peculiar Cases Among Women.

Baltimore.—Emphasizing what he terms the mistaken impression that exists among physicians and the general public concerning the treatment of "borderland," "acute" or "chronic" stages of insanity, Dr. D. K. Henderson believes that the only way to treat such patients is to have them legally committed to an institution by two physicians.

Dr. Henderson cites cases where patients have defeated scientific treatment at the clinic by refusing to cooperate with the doctors.

Out of the 238 cases recorded as having been treated at the hospital between May 1 and Dec. 31, 1913, there have been patients from all walks of life. Dr. Henderson tells of one patient, a married woman, thirty years old, who was obsessed with the idea that she could not breathe enough fresh air. She talked freely of her complaints to the other patients. At times she would take a long, deep breath and sigh. "When I breathe it does not seem to satisfy me." She refused to eat anything but cracked ice and milk. She refused to co-operate with the treatment and was discharged.

VISION MAKES HIM CONFESS.

Son of Wealthy Family Tells of Having Forged Father's Name.

Denver.—A vision of his dead mother, who pointed an accusing finger at him in his dreams, was responsible for Philip F. Perna, eighteen years old, surrendering himself to the Denver police and confessing to the forgery of his father's name on a check for $100.

Perna claims to be the son of a wealthy Philadelphia building contractor. He entered police headquarters and asked to be locked up. He says he forged the check last September, and his conscience has troubled him since the deed throughout his six months' flight.

Perna says his father's name is Joseph Perna and that the family home is in Philadelphia. He estimates his father's wealth at about $500,000.

"I went to bed," Perna said, "and my mother seemed to stand over me. She didn't say anything. She just pointed her finger at me, and her face bore a look of unspeakable contempt. I jumped up and screamed and covered my eyes with my hands.

"Finally I ran out of doors and walked miles. I knew the vision would come back unless I cleared myself in her eyes. So I decided to give myself up."

WOMEN ACTIVE AS OIL LAND DEALERS

Display Keen Ability In Operations In Oklahoma.

Ringling, Okla. — Women have become among the most adept operators in Oklahoma oil lands. In the older fields in the southwest many women have become rich—even millionaires—because of owning real estate that happened to be located within the territory where oil was found. This is true in particular as regards women of Indian blood, for it is nothing uncommon to find women among the Cherokee, Osage, Delaware and Creek tribes who have acquired immense wealth from this source, but for women to become operators and to play the game for themselves is now being done here for the first time.

In this field the same as in the other Oklahoma fields, there are also women land owners who are fast acquiring wealth, and among these are women of Chickasaw and Choctaw Indian blood who took their land allotments in this locality in 1901, when congress decided to divide the Indian lands per capita. Oil leases here in the proved field are selling as high as $1,000 an acre, while in the outlying, unproved territory high prices are given to secure oil and gas rights, and in addition, too, the land owner retains an eighth royalty in whatever minerals may be found on the land.

The woman operator in this field started soon after the first well was brought in, about seven months ago. She was Miss Willa Richards of Wanrika, at the present time the register of deeds for Jefferson county, the first woman in Oklahoma to hold that office.

WHEN DYING GETS SIGHT.

For an Hour Preceding Death Can See His Relatives.

Willows, Cal.—Before death took him from his family W. D. Martin, eighty-six years of age, after years of blindness had the satisfaction of seeing for an hour the faces of his loved ones and of taking a farewell look at earth.

The aged man had been blind and helpless for years and for a few weeks prayed earnestly that sight should be restored to him for once before he died. His prayer was answered, as for an hour he could see and recognize those around his bed. Then he became blind again.

He had no disease, but was simply wearing out with the infirmities of advanced years.

No Work For Police Chief.

Hollister, Mo.—The chief of police of this place has quit his job, also the town, because it is so peaceable. He has made only one arrest in a year, and then the prisoner was discharged.

ARMY MAY NOW BE MADE "DRY"

Surgeon General Gorgas Upholds Daniels' Order.

WILSON NOT CONSULTED.

Revenue Cutter Service Likewise May Be Forced to Eliminate Liquor on Vessels — Possible Modifications In Sweeping Navy Changes Before They Become Effective July 1.

Washington.—William C. Gorgas, the new surgeon general of the army, on his return from South Africa expressed his approval of the order issued by Secretary Daniels forbidding the use of liquor aboard naval vessels and in all navy yards and all naval stations.

Many army officers expressed the opinion that this foreshadows an official order making the army as "dry" as the navy will be when Daniels' new regulation goes into effect on July 1.

Moreover, rumors were in circulation that William G. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury, will apply a similar rule to the officers of the revenue cutter service.

© by American Press Association.

SURGEON GENERAL W. C. GORGAS U. S. A.

It is certain that President Wilson will do nothing to stem the tide of prohibition, the chief executive having indicated his position clearly when he asserted it is a departmental question in which he is not concerned.

The president said that Secretary Daniels had not consulted him about the prohibition order, but that it was not necessary for him to do so.

Gorgas, who has been in South America installing in the diamond mines sanitary methods similar to those in the Panama canal zone, expressed great interest in the new move made by Secretary Daniels.

He asserted that officers in both branches of the service would be far better off if they never touched liquor.

As surgeon general of the army he is in a position to follow the lead of Surgeon General Braisted of the navy in recommending the abolition of officers' wine messes at army posts.

Secretary Daniels let remarks drop indicating that modifications in the order are likely to be made before it goes into effect July 1.

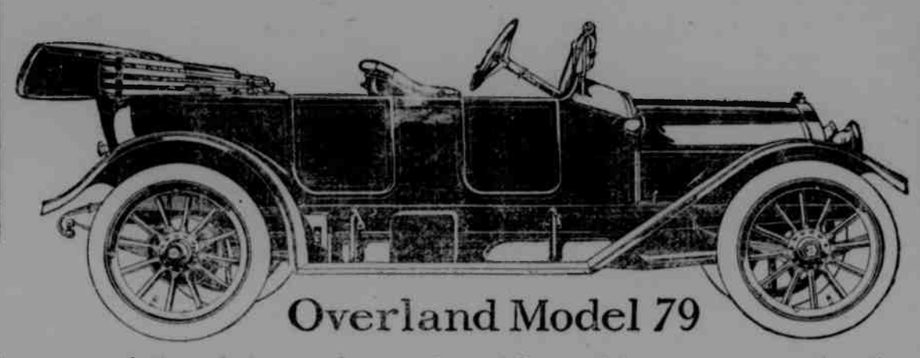
"There is plenty of time between now and July," said the secretary, "to make any modifications that may seem necessary. But the order will remain absolute to the extent of prohibiting wine messes or the use of intoxicating liquors in officers' quarters, clubs or other kinds of organizations on ship board or at shore stations.

"I am convinced not only from what I have seen, but from the examination of cases that come before me daily, that many a young officer fresh from the Naval academy learns to touch the first drop in these wine messes, and not infrequently this leads to his dismissal from the service."

BONUS FOR EACH BABY.

"Taxless Town" to Reward Stork on Every Visit.

Harrisville, W. Va.—With surplus funds rapidly accumulating, this town of 800 inhabitants, famous as the "taxless town," is becoming so rich through its ownership of gas and oil properties that the mayor, backed by council, has decided to offer a snug sum as a bonus for every baby born here. The mayor says that "it is the desire of the populace that future generations may participate in the dividends of the most prosperous municipality in the world."



Harrisville is unique among cities of the world in that it levies no property taxes. This comes about because the town owns its own natural gas plant, wells, lines and equipment. The plant is rented to the highest bidder and, with other dividends derived from the lease of property on which are located many producing oil wells, the municipality is "rolling in money."

To Keep Cars Sanitary.

Washington.—The senate passed the house bill directing the interstate commerce commission and the secretary of the treasury to promulgate regulations for keeping in sanitary condition all interstate passenger cars.

OPTOMETRIST

Is Your Child Handicapped in his or her physical and mental development by defective vision? Out of 100,000 school children examined in New York city, nearly 30 per cent. were found to be in need of glasses. In Boston the percentage was found to be slightly over 20 per cent., and most of these children were down on the books as "stupid," "stubborn" or unruly. In Philadelphia 354 children were discovered who could not read ordinary writing on a blackboard at a distance of twenty feet. You should make sure by a thorough examination at the hands of a competent optometrist. That your child is not among this vast army of little citizens who suffer from defective eyesight, delays often result seriously. My examinations are made by the most scientific accurate methods. If it is found that glasses are not required you will be told so frankly and no charge made for the examination.

A Temperance Talk to Voters

BY JASON KEP

Dear Sam,

Your line of reasoning is fragrant and sweet and would fit in beautifully at a sewing circle where they embroider towels and dolies for the South Sea Islanders, but let me tell you something: If you want the community to sit up and take notice you must jab them in a tender spot.

Do not take a club and swat them on the thought reservoir, it would not notice a little thing like that; just take a feather and touch its pocket-book and you will find it has the same effect as firing a dornic into a bee hive.

I have always contended that the method of holding up before the good people of the community the awful spectacle of the drunkard's home, the poor, ragged, half starved little children, or the awful havoc caused by King Alcohol, that year by year carried off 152,000 poor souls to drunkards graves in the United States, leaving countless thousands of women and innocent little children in want, misery and dispair, was the wrong way to go at it. It might cause a little dinky riffle, but never a wave of indignation large enough no make it muddy.

What has broken loose lately? Why this great wave of temperance indignation rolling over the United States, and engulfing and smothering the old boy? Why!" My dear Sam, it has just dawned upon the good people (the tax payers) that it is hitting their pocket-book and hitting it hard, and they feel peeved.

As a sample of what I mean—

In a certain city of 4500, counting some of the contiguous, there are 125 men on the black list, or men to whom the saloon keepers are forbidden to sell liquor. There are 50 more who ought to be on that list and soon will be.

Now tne five hotels buy most of their supplies from the wholesale houses, through traveling men and the balance of their trade is divided up between the thirty or forty merchants who by a judicious use of a magnifying glass are able to discover the aggregate amount of profit or loss from this source. Nothing like figuring, let us proceed.

If this demon rum was put out of the reach of the 125 men they would in time become decent citizens and go to work. The result at $1.50 a day is $9.00 a week; for 52 weeks, $450 a year for one man; then $450 multiplied by 125 equals $56,200 for the 125 men. This amount would be divided up among the merchants of the district. At present they are earning practically nothing and what little they do earn goes for booze. This is not an isolated case; it holds good in any community large or small. I believe that if they would make that section dry it would add $100,000 to the wealth of the community each year.

Well, well, just to think many of the great merchants have been patting themselves on the back and saying, "when it comes to deep thinking and long headedness we are the goods."

What did you say?

Oh, shucks! don't fire that old chestnut at me that if they would close the saloons, the farmers would go to wet towns to buy their booze and do their trading too. That is only hearsay; you can't point to an instance where it has worked out that way and I can show you dozens of places where the reverse is the case. Just why slander of the farmers is considered good argument is beyond my conception. It is the big argument advanced by the saloonkeepers. But why. That business men should swallow it without looking it over beats me. As a sample: Take the vote in Jefferson county, Ohio, which voted some time ago. Stubenville with 90 saloons, voted wet, as did Mingo with 25 saloons and Dellonsville with 24 saloons. Then comes in the country districts of the boozy farmers and rolled up a mojority of 1500 for dry.

Then Sandusky and Clermont counties voting dry. Who did it? Only another bunch of drunken farmers who you say are anxious to have saloons handy. You can't fool all the people all the time, not even yourself.

Sam, the country is going dry because we cannot afford to have saloons. It is too big a drain upon the people.

Now, Sam just take your pencil and do a little figuring.

Take any community, add a saloon and then figure out the profit or loss to that community. Let sentiment go to the eternal bow-wows, and work out cold blooded business facts.

Saloons, large and small, average sales $15,000 per year taken from the people. What does it give in return? Honest, now. Now for every dollar spent for booze there is a loss of one dollar's worth of work from drunks and getting over drunks. There are $15,000 more taken from the community. What does it get in return?

Sam, it doesn't pay. Get busy and help to blot them out.

WILSON BENT ON AN EFFORT TO DEFEAT SENATOB SMITH

Congressman David J. Lewis is Said to be His Favorite. Lewis Does Not Want Gubernatorial Chair.

According to reports which have sifted to Democratic politicians in Maryland, President Wilson has made up his mind to put United States Senator John Walter Smith out of business as the leader of his party in this state. If reports are reliable, the President will put forward Congressman David J. Lewis as a candidate for United States Senator against Senator Smith in the primaries this year. The fact will be recalled that largely due to the inducement of the President W. L. Marbury became a candidate for Senator and entered upon an aggressive campaign. At the stage when he entered the fight the amendment to the Federal Constitution requiring the election of United States Senators by a direct vote of the people had not received a sufficient number of votes of states to be classed as a law. When Mr. Marbury entered the lists against Senator Smith it was generally assumed that the federal senatorial amendment would not become a law, and that it would be incumbent upon the voters of Maryland to elect next year a legislature which would be called upon to elect a Senator to succeed Senator Smith. In the meantime, however, the federal amendment requiring the election of United States Senators by popular vote became a law through the approval of two-thirds of the states.

Mr. Marbury's friends thought that he could not win at a popular election. The Democratic organization leaders became industrious with the argument that he was not a consistent or constant Democrat; that he had been aligned with the Republicans more frequently than he had with the Democrats. Whether this argument and other arguments were or were not true is not so material as the fact that Mr. Marbury thought it advisable to withdraw.

When Mr. Marbury withdrew as a candidate for United States Senator against Mr. Smith it was assumed that Senator Smith had the ear of the administration at Washington; that he was the "power;" that he would control all the federal appointments in Maryland.

What has happened?

Without consultation with Senator Smith the President has made the following appointments in Maryland: Postmaster of Baltimore, a commissioner to the Philippine Islands, a general appraiser at New York, a collector of internal revenue and a naval officer of the port of Baltimore.

According to reports from the White House, Senator Smith is to receive a share of the patronage yet to be distributed. This includes a collector of the port, a surveyor of the port, a local appraiser and a United States district attorney. In other words, more federal patronage has been distributed in Maryland than remains to be distributed. Even if Senator Smith gets everything that is left, he will get less than has already been given out. According to common report, Mr. Clarence Bowie will be named a United States district attorney. If this report should happen to be true, it will mean the hardest blow which could be administered to Senator Smith, since he has said to have concentrated all of his efforts on the appointment of Samuel K. Dennis, his secretary, to this position.

While the President's friends in Maryland despaired of hope when Mr. Marbury withdrew as a candidate for United States Senator, the President did not give up the fight. He kept his eye on Maryland. He looked for a man with whom he could oppose Senator Smith as a candidate. Mr. Lewis is said to be his favorite.

The only obstacle to this program is Mr. Lewis. According to reports, he is said to be satisfied to remain a member of the House of Representatives. In this ambition he is said to have the backing of Senator Smith. At the same time his success in putting through the parcels post law has put him to the front as a public man, in fact, the best advertised public man in Maryland. So well exploited has he been that he has been suggested as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor next year, an honor which he positively declines to consider. Whether he will be a candidate for United States Senator remains for future development. If he is a candidate for the Senate, he will have the support of Senator Lee.

GUNMAN NAMES HARRY VALLON

Cirofici Says He Was Far From Scene of Murder

STORY TOLD BY "DAGO FRANK"

"Whitey" Lewis' Gun Did Not Explode, Says Cirofici, Who Accuses "Gyp the Blood," "Lefty Louie" and Vallon of Being the Actual Murderers of Herman Rosenthal—Becker Exonerated by Confession.

Albany, N. Y., April 14.—The actual murder of Herman Rosenthal for which the four gunmen were executed at Sing Sing was committed by Harry Vallon, "Gyp the Blood" and "Lefty Louie," according to the confession made by "Dago Frank" Cirofici before he was led to the chair.

This confession was made public by Superintendent of Prisons John B Riley after Governor Glynn had read it.

The pleadings of the mother and sister of "Dago Frank" and the hope of the young man for a reprieve induced the confession. It came too late, however, and indicated that Frank was equally guilty with the others and for these reasons it failed to save him.

Fear that terrible consequences would result from the confession caused Cirofici to collapse when he ended his recital.

Cirofici would have confessed several days ago, but for the fact that he had been terrorized by the other three gunmen with threats of death to his mother and sister if he told anything. The gunmen were fearful lest he should tell and communicated to him these threats.

Once when Father Cashin was talking to Cirofici he heard the three other gunmen talking in Jewish. The priest understood the language and heard Gyp say: "Frank is going to pieces; he's telling on the rest of us."

Warden Clancy, knowing that Cirofici was terrorized, brought him from the cell to the office of the keeper where he made his confession.

Warden Clancy pointed out that Cirofici really thought he was innocent because he did not take part in the actual shooting.

Whitey Lewis thought he was innocent because he did not fire a shot.

Lefty Cirofici declared:

"The four of them were hired not to kill Herman Rosenthal but John Langer, or "Dollar John," a gambler who was about to corroborate the statement made by Rosenthal to Attorney Whitman. Rosenthal had shot his belt and they were to prevent any harder blows.

The four journeyed to Rockaway in an auto early on the evening of July 15 to kill "Dollar John." They met him, but it was in a situation where it was impossible for them to do what they were sent to do.

They rode first to a cafe in Second avenue, from where he (Cirofici) went to his home at 145th street and 7th avenue. Later he was awakened by a whistle which took him to the window. He saw on the sidewalk, "Jack" Rose, Harry Vallon and Sam Schepps, who told him the other boys were waiting for him at Bridgie Webber's poker room.

He was informed there by "Gyp the Blood" that there was something else to be done. Rose and Vallon were present.

Bridgie Webber came in to say that the —— was at the Metropole.

"Lefty Louie" told him it was to be Herman Rosenthal, the man who had squealed.

On the sidewalk a messenger whispered to him that Jean Gordon, his girl companion, was under arrest uptown who[m] upon he left the party.

Later that morning the three men came to his flat, where they talked about the murder and told him that Harry Vallon had fired one shot, but that Whitey Lewis had been entirely useless because his gun had missed fire.

The following day he received one-fourth of $1,000 for the murder.

Supplementing all this was a remark dropped four days ago by Rosenburg, the most intelligent and the leader of the quartet, that Frank was not present at the killing and Whitey Lewis had not shot for a very good reason.

Confession of No Legal Import.

New York, April 14.—What effect "Dago Frank's" confession will have upon the already tangled situation in regard to the other principals in the Rosenthal murder case was discussed. Former Judge W. M. K. Olcott, an expert on criminal matters, said that it is his belief that "Dago Frank's" statement cannot be introduced into court no matter what the conditions under which it was gotten.

Judge McIntyre, who defended Becker at the first trial, said he is doubtful that it can be used as legal evidence, but it is possible the judge might permit its introduction.

Ohio Miners to Meet Next Monday.

Columbus, O., April 14. United Mineworkers of Ohio will hold a convention here next Monday, April 20 with about 200 delegates in attendance, to discuss the coal mine situation in this state, officials of the union announced. Representatives to confer with the operators will be chosen at the convention also.

SALUTE ORDER IS UPPERMOST

Wilson Insists That Mexican Federals Apologize

TAMPICO EVENTS WITHHELD

President Huerta Reported as Saying Enough Had Been Done in Reparation of Indignities to American Marines—Villa's Rebels Continue to Be Pressed by Federals at San Pedro, East of Torreon.

Washington, April 14.—Upon whether the commander of the Huerta forces at Tampico salutes the American flag in apology for the arrest of American marines last Thursday depends immediate developments in the Mexican situation.

President Wilson declared unofficially that he expected the federal commander to fire a salute to the Stars and Stripes as demanded by Rear Admiral Mayo, and he spoke with a confidence that implied insistence. He expressed confidence that the salute would be fired.

Beyond that not a word was obtained from any official on the situation at Tampico and the state and navy departments declined to divulge any of the contents of their dispatches.

It is known, however, that while Admiral Mayo made his demands on General Zaragoza, commander at Tampico, the matter is out of his hands and is now up to President Huerta. In that procedure lies the danger of the situation according to the belief of the possibility of Huerta refusing to accede to the demands of the United States.

In fact there was a well defined report in Washington that Huerta had again defied the government and had told Charge O'Shaughnessy that he had made all the reparation the incident at Tampico required and that he saw no reason for going any further.

The secretiveness of the administration in the situation was emphasized by the arrival of John Lind. There is good authority for the statement that Mr. Lind is in favor of the administration adopting a vigorous attitude in backing up Admiral Mayo's demand. In the attitude he will be at one with the president.

Should Huerta refuse to yield there is no way in which the United States can compel submission except by actual force.

Federals Come at Villa Again.

Juarez, Mex., April 14.—Fighting is still in progress at San Pedro, east of Torreon, part of the supposedly retreating federal force having returned toward Torreon. This action of the federals after the rebels had beaten them out of the town surprised the rebels so much that Pancho Villa hurried to the front himself to be in personal command.

Instead of pushing the campaign on to Saltillo Villa finds himself for the present called upon to fight desperately to prevent the federals returning too close to Torreon.

Rebels Moving Back From Tampico.

Vera Cruz, April 14.—Reports from Tampico are to the effect that the rebels are retreating. This move may mean, however, that they have fallen back for the purpose of reorganizing their forces for a fresh attack.

The Ward liner Camaguyl left for Tampico to take care of American refugees on the warships there. The battleship Minnesota sailed for Tampico.

Rebels Report Victory.

Chihuahua, April 14.—A dispatch to General Carranza from General Banuelles, sent from Sombrette, said the rebels at Golettalan had defeated 1,000 federals. The rebels were led by Banuelles. Included in the federal force were 400 Indians.

TWO ACCUSED OF FELONY

Indictments Come From Shortage of School Funds.

Princeton, W. Va., April 14.—Indictments were returned by the grand jury here against J. C. Honaker, former secretary of the board of education of Rock district, and E. H. Witten, ex-deputy sheriff, charging felony. They grew out of shortage of school funds.

Five indictments against Honaker charge him with forgery, making false entry in the records, mutilating and destroying records and grand larceny. Witten is charged jointly in the indictment with Honaker with having $5,600 of Rock district money illegally and also in one separate indictment with having misappropriated other money.

Boxcar His Prison Three Days.

Butler, Pa., April 14.—Imprisoned in a boxcar on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad for three days John Smith of Philadelphia was released by detectives in an enfeebled condition. Smith aroused the detectives by hammering on the car door.

Sharon, Pa., April 14.—Attempting to board a Pennsylvania passenger train at West Middlesex a man, supposed to be S. G. Merryman, a newsdealer, of Farrell, fell between the cars and was gronnd to pieces

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson III.—Second Quarter, For April 19, 1914.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Luke xiv, 25-35. Memory Verses, 26, 27—Golden Text, Matt. xvi, 25—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D M. Stearns.

The topic of this lesson, "The Cost of Discipleship," is an all important one, inasmuch as few seem to see the difference between being a Christian and being a disciple. One great point of difference is that the cost of our salvation fell wholly upon the Lord Jesus, while the cost of discipleship falls upon us. In our last lesson in this chapter we saw salvation represented as a prepared feast to which all were invited. In Isa. lv, 1, the invitation is, "Ho, every one that thirsteth, come * * * without money and without price." This is in accord with the record of the coats of skins provided for Adam and Eve in Gen. iii, 21, in which the Lord did all, and they had only to accept the clothing which He provided by the shedding of the blood of the substitute. In the passover record in Ex. xii safety depended wholly upon their being under the shelter of the blood of the Lamb.

In the sacrifices, if the offering was perfect, it was accepted for the offerer, and the priest did all (Lev. i, 1-4; iv, 27-31). Our Lord Jesus Christ, who was both priest and sacrifice, having offered Himself without spot to God, has by His own blood obtained eternal redemption for us (Heb. ix, 11-14), and therefore eternal life is the free gift of God since He has paid such a price for it (Rom. iii, 24; vi, 23; John iv, 10). "I will give unto him that is athirst of the fountain of the water of life freely." "Whosoever will let him take the water of life freely" (Rev. xxi, 6; xxii, 17). Since our Lord Jesus has finished the work of providing eternal redemption the only thing for the sinner to do is to plead guilty, receive Him as his own personal Saviour and then take Him at His word concerning his acceptance in Christ, the forgiveness of sins and the possession of eternal life (Rom. iii, 19; John i, 12; iii, 16-18; v, 24; vi, 37; x, 27, 28; Eph. i, 6, 7; 1 John ii, 12). He who would put anything as necessary to salvation between the sinner and the Saviour, such as reform, good works, a changed life, money or aught else, does not understand the grace of God and frustrates the same, according to Gal. ii, 21.

With this made plain we are now ready to consider the matter of discipleship and its difficulties or what it costs to be a whole hearted follower of the Lord Jesus Christ. The privilege is as open to all as is the gift of eternal life to any penitent sinner. This is indicated by the words, "If any man come to me" (verse 26). Whether for salvation or discipleship, it must be according to Lev. i, 3, "of his own voluntary will." Notice the three times repeated "Cannot be my disciple" of our lesson (verses 26, 27, 33) and the conditions, preferring Christ to father, mother, wife, children, brothers, sisters or one's own life; bearing the cross and forsaking all that we have. Well may we say, Who is sufficient for these things? I said preferring Christ to our dearest loved ones, because in Matt. x, 37, it is written, "He that loveth father or mother, * * * son or daughter more than me is not worthy of me." The greatest lover should have the greatest love and be in all things pre-eminent. There is a way today of making religion (so called) easy and alluring to ordinary people. Even cards and the dance and the theater are not prohibited if only people can be persuaded to join a church. This is as far below our Lord's method as earth or hell is below heaven. It is unthinkable that He would at such infinite cost to Himself deliver us from the wrath to come that we might live as we please here and yet expect to share His glory.

Is it not also almost as unthinkable that one who has been delivered by such a sacrifice should be unwilling to follow fully such a deliverer no matter how great the cost? Paul saw it correctly when he said, "I even reckon all things as pure loss because of the priceless privilege of knowing Christ Jesus my Lord, for the sake of whom I have suffered the loss of everything and reckon it all as mere refuse" (Phil. iii, 8, Weymouth). "God forbid that I should glory save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom the world is crucified unto me and I unto the world" (Gal. vi, 14). Our Lord said to His Father in His prayer that last night, "I am no more in the world, but these are in the world," and He also said to His disciples that evening, "The world seeth me no more but ye see me" (John xvii, 11; xiv, 19), implying that we are here in His stead and that He expects the world to see Him in us. He never pleased Himself nor sought His own will or His own glory (Rom. xv, 3; John v, 30; viii, 50), and we are here to manifest His life in these mortal bodies.

The life that does not savor of Christ is good for nothing in the light of His kingdom and glory (verses 34, 35; Matt. v, 13). This life of discipleship is spoken of as "serving the living and true God," "denying ungodliness and worldly lusts," and while it can only be by the love of Christ constraining us the attitude that controls is always waiting for our Lord's return (1 Thess. i, 9, 10; Tit. ii, 11-13).

A STUDY OF HIS APPEARANCE

Is the man who best appreciates the detail of the tailoring we turn out? The workmanship passes without a question, the fit is naturally a matter of course, but the shape we mould into the garments give them a character that finishes them off and makes the satisfaction of the owner complete.

All this is a bid for your next tailoring order. We know we can make you the best clothes you ever wore. We want you to know it. That order is the best and only sure way to settle the question.

GREAT WAVE IS NATIONAL

Referendum to States For Constitutional Amendment Is Expected—Nine States Already Dry and Four More May Get Into Column This Year. Eighteen Are Half Dry.

Washington.—The spread of prohibition sentiment in the United States in the past year has made a deep impression on leaders in congress. The events of that period when viewed in the light of the ambitious program that the temperance advocates have set for themselves in the immediate future are causing much serious thinking and some anxiety on the part of members of congress who look beyond their noses.

In fact, many of the leaders in the national legislature believe that they already see the prohibition question looming as a national issue. They fear the time is near when a constitutional amendment providing for national prohibition will be submitted by congress to a referendum of the states.

Such an amendment is now pending in both the house and the senate, and the promotion of it through congress is the accomplishment toward which all the anti-liquor forces are looking most hopefully. By many of the clevcrest of the crusade leaders doubt is expressed whether the time is yet ripe for pushing the constitutional amendment to solution, or whether it would be better to continue to strengthen the foundations of the measure by bringing additional states more definitely into the prohibition column.

But that the test eventually will come in congress and that the national legislators will be subjected to pressure such as they have seldom if ever experienced is the growing conviction in Washington.

The fear is expressed by leaders of both parties that when the test does finally come congress will do as it did in two important instances last year when called on to pass upon the liquor question—disregard its own convictions and vote to appease public clamor.

It has long been a matter of comment in Washington that the only way in which temperance legislation can be prevented in congress is by holding the bills in committee and by keeping them from the floor of the house or senate. When the average member of congress is face to face with the liquor question and a delegation of temperance advocates he may drink like a fish himself, but he will promptly record his vote in favor of the drys.

That at least was the history of the two most important developments of the past year in congress. The passage of the Jones-Works excise law for the District of Columbia and the enactment of the Webb-Kenyon law to prohibit the shipment of liquor into prohibition territory for sale were regarded by the temperance crusaders as red letter events on their last year's calendar.

They were elated not only over what the laws might accomplish, but over the way in which their enactment demonstrated the hold of the antis upon the national legislature.

The ease with which the passage of these laws was obtained has also left its impression on congress. Few members dared to oppose the measures in the open, and both were carried by overwhelming votes, the Webb-Kenyon bill over the veto of President Taft. The opposition was confined chiefly to the cocktail belt, but when the ballots were placed in the open members fell over themselves in favor of them. The lesson in this was the part of politic wisdom.

As the result of the passage of the Jones-Works law the city of Washington now shuts itself on Sundays as dry as a Lorat home. A club member cannot even get a drink in his own clubhouse on Sunday.

STARVING, HE HAD $10,050.

Aged Man Accepts Charity and Loses His Wallet.

New York.—James A. Parvin, assistant station master at the Pennsylvania station, has lost his faith in human nature. He helped a supposedly starving man and then found him possessed of thousands of dollars.

The man was evidently exhausted and about to collapse.

"I've not had a bite to eat in two days," he murmured.

Having helped the old man to a seat, Mr. Parvin rushed a porter away for hot coffee and sandwiches. The old man ate ravenously and wept as he told his story.

The old man said his name was Uriah Lane and on foot he had dragged himself all the way from up state in an effort to reach his son, whom he had not seen since they parted at Sag Harbor after a quarrel twenty years ago.

The 4:15 train for Sag Harbor was nearly due. Deeply affected, Mr. Parvin tried to cheer the old man up, paid his fare, $3.04, to Sag Harbor and gave him the change from a five dollar bill.

Just afterward Mr. Parvin caught sight of a wallet lying under the chair on which the aged man had sat. Opening it, he found the name Uriah Lane on the flap. Inside were eight $1,000 bills, crisp and clean; twenty $100 and ten $5 bills—$10,050 in all.

When Mr. Parvin overtook the old man he demanded to be repaid for the sum already advanced. After much argument the old man did so.

WOULD MAKE SOLDIERS WORK

Congressman Would Also Put Sailors at Manual Labor.

Washington.—Warren W. Bailey of Pennsylvania introduced in the house a bill directing the president to "put the officers and enlisted men of the army and navy to work." The president is directed to employ the officers and men in the construction of the Alaska railway, the reclamation of swamp lands, construction of Mississippi river levees, river and harbor improvements, and is forbidden to hire manual labor outside of the services until the supply from within them is exhausted.

Mr. Bailey issued a statement in which he said:

"If we must have a huge standing army and a big navy—and all the jingoes agree that we must in the interests of the world's peace—then let's put them to work."

MIDSHIPMEN WILL TAKE UP DEBATING

Daniels' Suggestion to Be Carried Out by Captain Fullam.

Annapolis, Md.—Captain William F. Fullam, superintendent of the Naval academy, has taken up the suggestion of the secretary of the navy that the midshipmen of the first class engage in debates on current subjects to improve their acquaintance with the news of the day and to increase their ability to think and talk on their feet. He has had several consultations with members of the department of English and other instructors and officers and will endeavor to fit something along this line into the already rather crowded curriculum of the first class.

The need for special training of the midshipmen along the lines of writing and speaking on the topics of the day has been recognized, and much has been done to further it. The practice of having the first class men respond to toasts was started more than a year ago by Captain Gibbons, then superintendent, and is carried on with much success. A period of an hour and a half or two hours is devoted to this every week, one midshipman acting as toastmaster, others responding to set toasts or making extemporaneous remarks on each occasion. In this way each member of the graduating class has the opportunity of speaking several times during the year. Members of the English department are always present as critics.

WHISTLE HYMNS IN CHURCH.

Boy Chorus of Fifty Helps to "Humanize" Service.

Philadelphia.—A chorus of fifty boys, after considerable training with no small amount of patience, whistled the hymn tunes in the services of the Calvary Reformed church here. The girls carried the hymn with their soprano voices, and the effect is said to have been rather startling.

Another innovation in the movement for "humanizing" such services was the "all girl" service in the same church preceding the whistling.

Unjoints Shoulder Twelve Times.

Philadelphia.—For the twelfth time within a year William Symonds, thirty years old, a driver, applied for treatment at a hospital suffering from a dislocated shoulder blade. Since the first injury the bone has dropped from its socket every time the victim gives his arm a slight wrench.

Boasts He Is Tallest Man.

Memphis, Tenn.—J. G. Turver, twenty-eight years old, who is seven feet four inches tall and weighs 307 pounds, claims he is the tallest man in the United States. He was born in Dallas, Tex. His father was not unusually tall, and none of his four brothers is quite six feet tall.

(Signed) F. E. RATHBUN, Secretary.

This levy is made in accordance with said Chapter 38; Section 123 of the Acts of 1910, said section 123 reads as follows:

Each High School in the first group in the counties of Maryland, shall receive State aid on the basis of the cost of instruction, and in the following manner:

The sum of six hundred dollars on account of the principal, and the sum of three hundred dollars on account of each of the first three assistants employed for regular high school work; the sum of four hundred dollars on account of each of two special teachers, who shall spend not less than two fifths of their time in the school receiving said amounts; and the sum of one hundred dollars on account of each additional regular grade teacher, provided the total amount does not exceed the sum of twenty five hundred dollars.

In this article the term special teacher shall be construed to mean a teacher of Commercial, Manual Training, Domestic Science or Agricultural branches. Each high school in the counties of Maryland of the second group shall receive State aid on the basis of the cost of instructions and in the following manner: The sum of six hundred dollars on account of the principal; the sum of four hundred dollars on account of one assistant teacher employed for regular high school work; and the sum of four hundred dollars on account of the instructor of special subjects to be designated by the County School Board; provided that if an instructor in Manual Training or Agricultural work be required to divide his or her time among not more than four schools of this group, one hundred and fifty dollars shall be allowed on account of each of such schools; provided also, that the amount to be received by each of the four high schools of Baltimore city, shall be equal to the maximum amount received on account of any high school in the counties of the State; provided further, that the Board of County School Commissioners of each county shall submit, annually to the County Commissioners of their respective counties, at least thirty days prior to the date for making the usual county levy for school purposes, a list of all high schools of the county, including those not entitled to State aid as well as those qualified in this article, and an itemized statement of the estimated cost of maintaining same, and the said Boards of County Commissioners shall not make a separate levy for high schools publishing same once a week for three successive weeks prior to the date of making said levy in one or more county papers.

By order of the Board.
A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

LOCAL LAWS.

AN ACT for the better protection of fish in certain streams in Garrett county.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to kill, take or catch in any manner whatever any brook trout or other trout from or in any of the streams of said Garrett county, which have been stocked with brook or other trout, or which have had said fish placed therein from the State Fish Hatchery, for the period of two years from the first day of April, 1914.

Section 2. And be it further enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons who are non residents of the State of Maryland to take, catch or kill in any manner whatsoever any fish in any of the streams of the said Garrett county, without first having applied to the Clerk of the Circuit Court of said Garrett county and procured a license so to do and paying therefor the sum of five dollars, which said license shall be good and valid for one year from the date thereof.

Section 3. And be it further enacted that any person or persons violating any of the provisions of the two preceding sections shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof before any Justice of the Peace of said Garrett county, or in any Circuit Court thereof, shall be fined not less than five dollars nor more than fifty dollars for each offense, and shall stand committed to the county jail until said fine is paid, one-half of said fine or fines to go to the informer or informers upon whose evidence the conviction is obtained.

Section 4. And be it further enacted that all money arising from the license aforesaid and all fines, after paying the amount aforesaid to the informer or informers, shall be paid to the School Board of Garrett county for the use of the public schools.

Section 5. And be it further enacted, That said Act shall take effect from the first day of April, 1914.

AN ACT to add two new Sections to Article 27 of the Code of Public General Laws of 1904 to follow Section 32 under the new subtitle "Cigarettes" to be designated as Sections 32 A and 32 B.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That two new Sections be and the same are hereby added to Article 27 of the Code of Public General Laws, titled "Crime and Punishments," under the new sub title "Cigarettes," to follow Sections 32, to be designated as Sections 32 A and 32 B, and to read as follows:

32 A. Any person who shall furnish to any minor, by gift, sale or otherwise, any cigarette or cigarette paper, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than fifty dollars for the first offense, and for each subsequent offense shall be liable for a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than three hundred dollars and to undergo an imprisonment in the jail of the county for a period of not less than thirty days nor more than six months, and on failure to pay the fine and costs of prosecution, shall be required to work the same out on the public roads.

32 B. Any minor being in possession of a cigarette or cigarette paper and being by any police officer, constable, juvenile court officer, truant officer or teacher in any school asked where and from whom such cigarette or cigarette paper was obtained, who shall refuse to furnish such information, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof before any Justice of the peace be sentenced to pay a fine not less than five dollars nor more than ten dollars, and on failure to pay the fine and costs of prosecution, shall be confined in the jail of the county for a period of not less than ten days or more than thirty days.

This Act shall not apply to any of the counties of the State or the City of Baltimore, but only to Garrett county.

Sec. 2. All Acts or parts of Acts inconsistent with this Act are hereby repealed, and this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

AN ACT to prohibit any minister of the Gospel or other person, in Garrett County, who is now or may hereafter be authorized under the laws of Maryland to perform the marriage ceremony, to give, directly or indirectly any fee as an inducement to any person to bring the persons contemplating marriage to him to perform the marriage ceremony.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That it shall be unlawful for any minister of the Gospel, or other person, in Garrett County, who under the laws of the State of Maryland is now, or may hereafter be authorized to perform the marriage ceremony, to give, either directly or indirectly, or offer to give any money, present or reward, to any hotel or railroad porter, or other person or persons, to bring, take or direct any person contemplating matrimony to said minister of the Gospel or other person so authorized to perform said rite or ceremony. Any person or persons violating the provisions of this Section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof before any Justice of the Peace in Garrett County, or before the Circuit Court thereof, shall be fined not less than ten dollars nor more than fifty dollars and costs of prosecution and to be committed to jail until said fine and costs are paid.

Sec. 2. And be it enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

HOME BURNED AND THE OCCUPANTS INJURED

Members of the Family of Albert Shaffar. Near Crellin. The Victims.

This morning about seven o'clock the home of Albert Shaffer, who resided on the Peter P. Lohr farm near Crellin, was burned to the ground, along with all of the contents of the building, a five-room log house, and in escaping from the flames Mrs. Shaffer and her little child, an infant in arms, were more or less seriously burned.

The fire caught from a kitchen stove and had made considerable headway when it was discovered by a neighbor who gave the alarm. Mr. Shaffer, who was at work in his barn, ran to the house and in his efforts to rescue his wife and child he was also slightly burned. They were both taken from the burning building through a window. The child's arm and hand were badly burned while Mrs. Shaffer's injuries consisted of burus on her face and arms.

CITY OF VERA CRUZ IS IN POSSESSION OF U. S.

President Wilson Would Stop Unless Developments Force Further Action on Part of this Government

WASHINGTON, April 22—The American forces are in complete control of Vera Cruz. No noncombatants were injured in the fighting there. This word was received in the dispatch from Consul Canada this afternoon.

The White House gave out the following statement:

"Dispatches received from Consul Canada at Vera Cruz this afternoon announced that the American forces are now in complete possession of the city; that apparently there were no fatalities among American and foreign noncombatants, and that firing had ceased, except for occasional picket shots."

Consul Canada said that he was unable to establish communication with the American Embassy at Mexico City. He said a house-to-house search was being made through Vera Cruz and many arrests of armed Mexicans were being made.

The President late this afternoon signed the resolution on Mexico. Only members of his family were present.

Washington, April 11.—American operations in Mexico at Vera Cruz took on renewed aspects of war today when Rear Admiral Badger landed more marines and took the entire city.

While the orders of the President were being carried out to the letter, it was made apparent in conferences at the White House that the United States will "sit tight" at Vera Cruz and that no further steps of pacification will be taken at this time.

For the present, it was declared that the forces at Vera Cruz would hold the city to convince Huerta that this Government means business, and that no action would be taken at Tampico unless there is retaliatory action on the part of the Huerta Government.

No orders, it was stated, have been sent to the American officers with reference to landing at Tampico.

No advancement further than Vera Cruz on the part of the United States forces, it was made plain, would be undertaken unless some overt act on the part of Huerta and his followers should precipitate further trouble and make more aggressive action necessary.

Despite the purpose of the Administration to confine the operations at Vera Cruz, the situation took on an ominous aspect which indicated that more serious consequences cannot be averted. Though not officially announced, it was reported on high authority that Senor Algara, the Mexican Charge d'Affairs, had been directed to ask for his passports and that the American Charge at Mexico City, Mr. O'Shaugnessy, had been asked to leave.

With this prospective breaking off of diplomatic negotiations, together with the reports of aroused feeling among the Mexicans, the feeling here is that it may be necessary in the near future to resist attacks from Mexican Federal soldiers.

Everything is in readiness for actual warfare, if it must come, and Congress today took the final step in justifying the President's course thus far.

The American forces began the advance on Vera Cruz at 8 o'clock under the guns of the war vessels. The landing parties from the vessels were greeted with general firing from snippers when the boats approached the shore at 4.30 A. M.

The Mexican sharpshooters occupied the roofs of houses in the central part of the city and fired down upon the marines and bluejackets as they neared the land from the vessels offshore.

Oakland High School Notes.

The mock trial took place on Friday afternoon, being greeted with an enthusiastic audience. There were more townspeople here than at any time within the memory of the writer, with one exception. The student on trial was convicted by a jury composed of his schoolmates, and was sentenced to receive seven lashes with a blacksnake whip. It is needless to say that the sentence has not been carried out. We were heartily glad to see so many visitors, and will cordially welcome them at any time.

Some of the Juniors and Seniors, together with several members of the of the faculty, went to Frostburg on last Friday, to attend a reception given by the State Normal School. They returned on Saturday with glowing accounts of their trip.

The Seniors have ordered their Commencement invitations, and have patterned after last year's graduating class in having their class design on the same. They have also received pennants in green and cream, bearing the words, "1914- Oakland."

The Commercial Department borrowed an adding machine from the School Board office on Tuesday, and the Senior class of that department has been practicing on it. Our business course is practical in every sense of the word.

For the school month of April the following students have made not less than 80 per cent in each subject studied, and not less than 95 per cent in deportment: Freshmen, Marie Finzel, Beulah Ralston, Carrie Mann; Sophomores, Blanche Clark, Clara Bush, Mabel Falkenstine, Louise Harned, Mary Sincell, Carrie Thrasher, Edward Lewis, Donald Maffett; Juniors, Dottie Doman, Delbert Davis, Robert Garrett, Ross Isenberg, John Scott; Seniors, Rhoda Welch and Guy Ashby.

Married.

ROBERTS—BITTINGER—The marriage of Miss Vernie Bittinger and Edgar Roberts was solomniz d at the M. E. parsonage on Tuesday, April 7th, Rev. E. E. Withers, pastor of the charge, officiating. The little bride is very sweet and pretty and barely sixteen, yet possesses many lovable qualities that go toward the forming of a noble woman, and that her big good-looking husband adores her is patent to every one. She is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Bittinger ot near Jennings, and the courtship began when the groom was bookkeeper for the Jennings Lumber Co., which position he has since given up for a similar one with the Twentieth Century Mfg. Company of Boynton. The happy couple started on a bridal tour to San Francisco, California.

WALBRAN—WILEY.—Mr. John Walbran, of Jennings, and Miss Myrtle Wiley, of Bittinger, were married yesterday afternoon in Cumberland. We extend our heartiest congratulations to the newly weds and wish them a long, happy pro-perous life.

MORE STATE HIGHWAY BIDS ASK BY COMMISSION

Two Sections on Accident Road to National Pike Advertised.

The Good Roads Commission of Maryland advertise in this paper today for bids for the construction of two sections of State Road, one being a re-advertisement of that portion of the Oakland-Accident road near Hoyes to the town of Accident and the other for the construction of a section from Accident to the National Road at Keyser.

The Hoyes-Accident section has been advertised a number of times and bids have been submitted by road builders, but the Commission's figures or estimates for the work have always been lower than the price asked for the work and in consequence delay in awarding the contracts has been occasioned.

On the Accident—Keyser section, however, the advertisement of to-day is the first that has been published by the Commission. This contract covers a stretch of mountain road about seven miles in length and will when completed along with the section of a little less than two and a half miles from Hoyes to Accident, give Oakland a state highway clear through to the National Road a short distance east of the Pennsylvania State line. Two other sections of the Pike, one east and the other west of Grantsville, will complete that portion of the State Roads Commission's sureveyed system of roads lying north of Oakland in Garrett county, and will also give Garrett countains a complete good road into the city of Cumberland or beyond.

Sixty Masons Advanced.

Gen. Thomas J. Shryock, Sovereign Inspector-General of Maryland, assisted by 53 members of the Scottish Rite Masons of Baltimore, conferred last Monday, at Cumberland the degrees of the Knights Kadosh and the Consistory from the nineteenth to the thirty-second on a class of more than 60 members of the fraternity. The work required the entire day and was followed by dinner in the assembly at the temple that evening. Following the dinner the thirty-second degree, or Prince of the Royal Secret, was conferred.

Many members of the Chesapeake Consistory Scottish Rite choir, including Hohart Smock and J. Frank Supplee soloist, and the Scottish Rite guards in full uniform were among those from Baltimore who assisted in the work. The class included business and professional men in Allegany county.

$5.56 IS PER CAPITA DEBT OF MARYLAND

Tabulated Statement Soon to Be Issued By the Department of Commerce.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 21, 1914.—Preliminary figures from theforthcoming bulletin pertaining to national and state indebtedness and funds and investments have been given out by Director W. J. Harris, of the Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce. The bulletin carries information for the state of Maryland, as well as for the other states and the United States. The data were compiled under the supervision of Mr. John Lee Coulter, expert special agent in charge of the inquiry on Wealth, Debt and Taxation.

The bulletin, which will soon be issued, will contain statistics for each year from 1890 to 1913, inclusive, as far as statistics are available, and will also contain details for the year most nearly corresponding to 1880, thus making it possible to show the general movement during a period of over 30 years. The bulletin will show the total debt of the states as well as many details, such as the various classes of outstanding bonds and special debt obligations to public trust funds. It will also show the floating debt and its component parts. Under "Funds and Investments" will be shown separately all the different funds, and in each case cash and securities will be shown. The population of the states for each year under consideration will be used, and the per capita debt (less sinking fund assets) will be given.

An inspection of the tables for Maryland in the bulletin soon to be issued shows a fluctuating bonded indebtedness amounting to $10,703,000 in 1890; decreasing to the minimum sum reported, $5,717,000, in 1899; and rising to $13,036,000 in 1912. No special debt obligations to public trust funds or floating debt were recorded in any year.

In the case of funds and investments the securities, while changing from year to year, show an increase of $574,000 as between 1890 and 1912. The cash changed naturally, but the general tendency was to increase. and $696,000 in 1890 advanced to $1,887,000 in 1912.

The sinking fund assets fluctuated constantly, but were always large, and increased from $3,152,000 in 1890 to $5,702,000 in 1912. Because of the heavy sinking fund assets recorded the debt (less sinking fund assets) was considerably less than the total debt, and whereas the total debt shows an increase of $2,332,000 during the period discussed, the debt (less sinking fund assets) decreased in the amount of $217,000.

Although the per capita debt varied greatly, following the fluctuations of the debt (less sinking fund assets), the increase of population was sufficient to offset the slight decrease in the debt (less sinking fund assets), and the per capita debt decreased $1.68 from 1890 to 1912.

In 1880 the total debt of Maryland at the close of the fiscal year, September 30, was $11,260,000; in 1890 it was $10,703,000; and in 1912 it amounted to $13,036,000. The population of the state increased from 935,000 in 1880 to 1,319,000 in 1912, being sufficient to bring about an appreciable decrease in the per capita debt. In 1880 the per capita debt was $11.89; in 1890 it was $7.24; in 1908 it reached the minimum, $1.54, but advanced to $5 56 in 1912.

In contrast with the state of Maryland we find that taking the entire debt (less sinking fund assets) for the 48 states, the per capita debt, according to the latest report is $3.52 or $2.04 less than the per capita debt for Maryland. Comparing the per cent of decrease in the per capita debt of Maryland and the average for the 48 states for the 30-year period, we find that whereas the per capita debt for the 48 states decreased about 35 per cent, the decrease for Maryland was more than 50 per cent; the $5.48 falling to $3.52 in the average for the 48 states and $11.89 to $5.56 in Maryland.

At the present time about 1.4 per cent of the total population of the United States will be found in the State of Maryland and 2.1 per cent of the total debt (less sinking fund assets) is attributed to that state.

The Mountain City Band.

We are glad to report the re-organization of the Mountain City Band of this city. Mr. A. E. Case, of Chicago, has been secured as the leader and instructor. Mr. Case will move to Oakland in the near future and he and his family will become residents of Oakland. We congratulate our town on this good news. The Mountain City band has been a company of good musicians and a great credit to the city. The band should receive every possible encouragement from our citizens and we believe that it will.

At the next fair Garrett County fair the boys will furnish the music for the occasion. Here's to the success of the Mountain City band.

SOME LETTER THIS.

A Temperance Talk to Voters

BY JASON KEP

DEAR JIM—Your breezy letter was very refreshing this warm afternoon; it was like a breath from the north wind.

So you want me to tear loose from our sedate old Sunday-go-to-meeting town, and come up and visit in a live-wire-up-to-date-wide-awake-city. Quit your kidding. It sounds too much like a new gold mining prospective, and by the way it has some of the ear marks, too.

Since you refer to our prosperous metropolis in that disrespectful tone of voice, I will proceed to throw a few bricks.

In enumerating all the good points and suppressing the bad features in your prospective you have followed closely the lead of the aforesaid g. m. people.

You failed to mention that you had eight saloons, a big debt, and a saloon bossed city. Say, live-wire is right, it needs insulation.

I am going to give you a few pointers and it will pay you live-wise-city-people to give them careful consideration.

The average sales of saloons in the United States is $15,000 a year, your eight saloons draw $120,000 from your community each year. Now for every dollar's worth of liquor drank there is a dollar's worth of work lost from drunks and getting over drunks; that is $120,000 more, or $240,000 a year taken from your community, and that amount of money added or taken from a community of the size in which you live is the difference between prosperity and want.

You know that if your section was dry most of this money would find its way to your merchants in supplying the wants of a prosperous and happy community.

Back of this would be a decrease in taxes, for you know that 50 per cent. of the paupers, 55 per cent. of the insane, 85 per cent. of the criminal court work and 90 per cent. of the murders and suicides are caused by drink. The amount you collect from license helps but little. As an example: Last year in our neighboring city of an application for a license for a new saloon on the south side was received. The city Fathers looked it up and found it badly needed, or rather they needed the money badly, so they granted the license, and put the $600 in the treasury. In less than ten days later they had to put on an extra policeman in that division to take care of the extra disturbances and added drunkards, added expense the first crack out of the box and you know what other incidental expenses would naturally follow. Great business heads.

Is it any wonder that that county went dry by 6,700 majority last election.

Now our city is about the same size as your city. Once we were a live-wire city with a lot of saloons, big debt and lockup full. We cut it out. You seldom see a drunk, our lock-up is empty, our police force is cut in half, and they are getting too fat for want of exercise; we are out of debt and our poorhouse lacks boarders, our city is now a safe place to raise a family.

Back of it all Jim, you business men have a moral responsibility resting upon you, you are the leaders, you are the moulders of public opinion, it rests with you to clean up your city and make it a safe place for your boys and girls to grow up.

You are surprised at me, are'nt you, Jim? I wasn't a "temperance crank" when we were together years ago. No, but since then I have learned much, seen much, seen wet towns go dry; dry towns go wet; noticed the difference and now I have a family growing up. I would not raise them in a saloon ridden town if you gave me the town.

It is surprising how different you feel when you have children of your own. Jim, you have a boy. You can talk to him and preach to him till doomsday about the terrible effect of drink, and the great benefit of temperance and then vote wet and a few other things when the day is hot, for your stomach's sake And you will find the boy will decide to experiment, and he might not be as able to control his appetite as his dad. How would you feel?

Jim, put your town dry. It will pay, you have enough men in your factory to do it if you get busy. If you will go at it I'll come up and help boost.

JASON KEP.

Frostburg Normal School Reception.

The reception at the State Normal School Frostburg, last Friday evening to the seniors of the Oakland, Friendsville and Lonaconing High Schools was a happy social event and attracted a merry gathering of young folks from Allegany and Garrett counties.

After the formal reception of guests a brief program was rendered. The numbers were as follows: Reading, Miss Mae Arnold, of Oakland; vocal solo, Miss Orpah Ashby, of Oakland; reading, Mrs. Clara Pyle Ewing, of the Normal faculty; vocal solo, Miss Gertrude Morgan, of the Normal faculty; reminiscences, Dr. Samuel A. Baer.

This program was concluded about 9 p. m. and from then until midnight dancing was indulged. Ort's orchestra played and refreshments were served, consisting of punch, ice cream and cake. The patronesses were Mrs. Clara Pyle Ewing, Miss Gertrude Morgan and Miss Edna Marshall.

The assembly hall, made use of for all features of the function, was tastefully trimmed with the colors of the Normal school, bronze and blue, the Oakland and Lonaconing colors, gold and black, and the Friendsville colors, silver and garnet.

The out of town guests were: Misses Jane Smith, Mae Arnold and Daisy Hanna, of the Oakland school faculty, and Misses Edna Shank, Mary Sincell, Leah Sincell, Bernadette Hart and Mr. Flaherty, of the senior class, Miss Emma Goehringer, of Friendsville.

From the Lonaconing school: Misses Bessie Ritchie, Francis Todd, Katharine McHugh, Jessie Ayres, Margaret Sloan, Maud Creichton, Elizabeth Stevenson, Stella McConnell, Rhea Morgan, Collene Edwards, Winifred Stakmen, Messrs. Sampson Ternent, John O'Rourke, Millard Martin, Joseph Morgan and Issac Love. Other guests from Lonaconing not school pupils, were: Miss Marrie Somersville, Thomas Fisher, Thomas Richards, Leonard Kolmer and Marquis Major.

SONS OF VETERANS TO ORGANIZE

Meeting For Purpose Will Be Held Thursday Night.

Next Thursday evening a meeting will be held in the large room on the third floor of First National Bank Building, this city, at 8 o'clock to organize a camp of the Sons of Veterans.

At this date about forty names have been enrolled as members. This number ought to be greatly increased before next Thursday evening. All sons or grand sons of veterans (over 18 years of age) are eligible to become members.

Mr. Norman Sanner, son of Captain R. R. Sanner of this city, has for some time been soliciting members for an Oakland camp and is quite anxious to have the camp organized and in working order. The indications are that a large camp will be organized next Thursday.

Wm. A. Keefauver, of Hagerstown, Md., Division Commander of the Maryland Division, will be in Oakland for the purpose of mustering in the Oakland Camp.

To become a member of this camp is a great honor and privilege, and we hope that those who have not given their names to Mr. Sanner will do so at once. Not only give him your names but urge others to do so.

GRANTSVILLE

The following is from the Meyersdale Republican.

The contract for the State Road west of Grantsville has been given to the Rob Roy Construction Company of New York City. A number of gentlemen have already arrived in the interest of this company and are erecting shanties about two miles west of town for the accommodation of the corps of employes shortly to arrive. Work will begin immediately and be carried through promptly, to the nine miles assigned them to be finished in a few months. The members of the company have taken rooms at the Victoria hotel during their stay.

Members of the Lutheran congregation and others were grieved to learn of the recent death of Rev. Dr. Young of New York City, who, but for ill health, would have been present at the dedicatory service at the church last fall. He was a former pastor and a very forceful one, being held in highest esteem by all who remember his sojourn here about thirty years ago.

The old Bill homestead has been repaired and remodeled until it has become a modern little cottage, although still retaining the old familiar air so dear to its children. The work has been done under the personal supervision of C. H. Bill who, with his wife, have moved into it and are ready to receive their many friends. The little square-paned windows have given place to large, sunny modern ones. The living room has been enlarged; shelves have been erected in the kitchen, Joel H. Miller being the carpenter, and the entire house repapered and tastefully arranged. Later, Mr. Bill intends running the front porch the entire length of the houses which will greatly improve the already beautiful cottage.

Emanuel Hershberger writes: As for the town, it has changed quite a bit in size and appearance. Where old shack-like houses stood are now new dwellings erected. Where Henry Smouse's carpenter shop used to be stands a large hotel. At the square are large buildings on each corner, consisting of three stores and one hotel. Going west from the Livingston tailor-shop we count nine new houses on the south side where only farming land used to be. In all about twenty new dwellings were built and others remodeled. There are 3 new churches, the fourth also improved. The town has two flourishing banks, one a National the other a State bank. Let it, however, be understood that we are not comparing with city buildings, but only such that exhibit a fair appearance in a country village.

A Profitable Cow.

In 1903 an Ohio farmer invested $225 in one pure-bred cow. He never bought another and to-day has a herd of 21 head. The original cow, now 14 years old, has produced 11 calves and is in calve again. During the ten years she and her descendants have produced 45 cattle of which 21 have been bulls. Now this man has a good herd of cattle from an original investment of $225 and he has sold 25 pure bred animals while he was building it up. At the start he had access to good bulls, which helped to keep down his original outlay. But his experience shows that a big investment is not absolutely necessary for the man who really wants a good herd and means to persist until he gets it.

BLOCKADE ORDER MAY GO TODAY

Navy Department Awaits Action by Congress

EVERYTHING IN READINESS

While Naval Plans Are Partly Known Army Campaign Has Not Been Disclosed—Vera Cruz Customs House Will Be Seized and It Is Hoped Big Consignment of Ammunition There Will Be Captured.

Washington, April 21.—Everything is in readiness for speedy action as soon as congress gives authority.

These were the words used by Secretary of the Navy Daniels who said that Rear Admiral Badger, commander of the big fleet assembling off the Atlantic coast of Mexico, would receive orders to put into effect at once the plans already worked out.

The "war" council held a session in the president's offices in the White House. Wilson met Secretary Garrison, Secretary of the Navy Daniels, Secretary of State Bryan, Rear Admiral Fiske, chief of the bureau of operations; Rear Admiral Blue, chief of the bureau of navigation; Major General Wood, chief of staff of the army, who will have supreme command of the army operations; Captain McCoy, aid to General Wood; Major Connors, member of the general staff of the army, and John Lind.

The three members of the general board of the navy were present who had with the aid of the war college worked out the plan for a naval campaign against Mexico.

General Wood has superintended the preparation by army strategists of the plan for the land campaign.

John Lind was called to the conference for his knowledge of the conditions which will have to be met in the joint preparations of the army and navy.

Secretary Daniels said that Admiral Badger's orders to steam for Tampico at 11½ knots an hour had not been supplemented. He indicated, however, that everything was in readiness for speedy action today.

Mr. Daniels denied a report circulated at the capital that Vera Cruz had been taken by the American ships off that port without awaiting the passage of the resolution by congress. No such action had been authorized in Washington, he declared.

Admiral Badger is fully acquainted with the plans of the government for blockading and seizing the ports of Vera Cruz and Tampico. He learned of these plans at his conference with Admiral Fiske of the bureau of operations at Hampton Roads.

Secretary Daniels indicated that orders would go to Admiral Badger to divide the fleet into two squadrons, one to proceed to Vera Cruz and the other to Tampico. It is probable that the fleet will be evenly divided between the two ports.

Secretary Daniels announced that at his direction Admirals Fletcher and Mayo had warned all vessels of the American merchant marine to withdraw from these ports. This action, Daniels said, was in accordance with action taken by the state department in warning all Americans to leave Mexico.

Information of this warning was transmitted by the navy department to the secretary of state and was in turn sent to the foreign governments.

This action was the only notice given to the powers of the intention of the United States to blockade Tampico and Vera Cruz. The warning to the American ships was not given at any ports except the two named.

Secretary Daniels expressed the opinion that no more American ships will be needed for the operations than have already been ordered to Mexico. The two new dreadnoughts, Texas and New York, can steam for Mexico on two days' notice, the secretary said, but he did not believe the necessity will arise for ordering them out. It is understood that the Virginia and Nebraska will be ordered from Boston tomorrow.

Secretary Daniels said no steps had been taken to secure the permission of congress for adding to the enlistments of the navy beyond 53,000, which is the present limitation.

It was reported at the capitol that the administration planned to seize the customs house at Vera Cruz some time today in order to prevent the shipment of 15,000,000 rounds of ammunition due there from getting into the hands of the federal forces.

This ammunition was shipped by a Paris concern and reached Vera Cruz Monday on a Hamburg-American liner.

It was impossible to prevent the liner from docking because no blockade had been declared upon the Mexican coast so the reported plan to seize the customs house before the actual commencement of hostilities was fixed upon.

Secretary of War Garrison said no definite steps had been taken on calling upon the military organizations of the states to participate in hostilities against Mexico. The secretary added that General Mills, chief of the division of militia, had been asked to inquire as to the time which would be required to muster the militia but that no other instruction has been issued.

Mr. Garrison refused to discuss any detail of the plan which has been drawn for operations in Mexico. No orders putting this plan into effect have been issued and no immediate pursuance of orders is contemplated.

General Wood will assume supreme command of the army's movements in the field once the campaign ordered is initiated. General Wood was present at a meeting of the joint army and navy board at which plans for the cooperation of the two arms were discussed.

Secretary Garrison took no further steps to assure an adequate number of ships of the merchant marine for use as army transports when the movement starts. He indicated that full preparations were made in this respect and that no hitch need be expected.

GENERAL LEONARD WOOD.

IS BLOCKADE A WAR?

Students of International Law Ponder Over Wilson's Plan.

New York, April 21.—Can President Wilson blockade the ports of Mexico without making war on that country? Does his declaration that "under no conceivable circumstances would he fight the people of Mexico" mean that he intends to establish a so-called blockade?

Can there be a specific blockade if the vessels of a third nation are subjected to interference and seizure? How can the president hope to bring General Huerta to terms if the vessels of third nations are not forced to respect the blockade?

Students of international law questioned the effectiveness as a retaliatory measure of any plan that did not contemplate the seizure of Mexican ports or the seizure of vessels that attempt to enter or leave those ports after a blockade has been established. A condition of war is a condition of fact and does not wait upon the formal pronouncement of governments.

"NO WAR WITH MEXICO"

Issue Is Between United States and Huerta, Says Wilson.

Washington, April 21.—To a big gathering of Washington correspondents President Wilson said they should not get the impression that there is about to be war between the United States and Mexico and assured them it was only an issue between this government and a person calling himself provisional president of Mexico.

He further said he had no enthusiasm for war but he had enthusiasm for justice and for the dignity of the United States.

For the first time the president disclosed that he hopes also through the drastic measures to be taken against Huerta to accelerate the removal of the dictator from power at Mexico City. It was indicated by the president that the United States will not be satisfied now with merely the firing of the salute at Tampico, but will insist upon a guarantee that there will be no more acts of disrespect such as the Tampico arrests.

SEVERAL KILLED IN BATTLE

Colorado Mine Strikers and Soldiers Fight.

Trinidad, Col., April 21.—After more than twelve hours of continual fighting, the result of bad feeling, a battle which began between the strikers and militiamen at Ludlow and vicinity was still raging.

Estimates as to the number of dead and wounded run all the way from five to fifty. One guardsman was killed, another is not expected to live and a third is wounded. Three miners and noncombatants are declared to have been killed outright. At the military headquarters at Ludlow it is declared that at least five strikers were killed and the number of wounded is placed at twenty.

Torpedoes Shipped.

Newport, R. I., April 21.—The force at the naval torpedo station was busy placing on board the naval tug Pontiac the torpedo outfit for the battleship Texas. Sixteen torpedoes with equipment, about two tons, were taken on.

SPEAKING ABOUT HOGS.

Ohio Editor Grows Earnest In His War on Cholera.

Washington.—Representative White of Ohio is showing his friends in the house just how the hog cholera lobby is working here. Mr. White has a constituent in Ohio, an editor, who stands close to him in many ways. To this editor came A. P. Sandles, most ardent exponent of the projected law, with the plea that he "get George busy for the hog cholera bill."

Here is a part of the letter which the congressman received from the editor:

I had a sort of idea that the white plague was about the worst thing we had to contend with in this country, but no, a thousand times no! For frightful destruction and stupendous havoc and gigantic loss—of money—the nor cholera has the white plague backed up in the corner yelling for ice water. I freely believe this because "Put" says so. So I wish to add my urgent insist that you fly to the protection of the innocent hog instanter. If a few odd thousand children should die during your errand of mercy to the hog that is one of the exigencies that cannot well be avoided, because there are plenty more where they came from. Not so with the hogs. They are bringing from 9½ to 10¼ cents in Pittsburgh today, and the visible supply is limited.

THESE CHICKENS ARE VAMPS.

Survived a Fire and Wouldn't Leave Shells Till Bell Rang.

Tarrytown, N. Y.—Fire destroyed the North Tarrytown fire house. Water played on the blaze flooded the house of Charles Minnerly next door, and a box with a sitting hen and fifteen eggs floated around the cellar. The hen, however, stuck to the post while the flames crackled around her.

When the eggs were due to hatch no chicks appeared. Minnerly spoke to some of his friends, and they told him they were fire chickens and if he wanted to hatch them he would have to sound an alarm of the bell.

Then Minnerly went to the coop and rang an old dinner bell for fifteen minutes. To his surprise the eggs began to open, and in less than an hour every one of them hatched.

The chicks would not stay with the mother as long as Minnerly rang the bell. He solved the problem by tying a small bell around the mother's neck.

HEAVY SNOWS TO BRING BIG CROPS

Soil In Fine Shape as Result of White Blankets.

Washington.—For a number of years the country at large has not enjoyed such general snows as whitened the countryside during February and March of the present year. Also it has been the occasional catastrophe that one great heavy snow has fallen late in the season to be followed by a quick thaw and consequent floods. Now the soil sharps, seeing that conditions are more nearly ideal this season than for a number of springs, are encouraged to believe that 1914 is destined to be a year of bumper crops.

Dr. J. A. Bonesteel of the bureau of soils is quoted:

"Since the snow blanket took its time in departing we will have a better crop start this year than for several years. To date conditions could be hardly more ideal. We had snow after snow—not too heavy, but persistent enough to keep the ground covered well and the tender shoots of the wheat in perfect condition.

"This is particularly true of the eastern states generally, but at the same time conditions are far better in the middle west than is the general average.

"In the corn belt, where there was a considerable depletion of the crop through too persistent drought last season, the snow will prove of incalculable benefit. The corn belt ought to have a splendid start.

"Where snow remained a long time and there has been extensive opportunity for it to seep down into the earth, carrying its moisture from one to two feet, the soil is prepared to develop sturdy roots for the cereal crops. The plants therefore stand a better chance against possible deficiencies in the matter of rainfall during the period of their growth."

PLANNING TO SAVE NATION'S BABIES

Expert Says We Do Not Know How to Raise Children.

EXPECTS TO HELP 100,000.

Mrs. Anna Stoese Richardson Asserts That Schools and Colleges Teach Everything but the Mechanism of the Little Body—Congress of Mothers Starts Campaign.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Mrs. Anna Steese Richardson, who has attained nation wide fame through the successful conducting of "better baby" contests throughout the country, expressed the opinion here that the women of this country are being trained to do everything except raise babies.

"Girls in the high schools and in private schools may be taught to sew a little, to cook a little and may know something of biology, but when these same girls become mothers they only know that the baby they are so proud of is something sweet, cuddling and adorable," said Mrs. Richardson. "They know nothing whatever of the mechanism of the little body, how it should be fed, nor how it should be clothed.

"This is not only true of the mother of the slums, but of that great army of mothers that belong to the middle class, who would give their very lives for their babies when they realize they are the victims of ignorance.

"The great mistake of the baby saving campaigns in the larger cities is that they have been conducted for the poor mother. To interest the mother in the all around development of the child is one way to stem wastefulness, idleness and degeneracy."

Mrs. Richardson, who is chairman of the hygiene committee of the National Congress of Mothers, also said she did not think it possible for public school teachers to give instruction properly in sex hygiene.

Plans were outlined whereby it is hoped to save at least 100,000 babies under the age of two years during the coming year through the co-operation of all the branches of the Congress of Mothers. This will take the form of better baby contests, under the auspices of the organization, and the distribution of pamphlets and bulletins.

TO GET SCHRANK'S WEAPON.

Roosevelt Will Receive Revolver With He Was Wounded.

Milwaukee.—Theodore Roosevelt will come into possession of the revolver used by John Schrank in his attempt upon the ex-president's life in Milwaukee two years ago.

Judge A. C. Backus of the municipal court has entrusted the weapon to E. E. Martin, one of the stenographers who accompanied Colonel Roosevelt at the time of the attack. Mr. Martin jumped upon the assailant after the first bullet had been fired at the ex-president. He will take the weapon to Oyster Bay and present it to Mr. Roosevelt upon the latter's return from the South American trip.

The revolver still contains the six shells placed in the chamber by Schrank. Only one was discharged.

HOPE FOR JESSE POMEROY.

After Thirty-eight Years He May Be Taken Out of Solitary Confinement.

Boston.—Hope is dawning on the horizon of Jesse Pomeroy, boy murderer of other children, after thirty-eight years of solitary confinement.

Pomeroy is not to be freed, but through the kindly interest of Frank L. Randall, who came from St. Cloud, Minn., last year to be commissioner of prisons, the most widely known of all American life prisoners probably will be taken out of solitary confinement soon and placed where he can have the companionship of his fellows.

THE first national gathering of the Grand Army of the Republic was held in 1866, It now has 5,000 posts throughout the country. In 1890 the order reached a membership of 400,489. Today it has been reduced by death to less than 170,000. The death rate is becoming higher each year.

"WE do not know what we will be called upon to do, but we are ready." Rear Admiral Badger, Commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet. With these words he sailed for Mexico and duty. Such has been the language of American seamen from the days of Paul Jones to the close of active service by "Fightmg" Bob. Evans.

THESE words of that great man, Abraham Lincoln are as true as the gospel: "I do the very best I know how, the very best I can, and I mean to keep on doing so to the end. If the end brings me out right, what is said against me won't amount to anything. If the end brings me out wrong, ten angles swearing I was right would make no difference."

MAY 14-15 a State-wide Prohibition Convention will be held in Baltimore City. Able speakers have been secured for the occasion and much enthusiasm has already been awakened on the subject and for the meeting. We hope that Garrett county will be represented at this great gathering. Now is the time to begin the campaign to have a law enacted at the Legislature of 1916.

TAKING advantage of the new tariff which removes the duty upon grain from South America, the first contract for corn from that country has been given out bv a Baltimore City firm. The contract calls for 150,000 bushels to be shipped sometime during May. Other shipments have been made to New York, Philadelphia and Chicago. Eggs from China are delivered in San Francisco, Cal., for 12 cents a dozen.

THE result of Billy Sunday's meeting at Scranton, Pa., which closed last Sunday was 18,000 converts. On Sunday there were 1200 converts. The free will offering to Mr. Sunday reached about $25,000. It is to be hoped that Dr. Reed will succeed in booking Mr. Sunday for at least one day at the Park this summer. The greatest audience ever assembled at the Park would greet this marvelous evangelist should he come here.

IN the event of war with Mexico, Maryland will be able to put 2,000 trained men in the field within 48 hours, according to statements made by officers of the State militia, who are watching the situation and awaiting developments. General Charles D. Gaither, commander of tha first brigade has had service in Cuba as the commander of a company of regulars. The organization is now receiving wagon from the War Department at Washington. There is a wagon for each company.

The Maryland militia includes a well organized and equipped company of calvarymen, who are ready for service.

GREAT INTEREST IN WAR MOVES.

Unusual interest was manifested in Oakland Sunday evening and Monday morning in the war news. Monday morning copies of all daily papers were eagerly purchased and the demand could not be filled. The word passed all over the county, "Huerta refuses to fire the salute required by Admiral Mayo. He rejects all of President Wilson's requests. War is to be proclaimed at 3 p. m. by the President and Congress."

The spirit of true patrotism prevailed. No one wanted war, but every body wanted "Old Glory" respected. Demanded that Huerta should apoligize for the insult given members of Admiral Mayo's command, their treatment was made a National insult.

Tuesday morning the papers cast aside all the good feelings enjoyed since 3 p. m. of yesterday. War seemed inevitable. The unanimous feeling was that the dignity of the United States must be maintained.

With war impending, the United States Treasury finds itself with bulging chests, which can be drawn upon for immediate funds for the movement of troops, amounting to $1,551,351,384.

Admiral Mayo, the man who put Tampico on the map and incidentally upheld the honor and dignitv of the American flag and uniform in a way to give him world-wide fame, is just a plain, ordinary, unassuming, two-fisted sailor-man, who has been ttending strictstrictly to business for the period of more than 40 years that he has been in Uncle Sam's naval service.

WORDS THAT WILL LIVE.

"You may fire when you are ready, Gridley."—Dewey at Manilla Bay.

"We do not know what we will be called upon to do, but we are ready," said Admiral Badger, when steaming out of Hampton Roads to Mexico.

They are the kind of men the Naval Academy at Annapolis is preparing for the American Navy.

Fame will emblazon on her enduring tablets the heroic words above quoted.

Governor Signs More Bills.

The Governor has signed Senator Speicher's bill for drawing juries in Garrett county.

He also sighed the Workman's Compensation bill, which was one of the most important bills passed by the legislature.

He also signed the bill creating the Board of Advisory parol. The bill submitting the Home Rule and the Referendum amendments to the constitution of the State were signed. By signing the Eastern Shore Anti-shipping Liquor law he greatly delighted the citizens of that part of the State.

Every lover of boyhood in Garrett county will be glad to learn that Governor Goldsborough has signed Senator Speicher's cigarette bill. Now, let the law be strictly enforced all over Garrett county. See that every minor tells where he purchased his cigarette or cigarette papers. The enforcement of the law is in our hands. Will we do our duty? We know of one merchant who has burned all the cigarette papers he had in stock. We know of another who will not renew his license (which expire April 30) to sell the stuff.

Governor Goldsborough has approved the bill enlarging the powers of the Youghiogheny Water and Electrict Company, and vetoed the following bills. Senate bill 530, relating to the the Youghiogheny Water and Electric Company, and bill 699, relating to declaration of citizenship in Garrett county.

The Governor approved 797 bills passed by the legislature and vetoed 76. He vetoed the bill creating a State Board ot Prison Control.

DEER PARK

Prof. George Weitzell, one of our progressive farmers, had business in Oakland Monday.

The meetings at Paradise continue with much interest. Quite a number of converts have gladdened the hearts of the workers. The pastor, Rev. Farmer, has had the past week the assistance of Revs. McCamic and DeWitt. The Sunday school has been reorganized and will meet at 10 a. m. every Sabbath.

O. S. Fike, County Commissioner, and his daughter spent the Sabbath with Prof. George Weitzel and family.

William Kimmell lost three hogs by cholera last week.

Miss Bertha Thrasher spent part of last and this week in Oakland as the guest of Miss Norine Taggart.

Merchant W. C. Jones had business in Oakland Tuesday.

Merchant S. P. Specht spent Friday at the county seat.

Clarence Lashorn has recently returned to Deer Park, after living at Uniontown, Pa., for about two years. While here he will have charge of Mr. John McGraw's automobile.

Birthday Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Davis gave their little daughter Miss Ruth McDonald a birthday party. About thirty of her playmates met at the home and enjoyed a most delightful afternoon. Refreshments were served and the little folks were happy. Birthday parties is a family custom at the Davis home

MEETING OF COMMISSIONERS

Many Delegations Appear From All Parts of Garrett County.

Monday last the entire board of County Commissioners met in their office to make the annual levy and transact other business. It was a wet and damp day out but that did not interfere with a general turnout of the citizens of Garrett county who wanted to represent their several districts before the County Commissioners. This large assembling of the leading citizens and farmers of the county indicated a healthy condition of affairs in the county. It meant business. They were an enthusiastic lot of people and presented in the strongest manner the claims of their districts. So great was the interest of the Friendsville and Ryans' Glade districts that they employed Judge Williams, of Cumberland, to represent their claims before the commissioners.

Friendsville district was represented by Messrs. F. G. Fox, J. G. Kolb, R. M. Holman, Walter Lowdermilk, James Friend, George D. Browning, Charley Glover.

Sang Run district, D. O. DeWitt, J. Arthur DeWitt, Asa B. Friend, W. A. Smith, Charles DeWitt, Wm. Mattingly.

Swanton district, Issac Paugh.

Bloomington district, George Warnick.

Hoyes, Ham Friend.

District No. 7. Wm. Weber, Dr. Ravenscroft, W. H. Landon.

District No. 8, Captain Chisholm.

Mr. James Friend was very much interested in having the Old Legislative road improved and recommended some slight changes in the location of the road. This road would connect Friendsville with the State road at Hoyes.

Mr. George Warnick made an earnest plea that the Westernport Water Company be required to put the county road from Bloomington to Luke in a condition that the public could travel over it.

The bids for building a section of State-aid highway along the Oakland Gortner road, via Webers between Oakland and Gortner were opened. There were only two bids, viz: Echart, Landon & Co., for $54,561.31 and J. E. Francis for $55,227.55 a difference of $666.24.

Messrs. H. B. Leighton, T. B. Lipscomb, E. E. Kesner and others appeared before the Commissioners to have the allowance for Loch Lynn increased for the road fund.

Tuesday morning a delegation appeared before the Board in favor of the Shoemaker road from Oakland to Gortner, among the number being William Friend, McClellan Friend, Joseph Slaughbaugh. D. J. Swartzentruber, Daniel Orendorf, Wm. Queer, T. B. Doman.

Messrs. George Porter and George Shartzer preferred to have the road built on the present county road.

The County Commissioners went to Bloomington Wednesday to examine the county road between Bloomington and Luke, and found the road in notvery good order and will at once have it put in shape for public use.

After careful consideration the Commissioners awarded the contract for building the State aid highway from Oakland to Gortner, via Webers, to Messrs. Echard & Landon, of Mountain Lake Park, for their bid price of $10,168.00 per mile for road work and $9,514.00 for stream and concrete work. The road will be built on the road from Oakland to Mountain Lake Park as far as the Weber road, then along the Weber road as per the survey made by the State Roads Commission to Gortner. Messrs. Echard & Landon will begin work as soon as they can get the machinery and material together and they will push it to completion as rapidly as possible.

This will be the first road built in Garrett county under the Shoemaker act. May it be but the beginning of many sections to be built under this act. The farmers of Garrett county need good roads and ought to have them. The Commissioners are to be congratulated on letting this contract, and to Messrs. Echard & Landon on landing the contract. May they secure other roads to build in this county.

Counties to Have Registration.

Another bill that failed of approval was Senator Hammond's bill postponing a general registration in the counties, which under State law must be held this year, until 1918. There has been no general registration in the counties since 1896. The Democrats have contended that a new registration was unnecessary and burdensome to the voters and that the revision of the lists was all that was necessary. The Republicans have claimed that many names were on the lists that should not be there. At any rate, the Legislatures have been postponing the new registration from time to time. They could have passed this bill over the Governor's veto had it been put through earlier in the session. The effect of the veto is that there will be entirely new registration in the counties this year.

CELEBRATED GOLDEN WEDDING

Former Senator and Mrs. R. T. Browning Married Fifty Years.

On Friday last, April 17th, former Senator and Mrs. Richard T. Browning with a number of their children and grand-children celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of tneir marriage at their home, "Lake Brown," near Oakland.

Mr. Browning is a son of Mr. William Browning and Elizabeth Ann Drane, a grandson of Meshack Browning, one of the pioneers of Western Maryland, and Mrs. Browning is a daughter of Mr. Jessie Twigg and Mary Ann Kemp, both of Cumberland, Maryland, where she was born and reared.

They were married in Cumberland April 17th, 1864, at St. Patrick's Catholic Church by Rev. Father Dolan, having therefore, completed over fifty years of wedded life.

The children of this remarkable couple are eight in number, viz: Mrs. R. K. Maroney, of Oakland; Mrs. P. J. Garrott, of Deer Park; Sister Maria Teresa, of Philadelphia, Pa.; Nellie, of Cleveland, O.; Richard S., of Spokane, Wash., Margaret, of Lake Brown; Mrs. N. R. Sanner, of Oakland, and Getty, of Denton, Md.

At the time of their marriage Mr. Browning was serving in the Union Army in Gen. Crook's Brigade of the Army of the Potomac, and a few days later was again ordered to the front to take part in the Shenandooh Valley Campaign. He was severely wounded at the battle of Lynchburg, Va., June 18, 1864.

The Union troops being here repulsed, a retreat was ordered and he was carried back over the mountains of West Virginia to the headwaters of the Kanawha River and from there to Gallipolis, Ohio, where he was placed in a hospital for treatment, remaining there until the following October when he rejoined his regiment at Cumberland.

Mr. Browning was promoted along the line and was serving as 2nd Lieut. when discharged at Camp Bradford, Baltimore, May 29, 1865. After the war he returned to his home in Cumberland, later moving to Garrett county, where he has since resided.

Mr. Browning has held many important positions in his native county and took a leading part in its formation in 1872, it being due almost entirely to his efforts that Oakland was made the county seat.

In 1877 he was elected to the Legislature and the Senate in 1886 and 1888.

Mr. and Mrs. Browning are probably as widely known as any persons in this section of the State, respected by all who know them for their charitable and upright lives.

It was impossible for all the children to be present, those attending being Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Garrett, Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Sanner, Miss Margaret, Getty and a number of the grand-children.

At noon a delightful repast was served, including all the delicacies of the season, to which all did ample justice. An immense wedding cake, beautifully decorated in gold, graced the table, the yellow color scheme being carried out in all the decorations, which were roses, carnations, and potted plants. Many messages of congratulations and tokens of rememberances were received by the happy couple and the day pleasantly closed by reminiscenses of years gone by.

A GOLDEN WEDDING SONG.

The links of fifty golden years,
Reach to the golden ring;
Which now with glad and grateful tears
We celebrate and sing.
O chain of love! O ring of gold!
That have the years defied;
And still in happy bondage hold
The old man and his bride.

The locks are white that once were black
The sight is feebler grown;
But through the long and weary track,
The heart has held its own.
O chain of love! O ring of gold!
That time could not divide;
That kept through changes manifold
The old man and his bride.

The little ones have come and gone;
The old have passed away;
But love immortal love lives on,
A blossom mid decay.
O chain of love! O ring of gold!
That have the years defied,
And still with glowing strength enfold
The old man and his bride.

The golden bridal; ah! how sweet
The music of its bell,
To those whose hearts the vows repeat
Their lives have kept so well.
O chain of love! O ring ot gold!
O marriage true and tried;
That bind with tenderness untold,
The old man and his bride.

A FRIEND.

A neat iron fence and gates in front of the Oakland cemetery will be something nice and appropriate and greatly to the credit of this city. To help complete this fence is a duty every person in this city owes to the Civic Club who are so nobly striving to do this work. When completed we will all feel proud of the improved appearance of the "City of the Dead." Do your duty in this respect today.

Last Saturday was a delightful day and everybody and their children were in Oakland, to the delight of our merchants. Among the many here we quote: Fred Stahl, Sunnyside; Lem Reed, Hauser; Mrs. Lashorn and Joseph Friend and son, Deer Park; George O'Brien, wife and daughter, North Glade; James Aronhalt, near Table Rock; Cyrus Stark, near Bittinger; Uncle Muns Jamison, Crellin; A. R. Bernard and two sons, Swanton.

The citizens of Oakland heard with great regret last week of the illness of Mr. D. E. Offutt, one of our oldest and most successful citizens. Daily anxious inquiry was made as to his condition, not only by the citizens of Oakland, but by many persons from all parts of Garrett county, for Mr. Offutt has a large acquaintance throughout the county and in West Virginia as well. He is one of the pioneer merchants of this Western county and by the strict attention to business has built up a large trade in all the surrounding country. He is one of Oakland's most progressive business men.

SENATE DELAYS ACTION

Mexican Program Is Held Up

WILSON EMBARRASSED

Wording of Resolution Does Not Meet With Approval

HOUSE FAVORS CHIEF'S ACTION

Lower House of Congress Passes Resolution, 337 to 37

Washington, April 21.—The president's plans for the immediate blockading and seizure of Mexican gulf ports have been held up and the Washington administration is greatly embarrassed because of the opposition in congress to the resolution in support of the president's program.

While the house was wrangling over the resolution in support of the president the senate committee on foreign relations was having an equally inharmonious meeting behind closed doors. In fact at the first meeting of the committee which lasted two hours it was practically determined to amend the resolution as drafted and reported to the house.

Every member of the committee drew a draft of a resolution himself and in each case it was said the name of Huerta was eliminated and the resolution was made broader so as to refer to the Mexican federalists.

Members of the committee said that in the original resolution President Wilson had singled Huerta out as an individual. They said that Huerta as an individual had done everything in his power to make amends.

But now it was proposed to make Huerta, as an individual, undertake to do something which he could only do as the representative of a government of some kind in Mexico.

It was after midnight when the senate adjourned without action on the resolution. The opposition seemed so stubborn that there was likelihood that advantage might be taken of the senate rules to defer final action until tomorrow.

The house of representatives after a long wrangle passed the resolution justifying the course of the president in the present contingency.

The vote was: Ayes, 337; noes, 37; present, 3.

Five members of the president's own party voted against the resolution. They were George, New York; Stephens, Witherspoon and Sisson of Mississippi, and Kindel of Colorado.

Twenty-nine of the 128 Republicans in the house opposed the resolution.

Three of the eighteen Progressives voted against the president.

Dissatisfaction of Republicans with President Wilson's message found expression upon the presentation to the house of this resolution:

"Resolved by senate and house of representatives in congress assembled that the president of the United States is justified in the employment of the armed forces of the United States of America to enforce demands made upon Victoriano Huerta for unequivocal amends to the government of the United States for affronts and indignities committed against this government by General Huerta and his representatives."

Earlier Senator Chamberlain introduced a bill placing $50,000,000 immediately at the disposal of President Wilson for emergency use.

The resolution sustaining the president was presented by Representative Flood.

Republicans on the committee of foreign affairs lost no time in indicating that the use of the word "justified" in the resolution was objectionable. They said it might be interpreted as an indorsement by congress of the whole policy of Mexico. They were outvoted by their Democratic colleagues. The committee adopted the resolution, 19 to 2. The negative votes were cast by Bartholdt of Missouri and Ainey of Pennsylvania, Republicans.

Mr. Bartholdt, who is an advocate of peace, said he opposed the resolution because in his opinion it would plunge the country into war. Mr Ainey declared that he could not bring himself to support the measure because he could not see that it would tend to restore peace in the southern republic.

The fight was then transferred to the floor of the house. Every seat in the house was occupied when Chairman Flood arose to report the resolution. The situation was tense and there was every indication that a spirited fight was brewing.

Republican Leader Mann arose and inquired: "What proposition do you propose to make for debate on this measure?"

Before Chairman Flood could reply Leader Underwood jumped to his feet and took command of the administration forces. "It is the desire of the Democratic side," he said, "to put this resolution through as speedily as possible in order that it may become a law tonight."

Mr. Mann suggested four hours' debate to be equally divided.

"I would not insist upon the immediate passage of this resolution were it not for the fact that the president has said that it is of the utmost importance to the nation that it should go through at once."

Mr. Mann maintained his attitude of resistance, encouraged by Republican applause.

"If the president comes to us asking for advice that is one thing," returned Mr. Mann. "If he comes to tell us what we should do that is something else."

It was decided there should be one hour and a half for each side.

As Representative Mann took the floor the house grew silent, for he was to make the principal speech against the president's position. Beginning with deliberation he said:

"If the incidents mentioned by the president in his message had occurred in England or Germany or France or any great nation of the world no resolution like this would now be pending. Because Mexico is weak we think we have the right to declare war against her in the hope that such success would be easily accomplished.

"Cause for war?" Mr. Mann continued. "Why the United States like every other civilized nation ought not to go to war simply because it does not like a man. I fear that the personal resentment of the president is largely a sentiment due to the fact that Mr. Huerta has not bowed down to his methods.

"Mr. Chairman, I am unwilling to declare war against Huerta simply because President Wilson does not like him."

The speaker was interrupted with hostile demonstrations from the Democratic side with the galleries joining in the groans and hisses. Speaker Clark was obliged to demand order.

Great applause greeted Majority Leader Underwood as he took the floor at the conclusion of Mr. Mann's remarks. The galleries joined in the handclapping and cheers that continued for some time.

"This resolution may mean war," said Mr. Underwood in measured tones. "It may mean peace. Let us hope that the ultimate result that will be achieved by the passage of this resolution will be peace and good order in the republic of Mexico and the establishment of friendly relations between our two republics.

"Our flag has been dishonored in a foreign land. The president of the United States comes here. He has not asked you to declare war, but asks you to sustain him in requiring a decent respect for your flag and an honorable consideration for the rights of your government."

THE CHURCH TO BE A ROYAL DIADEM

The Church Is Jehovah's Peculiar Treasure.

Divine Purpose In Calling the Church "A Peculiar People"—"Not Many Rich"—"Not Many Learned"—"Not Many Noble"—"Chiefly the Poor of This World"—"Rich In Faith"—Heart Condition the Basis of Selection. Cutting, Polishing, Mounting the Jewels—God's Workmanship to Be Manifested—Lessons to Angels and Men.

April 19.—Pastor Russell's discourse today was based on the text: "Thou shalt also be a crown of glory in the hand of the Lord, and a royal diadem in the hand of thy God." —Isaiah 62:3.

The Pastor introduced his discourse with the statement that the call of the Gospel Age is separate and apart from the salvation provided for the world in the next Age. During the Gospel Age God has been gathering out of the world a class which He declares shall be a royal diadem—not on His head, as if an added glory, but in His hand, representative of power. By manifesting what He has done with the Church, Jehovah will show forth His own praises, in that He will reveal features of His character never before exhibited.

The permission of sin, the Pastor maintained, has given opportunity for God to develop His great Plan for the eradication of evil. The Almighty could easily have prevented Satan from bringing sin into the Universe, but He foresaw the glorious result which He will eventually accomplish through the permission of evil. Therefore He did not interfere when Satan tempted our first parents, but permitted all mankind to be born in an imperfect and sinful condition.

Then the Pastor showed how Adam's disobedience brought death into the world. He next explained how Jesus' death guarantees the cancellation of Adam's penalty, and the establishment of the Messianic Kingdom for the recovery of the race from sin and death. To assist the Redeemer in the great work of human uplift, he asserted, God purposed to select from amongst mankind a Church class. So a call went forth for those who would separate themselves from the world, take up their cross and follow Jesus.

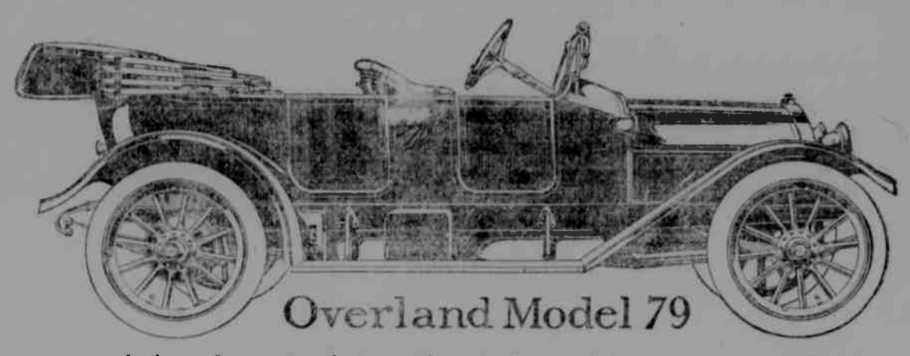
"Zealous of Good Works."

For nearly nineteen centuries, the Pastor declared, God has been gathering this people from various nations. As the Apostle tells us, these are "a peculiar people, zealous of good works." These good works, the speaker claimed, are not the building of hospitals, asylums, schools, etc., but the same kind of good works in which our Lord engaged at His First Advent. The Scriptures assert that Jesus "went about doing good." In line with this is the Apostle's injunction, "Do good unto all men, especially to the House-hold of Faith."

Pastor Russell then pointed out the qualifications which constitute the basis of selection. God desires those whose hearts are right. Here the speaker digressed a little to explain that this does not mean that the non-elect are to be thrown to devils and roasted to all eternity. God is not premeditating evil against even those who are His enemies through wicked works, but is merely calling a class to assist the Redeemer in recovering mankind from sin and death conditions.

According to the Scriptures, the Pastor declared, God is not now choosing many rich, learned and noble, to constitute the Church class. The rich have plenty to satisfy their hearts, and therefore do not feel their need. The intellectual rather look down upon the average of humanity as not knowing any better than to believe the story of man's fall and other Bible stories. He deplored the fact that the world in what they think is wisdom ignore God's Word, in which His Plan for man's recovery from degradation, sin and death is closely connected with the fall of man and the redemption effected by Jesus' death on Calvary. Whoever omits this part of the Bible loses the connecting link, and cannot perceive God's Plan of salvation.

The Bible says that not many noble are called. The speaker showed that the noble-minded know that they are morally above the average, and therefore have a self-satisfied feeling which prevents their realizing their need of a Savior.



"Ye Are His Workmanship."

The Pastor next discussed the class whom God has accepted and forgiven through Jesus' blood. As the transforming work of the Holy Spirit goes on in their hearts, they become noble characters. Nobility of heart is what God desires—loyalty to Him, to righteousness, to truth, to the brethren.

The speaker likened the Lord's work in this class to that of the lapidary. As a diamond properly cut will radiate the glories of the sunshine, so God's jewels, when cut and polished, will show forth His praises. In the First Resurrection these jewels will be mounted in the gold of the Divine nature and placed in God's diadem.

OPTOMETRIST

IS Your Child Handicapped in his or her physical and mental development by defective vision? Out of 100,000 school children examined in New York city, nearly 30 per cent were found to be in need of glasses. In Boston the percentage was found to be slightly over 20 per cent., and most of these children were down on the books as "stupid," "stubborn" or unruly. In Philadelphia 354 children were discovered who could not read ordinary writing on a blackboard at a distance of twenty feet. You should make sure by a thorough examination at the hands of a competent optometrist. That your child is not among this vast army of little citizens who suffer from defective eyesight, delays often result seriously. My examinations are made by the most scientific accurate methods. If it is found that glasses are not required you will be told so frankly and no charge made for the examination.

LOCAL LAWS.

AN ACT for the better protection of fish in certain streams in Garrett county.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to kill, take or catch in any manner whatever any brook trout or other trout from or in any of the streams of said Garrett county, which have been stocked with brook or other trout, or which have had said fish placed therein by the State Fish Hatchery, for the period of two years from the first day of April, 1914.

Section 2. And be it further enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons who are non residents of the State of Maryland to take, catch or kill in any manner whatsoever any fish in any of the streams of the said Garrett county, without first having applied to the Clerk of the Circuit Court of said Garrett county and procured a license so to do and paying therefor the sum of five dollars, which said license shall be good and valid for one year from the date thereof.

Section 3. And be it further enacted that any person or persons violating any of the provisions of the two preceding sections shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof before any Justice of the Peace of said Garrett county, or in any Circuit Court thereof, shall be fined not less than five dollars nor more than fifty dollars for each offense, and shall stand committed to the county jail until said fine is paid, one-half of said fine or fines to go to the informer or informers upon whose evidence the conviction is obtained.

Section 4. And be it further enacted that all money arising from the license aforesaid and all fines, after paying the amount aforesaid to the informer or informers, shall be paid to the School Board of Garrett county for the use of the public schools.

Section 5. And be it further enacted, That said Act shall take effect from the first day of April, 1914.

AN ACT to add two new Sections to Article 27 of the Code of Public General Laws of 1904 to follow Section 57 under the new sub-title "Cigarettes" to be designated as Sections 57 A and 57 B.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That two new Sections be and the same are hereby added to Article 27 of the Code of Public General Laws, titled "Crime and Punishments," under the new sub title "Cigarettes," to follow Sections ... to be designated as Sections ... A and ... B, and to read as follows:

... A. Any person who shall furnish to any minor, by gift, sale or otherwise, any cigarette or cigarette paper, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than fifty dollars for the first offense, and for each subsequent offense shall be liable for a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than three hundred dollars and to undergo an imprisonment in the jail of the county for a period of not less than thirty days nor more than six months, and on failure to pay the fine and costs of prosecution, shall be required to work the same out on the public roads.

B. Any minor being in possession of a cigarette or cigarette paper and being by any police officer, constable, juvenile court officer, truant officer or teacher in any school asked where and from whom such cigarette or cigarette paper was obtained, who shall refuse to furnish such information, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof before any ... of the peace be sentenced to pay a fine not less than five dollars nor more than ten dollars, and on failure to pay the fine and costs of prosecution, shall be confined in the jail of the county for a period of not less than ten days or more than thirty days.

This Act shall not apply to any of the counties of the State or the City of Baltimore, but only to Garrett county.

Sec. ... All Acts or parts of Acts inconsistent with this Act are hereby repealed, and this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

AN ACT to prohibit any minister of the Gospel or other person, in Garrett County, who is now or may hereafter be authorized under the laws of Maryland to perform the marriage ceremony, to give, directly or indirectly, any fee as an inducement to any person to bring the persons contemplating marriage to him to perform the marriage ceremony.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That it shall be unlawful for any minister of the Gospel, or other person, in Garrett County, who under the laws of the State of Maryland is now, or may hereafter be authorized to perform the marriage ceremony, to give, either directly or in directly, or offer to give any money, present or reward, to any hotel or railroad

A failure on the part of persons now engaged in business to renew their license by the first day of May next will subject them to a fine.

Be Careful in Using an Incubator

Follow Directions and Watch Your Little Chickens Closely.

ROY H. WAITE.
Maryland Agricultural Experimant Station.

Start your incubator and regulate it. Even if it is an old one you ran last year, you should run it several days before putting in any eggs. Follow the directions given by the manufacturer. If you had confidence enough to buy his machine, you ought to have confidence that he knows now to run it. Do as you are advised until such a time as you know more about the machine than he does. Then it's about time for you to change makes.

Run your incubator in a room where the temperature is as even as possible, for while a regulator can take care of a considerable change in room temperature, it has its limits. An ordinary room in a house is rather changeable, but success can be had if careful attention is paid to its operation. The room will be colder in the day than at night time and hence a slightly larger flame will be required to keep up the temperature. A clean cellar is an ideal place.

When you move your "wooden hen babies" to their brooder, watch them closely. They will want to keep warm and will crowd against each other in a corner until some are smothered. Prevent them, by all means, from taking this way of keeping warm, for once they start doing it they never seem to learn better. When you put the chicks in the brooder, keep close watch on them for a couple of hours and teach them the proper place to go when they are cold. They will soon get the habit of using the hover and will give you little trouble afterward.

STATE GRANGE PLANS FOR A PERMANENT HOME

Maryland Farmers' Organization Will Erect Building As Memorial To Founder.

The Maryland State Grange is preparing to erect a $15,000 State Home adjoining the property of the Agricultural College at College Park as a memorial to O. H. Kelley, founder of the National Order. This will provide a hall in which the State Grange may hold its regular and special meetings and will house the property and records of the organization. Visiting grangers will also be entertained in rooms set apart for their use.

This building will be used as a meeting place for the members of a Grange largely made up of students at the Agricultural College and will provide them with a training school in the forming of farmers' organizations while they are being educated in better methods of farming and home making. About thirty students from Grange districts will find lodgings in this home, the scholarships for these lodgings being at the disposal of such of the county granges as contribute $500 to the erection of the building.

No greater opportunity has ever been offered the organized farmers of any State in bringing them in closer touch with the interests and management of their Agricultural College and in making it do the work required of them. It is hoped that by this means the principles of Grange organization which have been found helpful in many neighborhoods may be extended to all sections of the State.

FEEDING POTATOES FOR AN EARLY CROP

Potatoes Properly Fertilized Mature Earlier and Are More Profitable.

T. H. WHITE
Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station.

Potatoes should follow some heavily manured crop, so that fresh manure need not be used since it will be likely to cause potato scab. Land in heavy sod should not be used for potatoes unless plowed the fall before and well rotted. If the land has been properly taken care of as above, the application of commercial fertilizer is all that is needed to get an early crop, weather conditions being favorable.

A fertilizer with 7 to 9 per cent. of phosphoric acid, 3 to 4 per cent. nitrogen, and 4 to 5 per cent. potash gives good results. A good mixture for early potatoes is as follows:

Dissolved Phosphate Rock, 1,000 lbs.
Dried Blood, 600 lbs.
Nitrate of Soda, 200 lbs.
Sulphate of Potash, 200 lbs.

This mixture should be applied broadcast at the rate of 1,500 pounds per acre and be well mixed into the soil with a harrow or cultivator.

If you wish to hasten the growth of the young plants, one hundred pounds each of nitrate of soda and dissolved rock per acre should be scattered in the row when the potato is planted. The above mixture provides for plenty of available phosphoric acid which is needed to make the plant get its growth in a short time. Early maturity is important, not only on account of being able to get the crop to market as soon as possible but also because some of the early varieties will not stand the moisture and heat of the early summer.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson IV.—Second Quarter, For April 26, 1914.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Luke xv, 1-10. Memory Verses, 8-10—Golden Text, Luke xv, 10—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

There was something in His teaching which reached the hearts of these publicans and sinners who were so despised by the self righteous Pharisees. He was full of grace and truth; they knew the truth that they were sinners and they needed the grace that was in Him. He taught as one having authority and not as the scribes; never man spake like this man (Matt. vii. 29; John viii. 46). That which the Pharisees sneeringly said of Him, "This man receiveth sinners and eateth with them," was, and still is, gloriously true. He is still saying, "If any man hear my voice and open the door I will come in to him and will sup with him and he with Me" (Rev. iii. 20).

The word here translated "receiveth" is generally translated "waiting or looking for." Weymouth's rendering is, "He gives a welcome to notorious sinners." Not only does He receive sinners when they come to Him (John vi. 37), but He is on the lookout for them. He came to seek and to save that which was lost (Luke xix. 10). If we are truly His disciples, as in the last lesson, we, too, will seek in all the world the lost ones whom He ... to save the "whosoevers" who will make up His body, the church.

Their murmuring led Him to speak the threefold parable of the lost sheep, the lost coin and the lost son, in which we see the love of the Son as the shepherd, the love of the Spirit and the love of the Father. The love of God is the greatest topic in all the Bible and was specially manifest in His giving His only Son for us that we might not perish, as it is written, "In this was manifested the love of God toward us, because that God sent His only begotten Son into the world that we might live through Him." "Hereby perceive we the love of God because He laid down His life for us" (I John iii. 16; iv. 9). The story of the shepherd and the lost sheep is found also in Matt. xviii. 11-14, and the record of the Good Shepherd is found most fully in John x., where He not only cares for the sheep, but gives His life for them. In our lesson He is seen seeking till He finds; laying it on His shoulders, rejoicing, bringing it safely home and calling others to rejoice with Him.

In Heb. xiii. 20, 21, He is the Great Shepherd who, having found and saved, works in us that which is well pleasing in His sight. In I Pet. v. 1-4, He is the Chief shepherd rewarding His own for faithful service. Thus we have again the threefold aspect of our relation to Him as in last lesson—saved, serving, waiting for Him. I have often been glad that when He finds His sheep He brings it home; He does not drop it by the way. And what a place it is to be on His shoulders, us and our burdens, too (Deut. xxxiii. 12; Isa. ix. 6, 7). There must be more significance than we have ever seen in these words, "The Lord is my shepherd," and if we fully believed we could not but rejoice (I Pet. i. 8).

Woman is a type of the church, both true and false, but here she represents the true church in the power of the Holy Spirit seeking diligently that which is lost. The sheep set before us one phase of the condition of the lost, as when we read, "I have gone astray like a lost sheep," "All we like sheep have gone astray" (Ps. cxix. 176; Isa. liii. 6). The piece of silver may suggest the indifference of the lost, as when we read of being dead in trespasses and sins (Eph. ii. 1). In both cases the Lord is the seeker, as He has always been ever since He sought Adam in the garden of Eden, after he had sinned, saying, "Where art thou?" (Gen. iii. 9.) He does not merely call us to come, but knowing that we are as helpless as Mephibosheth, who was lame in both feet, He sends and fetches us into His presence and by His great love causes us to fall on our faces in true penitence, then gives us all (II Sam. ix. 3, 5, 6, 7, 13).

Like the good Samaritan, He finds us helpless and wounded and tenderly cares for us and puts us in His place and brings us to a place of rest and continues to care for us (Luke x. 33-35). Like Paul in the case of Onesimus, He says to His Father concerning the sinner, "Receive him as Myself; if he hath wronged thee or oweth thee aught, put that on mine account" (Phil. xvii. 18). "God commendeth His love toward us in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us" (Rom. v. 8).

In the story of both the sheep and the piece of money, note the conclusion, "Joy in heaven. • • • Joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth" (verses 7, 10). Does it not seem that if we really believed that we who are saved would have a greater desire to have others know and share the great salvation? How much of the spirit of Christ have we if we have not His heart of compassion for the lost? He became poor for us and suffered in our stead for our sins. How are we proving that we are His disciples? "He that winneth souls is wise." "They that turn many to righteousness shall shine as the stars forever and ever." It was Paul's ambition "by all means to save some" (Prov. xi. 30; Dan. xii. 3; I Cor. ix. 22). What does the Lord see in our hearts in this matter?

GET YOUR LIVING FROM THE GARDEN

More Valuable Than a Dozen Fields Of Corn In Feeding the Farmer's Family.

T. H. WHITE.
Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station.

Are you planning your garden? If not, get right to work. Have a better garden this year than you did last season. Plan the rows as straight and long as possible so as to admit of horse cultivation. See that there is nothing in the garden but vegetables. Don't have it half orchard and half garden. Even gooseberry or currant bushes should be planted in a long row on one side of the garden so as not to interfere with the vegetable rows.

Arrange your garden so that a succession of vegetables may be had the year round. Get all the early crops like peas, onions, beets, and parsnips that need to be planted in March or early April into one section of the garden, so that as they are removed the same piece of ground may be used for such crops as late turnips, spinach and kale later on.

Any planting that is of a permanent character, such as rhubarb or asparagus should be in rows on one side of the garden and running its full length. Do not set such plants in beds or patches that will interfere with the plowing and fitting of the balance of the plot.

If the garden was not manured and plowed in the fall, lose no time, but get some manure prepared for immediate application. Commercial fertilizers may be used, but the best material is rotted stable manure in liberal quantity. Tender well-flavored vegetables must be grown rapidly and the barnyard manures contain just the elements needed to sustain their growth. Bone meal and nitrate of soda may also be used to help out with the barnyard manure.

The root crops should not be grown where freshly applied manure has been used as such an application tends to make such crops as parsnips and salsify grow forked and prongy. It is also likely to foster scab fungus, so that potatoes planted in newly manured land are often rough and scabby. Such root crops should be planted on ground that was manured the season before. All other vegetables, however, will do well with liberal manuring.

If you have left your plowing until spring, you should get it done as early as possible. The part of the garden you wish to use for early plantings should be harrowed and pulverized shortly afterward. The part to be used for later plantings should not be harrowed finely or it will become full of weeds. This part of the garden will need to be replowed or deeply harrowed from time to time, so that it will keep its moisture and become mellow and fine for later plantings.

Write for a good garden plan to the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station at College Park. Any questions you may have about your garden will be gladly received and answered free of charge.

TIMELY PRUNING PAYS.

The best time to prune your peach trees is early in the spring when the danger from heavy freezing weather is past. Then if any fruit buds are winter killed, less pruning can be done in order to save as many live buds as possible.

This pruning should be done every year, especial care being needed in the first few years after planting. Pruning at the right time and in the right way as shown in the above illustration of a newly-planted tree, taken from Bulletin No 159 of the Maryland Experiment Station insures strong stocky trees and an abundance of new growth on which the next peach crop will be borne. Every peach grower should have this free bulletin as a guide to handling his orchard profitably.

The farmers of our country need the help of scientific agriculture and the colleges are in a position to meet this need.

The people will secure from any institution or enterprise in the long run in proportion as they put money and effort into it.

The development of agricultural institutions is one of the striking movements of the times, and is absolutely essential to the progress of any commonwealth.

Probably fifty per cent. of the youth of our land have a natural bent for country life. They have a right to school training in the sciences that relate to agriculture.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

MERINGUE PUDDINGS.

THE dainty finishing on meringue puddings makes them most attractive looking desserts.

Quince Meringue Pudding.—Make puff paste, roll it into a sheet and cut out an eighth inch square; then cut eight strips three-quarters of an inch wide and ten inches long. Bake square and strips separately. Spread strips lightly with quince honey, lay on the square, letting the ends cross, log cabin fashion, and cover the bottom of the square with quince preserve. Then sprinkle well with finely chopped nuts. Beat the whites of five eggs until very stiff, add half a cupful of sugar, one teaspoonful of lemon extract and pile irregularly into the paste shell. Bake in a moderate oven until firm to the touch.

A Wholesome Dessert.

Cocoa Meringue Pudding.—Put one cupful of milk in the upper part of the double boiler and heat. Mix two tablespoonfuls of flour and four teaspoonfuls of cocoa together and soften with a little cold milk. Mix until free from lumps. When the milk is hot add the flour and cook, stirring often, about ten minutes. Beat the yolks of two eggs lightly, add two tablespoonfuls of sugar and a pinch of salt and mix well. Stir this with the other mixture and cook about two minutes. Remove from stove and add vanilla to flavor. Frost with the whites of two eggs.

A Layer Pudding.

Orange Meringue Pudding.—Scald three cupfuls of milk in a double boiler; wet two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch with a cupful of cold milk; stir it into the boiling milk and when thick and smooth cover and cook for ten minutes; add one teaspoonful of butter and a pinch of salt. Take from the fire, let stand for five minutes and then add the yolks of three eggs, beaten with one-half cupful of sugar. Peel and slice half a dozen oranges, removing the seeds. In a baking dish put the fruit and custard in alternate layers, a layer of the custard at the top, and bake for twenty minutes in a hot oven. Whip the whites of the three eggs to a soft froth, add three tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar and one teaspoonful of grated orange rind and whip until very stiff. Heap this over the pudding, dust thickly with powdered sugar and return to the oven to brown. Set away to cool and serve with whipped cream.

SUPPER MENU.
Creamed Oysters on Toast.
Tea Chocolate
Fancy Bonbons.

OYSTERS are a valuable addition to the supper or luncheon bill of fare. Some delicious ways of preparing them are as follows:

Made With White Sauce.

Oyster Patties.—Make shells of a very rich paste or buy them from the confectioner and fill with oysters prepared in the following way: Make a white sauce by bringing half a pint of cream or rich milk to the boil and thickening with a tablespoonful of flour made smooth with butter and cold milk. Season with salt, paprika, lemon juice and a bit of powdered mace or grated nutmeg. Beat in an egg, add oysters which have meanwhile come to a boil in their own liquor and been drained. Fill patty shells and serve.

For Supper or Luncheon.

Broiled Oysters on Toast.—Drain three dozen large oysters and wipe dry with a cloth. Season with salt and pepper and fry in butter. Take out, arrange on a buttered oyster broiler and broil brown on both sides. Arrange the oysters on thin slices of toast, pour on the hot butter, garnish with lemon and parsley and serve.

Creamed Oysters on Toast.—Melt one tablespoonful of butter, add two teaspoonfuls of flour, and when smooth add one cupful of cream. Season with salt and pepper. Toast four slices of bread and lay them on a platter. Roast twenty-five oysters in the shells in the oven till the shells open. Take out the oysters and pour the liquor over the toast, then add the oysters and pour the cream over all, taking care to have the cream hot.

Cooked In the Oven.

Poached Oysters In the Shell.—Place the oysters on half shell or in scallop shells. Arrange them in a large baking pan in such a way that none of the liquor can spill out. Pour over each oyster half a teaspoonful of dressing made as follows: Mix together one tablespoonful of lemon juice, half a teaspoonful of grated horseradish, three tablespoonfuls tomato ketchup, half a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce and pepper and salt to taste. Have the oven very hot and place the pan on the grating of the oven and cook until the edges of the oysters are nicely curled. Serve immediately, garnished with lemon quarters and crisp cress.

THE DEATH RECORD

WILLIAM HENRY SAVAGE

William Henry Savage was born at Barrellsville, Md., Jan. 1st, 1869, and died in the Miner's Hospital, Fairmont, W. Va., April 12, 1914, aged 45 years, 3 months and 12 days.

Funeral services were held at his late home in Kanes Creek, April 14th, and interment was made in the Kingwood Cemetery. He leaves a wife, two children, a father, four brothers and four sisters. The deceased was held in high estem by all who knew him and wheresoever he had lived always had a host of friends. The following lines express the feelings of his family:

A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home,
Which never can be filled.
God in his wisdom has recalled,
The boon his love had given;
And though his body slumbers here,
His soul is safe in Heaven.

G. W. S.

BABY ROSS.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Ross, of Oakland, died Tuesday afternoon about five o'clock. The child was born on the 13th inst. Its death is a sad blow to the loving parents to whom the sympathy of the community is extended.

JOHN L. FITZWATER

At his home farm, North Glade, the venerable ex-Judge Fitzwater departed this life Tuesday night, after a long illness, aged 74 years. The Judge was a useful, honorable citizen of Garrett county and was greatly beloved by all who knew him. In his home life, in the church and in the community in which he lived he was known for many excellent qualities. The death of such a man is a great loss to any community. His home was a cheerful, hospital place. A kind, loving husband, an affectionate father, an obliging neighbor and a good citizen is no more in this life, but has become a citizen of that clime where death, sorrow, sickness and parting is known no more. He is at rest from all his sufferings. In this hour of great bereavement his family have the deepest sympathy of the entire community. He is survived by his widow, four sons and three daughters. The funeral it is thought will take place Friday and the interment be made in the North Glade cemetery. R

OLD WEST FAST DISAPPEARING.

The Indians and The Buffalo are Almost Extinct.

The American Indian will soon exist only in History. His extermination has been gradual, but will be sure. He has gradually been driven from his happy home in the east to a few barren reservations in the west, where by amalgamation, dissipation or separation he is fast becoming extinct.

The Redskin has always been one of the most picturesque as well as cunning of the races. He is quick of perception, fleet of foot, loyal to a friend and unyielding to an enemy. There are many other things that make the Indian interesting to people who know very little about them or their habits. Even at this advanced period there are many people in America who have never seen an Indian The Buffalo, from which the Indian secured almost all of his supplies, is also nearly extinct. Once the vast herds had almost undisputed title to and possession of as many thousands of miles as the Indians had to their hunting grounds. Countless millions of these monarchs of the plains roamed over the west, but today they can be counted by some few hundreds.

With KIT CARSON'S BUFFALO RANCH BIG THREE-RING WILD WEST CIRCUS there are some of the most noted of the different tribes of Indians as well as the largest herd and most magnificent specimens of Buffalo in existence to day. The American Bison is now one of the rarest and most expensive of animals and it will pay you to visit this world famous attraction if for nothing but to see the last of the Buffalo.

Will exhibit one day only, afternoon and night, at Oakland on Tuesday, May 5th. Advertisement.

CRELLIN.

The farmers of this vicinity are all very busy preparing for their spring work.

Mr. Henry Sisler, of near Terra Alta, was the guest of Mr. W. G. Meyers recently.

Mr. L. J. Fairchilds, Albert Markley and Minters Schoch, of Crellin, went to Oakland on last Thursday to inspect the W. O. W. monument erected at the grave of Morgan J. Fairchilds by the local W. O. W. lodge. These three gentlemen acted as a committee of inspection who pronounced the work first-class in every respect. Mr. J. C. Forman, as agent for the marble company furnishing the monument, superintended the erection of the stone, which will be publicly unveiled by Oak Camp No. 11, W. O. W., of Crellin, on May 24th. Everybody invited to attend the ceremony. Particulars as to the hour and program will be published in these columns in a latter issue.

Mr. G. C. Smith of Philippi, W. Va., was the guest of Mr. J. C. Forman several days recently.

Arthur Warnick and wife were the guests of E. W. Adams and family Sunday last.

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 39. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, APRIL 30, 1914. NUMBER 9.

THE LATE JOHN L. FITZWATER.

A Tribute To His Memory By a Friend Of Years.

Died, at his residence on North Glade, Garrett county, Md., at one o'clock Wednesday morning, April 22nd, 1914, ex-Judge of the Orphans' Court John Lower Fitzwater, aged seventy-four years, one month and twelve days. It is life closed not far from the spot of his birth March the 10th, 1840.

In early manhood he united with the Methodist Episcopal church and continued a sincere, zealous and influential member of that faith until life ended. During his long period of membership he filled numerous offices in the government of the church and of its various tributaries, being for more than thirty years superintendent of its Sunday school.

Mr. Fitzwater was married September 14th, 1873, to Miss Hepzibah George, a daughter of the late Rev. William E. George of Deer Park, Maryland. Of the thirteen children from this union, six are dead, and seven, four sons and three daughters survive with the widow.

Mr. Fitzwater descended from a race honorable among the earliest settlers opening homes along the frontiers of mountains and glades before the hand of man had rescued them from the savagery of nature. Just where his father left off the subject of this mention took up his task and by judiciously directed energy and a sensible application cleared and extended fertile fields improved by substantial buildings until he was the possessor of one of the most desirable and productive stock farms of his county. Administrative capacities are apparent in a large and wisely selected orchard no less than in the sound judgment shown in the management of the farm in its many departments. Here he founded an ideal country home, where it was one of his greatest pleasures to dispense a warm hospitality to a large circle of friends attracted to him from many classes and stations in life, and more particularly was it the abiding place of ministers of all denominations conducting the services of the nearby churches.

In answer to a popular call from his fellow citizens of every party affiliation, he was elected to the office of Judge of the Orphans' Court and discharged those often perplexing duties with fidelity to their interest and credit to himself, relinquishing the public trust only when his health became too gravely menaced to admit of that thoroughness it was his custom to give.

Just as he was attaining the noon-day of a magnificent physical manhood, a pimple appeared over the cheek, slight and painless, it deepened and assumed a threatening color. Experiment followed experiment without eliminating its spread. In January, 1909, he went to New York for a consultation with Dr. William S. Bainbridge, known for his skill in this country and in Europe. The famous doctor told him frankly the case was hopeless, and while the end might be delayed it could not be averted. It was at this trying crisis that the unflinching courage and strong religious elements in the character of Mr. Fitzwater were most convincingly brought to view. To a wise ordaining he did not question submission, was made free from and murmer or complaint, and with a perfect confidence in a divine justice, he cheerfully faced what he knew was coming. From the time of the examination in New York he bravely fought a losing battle of more than five years duration. Thread after thread was so gently loosed from the fabric of life that he reached the border ground of the Master's Kingdom with so much ease as to cross the Great Divide, indeed, like falling on sleep. C. M. MILLER.

Garrett County Telephone Co May Sell Lines.

At a meeting of the Garrett County Telephone Company held at Friendsville last Saturday it was decided to transfer the line from Accident to Grantsville to Mr. Clarence V Guard, and the lines in the neighborhood of Avilton to the Mutual Telephone Company. Mr. Guard is putting his lines in good shape so as to afford his patrons the very best service possible. Garrett county is being well supplied with neighborhood lines.

TO BUILD TEN MILLION DOLLAR POWER PLANT

Preparing to Construct an Immense Plant at the Headwaters of the Youghiogheny River.

A project of vast magnitude, involving the expenditure of millions of dollars for the development of the water power of the Youghiogheny river and its tributaries in Garrett county, Maryland, which has engaged the tireless attention and well directed efforts of Mr. DeWarren H. Reynolds, of Cumberland for the past five years is rapidly emerging from the state of constructive development wherein the idea itself is conceived into an actual engineering possibility and materialization. There is now every likelihood that this great engineering feat with its attendant harnessing of forty thousand horsepower and transmission into electricity—no longer the dream of the promoter—will soon be undertaken and the physical advantages developed in accordance with existing plans, at a cost exceeding ten millions of dollars.

Enterprises of such magnificent proportions are not the creation of a mid-summer day dream, nor are the successive stages of development otherwise than fortuitous and burdened with obstacles. Five years have gone by since Mr. Reynolds first associated himself with a party of Eastern capitalists who enlisted the services of the eminent engineer and hydraulic expert, Col. John Bogart, to report on the feasibility and probable cost of the Youghiogheny power project. The report, following a personal survey by the distinguished engineer, who was first to harness Niagara Falls, and whose brain conceived and directed the wonderful power development on the St. Lawrence river, was such as to encourage the capitalists and to invite further procedure. The initial step, that of securing an enabling act was entrusted to Mr. Reynolds and he appeared before the General Assembly of 1910 with a bill authorizing the incorporation and charter of the Youghiogheny Power Company. After weeks of attendance upon the session at Annapolis, Mr. Reynolds' bill was passed, but it was vetoed by the late Austin L. Crothers, then Governor of Maryland, because its provisions conflicted with the rights and privileges of the newly created Public Service Commission of the State. Disappointed, of course, but not the least disheartened, Mr. Reynolds called into active play his try-try-again spirit and he went before the succeeding Legislature of 1912 with another bill of like tenor, which upon its passage after further weeks of residence in Annapolis, gave birth to the Youghiogheny Water and Electric Power Company and the Youghiogheny Power Company, kindred corporations, with the same object in view, the development of the water power of the Youghiogheny river in Garrett county, and each corporation clothed with ample authority and power, the charter vested with such liberal provisions as to invite prompt acceptance and action on the part of the capitalists interested in the proposition.

The company owned 10,000 acres adjacent to these acres are 70 acres neccessary to the development of the power company. This small area which had cost the purchaser a nominal sum was held at $50,000, an impossible price, hence the need of power to condemn the land.

In order to enlist foreign capital in the enterprise it was deemed advisable to obtain a further broadening of the provisions of the charters of the two companies by legislative enactment, hence Mr. Reynolds was again on the firing line at Annapolis at the recent session of the General Assembly. He secured what he desired as embodied in his bills and the Governor has attached his signature to the measures, though again it was necessary for Mr. Reynolds to make clear that certain objections lodged with the Governor were not tenable.

Now that the way has been paved through Mr. Reynolds in securing a charter that meets all requirements, it is understood that the total capitalization of the two companies, aggregrting $11,500,000, will be subscribed by Eastern and foreign financiers and the engineering preliminaries will speedily proceed. The completion of so vast an undertaking will add greatly to the commercial progress and importance of Western Maryland, and will be in a measure a monument to the man who fought the issue through at three successive sessions of the Legislature and is more active and aggressive today than he was at the outset for the creation of this great enterprise.

SOME BIG FAIR ATTRACTIONS.

Annual Exhibit of Agricultural Association to Be Very Attractive.

The second annual exhibit of The Agricultural Association of this and adjoining counties, to be held at Oakland, Sept. 30, Oct, 1 and 2, bids fair to be one of the best Fairs to be held in Maryland this year.

The management is now arranging for several free open air attractions, for the entertainment of our people, among which are aeroplane flights and possibly balloon ascensions.

The secretary has recently mailed to residents of the various sections of the county circular letters and blank applications for membership and a liberal response has been made already and new names are being added daily, with more to follow.

The ground and building used for the last exhibit have been secured for the coming Fair and additional sheds and buildings will be erected for the accommodation of live stock. New exhibition pens for the exhibition of poultry and our feathered friends have been purchased by the association and and the grounds will be leveled up and suitable walks laid so that all exhibits may be inspected without interference.

The management is beginning preparations several months ahead of last year and will endeavor to make the Garrett county Fair the best in the state. They expect to conduct a vigorous advertising campaign a month or two prior to the Fair and will spare no effort or means to make the exhibit creditable to Garrett and its sister counties of Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

The membership fee is only one dollar and admits you to the Fair at any and all times and as there will be no season tickets issued this is the cheaper and most convenient mode of admission. Upon reciept of your dollar the Secretary will issue you reciept card and button which will entitle you to all privileges. Let there be a liberal response to the call for membership so that the management will be able to carry out the plans in every particular. Send in your application blank and your dollar Do it now.

Henry Krug Leaves $300,000 to Masonic Homes.

Dr. S. N. Myers, treasurer of the grand lodge of Masons of West Virginia, is in receipt of a letter from Attorney Montgomery, of Chester, Pa., in which the attorney states that under provisions of the will of the late Henry Krug, of that city, the grand lodges of Masons of Pennsylvania and West Virginia, are made beneficiaries of the greater portion of his estate.

Mr. Krug was a member of the Masonic lodge at Sirtersville, and for a number of years was an oil operator in that section of the state. He amassed a fortune estimated at $500,000, which he disposed of in a will recently probated in Chester, Pa.

Under the terms of the will approximately $200,000 was bequeathed to various relatives and institutions, and the remainder of $300,000 was equally divided between the grand lodges of Pennsylvania and West Virginia, with the instructions that these bequests be invested for the benefit of the Masonic home of the two states.

For a number of years Mr. Krug was a heavy lumber operator at Krug, now Kendall, this county. The Company employed a large number of men and paid out many thousands of dollars in that vicinity. He was well and favorably known in this county as a progressive man and a good loyal friend. It was a pleasure to know and associate with him.

To Purchase Machinery.

Sunday morning W. E. Landon of Mountain Lake Park took B. & O. train No. 3 for Columbus, Ohio, to select and purchase the necessary machinery needed in the coustruction of the State road from Oakland to Gortner. The machinery will be shipped at as early a date as possible, and work on the new road begin in the first part of May. The firm will give employment to a large number of men, and will prefer to employ Garrett county men. Their advertisement for men and teams will appear shortly. Laboring men will be in great demand in Garrett county this summer.

Car Derailed.

This morning about two o'clock a car on a westbound freight train was derailed in front of the Offutt store and thrown from the roadbed toward the building. Fortunately the impetus of the car was checked before it struck the building, otherwise much damage would have resulted. The wrecked car was placed backed upon the rails by the rigger's car from Keyser.

THIS IS CLEANING UP WEEK.

Much Work Has Been Done and Much Yet To Do.

This is cleaning up week in Oakland. The Civic Club, the Mayor and town council and the press of this city have been urging the importance of every one getting busy at cleaning up. Much has been done and is being done. "So far so good," but the work is not complete until all the rubbish is gathered up and removed from the yards, from the alleys, from the gutters and from the streets. Use lime freely, spreading it here and there; white-washing all rough outbuildings, interior of chicken coops and back fences. Nature is doing its part to beautify our surroundings. Let everybody turn in and help the good cause on. Recognize this as a personal appeal for an Oakland beautiful. Let the next two days be busy days.

What Else Could You Expect?

The Lonaconing correspondent of the Cumberland News said last Friday:

"Yesterday morning Thomas E. Boston, with several assistants, drove through the streets of Lonaconing with one of the finest herds of three-year old cattle ever seen in this section. The cattle were collected from different farms in Garrett county and will be slaughtered and distributed to Mr. Boston's customers in Lonaconing."

Garrett county is headquarters for good things, such as buckwheat flour, maple sugar and syrup, honey, potatoes, the famous mountain mutton and the finest cattle.

Paradise is not far from Garrett county.

Getting Ready For The Fair.

The officers of the Fair Association are making preparations for a great fair this fall. Tuesday last Kahl & Son began work on a building for horses and stock. The building is 12 x 150, and is being erected along the creek bank. The farmers all over Garrett county should make special preparations to raise vegetables, grains and cattle for the next fair. Select a patch of ground, give it special preparation and care and bring the results to the fair and capture the prize. Do not forget to encourage the boys and girls to be prize winners. It will help them to be contented with farm life, as well as to make them successful farmers and farmers' wives. The success of the fair last fall should be an inducement to a more earnest effort for a greater fair this year. Let everybody be interested and do all they can.

DWELLING BURNED.

Home of George Herring Near Accident Destroyed Yesterday Morning.

The dwelling house on the Rev. James Beeghley farm, now occupied by Mr. George Herring, located near Accident, was completely destroyed by fire about two o'clock yesterday morning. The flames were communicated to the building from a keresene operated incubator in the cellar of the building and had gained much headway before those of the household were aroused from their slumbers by the stifling smoke which filled the house.

The contents of the building were consumed. Insurance to the amount of $400 was carried on the property.

Red Men In Great Council.

The Great Council of the Maryland Red Men lighted its 79th Great Sun Council fire at Cambridge on the 22d inst. The report of the Great Chief of Records showed that the net increase in membership for the year was 995, making a total membership of 117,119. During the year 90 members of the order died.

Garrett county has two councils, one located at Oakland, which was represented by Squire Fries, and the other at Friendsville, represented by Ex-County Commissioner W. Lowdermilk, citizens of this county hold their membership in councils located in Allegany county, among them Mr. Jacob Stump, who attended the Great Council as one of the Grand officers, that of Great Senior Sagamore.

As intimated in THE REPUBLICAN Mr. Stump was elected Great Sachem, the highest office in the Great Council. We congratulate Mr. Stump on his election to this position and wish him great wisdom in directing the affairs of the State organization. He is well qualified for the place, and is recognized throughout the order as a sagacious chief and well informed in the mysteries of the Indian life.

Garrett county is to be congratulated in the selection of one of its citizens to lead the Red Men of this State. We expect to see the tribe greatly increase its membership in this county.

Messrs. Fries and Lowdermilk greatly enjoyed the camp fire, the journey to the Council and the stay in Cambridge, one of the delightful cities of southern Maryland.

BEPORT OF HEALTH OFFICER BROADWATER

General Conditions Are Good Throughout The County.

Dr. N. I. Broadwater, secretary of the Board of Health, has submitted the following report to the Board of County Commissioners, the report covering the past twelve months:

I have the honor to transmit herewith the report of the Garrett County Board of Health for the year 1913:

The number of births occuring during the year was 570 white and one colored. Of these, male, white, 279; female, white, 273; male, colored, one. In the above number twelve males and eight females were premature or still born.

The deaths occuring during the year including the still born, 213; male white, 123; female, white, 90. Of this number 44 were over 70 years of age and 79, including still births, under one year of age. There were six killed by trains, one suicide, one struck by lightning, one drowned and one burned to death. There has been no illegal interment to my knowledge and no prosecutions.

During the year there have been four midwives licensed. This number includes all there are in the county to date. They are situated in rural districts and qualified by practing previous to the act of 1910.

Infectious diseases reported, 163 cases. During the latter part of 1912 and the beginning of 1913 we had a slight epidemic of small pox: 54 cases occuring in 1913 all confluent in character. Owing to the mildness of the disease and the hesitancy on the part of those afflicted to call a physican, also the shielding to exposure, it was rather harder than usual to get under control. Of the 54 cases, one gave an indefinite history of vaccination, the remaining 53 negative. One death occured owing to complications (confinement). Other infectious diseases, Typhoid, 89; diptheria, 10, scarlet fever, 7; acute poliomelitis, 3. There have been quite a few cases of measles, mumps and whooping cough, but owing to the mildness of same no physician being called, and the people in general not being enlightened as to the law, they were not reported.

All houses to my knowledge in which there was small pox, scarlet fever, diphtheria, acute poliomelitis and tuberculosis were disinfected, permanginate and formalin being used in the majority of instances.

Vaccination in the towns of the county is very good; in the rural districts fair. Quite a few people absolutely refuse to have their chi'dren vaccinated, prefering to keep them from school before submittmg to vaccination.

Oakland is the only incorporated town in the county having a public water and sewerage system. The water is obtained from artesian wells and has been frequently examined and always found good. The sewerage system of Oakland is also good.

The water supply of the county in general is good, barring the older towns in which there is no water or sewerage system and the soil greatly contaminated. During the year numerous specimens of water from various localities have been sent to the state chemist for examination.

Many notifications of nuisances have been received and same disposed of to the best of my ability, but I find it very hard in the majority of instances to have the same properly abated under the present law, there being but a fine for non-compliance and it is useless to enforce as we find very few nuisances among the well-to-do or the thrifty poor, but among the shiftless, uneducated and "don't care" class and to try to fine them is time and work wasted.

During the coming year the county board of health, with the aid of the various town officials and the people in general, hope to bring the sanitary conditions and the general health of Garrett county farther to the front.

Respectfully,
N. I. BROADWATER,
Secretary.

April 19th In War History.

It is recalled that April 19th figures very prominently in the war calendar of the United States. The battles of Lexington and Concord, in which the first blood was shed in the Revolution were fought on April 19, 1775; the Sixth Massachusetts regiment was fired on in Baltimore on April 19, 1861, marking the first bloodshed in the civil war; Congress declared Cuba free and independent and declared war on Spain on April 19, 1898, and Huerta refused the demand of President Wilson to salute the Stars and Stripes and brought about the present crisis on April 19, 1914.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

Gambling.

To the Editor of The Republican.

There is a difference between gaming and gambling. Gammg is playing dice, billiards, etc., for amusement. Gambling is gaming for monby or its equivalent. The evil of gaming is, (1st) in its surroundings. In public places you will usually find profanity, loud conversation. vulgar jests and drinking. It leads to late hours which are deleterious to health. Time for self improvement is wasted and the man learns to seek and love the society that is evil, thereby depriving home of his society, money is wasted and the habit is formed of seeking his pleasure away from those who have a just claim on him. (2nd). It cultivates and fosters a taste for hazards which leads to and ends in gambling. An adept at dice will probably be induced to try his hand at playing for money. It is easy to get it that way. So of cards. That gambling is an evil no Christian will deny, and multitudes who are not Christians know it too well to doubt it for a moment.

It is evil because it wrongs the player whether he lose or wins. An unhealthy excitement is aroused which quickens the pulse, flushes the face, sets the eye staring, feelings are wrought upon and minds are in such a state that unkind and angry words often break out. The love for the game grows until the mind is as eager for it as the drunkard for his cups. It becomes a devouring passion that will consume every thing good and noble, pure and elevating and is only a species of theft that does not necessitate the thief thrusting his hand into your pocket and extracting the money. It wrongs the employer and the employee who practices it.

History records many instances: the daily papers are full of accounts of the downfall of confidential clerks and the ruin of homes through gambling. The young man starts to gamble, then lands in Canada, or the penitentiary, or a suicide's grave, or if perchance he escapes these, is sure to land in hell unless he repents, quits his meanness and lives a decent life.

Let me give you an illustration: It was the principal of one of the schools in one of our cities. He drew his wages and that of the teachers under him; then he went to a gambler's retreat. We lose sight of him for a little, but presently we see him lying on the floor of a hotel in his own blood. A day later, Sabbath morning I see him again. What a Sabbath for him—his last on earth—he is in the clutches of the demon dispair. That evening he was in the hands of the undertaker. There is no room here for mock sentimentality. There is plenty of room for something more than a momentary shudder. Monday there was a lonesome funeral. But the gamblers were not there to look after their young patron. Those sleek gentlemen who are said to be so magnanimous at times were not there to look after any pall-bearers, or to console that heart-broken young widow. They had all that they wanted—his money. They cared not for him or his wife.

Gambling is receiving property without rendering a just equivalent.

Every game of chance from the pitching of coppers, which I have seen among boys on the streets, to the stake of the professional gambler, from the insipid game of the lady to the carousal of the hideous man, from the parlor of the woman of society, or the church member to the haunt of men when an old box is the table, is gambling. This includes lotteries, betting, etc. Fine houses may be reared by the money thus gained. Men and women high in the social sphere may be guilty of it; no matter, that does not change its nature. The glitter of diamonds and the flashing of gold does not change the nature of the viper. Sweetest music can't drown its woe. You may make a cloak of bank notes of high denominations, but that will not conceal its hideousness. It will still be the same wily, venomous serpent and out from the cards of the winner gazes the ghastly specter of damnation and from the cards of the loser ghosts the coils of despair. You may do all in your power to make it attractive to the virtuous but you will only make it the more hideous while fraud will ever be stamped upon it.

It is characterized by prodigality. It wastes money and life's energies. The gambler will hazard every cent he can get. No matter how often he loses, if he wins once he is encouraged to try again. He will borrow anywhere and under any pretense. He will steal from his wife to gratify his passion, Wealth gotten by gambling seldom stays long. God frowns on them and usually they have in the end poverty, shame and wretchedness. When a young man begins to gamble he is on the verge of ruin. If you would shun failure in business, poverty in your family, disgrace in society and the misery of hell, avoid the table of the gambler as you would a den of vipers. You may say, "I shall keep cool; I will control myself and leave it at any time," but once in the fascination of the thing and an irresistible impulse propels you onward. Maybe he drops in and takes a hand for fun, but once he wins and the soul is on fire He goes away to borrow or steal—to get money, and excitement burns his mind. You can as soon play with an adder and not be injured as to play with this evil and not suffer. I know that reasoning is powerless to allay, and logic is too weak to convince the gambler whose wild looks indicate the unstrung nerves and mind that like a discarded piece of machinery is racking itself to pieces.

It fosters idleness. God made us to work. He gave us mental and physical powers so as to do good. This monster says, no use making a slave of yourself; you may get your money easier. That arrests the attention. But how? Why, steal it is a refined way. The lazy man is an abomination in any community. This thing teaches the young that it is disrespectable to work, so it diverts the attention from business and industry and centers it on garrets and smoke bedclouded. whisky-perfumed rooms, so they grow discontented, fickle and uneasy.

It is a system of lazy vagatondage which unfits for business. Knights of the bar lounge on easy seats, while the mechanic must toil and sweat for meagre earnings, though the small wages secures sweet sleep, the comforts of home and happiness of family.

Testimony and experience unite in proclaiming the gambler a lazy, idle spendthrift in proportion as he is addicted to the practice. It is a lazy system. It flatters only to cheat; it allures but to destroy; it fawns over you only to stab you. It is based on falsehood and thrives on lying, and while the gambler from the nature of the case is a liar. He lies to play; he plays to lie, for the thing is a falsehood. His skill is in cheating. It is wholesale, cultured robbery. It will rob you of everything yet give no equivalent. Every loser knows this is true. If a lunatic would dispose of his farm for a trifle the law would interfere to protect him. So the law protects against gambling. If the laws were enforced every den in the State would be closed in a month.

Steal a ham of meat or a sack of flour and arrest will follow; yet men are allowed to go scott free who live by stealing the earnings of clerks, the bread of children, the clothes of wife, the comforts of home, the clothing of children and even the Bible have been pawned for money with which to gamble.

GRANTSVILLE

Grantsville and vicinity will be one of the busiest places in Garrett county this summer. The completion of the Good Road system on the Old National Pike will employ a large number of men who will spend thousands of dollars here.

Among the latest purchasers of automobiles are, W. E. Stanton, a Buick car, and A. F. Heitrich, a Ford.

The Lutheran church has installed a very handsome and sweet toned organ. The old organ has been placed in the Sunday school room.

Elder J.M. Prittinger and wife, nee Baker, who have been missionaries in India, are visiting the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Baker near here.

Asa Miller recently escaped a very serious accident, when he fell from a ladder while roofing Mrs. Gus. Zeller's home, as it was he was confined to his bed for several days.

On the completion of the work so the Old National pike Grantsville will become quite a successful summer resort, and our hotels will do a fine business. The scenic beauty in the vicinity of Grantsville cannot be excelled in the State. The road from Grantsville to Accident through The Cove is picturesque beyond description, the ride across the mountain to Frostburg is

Fable No. Two

A Temperance Talk to Voters

BY JASON KEP

Once upon a time there was a body of men who decided to build a comfortable home. When they began to clear the ground for the foundation, they found a large stone occupying the place where they wished to build.

They tried, one at a time each in his own way, to lift the stone, but they could not move it, then they tried altogether, yet they could not move it, but they were persistent and day after day, year after year they tugged and lifted with the same result.

One day an outsider came along and having looked over the situation said: "Gentlemen, why don't you use your think tank? You can overcome great obstacles by using a little judgment. You should not overlook the fact that your head was intended for several purposes and not alone as a place to stuff provisions.

"Let us reason together and do a little figuring.

"Let us get a sledge and breakoff a chunk and carry it away, then another, and another, and another until the whole stone is removed; by so doing you will be successful and will not be in danger of spraining your back or intellect."

Then the whole assembly fell upon the good Samaritan and smote him hip and thign.

They said: "Sir, we would have you to understand that we have decided to move the whole stone at once and we will do it that way if it takes a thousand years. What is a thousand years compared to a principle? Principle, sir, we stand for a principle and that principle is, the removing of that stone all at once in our own way. Here you come butting in, trying to introduce something new, instead of turning in and helping lift. We will not accept your plan and we will not lift a hand to help you if you undertake to remove it in your way, and we want you to understand that we will do all we in our power to handicap your work. so, there now.

When the outsider recovered from his surprise he arose up and said: "Oh, you perverse generation, you were rightly named. You are indeed a stiff-necked tribe. Go, and eat your thistles and sing your song. This is a beautiful location for a home, the scenery is delightful, the location ideal and the water is wet. I will call in the tribe of thought reservoier users and we will break the stone in pieces and carry it away piece by piece. We can do it quickly and will have it done before you have finished your song."

Just work the moral to suit yourself.

Lanterns That Started Paul Revere on Ride Hung in Church.

The signal lanterns whose flickering light started Paul Revere on his historical ride 139 years ago are hanging in the steeple of the old North Church today. While the congregation sang America at the services on Sunday night last, in Boston, Mass., the sexton passed down the aisle swinging the two famous lanterns and then went up into the steeple and hung them on the hooks from which they hung in 1775.

FEW PEOPLE REALIZE STRENGTH OF FLEET

Americans Are Justly Proud of Their Navy—Nothing Goes Out of Style as Quickly as Battleships.

Few of the millions of newspaper readers who learned through the press on April 11 that the entire Atlantic fleet had been ordered to Tampico, realized the strength of that great organization or what it ment to get the dreadnaughts under way.

Americans justly are proud of their navy, but how many knew that this is the greatest offensive naval force the world has ever seen.

The American navy is outranked by the British, German and French fleets, with Japan close behind. But so great has been the progress in naval construction in the past decade that the Japanese fleet which gave battle to the Russians in the sea of Japan would have absolutely helpless against the force which the United States sent to Mexico waters to avenge the insults offered to the stars and stripes. The battle of the sea of Japan was the greatest naval engagement in history inasmuch as the ships engaged therein were far stronger than any which previously had fought. Despite this fact, however, a naval expert recently asserted that the force which sailed for Tampico under the command of Rear Admiral Badger on April 15 would not have had the slightest difficulty in destroying the Japanese and Russian fleets combined, as they were at the time of the Russo-Japanese war.

"This statement sounds a little improbable," said the naval expert who has had a hand in the increased efficienty of the modern battleships, "but a moment's consideration will show that it is quite logical.

"In the first place there is nothing which goes out of 'style' as quickly as as modern battleship. Five years is the limit of the their top-notch of efficiency and the majority do not last that long. They are then relegated to go into reserve, the scrap heap of the navy.

"None of the ships which took part in the Russo Japanese war would compare in any way with those in our secondary line of battle at the present time. And our dreadnoughts could stand out of their range and rake them fore and aft with their big fourteen-inch shells while the enemy could be utterly helpless. It would be nothing short of murder.

"In a course at Annapolis recently the problem was asked the Senior Class at the Naval Academy whether they would prefer to have a fleet of one hundred vessels of the class of old Oregon or a single ship of the type of the New York. The majority of the class chose rightly the single New York would be worth more than one hundred Oregons in a battle. In the first place, the New York could hit and totally disable practically all the Oregons before the latter could get into range. There is no reason why the gunners on the New York or the Texas could not destroy the entire opposing fleet before any of the hundred vessels got near enough for the shells to ricochet anywhere near the dreadnought. This will give you some idea of the rapidity with which battleships grow old and have to be discarded. That is also the reason why it is better to 'scrap' an old ship or to use her for target practice for the useful vessels of the navy than to pay out real money for her maintenance in some navy yard where it costs considerable money to keep her sea-worthy.

"Of course, the vessels which participated in the battle of the Sea of Japan were far in advance of the Oregon, but not so far as are our present vessels in advance of those of twelve years ago. A dozen years spells the difference between youth and old age in a battleship, and as in other walks of life, the battle nearly always is to the strong and youthful. The exceptions are too infreqnent to affect the reading of the rule.

WHO CONSTITUTE ABRAHAM'S SEED

Divinely Appointed to Roll Away Curse of Death.

Abraham's Seed Twofold—The Spiritual Seed—How the Logos Became the Messiah—Purpose of Jesus' Death and Resurrection—The Spiritual Seed a Company—The Natural Seed of Abraham—How the Blessings Will Come—Israel's Exalted Position In the Kingdom—Position of the Foolish Virgins—Loyalty the Test.

April 20.—Pastor Russell, whose PHOTO-DRAMA OF CREATION is awakening much interest in Bible topics, preached today a very instructive discourse from the text, "If ye be Christ's, then are ye Abraham's Seed, and heirs according to the Promise."—Galatians 3:29.

The Pastor first demonstrated from Scripture that mankind are under the curse of death, and that they can come under God's blessing only by the bringing in of a new condition. God's purpose to lift the curse is shown in His Promise to Abraham, "In thy Seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed." This Seed will roll away the curse and roll in the blessing of life.

Next the Pastor pointed out the Scriptural evidence that the Logos left Heaven and became a human being, of the Abrahamic stock, in order to become the promised Seed. Jesus, according to the flesh, could not be the Messiah, the promised Seed; for, although a perfect Man, He could not have been the Deliverer whom God had promised.

How Jesus Became the Messiah.

Then the Pastor showed that Jesus became the Messiah when baptized of John in Jordan. There He presented Himself a living sacrifice, to do unreservedly the Father's will. This meant, primarily, our Lord's death as the antitypical Sin-offering. Mankind are under the death sentence pronounced upon Adam; therefore their Redeemer must taste death for mankind before He could ask for their release from that penalty.

Our Lord's ascension was another step in the Divine Plan of salvation. As St. Paul declares, it was necessary for Jesus to appear in the presence of God with the merit of His sacrifice, in order that the Father might give the Church the benefit of the cleansing which our Lord had accomplished. Many have not noticed, he claimed, that the Scriptures limit the work of the Gospel Age to the Church.

The Pastor also showed that after Jesus had become the Spiritual Seed of Abraham through His anointing of the Holy Spirit at Jordan, He began to a limited extent the work of blessing. But after He had ascended on High He was then the Perfected One, so far as He Himself was concerned. The speaker demonstrated, however, that the Scriptures clearly indicate that God had purposed that Jesus have a company of associates, to be sharers in the great work of human uplift. These constitute the Gospel Church, who are to be given glory, honor and immortality in the First Resurrection. They also will become, as members of Abraham's Spiritual Seed, joint-heirs in the Messianic Kingdom.

The Development of the Church.

Primarily, the Seed of Abraham, the Pastor declared, was to be the Spiritual Seed—Christ and the Church on the Divine plane. But Abraham's natural seed—the Jews—will also have a part in the blessing. This is set forth in Genesis 22:16-18, where God told Abraham that his seed would be like the stars and the sand on the seashore.

The speaker then explained how some from both Jews and Gentiles have constituted this Spiritual Seed. The early Church was mainly of Jewish origin. These had found that they could not get everlasting life by keeping the Law. Therefore, as St. Paul declared, they must become dead to it, accept Christ as their Sin-offering and consecrate themselves, in order to become members of the Anointed Body.

The Gentiles were never under the Law Covenant, the Pastor demonstrated, and therefore they came into Christ merely by presenting themselves living sacrifices as did the Jews. All who do so by faith—Jew or Gentile—are begotten of the Holy Spirit to Heavenly hopes and ambitions. Those who continue faithful unto death will receive a place in the glorified Church. Of this Christ company Jesus was the Head, and the faithful in Christ Jesus have been the members since.

The Natural Seed of Abraham.

The Pastor then showed that the experiences of the Jews throughout the Jewish Age had developed a special class, enumerated by St. Paul in Hebrews 11. These Ancient Worthies will receive their promised "better resurrection" in that they will awaken perfect men; whereas the rest of mankind will require centuries to attain human perfection. This Ancient Worthy class will be associated with the Messianic Kingdom as its earthly phase. The Heavenly phase will be invisible to humanity. The world will see the Ancient Worthies—the image and likeness of God in the flesh.

THE REPUBLICAN,
Oakland, Md.

THURSDAY, APRIL 30, 1914.

THE Stars and Stripes forever.

THERE are fifty candidates in the state of Oregan seeking the nomination for governor.

ON a big sign-board at Evansville, Wis., is the legend: "This city has never had a saloon."

FOR the home circle nothing could give more satisfaction to the entire family, than a year's subscription to THE REPUBLICAN.

THIS week the County Commissioners publish in THE REHUBLICAN the annual county levy. A persual of it will show you what it will cost to run the county this year.

IT is estimated that the winter and spring wheat crop will reach a billion bushels of wheat this year. We hope this record breaking estimate may prove correct.

THE REPUBLICAN is becoming more and more "The people's paper." Weekly it tells what the people of Garrett county are doing and where they have been. It is a weekly news letter to our readers.

THE United States and its possessions is now a country of 109,000,000 people. Maryland has a population of 1,341,075 and Baltimore today can host 579,590 inhabitants, according to estimates of population for 1914 which were give by the Census Bureau.

WE publish this week five more local laws passed by the recent legislature. We advise that you cut out the laws as published each week and preserve them for future reference. You will find eight of these laws in THE REPUBLICAN this week. Later we shall have something to say about these several laws.

GOVERNOR HATFIELD, of West Virginia has designated May 28 and 29 as good roads days, when everyone who can is expected to take up the shovel and the pick and put in their best licks in improving the State highways. Why not try this plan in Garrett county for at least one day?

WE would like to see THE REPUBLICAN in every home in Garrett county. We are trying to make this paper a decidedly Garrett county paper; full of home news. We shall advocate the best interests of the county. Will you help us extend the circulation of your paper? Show the paper to your neighbors.

THE publication of a number of the local laws printed at the recent session of the legislature, the levy list of the County Commissioners, and a number of tax sales reduces the amount of reading matter in the THE REPUBLICAN this week. Doubtless our readers will be greatly interested in reading these special advertisements, because of their importance.

THE New York Sun puts the country's greatest need in a paragraph, and puts it well, when it says: "There never was a time of greater need in the department of State of the United States of America of a clear head, experienced in international relations, knowing the fine shades of distinction between executive acts on foreign soil authorized by law and executive acts that may be unsurpations of power and consequently border on the impeachable."

IN a few days over six months Garrett county will be called upon to decide the question: Shall Garrett county he free from the Saloon and saloonism? Keep this fact in your mind. Talk about it with your own neighbors. Agitate it. Plan for a great victory. Let there be an overwhelming majority in its favor. Be satisfied with nothing else. Take nothing for granted, but labor persistently to win out. Get ready to hold public meetings in every school house, in every church, at every picnic. Talk about it in the home circle, at the store, at all public gatherings, everywhere you go in the county. Get busy from now until the night of election day. THE REPUBLICAN stands for the Home and against the Saloon.

IT was Leslie who wrote these truthful words: Confidence! What a wonderful word it is! How much it does to make a despondent man or women feel better. How often it has lifted a business man out of the deepest despondency and gives him another chance. Say a helpful word whenever you can, whether it be to a child with tear-dimmed face or to a workman who has lost his job or to a business man who faces serious embarrassments. It will pay.

SOME time ago a St. Louis brewing company shipped a car load of beer to Corunna, Kans. On its arrival it was seized by state officers, who confiscated it under the Webb-Kevnon law. The brewing company entered suit, claiming damages in reimbursement for the stated value of the confiscated liquor. The case went up to the State Supreme Court, which has handed down a ruling sustaining in every point the control of the state authorities over all liquor shipped into Kansas. The court said: "We believe that the liquor traffic can be made subject to the same regulations as obscene literature and white slavery," which is putting the business where it belongs.

Pupils Economy League.

Last winter Superintendent F. E. Rathbun organized the Pupils' Economy League among the pupils of the public schools of the county, the primary object of the association being to secure a greater return for the education expenditures of the county. This association is doing good work among the Garrett county boys and girls and has been recognized as a splendid achievement by the United States Bureau of Education which has sent circular letter to every public school official in the the county reviewing the objects and purposes of the local league.

OUT OF TOWN HAPPENINGS

A Variety of Interesting Paragraphs for Republican Readers

Glotfelty, Peter Yost and R. E. Sliger contitute the board. The board will hold its first meeting next Tuesday, at which time important business will be considered.

Oakland, as the county seat of prosperous, growing Garrett county, has a splendid court house, substantial jail, both of them great credit to the county, and a county high school of which we are ——, Well, just take a look at it and make your own comment. The lawn is beautiful, the brick walk in front of the building very creditable, but the building—'nough said.

Mr. Silas C. Beachy of Bittinger, spent Tuesday in Oakland on business. He recently completed the harvest of maple sugar, making something more than half a crop. He brought to Oakland for shipment about a ton of sugar and about twenty-five gallons of syrup. Of the sugar he shipped several hundred pounds to Walla Walla, Washington; some to Montana and a quantity to Kansas.

Tonight a camp of the Sons of Veterans will be organized in Oakland by District Commander Wm. A. Keefauver. All sons and grandsons of veterans 18 years old and over may become members of the camp. The organization will be effected in the hall on the third floor of the First National Bank building, at 8 p. m. We hope that every son and grandson of a veteran will be present tonight.

Monday afternoon 38 cottages were destroyed by fire, at Allegany Grove, Cumberland's summer resort, at a loss estimated at $25,000. By hard work the tabernacle was saved. The fire originated from a pile of leaves burning near one of the cottages. This is another illustration of the importance of great care in burning leaves and rubbish. Mr. John B. Waugh's cottage was among the number burned down.

A new record in railroad work on the Cumberland division of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad was established Saturday evening by Robert T. Knotts, conductor, and M. S. Squires, engineer, who took from Cumberland to Grafton a train of 97 cars, with one engine, No. 2423. This is the first time such a train has been taken across the Alleghanies with one engine. It is thought this record will stand until motive power is increased in power.

Ed. Arbegast last Monday started from Henry Smouse's farm, near Oakland, with 75 head of cattle which he will drive through to Randolph county, West Virginia, where they will be pastured this summer. Last week Speicher & Smouse had 38 head of young cattle driven to the vicinity of Keyser, W. Va., where they will be pastured for the summer. Pasture land for large bunches of cattle cannot be had in this county, hence cattle men must look elsewhere for pasture.

The circus people are great advertisers. They have painted Oakland red. Whichever way you go you are bound to read a show bill. On telephone poles, on bulletin boards, on sides of store buildings, fences, everywhere a bill can be posted you will see a show bill. Look in the newspapers and you will see a big display advertisement. Our merchants might learn a lesson from the show people on advertising. Times are dull. Make them better by advertising. Go after the people.

Ninety five years ago, last Sunday, five plain, unpretending American citizens instituted American Odd Fellowship. The report of membership enrolled for the fiscal year 1913 showed a grand total of 1,645,359 members, 231,856 members of encampment, and 711,873 members of Rebekah. This is certainly a great showing. As announced in THE REPUBLICAN anniversary services were held at Mountain Lake Park and Aurora last Sunday. The order had its birth in Great Britian early in the eighteenth century.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bush and daughter Miss Ora, after having spent the winter very pleasantly in Lynn Haven, Florida, returned to their home in Oakland Monday morning Of the Oakland people now in Lynn Havu Mr. Bush brings a report that all are doing finely. Mr. E. J. Fringer is engaged in the real estate business and is making quite a success of it, while Mr. Ernest Bush is busy as a contractor and builder.

Circuit Court Clerk E. Z. Tower has received the commissions of the Justices of the Peace and notaries public for Garrett county. The appointees have thirty days to take the oath of office. Their term begins May 1st. The commission of W. A. Smith, of Hoyes, and W. McCulloh Brown, a member of the Board of Directors of the Maryland Industrial School for girls, 2 years from Jan. 1914, have been received.

There is a movement on hand for a better road from Elk Garden to Blaine, W. Va. There was a perliminary survey made last week and another will be made soon. The object is to secure a uniform and easy grade. This seems possible and then with an improved road from Blaine to Wilson's station on the B. & O. railroad, of which there is assurance, this road will become a general thoroughfare between distant points, Oakland, Deer Park and Mountain Lake Park at one end and Romney, Keyser and other places at the other.

The J. G. L. of Garrett County.

The Just Government League of Garrett county was formed in January, 1913, with 2 members. We now have 151 members. It has held three meetings, one at Swanton and two at Oakland. It had a booth at the county fair and distributed suffrage literature. A meeting was held at the home of Mrs. B. H. Sincell, the following officers being elected: Evelyn Welch, recording secretary; Rhoda E. Welch, corresponding secretary; Mrs. James Willison, treasurer.

The work in Garrett county will probably be a little difficult, because the people understand so little about the suffrage movement. Our Delegates stood firmly for the suffrage bill in the Legislature, and our Senator pledged himself to vote for it in the Senate.

FEDERALS BURN NEUVO LAREDO

Mexican City Across Rio Grande Is Destroyed

AMERICAN TROOPS FIRED ON

Many Mexicans Are Killed When Rifle Shots Are Returned—Attempt to Dynamite and Destroy Bridge Fails.

With at least eleven Mexicans killed and more than a score wounded, with destruction by dynamite evident in every section, and with a black pall of smoke, heightened by flames in countless places, Nouvo Laredo, Mex., just across the Rio Grande from Laredo, Tex., presents a spectacle of desolation and ruin.

Dynamite and the torch succeeded each other in their destructive work. The work of destruction was made more certain by liberal use of kerosene.

An attempt to dynamite the Mexican end of the international railroad bridge was prevented by the accurate aim of the men behind the guns on the American side.

When the federals returned after evacuating the town they found the place deserted and then they began the work of destroying. They fired across the Rio Grande at American patrols and the United States troops returned the fire and machine guns on this side were set in motion. Many on the Mexican side were killed.

Among the buildings destroyed were the United States consulate, the municipal building, the flour mill, one of the largest in this section of the southwest; the postoffice, theater and the customs house.

Before dashing south the federal troops prepared for a general conflagration. The fires, which were lighted at the moment of departure, assumed giant proportions within less than five minutes. Many of the houses were of stone or adobe and under ordinary circumstances not easily burned, but oil had been used, causing every house fired to burn rapidly.

The first signal which drew the attention of the people of Laredo to the city across the river was the sound of rifle fire as the train was pulling out. The Mexicans fired at the American soldiers at Fort McIntosh and the fire was returned at once by the Americans.

It was reported that three persons had been killed by the Mexicans' fire, but it was impossible to verify this report immediately.

With the Ninth regiment of infantry, three troops, I, K and J, of the Fourteenth cavalry and Battery A of the Third field artillery at Laredo officers said there was no danger.

GOV. AMMONS DENOUNCED

Denver Citizens Accuse Him of Being Accessory to Murder.

A crowd of men and women, 1,000 to 6,000 in number, composed partly of Denver's most prominent citizens, stood in a pouring rain in front of the capitol building and heard the state administration denounced for permitting the murders in the southern coal strike district.

Resolutions were adopted condemning Governor Ammons as an accessory to the murder of babies and demanding his impeachment at a special session of the legislature.

News from Trinidad tells of the tenseness of the situation there. Under a temporary truce the strikers are entrenched and ready to battle the soldiers at any moment.

At Trinidad 102 armed deputy sheriffs with a gatling gun are entrenched in the courthouse. This precaution was taken because it was understood Judge Muzzer of the state supreme court and others of a committee appointed by the governor to investigate conditions were about to arrive.

The truce lasts only until these men get there from Denver and announce what they will try to accomplish.

GENERAL FUNSTON.

TELL OF HARDSHIPS

2,500 Refugees Arrive at Galveston. Quarantined Six Days.

Driven by armed bands of Mexicans, both federals and rebels, from their homes and from the property which in many cases they have worked years to accumulate and bringing horrifying stories of cruelties inflicted by the natives 2,500 refugees from Mexico are in Galveston, Tex., awaiting the pleasure of the national and state government in sending them to their destinations.

Expecting to at once set foot on native soil and to be sent on to their homes and relations, these half starved, outraged Americans and foreigners who have for ten days slept on the decks of the ships and endured all the hardships of the voyage found that they would have to remain on board or out of the city for six days.

Governor Colquitt has ordered that all refugees be kept in quarantine six days.

Refugees bring with them detailed reports as to the fighting about Tampico and Panuco, the landing of the American marines and the battle in the streets at Vera Cruz. Many of those arriving were in Tampico at the time the news was received that the American marines had actually landed at Vera Cruz.

Posters were at once distributed about the streets and the "Death to the Gringo" was heard from all quarters. Federals and rebels were united at once and began a demonstration which ended after several shots had been fired into the house where the Americans and the American consul were quartered.

The German cruiser Dresden and a British cruiser at once saw the danger of the Americans and the riot was quelled when the commander of the Dresden promptly turned his guns on the crowd and warned the infuriated mob that he would fire. The Americans were taken aboard and kept until the coming of the refugee ships.

Shortly after the Americans got out of the city several hundred armed Mexicans rushed in and began looking for Americans. They fired into the houses vacated by the refugees.

In the rush of the Americans to the water front and ships several children were seriously injured by being trampled on. Five or six Americans were struck by stones hurled from the house tops.

MILITIA FIRST THIS TIME

Lessons of 1898 Remembered by War Department.

Roosevelt will have no opportunity to raise a regiment or brigade and rush to the front this time as he did in the Spanish war. This was made clear to a number of officers of the Massachusetts militia who called upon Major General Wotherspoon, chief of staff, urging that the Massachusetts troops be given an opportunity to get to the front as soon as any volunteer regiment which might be raised.

This time militia regularly organized and with officers who are used to the command of their men and have learned something about how to take care of them in camp and on marches will be given the preference in being sent to the front.

Organizations of Spanish war veterans will not be accepted until all the militia has gone to the front, according to the present intentions.

CITIZENS DELIVER ARMS

Vera Cruz Obeys Proclamation—City Assembled Arsenal.

To the accompaniment of a naval regimental band playing military and patriotic airs hundreds of Vera Cruz citizens complied with the demand of Admiral Fletcher that they deliver all their arms.

Men, women and children appeared in the plaza carrying rifles, shotguns, carbines, pistols, swords and knives of all ages and descriptions. They had the arms wrapped in newspapers as they apparently feared to walk through the streets carrying the weapons.

VILLA LOVER OF FIGHTING BIRDS

Often Wagers $5,000 on Outcome of Chicken Fight.

HIS GAMECOCKS ARE BEST

Descended From Those Bred by George Washington—Thinks Example Set In Cockpit Is Good For His Troops on Eve of Great Battle—Admires Their Unconquerable Nerve.

Juarez, Mexico.—"I will fight this gamecock in the City of Mexico on the Fourth of July," said General Villa, as he exhibited a favorite fighting rooster to Mars Cassidy, the famous starter of race horses, who has handled the barrier at the Juarez race track over a hundred days a year since its organization five years ago.

The gamecock in question had just won its twenty-fifth victory and was one of a shipment of forty-eight gamecocks which Villa had received from the breeding farm of Colonel S. J. Hester of Hester, S. C., who has been supplying the rebel chieftain with fighting birds for several years.

"General Villa," said Mr. Cassidy, in telling of this incident, "is the most remarkable man I have ever known. I have met every revolutionary leader in northern Mexico. Many of them were highly educated, and the history of these continuous revolutions reveals the names of several great men, but Villa, a man of meager education, is, according to opinions held by eminent military men, the greatest organizer, the greatest fighter and the best loved and worst feared man in the republic of Mexico. His followers idolize him, his fame is constantly spreading in Mexico, and recruits are joining his army at an enormous rate.

"I have had ample opportunity to study the man, both at the race track and at the cockpit, where he freely mingled with his officers and men. His companions included Alfredo Madero, brother of the martyred president, who is interpreter for General Villa. It is generally believed that the expenses of the Villa campaign are being defrayed by the Madero family.

"Villa is what might be called a natural born sportsman. He frequently wagered $5,000 gold on a favorite fighting cock.

"'I have won enough on this gamecock to defray the expenses of the army for two months,' remarked General Villa as he handed me the picture of the bird referred to in his remark already quoted."

General Villa receives a dozen gamecocks from his South Carolina breeder every week. These birds are moved with the military equipment in a special wagon. It contains twenty-eight separate coops and is drawn by a pair of mules.

Before the commencement of a battle General Villa has gamecocks fought before his soldiers and urges them to emulate the heroic conduct of these feathered gladiators, as did the ancient warriors of the dim and distant past. One familiar with ancient history is forced to believe that this illiterate but able fighter in one respect at least resembles Themistocles, who introduced cock fighting into Athens after the Persian wars. The incident is thus related:

"When the famous general was leading the Athenian army against the Persians he saw some cocks fighting, and he took occasion from this circumstance to animate his troops by observing to them:

"'These animals fight not for their gods or country, nor for the monuments of their ancestors, nor for glory, nor for freedom, nor for their children, but for the sake of victory and that one may not yield to the other,' and from this topic he inspirited the Athenians."—Vide Aelian. Var. Hist. ii, c. 28.

OPTOMETRIST

IS Your Child Handicapped in his or her physical and mental development by defective vision? Out of 100,000 school children examined in New York city, nearly 30 per cent were found to be in need of glasses. In Boston the percentage was found to be slightly over 20 per cent., and most of these children were down on the books as "stupid," "stubborn" or unruly. In Philadelphia 354 children were discovered who could not read ordinary writing on a blackboard at a distance of twenty feet. You should make sure by a thorough examination at the hands of a competent optometrist. That your child is not among this vast army of little citizens who suffer from defective eyesight, delays often result seriously. My examinations are made by the most scientific accurate methods. If it is found that glasses are not required you will be told so frankly and no charge made for the examination.

Umbel by deed dated the 30th day of December, 1908, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 58, folio 335, one of the Land Records of Garrett county, wherein said land is described as follows: Beginning for the same at a planted stone at the end of the first line of Military Lot No. 1[illegible] and running South 14 West, [illegible] perches to the center of the Mellenry and Sang Run Road, thence South [illegible] East, 42 feet from a chestnut tree marked L. F. R., thence with said county road South 56 East, 39 perches, South 77½° East, 20 perches, thence South [illegible] East 36 perches, East 14 5th perches to a stake on the south side of said county road at the beginning of Military Lot No. 1459, thence reversing the given line of Lot No. 3992 North 173 perches to the beginning of the last named lot, West 60 perches to the beginning. Said land is located in Election District No. 6 of Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the State and county taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1912 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Amos M. Umbel.

No. 3.—Military Lots Nos. 3657, being the same tract of land known as" Quinquagessima," and being the same land which was conveyed to Clarence and Clara Foy by Cyrus W. Stark and wife by deed dated the 1st day of April, 1908, which deed was duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 52, folio 375, etc., one of the land records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 6 of said Garrett county and will be sold to pay and satisfy the taxes due and in arrear thereof for the year 1913 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Clarence and Clara Foy.

No. 7—Military Lot No. 1412 containing [illegible] acres of land, located in Election District No. 6 of Garrett county and more particularly described in a deed for the same from James A. Rodeheaver and wife to Roy V. Friend bearing date the 28th day of February, 1913, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 64 one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land will be sold to satisfy and pay the State and county taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1912 and 1913 as is charged on the Assessment Books of Garrett county in the name of Roy V. Friend.

No. 8—All that lot or parcel of land known and designated as Military Lot No. 1547, containing the quantity of 50 acres and being the same land which was conveyed to Madison Friend, John Spiker and Peter Spiker by George S. Gioffelty and wife by deed dated the 30th day of November, 1910, which deed was duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 62, folio 517, one of the Land Records of Garrett county. This lot is located in Election District No. 6 of Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the State and county taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1912 and 1913 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of John Spiker, Peter H. Spiker and Madison Friend.

No. 10.—All that piece or parcel of land containing four acres described in a deed for the same from Bert C. Feather and wife to Franklin Rishel, bearing date April 22, 1911, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 46, folio 395, one of the Land Records of Garrett county, said description being as follows: Beginning for the same at the end of the 5th line of a tract of land conveyed by B. C. Feather and wife to Edgar F. Jenkins and runing thence South [illegible] East, 36½ perches, thence North 86½ West 35 perches to the beginning. Said land is located in Election [illegible] perches prepared setting forth the choice of the citizens as to whom they desire as trustees for the school year of 1914-1915, the same to be forwarded to the office of the School Commissioners in time for the next meeting, which is to be held Tuesday, May 5th, which is the date set by law for the appointment of all trustees.

By order of the Board.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to kill, take or catch in any manner whatever any brook trout or other trout from or in any of the streams of said Garrett county, which have been stocked with brook or other trout, or which have had said fish placed therein from the State Fish Hatchery, for the period of two years from the first day of April, 1914.

Section 2. And be it further enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons who are non residents of the State of Maryland to take, catch or kill in any manner whats ever any fish in any of the streams of the said Garrett county, without first having applied to the Clerk of the Circuit Court of said Garrett county and procured a license so to do and paying therefor the sum of five dollars, which said license shall be good and valid for one year from the date thereof.

Section 3. And be it further enacted that any person or persons violating any of the provisions of the two preceding sections shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof before any Justice of the Peace of said Garrett county, or in any Circuit Court thereof, shall be fined not less than five dollars nor more than fifty dollars for each offense, and shall stand committed to the county jail until said fine is paid, one half of said fine or fines to go to the informer or informers upon whose evidence the conviction is obtained.

Section 4. And be it further enacted that all money arising from the license aforesaid and all fines, after paying the amount aforesaid to the informer or informers, shall be paid to the School Board of Garrett county for the use of the public schools.

Section 5. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the first day of April, 1914.

AN ACT to add two new Sections to Article [illegible] of the Code of Public General Laws of [illegible] to follow Section 32 under the new subtitle "Cigarettes" to be designated as sections 32-A and 32-B.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That two new Sections be and the same are hereby added to Article 27 of the Code of Public General Laws, titled "Crime and Punishments," under the new sub title "Cigarettes," to follow Sections 32, to be designated as Sections 32-A and 32-B, and to read as follows:

32-A. Any person who shall furnish to any minor, by gift, sale or otherwise, any cigarette or cigarette paper, shall be guilty of a misdemanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than fifty dollars for the first offense, and for each subsequent offense shall be liable for a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than three hundred dollars and to undergo an imprisonment in the jail of the county for a period of not less than thirty days nor more than six months, and on failure to pay the fine and costs of prosecution, shall be required to work the same out on the public roads.

32-B. Any minor being in possession of a cigarette or cigarette paper and being by any police officer, constable, juvenile court officer, truant officer or teacher in any school asked where and from whom such cigarette or cigarette paper was obtained, who shall refuse to furnish such information, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof before any justice of the peace be sentenced to pay a fine not less than five dollars nor more than ten dollars, and on failure to pay the fine and costs of prosecution, shall be confined in the jail of the county for a period of not less than ten days or more than thirty days.

This Act shall not apply to any of the counties of the State or the City of Baltimore, but only to Garrett county.

Sec. 2. All Acts or parts of Acts inconsistent with this Act are hereby repealed, and this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

AN ACT to prohibit any minister of the Gospel or other person, in Garrett County, who is now or may hereafter be authorized under the laws of Maryland to perform the marriage ceremony, to give, directly or indirectly any fee as an inducement to any person to bring the persons contemplating marriage to him to perform the marriage ceremony.

Section 1. CHAPTER NO. 552

AN ACT for the further protection of pheasants, partridges of quail, woodcock, wild turkey and rabbits in Garrett county.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That it shall not be unlawful to hunt, trap, ensnare, shoot or kill any pheasants, partridge or quail, woodcock or wild turkey in Garrett County, except during the month of November in each year, and it shall not be lawful to hunt, trap, ensnare, shoot or kill any rabbit in Garrett County, except during the month of November, December and January of each year; nor shall it be lawful at any time to sell or expose for sale in Garrett county, or ship or transport out of Garrett County any pheasant, partridge or quail, woodcock or wild turkey, except as hereinafter provided.

Sec. 2. And be it enacted, That it shall be lawful to buy and sell rabbits in Garrett County during the months of November, December and January of each year and to ship the same out of Garrett County during the months aforesaid, provided such rabbits be shipped openly with their hind legs tied together and tagged.

Sec. 3. And be it enacted, That it shall not be lawful for any person to kill or have in his possession in Garrett County upon any one day more than six of each of the above enumerated kinds of game birds.

Sec. 4. And be it enacted, That non residents of Garrett County shall be permitted to hunt and kill any of the game above mentioned in Garrett County during the open season for the hunting and killing of the same as herein before provided in condition, that before they, each, first obtain a hunters license so to do, which license may be obtained upon application to any Justice of the Peace in Garrett County upon payment of such applicant to said Justice of the sum of ten dollars, and said license shall be good from the date of its issue until the 31st day of the month of October, following such date of issue; and at the time of the granting of such license, the said Justice shall furnish said license with a badge to be worn by him while hunting upon the left sleeve of his coat in such a manner as to be easily seen, and failure so to wear such badge while hunting shall be prima facie evidence that such hunter has failed to take out and pay for the license herein required, such licenses and badges to be furnished by the County Commissioners of Garrett County free of charge upon payment of the license aforesaid; such license fees to be accounted for and paid over by said Justice of the Peace to the Treasurer of Garrett County for the use of said County, the said Justices being entitled to retain the sum of fifty cents out of each license fee for their services in issuing such licenses and badges.

Sec. 5. And be it enacted, That any such non resident hunter shall be permitted, upon leaving the County, to carry away with him not more than six birds of any of the above enumerated kinds, provided he shall have lawfully shot and killed the same himself.

Sec. 6. And be it enacted, That any person, firm, corporation or association violating any of the provisions of this Act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof before any Justice of the Peace of Garrett County, or before the Circuit Court for Garrett County, shall be fined not less than fifty dollars and not more than one hundred dollars and be confined in the County jail of Garrett County for a period not exceeding thirty days for each and every offense, one half of said fine to go to the informer or informers upon whose evidence the conviction is obtained, the other half of said fine to go to the County Commissioners of Garrett County, to be by them expended for the ordinary purposes of the County.

Sec. 7. And be it enacted, That all Acts and parts of Acts inconsistent with the provisions of this Act, be and the same are hereby repealed.

YOUR SEED CORN SHOULD BE TESTED

Insures Better Corn Crops and Interests Your Boys In Growing Them.

J. E. METZGER.

Maryland Agricultural College.

It is hoped that the seed corn of Maryland is in first-class condition this season, but no one can be absolutely sure without testing it out. We take it for granted that your seed was selected in the field last fall, by going through the field and selecting mature ears which grew on just the kind of stalk you desire. Also that the ears were the proper height from the ground, that the shanks were of just the right length, and that after husking, only such ears as were of good type were kept for seed. These ears, of course, were cured in a well ventilated place where they were protected from moisture and frost.

Having taken this care of your seed, you wish now to make sure not only that this seed will grow but that it will make strong growth. The most dangerous ear of corn to plant is the weak ear. Every boy who intends to enter a corn contest or who has to thin corn for his father, should want to test the seed he or his father uses. The best place to do this testing is at the school house where the boy can compare his corn with that from other farms. If samples were gotten from each farm in a school district and a test made, it will give a line on practically all the seed in the community and what kind of a crop may be expected from using it. In addition it will make the children much more interested in farm operations and put real life into their school work.

The method of testing seed corn is so simple that any boy or girl ten years old can make the test. The Rag Doll tester is the easiest to make and the best to use in the school room. It is made from a strip of muslin 9 by 36 inches wide, marked off into twenty squares, each square holding six grains from each ear tested. After moistening it, the muslin is carefully rolled up and put in a pail containing warm, moist sawdust where the grains are sprouted. This will provide for testing enough seed to plant one acre. Full directions for either home or school use will be gladly furnished free by the writer to anyone addressing him at College Park.

A GOOD RATION FOR GROWING CHICKS

Feeding Young Chicks At the Maryland Experiment Station. Spring Of 1914.

ROY H. WAITE,

Poultryman.

First 24 to 48 hours—Nothing.

First few feeds—Rolled oats or oat meal and hard-boiled eggs (infertile ones from the incubator) shell and all ground up in a food chopper.

Up to about three weeks of age: Mash Mixture—Bran, 4 parts; corn meal (or hominy chop), 2 parts; middlings, 2 parts; beef scrap (sifted), 1 part; salt, one-half pound to each 100 lbs. Grain Mixture (Scratch Feed)—Finley cracked corn, 1 part; cracked wheat, 1 part; hulled oats, 1 part.

AT THE MASH TROUGH.

Above two mixtures, the mash fed in shallow troughs twice daily (about 10 A. M. and 4 P. M.) and the grain in a litter of cut straw three times daily (early in the morning, noon and late in the evening). At first the mash may be moistened slightly with water, but feed dry as soon as chicks learn to eat it readily. The egg and oat meal may be given occasionally as a relish. Regulate the feeds so that the chicks are hungry at each feeding time, but be certain that they are not starved. Little and often is the rule with young chicks until they get to going well.

From three weeks to maturity—The same mash given above (beef scraps need not be sifted) fed dry, once daily, at noon, in outdoor hoppers, and a scratch feed composed of whole wheat and ordinary sifted cracked corn, equal parts, given twice daily (morning and night). If the birds are able to obtain a large amount of animal feed for themselves from insects, worms, etc., the proportion of beef scrap may be cut down. Also cut down beef scrap if birds show too rapid maturity, as indicated by comb development, etc.

Green Feed—Give green feed in the form of cut green clover, grass, lettuce, certain weeds, etc during the first few weeks, unless they are able to pick their own from the range.

Water—Keep clean water (changed twice daily) before them at all times; also fine grit after the first few days.

(Note—If animal meal is used in the place of beef scrap, or if most of the bone is sifted from the beef scrap, it is necessary to use a small amount of bone meal or ground bone in the ratios.

VERA CRUZ IN YANKEES' HANDS

City's Capture Cost the Lives of Seventeen Americans

STORY OF THE EASY VICTORY

After Marines and Bluejackets Take Up Positions in City Irregular Firing by Mexican Snipers Is Begun.

Backed by the guns of Rear Admiral Badger's powerful fleet, all ready for action, Rear Admiral Fletcher in command ashore completed the occupation of Vera Cruz, Mex., by the naval forces of the United States.

From the water line on the east to the sand dunes on the west, from sand hill on the north to sand hill on the south the sailors and marines are in complete control of the city. There is no organized opposition anywhere no danger zone left.

Outside the city on every land side the marines of Major Smedley D. Butler are thrown as an advanced line to prevent any attempt by the Mexican forces of General Maas to attack the city.

Scouts located him at Tejeria, fifteen miles to the south. He is in camp with about 500 or 600 men and announced he is awaiting reinforcements of 400 from Puebla. The United States forces are near enough to watch him, but they do not believe that he will receive any reinforcements.

Up to date the American losses have been seventeen dead and seventy-five wounded. The Mexican losses were placed at 123 dead and 195 wounded.

Rear Admiral Fletcher worked hard to reassure the municipal officials and to get them to take up the city government. In this they are being assisted by responsible Mexican business men who now understand that they have lost nothing tangible by the change. The mayor is besieged by advisers telling him to resume office.

The collector of customs has been assured by the admiral that the United States does not intend to collect the customs money. He has been told to go ahead and exercise his functions in perfect ease of mind. Consul Canada is giving invaluable aid to the naval authorities in persuading the city officials to resume their duties.

During the night the searchlights of the warships play continuously on the quarters of the city where there is likely to be any shots fired.

It was during the night that the only accidental death of an American occurred. A young sailor on sentry duty became excited when he saw a figure stealing toward him in the shadow of a wall. The boy forgot the order to challenge and shot. He killed an American marine.

Story of the Fighting.

The first news of the fighting at Vera Cruz and the seizure of the city came in this report from Admiral Fletcher received at the navy department:

"Tuesday, in face of approaching norther, landed marines and sailors from Utah, Florida and Prairie and seized customs house. Mexican forces did not oppose landing, but opened fire with rifle and artillery after our seizure of customs house, Prairie shelling Mexicans out of their positions. Desultory firing from housetops and streets. Hold customs house and section of city in vicinity of wharves and consulate. Casualties four dead and twenty wounded."

This bulletin was followed in an hour by another dispatch from Admiral Fletcher, which read:

"Holding the vicinity of the railroad station and yards and desultory firing continues. Also holding the vicinity of customs house and cable office. Light norther is blowing."

Another dispatch from Admiral Fletcher read:

"Our men are firing only when fired at. We prepared a flag of truce with message to General Maas to cease firing or our big guns would be used. Now about 1,000 marines and sailors ashore. All business here suspended."

A later dispatch from Consul Canada at Vera Cruz said:

"Marines and bluejackets landed, immediately taking possession of cable office, postoffice, telegraph office and customs house. Have also railroad terminal and yards with rolling stock. Notwithstanding the firing from housetops we are masters of the situation so far without the use of heavy guns. Firing all around the consulate, several shots having struck the building. Our men simply defended themselves. Some resistance from naval forces soon silenced by guns of the Prairie. At this time reported four men killed, twenty wounded."

Other information received at the navy department was to the effect that American forces in seizing the yards of the railroad from Vera Cruz to Mexico City had taken 100 cars and other equipment.

This equipment will be of the greatest value in transporting troops over the railroad toward Mexico City from Vera Cruz as a base.

Admiral Fletcher in seizing Vera Cruz called upon only about half of the force available for landing service.

Navy departmental officers estimated that General Maas had about 1,000 troops in the city of Vera Cruz and 1,000 more in the province of the same name.

LIME UNEQUALED AS A SOIL IMPROVER

Should Be Worked In During Cultivation.

W. E. HANGER.

Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station.

Farmers everywhere have now started their spring work. Manure spreaders are busy getting manure out on fields to be plowed for corn. No doubt many are thinking of using lime on their fields. Why not use it on the field to be planted to corn? This is an excellent plan because the lime can be spread on the land after plowing and worked into the top layers of the soil at the same time that the seed bed is being prepared.

The mistake is often made of using too light an application. Not less than a ton of burned lime or two tons of ground lime stone or oyster shells should be used per acre. Such an application as this need not be given oftener than every once in five or six years so that the cost for lime would not be more than 50 or 60 cents an acre per year.

While the good effects of lime may not be very evident on the corn crop, it will no doubt increase the grain crop following and certainly stimulate the growth of clovers and grasses the following year. Probably in no other way can a like amount of money be expended to greater advantage.

In buying lime it has been found that if pure burned lime costs $2.75 per ton at the kiln, then hydrated lime or slacked lime should be $2.10 and ground limestone $1.50 per ton. What kind you should use depends entirely upon its quality, price, and the distance it can be hauled to advantage.

WE SHOULD HAVE BETTER GRASS YIELDS

Seeding Timothy To Itself With Liberal Top Dressing Doubles the Yield.

NICKOLAS SCHMITZ.

Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station.

The yield of timothy hay in Maryland, both in quality and in the tons per acre is far below what could be profitably produced on the land now in meadow. In fact, farmers have harvested so many unsatisfactory crops of late years that they are inclined to try something new as a forage crop if anything can be found that would be an improvement on timothy, red top, or the clovers.

The remedy, I believe, is not to be found in a new crop, but in better cultural methods than those we already have. Recent experiments at the Maryland Experiment Station indicate that a much improved yield may be secured by seeding grass to itself in the early fall and by the proper use of fertilizers in the spring. These tests carried on in three fields, one of timothy, one of red top, and one of a mixture of timothy, red top, and clover showed that phosphoric acid when applied alone as in raw bone, acid rock, or any other material had very little effect on timothy, red top, or any other grass. On the other hand, nitrogen or ammonia, especially as found in Nitrate of Soda, regularly gave a large increase in yield.

Taking into account, the ease of applying the fertilizer and the quality of the hay, the best results were gotten by using equal parts of nitrate of soda and acid phosphate at the rate of 250 pounds of each per acre. As compared to strips of grass adjoining that had no fertilizer used on it the yield in 1912 was 1.33 tons per acre as against 2.94 tons where the above mixture was applied as a top dressing. In 1913 the yield was .97 tons, as against 2.93 tons or over three times the yield on land where no fertilizer was used: 250 pounds of nitrate of soda was found to be the most economical amount to use in making the greatest profits possible by top dressing.

The fertilizer should be applied as soon as the grass starts to grow.

BONE NECESSARY TO HEALTHY CHICKS

Builds Up the Framework Of Their Bodies and Keeps Them Healthy.

ROY H. WAITE.

Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station.

All growing animals require mineral matter with which to build up a framework to support their bodies. The more rapidly an animal matures the larger the proportion of mineral material required in its feed during the growth. Most animals mature slowly enough so that they get sufficient ash from the ordinary feeds, but chickens grow very rapidly and if one isn't careful in feeding more flesh will be formed than can be supported by the bird's bones.

LEGWEAKNESS IN CHICKS.

A small flock of chickens on free range will usually get plenty of bone forming material from the bugs and insects they pick up, but in the case of large flocks there isn't enough to go around, especially if kept on a restricted run. Lime and ashes will help some, but are not enough. The safest plan is too keep some ground or granulated bone in a dish before the chicks at all times.

They will eat very little, but this little they want badly. Let's not have any weak-legged crooked-breasted, hump backed, loose-feathered, unhealthy looking creatures in our back yards this spring. A few cents worth of bone will work wonders

MEDIATION PROGRAM ARRANGED

United States and Mexico Willing to Talk Peace

NATIONS MAY ESCAPE WAR

Good Offices of Diplomats of South American Republics Accepted and Dark Clouds Are Dispelled—Some Officials In Washington Do Not Believe Diplomacy Can Bring Huerta to His Knees.

Spanish Ambassador Riano announced he had received official advices from Mexico City stating that General Huerta had accepted the offer of Argentina, Brazil and Chile to use their good offices to bring about an amicable settlement of the difficulty between the United States and Mexico.

This means that all hostilities between the United States and Heurta will cease at least pending the mediation proceedings.

So far as was learned no word has yet been received from Carranza, but there is no doubt in Washington that he will be forced now through public sentiment in Mexico to become a party to the mediation.

The acceptance of the offer of the South American republic to mediate does not mean that the entire Mexican problem has been solved. It does mean, however, that a crisis has been averted and that the chances are very much in favor of some development which will prevent a renewal of the hostilities into which the United States has been forced.

There is nothing in the mediation proposal as submitted to Huerta which indicates the conditions imposed by President Wilson. These conditions are:

That Hue ta be eliminated and that constitutional government in Mexico be restored.

When it comes to the working out of these fundamental problems in the Mexican situation there may be insurmountable difficulties but all Washington drew a deep breath of relief when the news flashed from the Spanish embassy that at least temporary suspension of the trouble was assured.

If Huerta finally accepts the conditions imposed by President Wilson and consents to his own elimination he will reverse himself from his previous defiant stand.

In the present emergency, however, Huerta will find himself under tremendous pressure not only from the European powers but from practically all of the Latin American countries.

The attitude of all the Central and South American governments was indicated when several of them signified their willingness to join with Argentine, Brazil and Chile in urging Huerta to accept the present opportunity to give peace to Mexico.

The three A. B. C. governments of South America have based their representations to Huerta on the ground not only of peace in Mexico, but upon the broader ground of the effect upon all Latin America. This latter plea offers Huerta an opportunity to yield without the humiliation that arises from a consideration of his own political fortunes and the immediate future of Mexico.

It must be acknowledged that official Washington is skeptical in regard to the mediation negotiations under way. In fact it was learned that several of the leaders of the administration have little hope that any settlement will be affected.

All are agreed, however, that the United States would have been unjustified in declining to avail itself of this last opportunity for a peaceful termination of the crisis.

All agree, too, that the breathing spell will give this government a chance to strengthen its position through the arrival of troops at Vera Cruz and through the removal of refugees from Mexico.

It was learned that Chile, Argentina and Brazil are not the only Latin American countries that brought pressure to bear upon Huerta to accept the present opportunity. The diplomatic representatives of several of the Latin countries, one or two of them in Central America, expressed a desire to add the weight of their influence to the efforts being made for a peaceful adjustment of the situation.

Entirely aside from the mediation situation the administration was more encouraged over the news from Mexico than it was for some time. Not only were the conditions in Mexico City reported more favorable, with refugees leaving freely on every train, but also the situation along the border was more quiet.

Texas Militia Out.

An entire regiment of the Texas national guard was ordered to mobilise at Brownsville, Tex., for border patrol duty. Governor Colquitt will order the other two regiments to the border unless a request to Secretary of War Garrison for additional troops for Texas points is granted.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

Mrs. Allie Haymond and her sister, Mrs. Cora Bishop, have returned to Fairmont, W. Va.. They expect to return to the Park in a few weeks for the summer.

Contractor M. M. Schrock is putting a large porch in front of the News building. The interior of the building is to be remodeled for housekeeping.

The Prevost family had an enjoyable family reunion last Saturday and Sunday, when Mr. L. C. Prevost of Clarksburg, W. Va., and his daughter and her husband, Mr. Lysle Schill, of Green Springs, W. Va., joined Mrs. Prevost and Dr. Louis around the home circle.

The many friends of Mrs. Alma Clary decided to give her a donation to begin housekeeping on. Mrs. Clary had rented a cottage in Loch Lynn and had gone to Grafton, W. Va., to visit relatives for a short time. In her absence her friends hereabouts placed a liberal supply of groceries, provisions, etc., in the cottage. When Mrs. Clary returned home Friday she found a few friends on hand to welcome her home and "deliver the goods." It was a christain act and worthily bestowed. Mrs. Clary will clerk during the coming season for Mr. E. E. Kesner.

Leighton & Harvey will use an auto-delivery car in their business this summer. There is nothing slow about the merchants of this place. They are up-to-date in every respect.

The great Bible convention arranged for by Dr. Reed is the greatest program ever announced for the Park. It includes the Rev. Billy Sunday and other great workers of National and International fame.

The Park is as pretty as a picture and growing prettier each day. The front looks splendid. Many houses are being painted. Masons, carpenters, painters, and everybody who wants to wor. are busy. A general cleaning up is going on and everybody is hopeful.

Mrs. J. L. Echard had a severe attack of quinsy last Saturday and Miss Luceil was confined to her room by tonsolitis.

Mr. R. G. Richardson, one of our most cheerful summer visitors, has been confined to his room, at his home in Piedmont, with rheumatism, for the past ten days.

Miss Belle Pritchard, of Mannington. W. Va., has returned to the Park for the summer.

Thos. Callis, of the Park, is acting as deputy sheriff during Mr. DeWitt's absence.

The question under discussion here is not "What will be the outcome of the Mexican trouble?" but "Who will be the postmaster or postmistress at the Park?" The only reason for a change is "to the victor belongs the spoils."

Dr. Forest Harbert, of Wyette, W. Va., is a guest at the home of Mrs. Hayward.

Rev. McCamick of the Deer Park circuit, preached in the Methodist church Sunday morning.

The anniversary of Odd Fellowship filled the United Brethren church Sunday morning. The program announced in The Republican last week was carried out.

There is more remodeling and improving of houses going on in the Park than there has been for several years. A good sign of returning prosperity.

Dr. Hare, Superintendent of the Anti Saloon League, will preach in the Methodist church of this place next Sunday at 11 a. m.

One of the very enjoyable features of the Epworth League meeting last Sabbath evening was the solo of Miss Louise Chance.

Street Commissioner Echard has the road machine putting the streets in tip-top condition.

Marriage Licenes.

Edward H. Repgert, Frostburg, and Miss Beulah Clara Getty, Grantsville.

Ray Wilmer Lipscomb, near Aurora, W. Va., and Miss Lula Cathell, near Etam, W Va.

Charles Mitchell Shuttleworth, near Aurora, and Miss Flottie Waters Shuttleworth, Austin. W. Va.

BITTINGER.

The Mexican war excitement has reached even this quiet hamlet.

Several droves of fine beef cattle were driven through this section last week, destined for the eastern market.

George Yommer and family, of Centreville, Pa., spent Sunday among relatives here.

John Beitzell made a business trip to Oakland last Monday, with a view to purchasing a farm in that neighborhood.

A decided evidence of the presence of spring is the occasional passage of an automobile along the quiet country roads.

Jacob Brenneman and family attended the funeral of the late John Fitzwater, at North Glade a few days ago.

Mr. John Walburn of Jennings, and Miss Myrtle Wiley, of this village, stole quietly away last week, and were married in the city of Cumberland, and at this writing have not returned from their honey moon. We extend congratulations and best wishes for a long and happy life.

Mrs. Boucher, of Centerville, Pa., visited her sister Mrs. C. E. Ellithorp, here, last Sunday.

The frequent rains are delaying the sowing of oats.

SHORT RUN.

The farmers of this section are busy sowing oats and plowing for corn.

Mr. Daniel Wilson recently purchased a new Hoosier grain drill.

Mr. Jesse White who is operating his saw mill here, spent last week at his farm near Bethlehem.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Harvey and Mrs. S. E. Harvey spent a very pleasant Sunday at the home of G. W. Moon at Eagle Rock.

Miss Lucy Markwood, of Kitzmiller, spent Saturday and Sunday visiting friends here.

Mr. H. L. Pool, of Kitzmiller, was here on business one day last week, Misses Ruth Wilson and Edith Warnick were visiting Mrs. Ora Warnick on Wolfe Den last Wednesday.

Misses Cassie and Cinda Wilson were shopping in Kitzmiller last Friday.

Mr. Jason Long spent Saturday in Gormania.

Rev. J. E. Scott preached a very interesting sermon here Sunday morning.

HOYES.

Quarterly meeting was held at this place last Saturday and Sunday and was very well attended, considering the rainy weather. Rev. Reed gave us one of those excellent sermons he is capable of giving. He was accompained here by Mrs. Reed.

Hobart Bishoff and Willie Enlow spent Sunday at Oakland with Mr. George E. Bishoff, who is seriously ill.

Rev. Henry Friend and daughter Miss Sudie of Mt. Lake Park were visiting J. A. Dewitt and family several days last week.

D. O. Dewitt and wife had as dinner guests last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Caster, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Friend, Bliss Friend and two sisters.

Miss Della Savage went to Sang Run Tuesday, after spending a week with her sister at this place.

Mrs. Clifford Friend and little son of Pomeroy, Washington, are guests of Mrs. J. A. Dewitt this week.

Among those from this place attending church at Sang Run Sunday were Thos. Bishoff and family, Miss Grace Friend, Cecil Smith and Wesley Callis.

Mrs. Charles Callis is visiting relatives at Grantsville.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Spoerline, and baby spent last Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. John Spoerline at Accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Enlow were visiting their daughter Margaret at Thaverville one day recently.

Mrs. Bettie Dewitt and daughter Mayme attended church at Sang Run Monday night.

George Seabold and wife spent Sunday at the home of Willie Mattingly.

Nominating Meeting at Deer Park.

A town meeting was held in the school house Monday evening to nominate a ticket to be voted on at the election next Monday.

Frank Thrasher was chairman and Wm. Miller was clerk of the meeting. The candidates selected were mayor. W. L. Shaffer mayor, James Walter. council, Robert Thrasher, Robert Hinebaugh, Oscar Harvey, Harry Thrasher, F. C. Browning, Wm. Nine. Four to be elected.

THE VERY BEST OF ITS KIND.

No Doubt That Kit Carson Buffalo Ranch Big Three-Ring Wild West Circus is the Best Attraction of its Character in Existance.

The above attraction will exhibit at Oakland on Tuesday May 5th, afternoon and night, is without doubt the largest and best amusement enterprise of its kind extant. No expense has been spared to make it so. Coming as they do, with their peerless troop of men, of all nations, the pioneers of the west, Indians of nearly all trines, their daring Cowboys, beautiful Cowgirls, Zouaves, Cossacks, Mexicans, Arabs, cavalry of the United States, Germany, France and England, they are well prepared to give us the very best performance we have ever had the good fortune to witness. And no doubt we will in return give them a packed arena. Excursions are to be run from all points and we will have one of the biggest crowds here that we have ever had. But Oakland can well take care of them and we will entertain them in her usual style. Two performances will be given on May 5th. And dont forget the date.

Several features of this world famous attraction are the young ladies of the western plains in their remarkable riding and shooting. Cavalry of many nations, including our own boys in blue, Indians from all tribes, Cossacks from Russia, the finest horsemen in the world, Vaqueros from Mexico, Cowboys in tricks and fancy riding and many others which we have not space at present to mention.

The mile long parade will take place before the performance begins and all should seek the main thoroughfares and secure a suitable point from which to witness this great cavalcade.

MR. R. E. SLIGER MADE PRESIDENT SCHOOL BOARD

At a Meeting Held Tuesday, Mr. F. E. Rathbun Elected Superintendent.

The Board of School Commissioners of Garrett county met in their room, at the court house Tuesday. The time of C. E. Elithorp having expired he retired from the board, after years of faithful service. The new board is composed of R. E. Sliger, president, P. J. Yost and Joseph T. Glotfelty.

F. E. Rathbun was re-elected Secretary and Superintendent of schools for two years.

The board appomted the necessary trustees for the county, who will be notified at an early date of their appointment.

The board deemed it advisable to secure a more complete plan and specifications for the new school house to be built at Accident. They therefore employed an architect of Cumberland to prepare new plans and specifications to be submitted at an adjourned meeting to be held on May 18th, at which time the contract will be let.

The wisdom of this action will not be questioned. The day when anything will answer for a school house has passed away, never to return.

Knoxville Saloons Closed.

Knoxville, for years the "wettest" place in Frederick county, was "dry" May 1st. Under an act of the Legislature, every saloon went out of business at midnight and for the first time in 60 years no intoxicants can be sold in the town. Thur day was payday on the railroad centre of Pet rsville district and for its size had more saloons than any community in the country. It was the nearest "wet" place to Brunswick. License for the sale of liquor can be issued now only in Frederick, Emmitsville, Creagerstown and Woodsboro.

MAY QUEENS DAY LAST FRIDAY.

This Is The Month When Spring Is Most Charming.

Last Friday was the first day in witching May. Mere mortals had to bow and pay homage to the May Queen, who assumes the season's throne. And poets, dreamers and just plain, every day mortals who love the open for its own sake, expressed hopes that the spring, so coy, so shy, so disapointing this year, would decide to stay awhile.

In ye olden tyme the first day of the fifth month was one of great rejoicing. Among the Germanic and Latin peoples it has always been associated with festal ceremonies in their origm religions. With the ancients, it was a custom to rise early and go forth into the fields gathering all manner of wild fruits and flowers. There is evidently a pagan origin behind this observance, which was confined to no particular class, but was enjoyed by plebeians and patricians with equal enthusiasm. Maia was worshipped thousands of years ago as the goddese of bounty and fertility, and in the midst of the past the May day celebration is linked, somehow, with this beneficent deity.

Closley akin to it, too, was the Roman Floralia, which was celebrated on April 28. Flora was another goddess of fertility. From these these ancient customs sprang others which spread throughout the world, and the May birth is now celebrated in almost every land and clime.

COL. STURGISS CAMP SONS OF VETERANS NO. 14

Was Organized in Oakland Last Thursdry Night.

Last Thursday night, pursuant to notice published in THE REPUBLICAN, a number of the sons and grandsons of the veterans of the Civil war, met in the hall on the third floor of the First National bank building, this city, for the purpose of organizing a camp of the Sons of Veterans. There were present to institute the camp Division Commander William Kefauver, of Hagerstown; Senior Vice Commander Harry L. Strieb; John A. Rinehart, Post Commander Garfield Post, Baltimore; Curtis L. Grimm, Assistant Acting Secretary and Dudley Barnes, Division Assistant Acting Secretary, of Hagerstown; Dr. E. J. M. Button, Oakland.

The camp was instituted with due ceremony and the following officers were elected and installed:

Commander, Norman R. Sanner.
Vice Commander, Wm. A. Sturgiss.
Jr. V. Commander, Claude Brown.
Secretary, Neal Fraley.
Treasurer, Edward Leary.
Council, E. A. Weimer, Milton Sincell and S. O. Wiley.

The meeting was very enthusiastic and interesting. The charter will be kept open for 30 days so that those who were not present at the organization, because of the very disagreeable night, may yet come in as charter members. We would urge every son and grandson of a veteran to unite with this splendid organization. It is a great honor to be a charter member of a camp of the Sons of Veterans. This is a grand opportunity that you have today. Avail yourselves of it. The grand old heroes of the Civil war are rapidly passing into eternity.

The date and place of the next meeting will be announced by the council in a few days. The camp has 19 members. It should have 100. During the evening addresses were made by Division Vice Commander Harry L. Streib, Division Commander William Kefauver and Dr. E. J. M. Button.

THE DEATH RECORD

MRS. LILLIAN GROVE.

Mrs. Lillian Grove, of Keyser, W. Va., aged 27 years, died Friday morning at the Allegany Hospital Cumberland, following an operation for appendicitis. The body was removed to the Stein Funeral parlors, Cumberland, whence it was taken to the home of a brother, C. R. Barker, at Keyser. The deceased is survived by her mother, Mrs. Sarah E. Barker, residing at Cumberland; three sisters, Mrs. A. W. Camp, of Piedmont; Mrs. Jas. Coffman, of Bloomington, and Mrs. Oates, of Keyser; two brothers, W. A. Barker, of Fulton, N. Y., and G. A. Barker, of Keyser. The remains were taken to Swanton, Md., Monday morning where services were conducted in the Episcopal church and burial made in the Episcopal cemetery.

MRS. A. HOLMES LAUGHIN.

The many friends of Mrs. A. Holmes Laughlin in this vicinity were pained yesterday morning to learn of her death Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock, at the Western Maryland Hospital, from typhoid fever, aged 45 years. The remains were taken to Grafton, W. Va., Tuesday evening. Burial will be made at Mont Rose, W. Va. Mr. Laughlin was with his wife in the hour of her death. Mrs. Laughlin was one of the pleasant, genial, good natured women of this county. At her home at Deer Park, and all over the county where she was known, she was highly esteemed. A splendid neighbor, a true friend and a noble wife. She will be greatly missed. Her husband will have the deepest sympathy of all who knew his wife.

The State and License.

When the State licenses the saloon it is giving legal sanction to the very thing it was organized to prevent. The purpose of the State is to suppress evil while the saloon is the supreme fountain of evil. The State exists to maintain peace and order, the saloon is the enemy of both. The virtue of the people is the stability of the State, the saloon destroys this virtue. It is the function of the State to make and enforce laws, the saloon is the supreme cause of lawlessness. The existence of the saloon places in jeopardy every purpose of the State. Can the State be true to herself and legalize that which more than all other institutions combined blocks her purpose?—Christian Statesman.

COXEY AND HIS ARMY OF FOURTEEN AT GRANTSVILLE

The Commander With His "Host" Passed Safely Through

Hungry, footsore, weary and with rag ed clothing clinging to their bodies, General Jacob Sechler Coxey, with his army of 14 enlisted men arrived at Grantsville Tuesday afternoon and took up quarters in the Socialist Hall for the night. The march was from Somersfield, Pa., where for the first time since the leg Massilon, Ohio., every member of the army took a good night's rest sleeping between two white sheets on old fashioned soft fluffy feather beds with springs beneath.

Commissioned officers, non-commissioned officers and privates, even the wind-jammers of the army of the commonwealth army marching in rout Proprietor Chilord Springer, of the Youghioghany House at Somerfield, where General Coxey was compelled to dig down in his jeans and produce $1 for each member of the army, including the General and Mrs. Coxey, and their son David. The General made no comment to the proprietor about the added expense of paying for his men's rations.

At Somerfield a party of 30 young men, all residents of the little town, called on the General at the hotel and asked permission to join the army. After an examination as to the physical fitness of the volenteers which outnumbered the army itself, the General signified his willingness to administer the oath of enlistment to each of the recruits, but they all wilted and asked General Coxey to allow them to go home and bid there loved ones goodby before starting on the march to Washington. The good hearted General granted them leave of absence and started filling in the enlistment papers but none of the recruits returned to take the oath of enlistment.

General Coxey, weary and tired of waiting, detailed his son David, who ranks as a corporal in the army of the commonweal, and a strongarm squad of the best-looking men in ranks, to ascertain if possible the cause of delay. After more than an hour spent in taking in the town the squad returned, and Corporal David Coxey made his report to the General. He said that they had visited both the livery stables in Somerfield, and found the proprietors frantic, who argued that if the young men enlisted in the army there would be no one in the little town to hire teams to take the girls of Somerfield out driving.

He also said that the feminine population was downhearted, and that the squad had witnessed many heated arguments between couples occupying front porch swings, while others were weeping and shedding tears at the front gate. Anyway, the report was not at all favorable to the General, who relieved the squad of any further duty for the evening, and all retired for the night.

At six o'clock in the morning reveille was sounded by the official trumpeter and all arose from their beds, and after using several hundred gallons of Youghioghney river in the hotel bath room, the army flocked to the dining room for breakfast. There orders were given for beefsteak rare and well done, eggs fried, boiled hard or soft, while some of the soldiers who had seen more active service in the commonwealth army than others, said they would take their eggs shipwrecked. After partaking of a hearty breakfast and the General had made everything good with the hotel proprietor, assembly was sounded and the army fell in under heavy marching order and started for Grantsville.

After a hard days march through the rain and across the mountains the army reached Grantsville headed by General Coxey and his wife riding in his phaeton and drawn by his trusty steed, followed by their eleven-year-old son David, astride his pony, while the fourteen members of the commonweal army army marching in route step, and limping, brought up the rear. A corps of six newspaper men are also following the army across the country on foot, carrying typewriters on their backs.

The Circus Abandoned Performance.

The circus people were forced to abandon the performance advertised to take place in Oakland last Tuesday. The day was one of the most wretched experienced for a long time. It rained and at times poured. The circus trains did not reach Oakland until late in the morning. The bad condition of the roads made it almost impossible to get the tents poles, etc., to the show grounds. About 2 p. m. the announcement was made that there would be no night show, but that there would be an afternoon performance. The band played one piece of music in front of the Garrett National bank building and then went to the show grounds, but as no seats had been put up and because of the great difficulty in getting the material together the show people gave up and abandoned the idea of having any performance and begun to take the tents down and pack up. There was a fine lot of horses, and some Indians and a great many show people. Of the street fakers we have nothing to say. In loading the show Tuesday one of the most valuable of the horses was killed by being struck by a fast freight train.

The straw hat has made its appearance.

WHERE YOU MAY NOT FISH.

Streams Stocked During the Past Two Years Closed To Angling.

That the new Garrett County Fish Law passed by the Legislature is almost prohibitory and will permit little trout fishing in the next two years is the opinion of local fishermen.

The bill makes it unlawful "to kill, take or catch in any manner whatever any brook trout or other trout from any of the streams of Garrett county which have been stocked with said fish from the state's fish hatchery for the period of two years from April 1, 1914."

There are 28 streams in Garrett county that have been stocked this year over which fish wardens are now being employed to keep strict surveillance. They are Salt Block, Salt Creek, McLean's Run, Muddy Creek, Crabtree Run, Murley's Run, Cherry Creek, Bear Creek, Short Run, Wolf Den Run, Harrington Creek, Edgewood, Merley Run, Wilson Lake, Big Savage River, Hoyes Run, Speicher's Run, Castlemen River, Delawder Run, Younh Stream, Forks Run, North Fork, Bear Creek, Sang Run and Buffalo Run.

To fish for trout before April 1, 1916, in any of these streams will not only be an evidence of poor sportsmanship, but will be a violation of the law, punishable by a heavy fine. Several arrests have already been made by Deputy State Game Warden E. M. Warden, of Kitzmiller, and several wardens are now being employed to police the streams in the eastern section of the county where Allegany county anglers are wont to cast their lines.

Notices are being posted in every section of Garrett county with regard to this matter and all the weekly and daily newspapers, at the request of the best fishermen, are giving the law an unusual amount of publicity, so if any one happens to be disturbed by the strong arm of the law while unlawfully angling in a freshly stocked stream they will receive neither mercy from the law nor sympathy from anglers who have the best interests of the sport at heart.

The law fixes violations of its provisions as a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of not less than $5 or more than $50.

Sunday School Market.

On Saturday afternoon, May 9th, Mrs. Moore's Sunday school class of the M. E. church will hold a market at Sturgiss' Pharmacy, the proceeds of the affair to be turned over to the parsonage fund. You are invited to show the young ladies having charge of the market that you are interested.

The Methodist church last Sunday morning had a very large congregation to hear Dr. Moore preach a splendid sermon.

NIGHT SERVICE IN LOCAL OFFICE INAUGURATED

Garrett County Telephone Company Now Operating All Night Service.

The Garrett County Telephone Company has inaugurated an all day and night telephone service in the Oakland exchange. This service will be appreciated by the public and will greatly enlarge the business of the company. Such a service has been greatly needed by the patrons of the company. In case of sickness, the need of an officer of the law, or any other case of emergency is now provided for.

The company has purchased a team and outfit and have a force of men at work under the management of Mr. Joseph McCrobie putting the entire system in first class condition, stringing additional lines, removing limbs of trees and otherwise improving the working conditions of the lines.

The company is greatly encouraged by the increased support it is receiving from the public. Since the first day of January 40 new phones have been put in. Five phones were ordered Monday morning.

The Mountain Lake Park line has been rebuilt throughout and is giving splendid service.

Something New Under the Sun.

Monday morning last Squire L. A. Rudisill opened an office as Justice of the Peace in the room formerly occupied by Hinsky, the tailor, in the Ravenscroft building this city. Mr. Rudisill will also conduct a real estate and rental agency, under the name of the Garrett County Realty Co. He has had a large and successful experience in handling real estate. If you have property to sell, or if you desire to purchase a property Mr. Rudisill will be pleased to talk the matter over with you or receive a letter from you. When in town drop in his office.

Sunday School Hour Changed.

Beginning the coming Sunday morning and continuing through the summer months, St. Paul's M. E. Sunday school will meet at 9.30 instead of 2.15 p. m. Let every member of the school note the change, and be in his or her place.

Mr. L. L. Loar, of Grafton, who purchased the Lieutenant West property near this city, has taken possession of the same and put a number of men to work making repairs, painting and papering. He and family expect to move here about the first of June, for the summer.

STATE-WIDE GAME LAWS PASSED BY LEGISLATORE

Which Annul All Local Logislation Relating To Gunning

MARYLAND STATE GAME AND FISH PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION,
Baltimore, Md., April 30, 1914.

THE REPUBLICAN, Oakland, Md.

The annexed bemg two of the important laws passed by the recent legislature and which are state-wide, (Chapters 472 and 641) is a uniform state-wide law and therefore the season will open in the state of Maryland, in all counties at the same time, November 10 and close December 24.

It is absolutely in violation of the law for anyone to go out with a gun to hunt or shoot before Nov. 10.

We would appreciate it if you will publish these two laws in your paper so that the general public will know what the law is in reference to the seasons and also the power and authority given to the officers who are enforcing the laws. Yours truly,

HENRY P. BRIDGES, Sec,y.

(CHAPTER 472.)

An Act to repeal and re-enact, with amendments, Sections 20 and 21 of Article 99 of the Code of Public General Laws of Maryland, title "Wild Fowl, Birds and Game."

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Sections 20 and 21 of Article 99 of the Code of Public General Laws of Maryland, title, "Wild Fowls, Birds and Game," be and the same are hereby repealed and reenacted, with amendments, to read as follows:

Section 20. No person shall shoot, trap, catch or kill or gun or hunt for any partridge or quail, English of Mongolian pheasant, American pheasant, Dark Neck Bohemian pheasant, pheasants or ruffled grouse, rabbit, squirrel, wild turkey, woodcock or deer within the state of Maryland between the twenty-fourth day of December and the tenth day of November in any year, exclusive of both dates, nor upon Sunday or when the ground is sufficiently covered with snow to track the birds or game above mentioned. And there shall be a daily closed season upon all the above enumerated game birds and game animals with the exception of rabbits between sunrise and sunset.

Section 21. Any person convicted before any justice of the peace of this state for violating the preceeding Section (20) shall be fined not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars and costs for each and every offense. And any deputy game warden, constable or other person who shall procure the conviction of any person or persons violating the provisions of the preceding Section shall receive one half of the line collected, and the remaining one-half of the fine shall be paid over to the state treasury to be credited to the account of the State Game Protection fund. Provided, that any person who fails to pay any fine so imposed shall be committed to jail for not less than twenty-five nor more than sixty days.

Section 2. And be it further enacted, That all general and local laws inconsistent with any provision or provisions of this Act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 16, 1914.

(CHAPTER 614.)

An Act to repeal and re-enact, with amendments, Section 48 of Article 99 of the Code of Public General Laws of Maryland, title "Wild Fowl, Birds and Game."

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Marvland, That Section 48 of Article 99 of the Code of Public General Laws of Maryland, title "Wild Fowl, Birds and Game," be and the same is hereby repealed and re-enacted to read as follows:

Section 48. The game warden for the state and every deputy game warden shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, take and subscribe before the clerk of the circuit court of the county of which he is resident, or if a resident of Baltimore city, before the clerk of the superior court of Baltimore city, the oath or affirmation prescribed by the section of the first article of the Constitution of this state, which oath or affirmation shall be recorded in the clerk's office of such county or city. The game warden throughout the state and also deputy game warden so appointed, after the recording of the oath or affirmation to be by said game warden or deputy game warden taken as aforesaid, shall, in the counties, city or cities for which such deputy game warden may be appointed, possess and exercise all the authority and powers held or exercised by constables at common law and also all authorities and powers conferred by law upon policemen in the city of Baltimore or other cities of the state, as far as arresting and prosecuting the persons for violation of any of the fish and game laws of this state are concerned; and they are hereby vested with additional powers to arrest without warrants persons suspected or known to be guilty of violating any of the provisions of the game and fish laws of this state, and to forthwith take any and all such persons before the nearest justice of the peace to be dealt with in accordance with the provisions of the game and fish laws of this state. In the event of finding game and fish taken or had in possession contrary to the provision of any of the game or fish laws of this state upon the persons so dealt with, they shall proceed in the manner described in Section 52, 53, 54, and 55. The clerk shall only charge fifty cents for recording such oath or affirmation.

Section 2. And be it further enacted, That this act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 10, 1914.

WANT MARYLANDERS TO GROW POTATOES

U. S. Bureau Appeals to Farmers Along Potomac River.

The Department of Agriculture has declared a quarantine against Maine potatoes because of the prevalence of powdery scab in that state. The quarantine will allow the movement of potatoes out of Maine after August 1, 1914, only under conditions to be prescribed by the department which will take over the work now being done by the state to prevent the spread of the pest.

Officials of the Agricultural Department also have issued an appeal to farmers down the Potomac in both Maryland and Virginia to grow potatoes. Washington every year eats 136,000 bushels of potatoes, for which it pays the dealer $1.25 a bushel. This consumption allows but half a bushel to every resident of the capital. This would mean $169,000 for men down the river.

The Department of Agriculture contends that this is folly to import this enormous amount of potatoes from distant points at higher prices when the best potato land in the world is within one day's shipment of Washington. In the days of George Washington, and as late as those of Robert E. Lee, the Potomac lands were noted for their production of potatoes, and crops of 150 and 200 bushels to the acre were not uncommon.

The appeal to farmers of this vicinity was issued at the same time the department put a quarantine on potatoes from Maine. Assistant Secrecary Beverly T. Galloway said the appeal was prompted largely by the rapid extension of the potato quarantine, which has been growing in the United States and against foreign countries steadily for more than a year.

The department first put the quarantine on foreign potatoes to guard the American crop from the powdery scab. The scab was found m this country despite the precautions, and the embargo has had to be extended to several states.

REPUBLICANS BECOMING ACTIVE.

Indications That the Party is Regaining Its Normal Strength.

There appears to be very much more activity in Republican political circles than in the ranks of the opposition, says the American of Baltimore. Excepting, possibly, the First, all the districts will present candidates for Congress. In Baltimore City, Messrs. Albert M. Sproesser and Charles W. Maine are again being boomed by their friends, while in the Fourth, Thomas T. Hammond, a prominent insurance man, is mentioned: Sidney E. Mudd and, perhaps, Oliver S. Metzerott and Stone Posey will be in the field in the fifth, while State Senator Frederick N. Zihlman appears to be the choice of Republicans in the Sixth district.

Reports received from all parts of the state indicate a return to the fold of former Progressives, and the leaders are confident the party will hold its full vote at the coming elections.

More interest is shown in the senatorial elections than in the congressional contests, and there is now a likelihood of a fight for the nomination. Much depends upon the decision to be reached by former Senator Jackson. As has been stated in the American, Mr. Jackson has been endeavoring to learn the sentiment of the voters and the general conditions in this state. With that purpose in view he sent letters to the workers throughout the state, and to those he is now receiving responses.

That Colonel Edward C. Carrington, the former Bull Moose leader, and now again an ardent Republican would accept a nomination and that he will probably oppose Senator Jackson in the primaries is not denied. Those close to Colonel Carrington are confident he will enter. His name was prominently mentioned in connection with the honor last year when Senator Lee was elected. It is also rumored that Colonel W. Bladen Lowndes is in a receptive mood. There are Republicans who believe he would be a candidate if Senator Jackson should decline the honor.

The fact that so much interest is being manifested is conclusive evidence that the Republicans are more than hopeful of again securing representation in the National Congress and this is regarded by the leaders as decidedly encouraging.

Arrested For Assault.

One day last week Deputy Sheriff Thomas Callis went to Maysville and arrested Thomas Conner charged with assault with attempt to kill James Hinebaugh, at the mines near that place. Mr. Hinebaugh was walking along the road with a package of dynamite in one hand and a bucket of water in the other hand. Mr. Conner came up and struck him several times with an iron bar, bruising his head pretty badly. He was brought to Oakland and before Squire Freis, who bound him over for appearance next Saturday.

OAKLAND-GORTNER STATE-AID ROAD

The Bond Accepted. Contract Signed By Commissioners Monday.

The contract for the Oakland-Gortner road was signed up Monday, at the regular meeting of the County Commissioners and Messrs. Landon & Co., furnished bond for the sum of $54,560 for the faithful performance of the work. Mr. Landon is an experienced contractor. He had in the past contracts with the New York Central, Pennsylvania Central and other railroad companies. Mr. Landon, on his trip to Columbus, Ohio, last week, was accompained by L. H. Friend, the agent of the Williams Contract Company. While in Columbus Mr. Landon purchased a steam [illegible] concrete mixer, dump wagons, wheel drag scrapers, etc., for use on the road. This machinery is to be delivered at Oakland by next Monday. Work will begin as soon thereafter as the Good Roads Commissioners put in the necessary stakes to work by.

Work will begin at the corporation line of Oakland and rushed to the point where it leaves the Mountain Lake Park road to turn into the Weber road. The contractors expect to complete the road to this point before the season opens at the Park. The new road will follow along the fence of Wm. Weber's place, when it leaves the Park road, crossing the Little Yough at the present Weber bridge. This will be a concrete bridge with three 30 foot spans. About 300 feet further on will be a small concrete bridge with a 10 foot span.

The first course of the road bed will be native stone gotten on the Weber farm. The steam crusher will be set at the quarry and put to work at once. The stone being so handy the work can be rushed right along. This course will be 5 inches thick. The next course will be 3 inches thick. The limestone will be shipped here, as will also the finishing course, consisting of limestone screenings.

General Sickles Dead

General Daniel E. Sickles, the choleric veteran of Gettysburg, died at his home in New York Sunday night. Death caused by cerebral hemmorhages, came quietly.

The gnarled old battle eagle, whose life was one continual tempest, surrendered to death as peacefully as a child might. He was 89 years old. At his bedside when the end came was his wife, Caroline C. Sickles, who just three weeks ago returned to the old soldier, after 29 years of absence.

THE FIRST STEEL BATTLESHIPS

George Kennan, explorer and lecturer, recently communicated to the National Geographic Society, at Washington, D. C., the information that Korea built steel-clad battleships 250 years before the Monitor and Merrimac were created. The Hermit Kingdom was using movable type and astronomical instruments from the twelfth to the fifteenth centuries and employing explosive bombs long before they were known in Europe. He points out that the famous Japanese Satsumo potterv was made originally by Korean workmen who were imported into the Mikado's kingdom.

These facts are cited by Mr. Kennan to show the terrific downfall experienced by Korea. He traces her course from her pinnacle of civilization to the depths of degeneracy, and expresses great hopes for her future, under the guidance of Japan.

"While Korea was sinking Japan was rising, until the island kingdom, all by her own efforts, became such a world power as to defeat a great European nation," he says. "The Koreans were a mainland people. They had taught the mediaeval Japs all the civilization they had. But, by reason of their geographical location, they were invaded by vastely inferior peoples, the Mongols and the Manchus. Korea was influenced to establish demonology as her religion, her blood was weakened by being crossed with that of people vastly beneath her, and her spirit was broken by the indignities heaped upon her by the more powerful invaders. She was under the influence of China, which adopted the semi-sacred books of Confucius as its national system of education 2000 years ago. The knowledge of his works and the ability to recite long chapters of his writings were made the chief requirements of the aspirant for honors. As a result, the study of the sciences, mathematics and the phenomena of nature was droppec; the memory was over cultivated and the reasoning power stultified. The habits of the Koreans became uncleanly; they grew indifferent to dirt and smells.

"Japan on the other hand, was never invaded in her history; her blood was never intermingled and her stock was allowed to remain pure. Her national character was developed without outside influence. The Shinto religion of the empire has as its cardinal principles purity of body spirit and environment. Japan was not exposed to the scourges and plagues that Korea's dirt and filth brought upon her. The feudal system sprang up in Japan, causing authority to be respected and discipline to be developed.

"In 1910 Japan annexed Korea. Prior to that time as many deaths as 900 a day had occurred in the city of Seoul alone; shortly afterward not as many people died from the plague in the whole kingdom in one year. Japan forcibly vaccinated 5,400,000 people in one year. One hundred and 68 courts were established, giving authority to 13,000 gendarmes. Hundreds of miles of road are being built. Afforestation on an extensive scale is being carried on. To encourage the silk worm industry 13,000,000 mulberry tree seedings were set out in one year. State and private banks were established. The postal saving system was installed and one in every six families has a saving account. The people, at first suspicious, have learned that they will get their money back whenever they ask for it. In the first year after the Japanese occupancy the rice crop was doubled and the wheat and barley crops grew from 14,000,000 to 36,000,000 bushels. The Japanese have built a model village in every province and are encouraging the people to built similar villages throughout the kingdom."

Mr Kennan points out that Korea has the same geographical advantages as a great portion of the eastern parts of the United States. "She is just as well fitted to be the home of healthy, prosecprous and happy people," he says. "She is located similary to the territory bordering on the Atlantic coast from Portland, Me., to Charleston, S. C., and extending inward inward to Albany, N. Y., Harrisburg, Pa., Lynchburg, Va., and Columbia, S. C."

FORNITURE TAX LAW IN EFFECT NEXT YEAR

New Act Expected To Reduce Assessments In The County $800,000.

The new law which allows an exemption of the tax on furniture and household effects to the value of $500, and which becomes effective on the first of next January, is to be anplicable throughout the entire State; whereas the old law only applied to Baltimore city and Baltimore county, and was so framed as to exempt persons "owning only household effects, the value of which is less than $300, and was construed by the taxing authorities nor not to apply if the owner of the household effects was liable to taxation on any other kind of property.

Two tax emption bills affecting household effects made their appearance at Annapolis during the last session of the Legislature. One was introduced by Mr. Frick, chairman of the city delegation, and was known as the Board of Estimates bill, because it originated in that body and provide for an entire exemption on all household effects. The other was introduced by Mr. McQuade, and was in substance the measure recommended by a joint resolution of the City Council, and provided for the absolute exemption from taxation of all household effects valued at $500 or less. Both measures were referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Mr. McQuade urged his bill and the one recommended by the City Council as being particularly in the interest of "the little fellow," and at the same time being fair to all. The opposition to the Board of Estimates bill was that expensive furniture, paintings, bric-a-brac, statuary, etc., would altogether escape taxation under it. The Committee on Ways and Means reported unfavorably the Frick, or Board of Estimates bill, and the report was adopted by the House, and favorably reported the McQuade bill with some amendments. This bill then passed the House and Senate and has received the approval of the Governor.

The amount now collected in this county from taxation on household effects is about $8,000 a year, and it is estimated that the new law will reduce the amount to about $3,000. Many arguments are used against the taxation of furniture and household effects, and some of them are that this class of property is unproductive, rapidly deteriorates in value and cannot be accurately appraised

Band Concert and Festival

TRUE TESTS OF SOILS

Great Work Made Possible By New Law.

Inquiries are already being received at the Maryland Agricultural College regarding the application of the law passed by the recent General Assembly, appropriating $10,000 with which to examine Maryland soils in order to determine their respective adaptabilities to crops. An appropriation of $20,000 was originally asked and this sum was granted by the Senate, but the House was unwilling to concur. Hence the reduction to $10,000.

As soon as the appropriation is available, the Agricultural College will at once begin to analyze the samples of soils submitted to them from every section of the state. By scientific process the fact will be demonstrated to what fruits, vegetables and cereals the soil in question is best adapted. The fact will be brought out if the soil needs lime, if it needs fertilizer, and if so, what kind.

By this analysis the fact will be proved whether a farmer has been engaged in growing profitless crops because his land was not suited to this particular crop. At the same time the farmer will be advised as to what crop he should plant.

By this scientific examination a farmer can be saved years of toil and great expense necessary to experiment. He can also be advised to shift his energies from one crop to another. In Illinois farming has been revolutionized by the methods to be introduced in Maryland. In brief, it is proposed to make a survey of Maryland soils, just as J. E. Aldred is making a survey of the industrial resources and markets of Baltimore, in order to determine in what manufactures Baltimore's industrial population is best fitted and which products find the most profitable market here.

BRONCHITIS AND COUGH CURE

I. R. Early Writes of Bear's Emulsion

Undoubtedly One of the Best Preparations Ever Made to Tone Up the System

John D. Bear, Elkton, Va.,

Dear Sir: I have used and recommended Bear's Emulsion for three years and before or since I purchased the first bottle I have never seen anything that would relieve the bronchitis for my little girl so promptly as it does I have used it for myself and other children.

Before getting this Emulsion I have stayed away from church an account of a dry hacking cough that I had. Now I take a dose before starting to church and am never bothered during preaching.

I will in good faith recommend it to any one needing anything for cough colds, or bronchitis: J. R. Early.

Report Forest Fires.

Everything is being dore that can be done to guard the timber lands from fire. Much progress has been made in this work the past few years. The latest practical move was made by Forest Patrolman A. L. Sines, who, with the assistance of several men, erected a telephone line from the home of Mr. Jas. W. Beechey to Stem Rock, on the top of Snaggy mountain, where a fire alarm station will be operated and from which fire alarms will be given and help summoned to extinguish fires.

All woodsmen, hunters and others should be very careful in the use of matches and fire. Persons noticing forest fires should report the fact at once. Garrett county forests are too valuable to be destroyed by fires.

Suffragists Will Tour W. Maryland.

With the mountains of Garrett county as their goal, members of the Just Government Laeague are getting ready to put on their seven-league boots for a two week jaunt through Western Maryland in the interest of the "cause."

The "pilgrimage"—they prefer this name to "hike"—will probably be taken the third and fourth weeks in June, and will be led by "General" Edna S. Latimer and Miss Lola Carson Trax, both of whom won their spurs in the walk from Baltimore to Annapolis. Miss Trax and Mrs. Latimer are now consulting maps of Garrett county and planning the route.

The starting point will probably be Oakland, and from here the march will take in Sunnyside, Swanton, Mountain Lake Park and other nearby points. It is hoped to canvass the county so thoroughly in the alloted two weeks that not a voter will escape. Suffrage speeches will be held at every stopping point, and suffrage fliers and buttons will be distributed by the thousands.

Although the announcement that the march will take place has just been made quite a number of suffragists have expressed a willingness to go. Among them are several members of the First District Organization of the Just Government League, of which Mrs. Latimer is the chairman.

at the hour of 10 o'clock, a. m., in front of said mortgaged premises in the town of Deer Park, Garrett county, Maryland, offer at public auction to the highest bidder the property mentioned in and conveyed by said mortgage, situate, lying and being in the town of Deer Park, Garrett county, Maryland, described as follows, to wit:

1. All that lot of ground beginning for the same on the North side of the road leading from Deer Park to Altamont, at the end of the 3rd line of the lot owned and occupied by J. C. Rodeheaver, and running thence [illegible] West, 20 feet to the street leading to the cemetery North [illegible] East, by said street, 66 feet to a stake, thence South 65 East, 257 feet to Union Church Lot, thence South 27 West [illegible] feet, thence South 65 East, 60 feet to the aforesaid Altamont road, thence South [illegible] West, 66 feet, by said road, to the place of beginning, being the same lot which was conveyed to the said James W. Laughlin by Henry G. Davis and wife, by deed dated June 10 [illegible] and recorded in Liber W. H. T., No. 70, folio 58, among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

2. All that other lot of ground adjoining the above described lot, beginning for the same at the end of the first line of land owned by J. C. Rodeheaver, and running thence North 3° West, 150 feet to the street leading to the cemetery, thence North 3° East 66 feet by said street, thence South 65° East 177 feet to the land of the said J. C. Rodeheaver, thence South 27° West, 66 feet to the place of beginning, being the same lot which was conveyed to the said James W. Laughlin by Henry G. Davis and wife, by deed dated October 5, 1885, and recorded in Liber W. H. T., No. 11, folio 351, among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

The improvements consist of a modern, steam heated dwelling house of nine rooms, good well of water, a number of bearing fruit trees, stable and other necessary out buildings, being the residence of the late Dr. James W. Laughlin.

Also a store building, formerly used and occupied by the said Dr. James W. Laughlin as a drug store.

The right is reserved to offer and sell the above described lots of ground with improvements thereon separately or together which ever method of sale will produce the most money for the property.

TERMS OF SALE. As prescribed by said Mortgage, cash on the day of sale. Conveyancing at cost of purchaser.

GIVE THEM A START

This would be a good time for you to start your young folks on the road to Success.

Early training in the practice of self-denial; nstruction as to the use and value of money; opportunities for earning and saving money; all these tend to fix and fasten the children in the ways of thrift and prosperity.

We most gladly assist the young people in getting started.

To pay this amount it was ascertained that the taxable property as shown by the Assessment Books, amounts to $11,925,542.00 which at 90 cents on each $100.00 will make the above amount for County purposes: $107,329.98.

Deducting $1,029,292.00 for corporations paying direct to the State Treasurer leaves the basis $10,896,250.00 at 31 cents on each $100.00 makes: $33,778.38 and this added makes the taxes for State and County purposes: $141,108.36.

EX-SENATOR JACKSON FEELS PUBLIC PULSE

Declares There Are Enough Names On Books to Give Party Control.

A dispatch from Washington says: Former United States Senator William P. Jackson is showing great political activity these days, although he has not announced whether he will or will not be an aspirant for the toga next fall to succeed Senator John Walter Smith.

Mr. Jackson has a large room in the Senate Office Building, where he labors with his private secretary, Amos Woodcock, in perfecting an ante-primary organization.

He is getting in touch with candidates in every precinct in Baltimore city and the candidates of Maryland. When he has obtained all the information he can he will state his position.

In order to ascertain the sentiment in the Republican party, he has sent letters to 10 Republicans in every precinct in the State requesting definite information of the voting strength and other conditions in the party. He is paying special attention to the new registration next fall, and in his letters to the precinct men he says, in part:

"We have enough Republicans in Maryland not registered to make the State Republican. There are now over 20,000 unregistered Republicans in Maryland.

"At the election to be held next November one-third the members of the United States Senate and all the members of the House of Representatives are to be chosen. Hence it is urgently important for all Republicans in Maryland to begin now if we have any desire to be a factor in restoring our party to power at Washington. If we control the next Congress, it means a Republican President and Republican prosperity in 1916.

"At this time I desire a free and frank opinion from you concerning conditions in your own voting precinct. Therefore, I will regard it as a great favor if you will answer the questions on the inclosed sheet carefully and explicitly. I value your opinion most highly, and hope you will find it possible to return the sheet with your answers in the inclosed envelope at an early date. Be careful to fill in your name, voting district or ward and precinct and postoffice address on the blank."

SALOON MAN MUST PAY WIFE OF DRUNKARD.

The United States Supreme Court has found no constitutional objections to a state law making saloonkeepers liable for damages resulting from their sale of liquor.

The Nebraska law permitting wives and children of habitual drunkards to recover damages from saloonkeepers who sell liquor to their husbands and fathers was sustained, and the verdict for $5,000 damages against Louis W. Prenica and Christian W. Schneider, obtained by Mrs. May Bulger, of Nebraska City, was affiarmed.

Under the state law Mrs. Bulger and her children sued the saloonkeepers for selling liquor to Charles Bulger, alleged to have become an habitual drunkard.

The Speicher Local option bill passed at the recent session of the legislature of this state has in it a provision (should the county go wet) that before a license can be issued the applicant must file a bond to cover damages which may be recovered by the wife or children of any person who may have been injured in any way through the drinking of liquor sold by this particular saloonkeeper. In other words, should a man get intoxicated, fall down and break his neck the wife and children could recover damages in court, and if the saloonkeeper had no property the money could be recovered from the bondsmen. This and other provisions in the Speicher bill, peo ple up here say, will practically make the county dry, no matter which way the vote goes.

Postpones Her Visit to United States

QUEEN ELEANORE.

Sofia, May 5.—Queen Eleanore of Bulgaria is not going to the United States, for the present at least. An official statement says: "In view of events in America which Queen Eleanore follows with especial interest her majesty's visit has been postponed until the circumstances are more favorable."

RESERVE BOARD NAMED

Richard Olney of Boston Chosen Governor of Body.

Washington, May 5.—The federal reserve board selected by President Wilson is as follows:

Richard Olney, Boston, governor of board.

Paul Warburg, New York.

Harry A. Wheeler, Chicago.

W. P. G. Harding, Birmingham, Ala.

William Denman, San Francisco.

Secretary McAdoo and John Skelton Williams, comptroller of the currency, are ex-officio members.

Acceptances are still being awaited from Messrs. Olney and Harding.

The men appointed by the president with Secretary McAdoo and Comptroller of the Currency John Skelton Williams will have tremendous power in their hands. They will have the power of fixing discount rates in the various districts and may order the transfer of reserves from one section to another. Probably the first big task which will devolve upon the board will be to review the selections of reserve districts and cities announced by the organization committee.

Olney Smiles; No Comment.

Boston, May 5.—Richard Olney smiled when shown the dispatch announcing his appointment by President Wilson as governor of the federal reserve board. He would make no comment whatever.

STEAMER ON FIRE

Wireless Stations Do Not Get Name of Vessel.

Halifax, N. S., May 5.—It has been impossible to obtain the name of the steamship reported on fire 150 miles from Sable Island by the steamship Seydlitz of the North German Lloyd line.

The information regarding the fire came in a message repeated from the Sable Island station to C. H. Harvey, agent of the Maine fisheries department, and he is unable to throw further light upon it.

Crew May Be Saved.

St. Johns, N. B., May 5.—An unidentified steamer, on fire from stem to stern, and with no signs of life on board, was discovered 300 miles south of Cape Race by the steamer Seydlitz, from Bremen for New York. The Seydlitz immediately called by wireless for assistance.

The Seydlitz circled around the burning vessel but the smoke hung so heavy about her that her name could not be distinguished.

As no small boats were discovered in the vicinity it was believed that all hands were rescued by some ship which had no wireless.

Get Bandit's Loot.

Hollidaysburg, Pa., May 5.—The Blair county court made an order directing the authorities to turn over to a New York fidelity company $600 in money, diamonds, rings and jewelry taken by them from Frank G. Hohl, the Altoona bank bandit, at the time of his incarceration. The company had insured the bank against robbery.

B. and O. Engine Blows Up.

Grafton, W. Va., May 5.—A Baltimore and Ohio freight engine, acting as part of a doubleheader, blew up eight miles east of here, the explosion killing Fireman Raber and perhaps fatally injuring Engineer Probst. Raber's body was blown fifty yards into the river.

Town Attacked by Forest Fires

Ridgway, Pa., May 5.—Forest fires are raging in this vicinity. It was found necessary to call out the local fire department to protect the property in the south end of town.

THURSDAY, MAY 7, 1914.

THE Wilson administration so far has appointed 15,346 postmasters.

KANSAS has one hundred and five jails, of this number forty eight are without prisoners. Why? Kansas has no saloons.

THIS is the season of the year when business men should do their most attractive advertising.

THE deficit in the United States Treasury this fiscal year, so far, is $35,653,843 against a surplus of $6,695,180 last year. This is exclusive of Panama Canal and public debt transactions. This is equal to a total deficiency of over $42,000,000.

NEXT Sunday will be observed all over the country as "Mother's Day." Ministers are preparing special sermons and the church choirs of the various churches will have special musical programs which will be carried out in connection with the event. The flower worn on this day is the white carnation.

IT was General John A. Logan, as Commander in Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, who appointed May 30th for Memorial day. It is said the selection of that day was because it corresponds with the date of the last honorable discharged soldier of the Union army in the war between the States.

SIXTEEN years ago last Friday, Admiral Dewey steamed into the harbor of Manila and there gained a naval victory rivaling that of the famous English hero, Nelson, without the loss of a man. Then, as now, the American seaman were noted for their remarkable marksmanship. Said a Frenchman who was on an American warship at that time: "It was terrible in its accuracy and rapidity."

THE Cumberland News of last Friday said:

"The Stars and Stripes never fail to arouse the patriotism of all true Americans, says a writer. Yes; but it's a difficult job for Americans in Mexico, who have to pretend to be English or German subjects in order to feel safe."

'Tis a pity, 'tis true. We will have to keep on hoping for the best. There will come an end to the "watching and waiting policy." Mr. Bryan may be aroused one of these days.

THE Philadelphia North American has a splendid cartoon entitled: "Properly shocked." On a bulletin-board, in large letters are the words, "Illinois election: 1000 saloons in the State closed by woman's votes." Looking at the board are two fat, well dressed men. One remarkes, "Isn't it awful how votin degrades woman." This man is labeled "Gang Politician. The other is labeled, "Liquor Interests." He savs "Yes, women's sphere in the Home." Comment is unnecessary.

DECORATION day this year comes on Saturday, May 30th. We will all be glad to have the day come when there shall be no more fighting; but as long as there is one old soldier left, let us honor and respect him and let us show our respect for those who are no more by properly observing, Old Soldier's Day.

"Roses for the boys in blue
Roses for the boys in grey,
All impartiality we strew,
There's no North or South today."

THE mistake of the State printer in one word, in the local game law published this week, puts a different construction upon the law from what was intended. The law as it now stands uses the word unlawful instead of lawful. The addition of the two letters "un" makes the law say, "That it shall not be unlawful to hunt, trap, ensnare, shoot or kill any pheasant, patridge or quail, woodcock or wild turkey in Garrett connty except during the month of November." The closed season is now for only one month. Strike out the two letters and you have the intention of the author, an open season of one month and a closed season of eleven months.

In another column will be found the state-wide game law which was "approved April 16," by the Governor, one week later than our local law, hence the latter is null and void.

POLITICS in Allegany county, is becoming interesting. Sunday night, in an open air meeting, the Cumberland Socialists opened its educational campaign. H. S. Creal, of St. Louis was the main speaker. On Monday night, Hon. Isaac Lobe Straus, candidate for United States Senator to succeed Hon. John Walter Smith, made a public address and was followed by other prominent Democratic politicians of this State, in a well attended meeting in Cumberland. Mr. Straus has been indorsed by the five railroad labor organizations, the Maryland State Federation of Labor, and the Baltimore City Federation of Labor.

THE Guernsey (Ohio) Times remarks: Traveling men report business as dull generally. It is worse in some places than in others but in no place is it good. When mining and steel mills come together it is at its worst. Last fall when the new tariff bill was enacted we were told that an era of prosperity was at hand. All our troubles, we were assurred, were over. The cost of living would drop to a minimum and every body would have work at good wages. Has anybody discovered any condition of that kind?

The new tariff is causing a boom in business is certainly not coming up to the advance notices. But there is another election this tall.

CHARLES county, this State will vote wet or dry on the 16th inst. Cardinal Gibbons has issued the following statement, which will be read with much interest by the Catholic people of Garrett county. The Cardinal says:

"I believe that the right of the people to determine by the operation of a local-option law whether saloons shall or shall not be closed within their respective communities is in harmony with the American principle of self-government, and I congratulate the people of Charles county in that they will have the right to settle this question by ballot on May 16 next, and, realizing the damage which has been done by the liquor traffic in this county, I sincerely trust that at the coming election they will banish forever the licensed saloon, as I believe that it will be to the best interests of their people."

HERE is something to think about: There are now nine prohibition states in the Union, and ten more in which 90 per cent. of the area is dry. More than 70 per cent. of the area of the United States, it is asserted, is under no-license and more than 46,000,000 of the population are living under no-license laws. Again, more and more the liquor is being driven from the rural districts and the towns and smaller cities, and is being concentrhted in the great centers of population. The doom of the liquor traffic is sealed. The last year of license for the liquor traffic in Garrett county has arrived. April 30, 1915, wil be the last day for the saloon and its ruinous work in this mountain county. The only question now to be considered is, "how large a majority can we win out with?" Let there be a mighty, preserving agitation on this line. Let us work for an overwhelming majority for local option.

Oakland Tax Rate 70 Cents On $100.

The town council met in their room Monday evening and heard a number of requests for street and side walk improvements, but no action was taken. The tax rate was fixed at 70 cents on the $100, a reduction of 10 cents from last year.

Licenses were granted to for 1,183 saloons, 29 hotels, 10 clubs and 21 retail grocers in Baltimore last Thursday.

Every Word of it True.

The man who drinks intoxicants is being crowded to the wall says the Farm Journal. Railroad companies do not want him, mill-owners pass him up, and private employes do not give him a warm welcome. Even the saloonkeeper loses interest in him as soon as his money runs out. It has always seemed to us that the time spent in drinking is a frightful waste of good manhood, and it must seem that way to the drinker in his sober hours. Drink brings a harvest of tears and shame, and leaves a ruin of broken homes and heart-crushed women and children, and it is not worth the awful price.

The star batter of the Philadelphia Athletics, "Home-run Baker," says: "If any youngster wants advice from one who dosen't mean to preach, here it is: Leave cigaretts and tobacco alone, and dont touch 'booze' now or at any time. Mine is the total-abstinence platform for both liquor and tobacco."

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

Rev. Bauman returned home Friday from his West Virginia trip.

Mrs. Allie Haymond has the ground staked off on her lot for a garage.

The Park Grocery Co., Felty's old stand, has a splendid line of extra nice groceries.

Mr. Wingate was a week end visitor with his wife, in their cozy home on Cedar and I streets.

Mr. Alexander Zeck, of Grafton, W. Va., has several men here making the building Miss Sarah Harris had erected for a chapel, near her large boarding house, into a residence for his family's summer outing.

Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Fouch spent Sunday in Grafton, W. Va. Mr. Fouch is taking his vacation now. It will chiefly be spent in Baltimore and Washington.

We were sorry to hear of the sad death of Glen Blake, one of our summer visitors, at Pittsburgh, Pa.

Rev. Dr. Hare preached a very interesting and instructive temperance sermon in the Methodist church last Sunday, to a large congregation. He referred to the importance of carrying the local option law at the election next fall and of the importance of organization throughout the county for that purpose; that early in next month a meeting would be held in Oakland to lay plans for an effective campaign. At the close of his sermon a liberal contribution was made to the Anti-Saloon League working fund.

The Garrett County Telephone Company has had a force of men rebuilding their lines in the Park. It is now in fine working order, and because of the improved service adding new patrons.

Next Sabbath morning at 9:30 The Knights of the Golden Eagle will meet in their hall and march to the United Brethren church to listen to a sermon by the Rev. Bauman. The service will be one ot special interest.

Hervey Bittinger, of near the Park, went to Pittsburgh, Pa., Monday morning to get an automobile which he has purchased, and for which he has secured an agency.

Charles Weimer, of Keyser, spent Sunday in the Park with his sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Welch, of McHenry, spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Chance, in the Park.

Miss Ruth Stollipher, of Baltimore, spent the first part of the week here, looking after the improvements being made on her house.

Dr. and Mrs. Logan Carr, of New York City, will open their cottage next week.

Mrs. Alma Clary is clerking in E. E. Kesner's store, at the station.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller of Fairmont, W. Va., was in the Park Monday hunting a cottage for an all year's residence. They rented Roslyn cottage.

Mr. Thomas Gonder has caught the spirit of improvement and will paint the drug store building. He is putting down an eight foot platform the full length of the building.

The sarvice trees are in full bloom and present a handsome appearance.

The electric light line is being put in shape for the summer.

The Bumgardner cottage has been sold for $1,200.

At the election Monday all of the officials of 1913 were elected by the citizens of Loch Lynn Heights, except bailiff, as follows:

Mayor, Edw. O'Donald
Councilmen, John Ream, T. B. Doman
Treasurer, Warren Rathbun
Clerk, Lester Yutzy
Bailiff, Henry Junkin.
Collector, L. O. Bittner.

Miss Mary and Master John Deveny spent Wednesday in the Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clayton of Wheeling, and M. C. Clayton and wife of Mannington, W. Va., reached the Park Wednesday.

June 3, 4, and 5 are the dates of the Epworth League convention to be held this place.

THE Judiciary committee in congress decided to recommend joint resolutions proposing amendments to the constitution of the United States to extend the right of suffrage to women, and for Nation-wide prohibition, without suggestion from the committee.

The woman suffrage amendment provides that the right of "citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex." It was introduced by Representative Mondell of Wyoming.

The prohibition amendment proposed by Representative Hobson of Alabama, prohibits the "sale, manufacturer for sale, importation for sale and exportation for sale of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes." It would allow Congress to regulate the traffic in liquor for "sacramental, medicinal, pharmaceutical or scientific purposes,

Engineering and Land Surveying.

On May 11, 1914, I will open an office in Oakland, Md., for the purpose of carrying on the business of engineering and land surveying. I also solicit the real estate business of all who wish to sell or to buy homes or farms.

Prompt attention will be given all business.

BITTINGER.

John B. Harman unloaded a car of Roister's commercial fertilizer, and John H. Stark a car of granulated lime at this place last week, an evidence that farmers are active in improving the condition of their farm land.

Constable Callis, acting as deputy sheriff, passed through this neighborhood a few days ago.

Noah Stark, of Blaine, W. Va., spent a day with his parents here recently.

It is reported that John Beitzell has purchased the John H. Stark farm and will take possession of the property soon.

County Treasurer C. A. Beachy, of Grantsville District, passed through this village Friday morning of last week.

Automobiles are becoming quite numerous on our roads since the weather has become favorable.

James Treacy, the Ford agent, of Oakland, was in this section recently looking up customers.

One night last week the mercury went down fifteen degrees below the freezing point

Noah Bittinger, of near Jenhings, was in this settlement last week grafting fruit trees for the residents.

Sayings and Doings.

An old man over on Bear Creek was leading two lively calves out to early pasture one spring morning. When he come to the field he tied one calf to one of his boot straps and the other to the opposite strap while he opened the rickety gate. The calves ran away. When he was picked up his wife asked him: "Didn't you know better than to do such a foolish trick as that?" "Yes, Ann," he answered, "I hadn't been dragged four rods before I saw my mistake."

A man had much difficulty in putting a head in a hogshead, until it occured to nim to put his ten-year-old son into the barrel to hold the head in place while he nailed it As he was wondering why he had never thought of such an easy way before, there came a sepulchral voice from the interior. "Father, father! how am I to get out?"

Plan for flower beds now. Nothing brightens up the farm like a profusion of gay colored flowers. The common easily cultivated ones are the most satisfactory. Nasturtiums will bloom anywhere. Sweet peas, ten-week stocks, poppies, candy-tuft and asters are good bloomers. Pansies and marigolds, if given a fair chance, will blossom until snow comes.

When a duck lays an egg, she waddles off as if nothing had happened. When a hen lays one, there's an awful racket. The hen advertises. Hence, the demand for hens' eggs, not ducks' eggs.

A rousing temperance sermon was preached at Deer Park last Sabbath night by Rev. Dr. Hare, of the Anti-Saloon League. The audience was delighted with the forcible address, pointedly illustrated and forcibly driven home. The Doctor stated that he expected to be actively engaged in the coming campaign to make Garrett county dry. He certainly will be a powerful speaker for the cause.

To Enforce Liquor Laws.

That the federal court will lend its support in making West Virginia a "dry" State after July 1 was the statement made by Judge Dayton while several prisoners were entering their pleas and receiving their sentences. There are many indictments returned by the grand jury for violations of the internal revenue laws, and the prisoners were arraigned. When Philip Mace entered a plea of guilty, he was sentenced to spend 30 days in the Mineral county jail and pay a fine of $100. In passing sentence Judge Dayton said that this was the last term of court when leniency would be shown those who violated this particular law, and he made the statement upon the authority of the district attorney's office. District Attorney Walker followed the court with a statement that his office hereafter will ask and insist upon the court inflicting severe punishment upon all persons who violate internal revenue laws, and his office would use every effort to kill the practice of bootlegging. Judge Dayton replied that he was inclined to grant the request, and from this time hence all persons engaging in the unlawful sale of intoxicating liquors will pay the severest penalty.—Martinsburg World.

DEER PARK ELECTION.

Charles A. Ashby Elected Mayor By a Majority of Fourteen.

Cal Browning.....31
O. J. Harvey.....39
Robert Hinebaugh.....13

The Councilmen-elect are Messrs. Savedge, Harry Thrasher, Cal Browning and O. J. Harvey.

How to Have Good Roads.

The following from the Hampshire, W. Va. Republican is worthy the most careful consideration of every farmer in Garrett county. The Republican says:

"If every citizen will join in the good-roads movement and put in two full days, using his team on the roads over which he has to travel, we can put the county roads in such shape that thousands of dollars will be saved to those who haul over them the remainder of the season as well as much tax money. The mud holes can be filled, the rough places covered over with shale, small culverts put in and the narrow places widened. Each man will be working for himself and his own interest just as fully and completely as though he were engaged on his farm. Only one business will be injured, that of making and selling vehicles to take the place of those broken down by bad roads.

Two days of work would not be much for any farmer to give toward accomplishing such inestimable results. Garrett county has many, many miles of road to care for. A general movement on the above basis would save to the county and its farmers many thousands of dollars.

The Department of Agriculture has declared a quarantine against Maine potatoes because of the prevalence of powdery scab in that state. The quarantine will allow the movement of potatoes out of Maine after August 1, 1914, only under conditions to be prescribed by the department, which will take over the work now being done by the state to prevent the spread of the pest.

The stone foundation for the iron fence in front of the Oakland cemetery is being laid. This will be glad news to all the friends of the Civic Club. If you have not contributed to this fund please do so at once, Your contribution will greatly cheer the ladies in their good work. When this work is completed Oakland will be proud of its "City of the dead," and will have a right to be.

Kahl & Son have contracted to raise Mr. Louis Littman's house, in this city, and enlarge the porch. They have also contracted to furnish the concrete blocks for the foundation of the iron fence Attorney Stuart Hamill will build around the lot of his home. They have also contracted with Attorney Semmes Hamill for concrete bricks for base of the iron fence around his home property lot.

County Superintendent F. E. Rathbun has issued a circular entitled, "Some Dont's for School Teachers" and Some Donts for the school trustees." They deserve the closest reading and study. In fact they ought to be consulted. Their observance means the greatest possible success of the public schools in Garrett county. Don't forget to read them, for each trustee and each teacher will receive a copy.

The building being erected on the Dr. McComas property, this city, is being pushed rapidly to completion. The building is one story in height, and is 36 x 60 feet, and is 10 feet to the square. It is a frame building. The office and material department will have a plank floor, the work departmend will have a floor of concrete and the remainder of the building, for the present, will have a cinder floor. The building will be roomy and easy of access. The Oakland Garage will have competent workmen to meet the demands of the public.

April ended its days in a blanket of frost and freezing weather and May was born in the same weather conditions. The first May morning was as cold as a real frosty winter morning. At 6 a. m. the mercury in the thermometers stood at 20 degrees above zero. The ground was covered with a heavy white frost. The flowers and vines were frfzen. The leaves on the trees were badly frost bitten, ice formed on the puddles of water. "As pleasant as May" was out of day. Forty years ago last week, hereabouts two inches of snow covered the ground.

The Frostburg correspondent of the Cumberland Times is responsible for the following dog story:

"It is reported here Saturday that one citizen of Garrett county is the undisputed owner in his own right of seventeen dogs, and that his place is the center of a dog exchange that enables him to retail to the people who imagine themselves in need of dogs at least fifty dogs a year, or a profit of 200 per cent. upon his own plant of 17. "So long as this sort of business is permitted," the Times informant says, "it is no use to talk of this section as a sheep grower's paradise."
